The new coalition, calling itself the Illinois Educational Choice Coalition (IECC), plans to urge tens of thousands of voters across the state to contact their elected officials, attend rallies, host neighborhood meetings, write letters to editors and otherwise make their voices heard. Two of the coalition's members, the Catholic Conference of Illinois and the Illinois Advisory Committee on Non-Public Schools, represent the parents of most of the state's 300,000 privately schooled children, individuals especially supportive of the choice program.

Ralph Conner, co-chair of the IECC and a spokesperson for the New Coalition for Social and Economic Change, a "think tank" focusing on black perspectives on public policy, said "This new coalition represents the ever-widening support for parental rights in education in Illinois. Democrats and Republicans, blacks and whites, Catholics, Protestants and Jews, all are becoming convinced that nothing short of true educational choice will give our children the kind of education they need and deserve."

Coalition member Frank Brown, professor of economics at DePaul University and a long-time supporter of parental rights, called the coalition "a wake-up call for the political establishment" and "the most important movement for social justice in the 1990s." Other spokespersons for the coalition voiced their optimism that 1993 would be the year Illinois joined states like Wisconsin and Vermont, where private school tuition already is sometimes paid by state governments.

Members of the new coalition are: the New Coalition for Social and Economic Change; Illinois Advisory Committee on Non-Public Schools; Agudath Israel; Catholic Conference of Illinois; Center for Rebuilding America's Schools; National Association for Personal Rights in Education; United Republican Fund; Grassroots Foundation; Family Coalition; Heartland Institute; Lincoln Legal Foundation, and People for Educational Choice.

The group can be contacted through the two co-chairs: Ralph Conner (708) 450-4400 or Herbert Walberg (312) 996-8133 or (708) 386-8062 or by writing to P.O. Box 2708, Chicago, IL 60690.

Non-Profit Funding

The Nalco Foundation has made grants to four area non-profit organizations including Little Company of Mary Hospital, Evergreen Park; Park Lawn Association, Oak Lawn; Southwest Women Working Together, Chicago; and a program to help disabled students at Evergreen Park High School.

Little Company of Mary Hospital received a $20,000 grant to help fund its Adult Day Care Center. The center will be able to add Saturday hours and subsidize low-income clients.

Park Lawn Association provides housing, training and job placement to young adults with mental and physical disabilities. A $10,000 grant will assist in completing a garage and storage building for one of their group homes.

Southwest Women Working Together provides women and their families the tools to overcome unemployment, poverty, violence or homelessness. It serves over 5,000 women each year. A $2,500 grant will help fund general operations.

Progress Center for Independent Living teaches life skills that help disabled students become independent. A $2,500 grant will support its youth transition program at Evergreen Park High.

In the fourth quarter of 1992, 58 non-profit organizations around the country were recipients of $525,912. For the year 1992, 206 grants were distributed for a total of $1,596,814. Funding is made by The Nalco Foundation to organizations that provide services in the areas of education, health, civic and community affairs, culture and the arts. Since its inception in 1953, The Nalco Foundation has made grants totaling more than $23.5 million.

the Nurses Scholarship Fund through the Auxiliary will be made by 11 Units during this dinner-meeting.

Hynes Proposes Tax Relief Plan

Cook County Assessor Thomas C. Hynes announced that his three-point plan to reduce and hold down property taxes has been introduced in the Illinois House of Representatives. "It is obvious to everyone," Hynes said, "that property taxes have been stretched to the breaking point and something has to be done."

"My first proposal is a property tax - income tax tradeoff. I am proposing that over the next four years there should be a statewide $1 billion reduction in property taxes for schools coupled with a dollar for dollar replacement of that revenue by phasing in an 18 percent increase in state income taxes. This would be a revenue neutral program for all school districts. Homeowners, in addition to property tax relief, will also receive a 5 percent increase in the state income tax credit and renters, for the first time in Illinois, will receive a 5 percent state income tax credit on 17 percent of their annual rent paid."

"Second, tax caps will be extended to Cook County to hold down excessive increases in overall property taxes. The caps will limit spending increases for all taxing bodies, except home rule units, to 5 percent or the rise in the Consumer Price Index whichever is less. Based on past experience, this legislation will cut down real estate tax increases by $200 million a year in the county.

"Third, taxpayers will be given a more meaningful opportunity to challenge tax increases by the establishment of an annual citizens awareness tax week. Every year, in the first week in December, all taxing bodies would be required to hold public hearings on their real estate tax levies. This program will make it easier for individual taxpayers and citizen groups to know about and participate in these hearings. It will also focus media attention on the issues and thus provide greater public awareness."

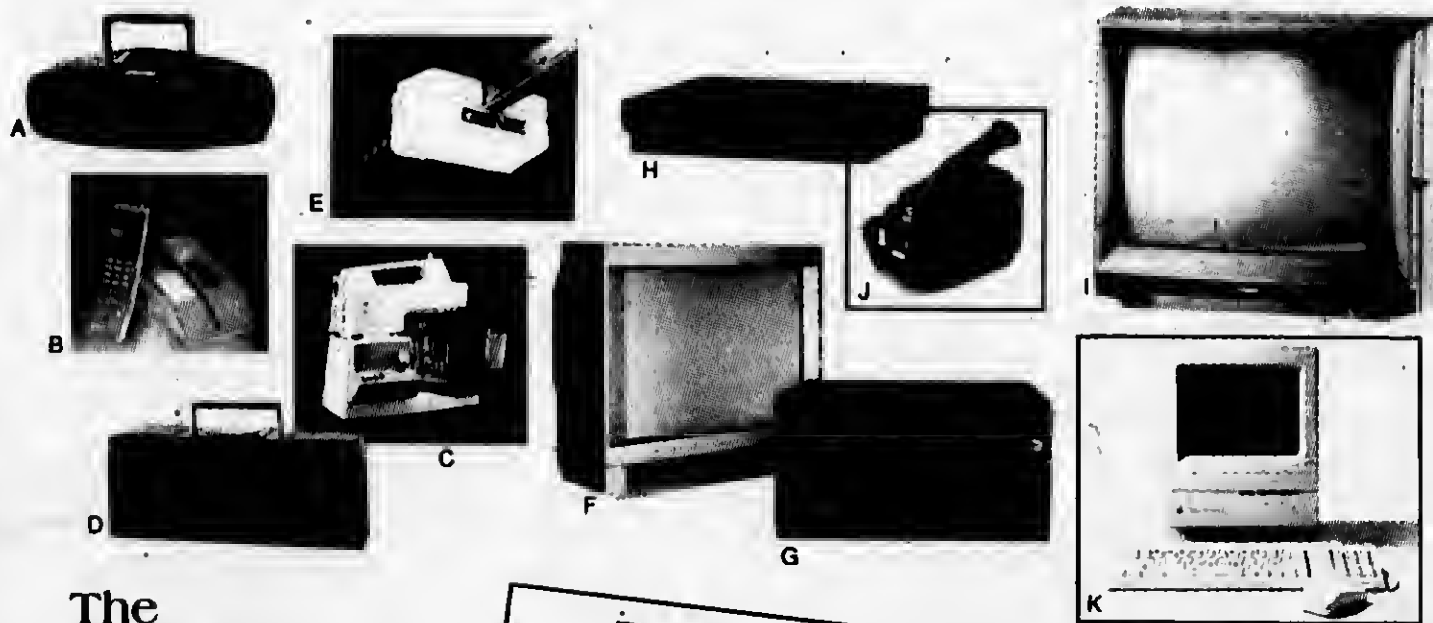

Hynes noted that the property tax-income tradeoff legislation is being sponsored by Representative Joseph Kottiarz, the tax cap legislation by Representative Ralph Capparelli and the tax week legislation by Representative Thomas Dart.

"Property taxes in Illinois are too high and out of balance with other taxes. These three pieces of legislation not only will shift some of the property tax burden to a tax that is more equitable, they will put a clamp on runaway spending and allow for better monitoring of all spending," Hynes said.

Hynes urged the General Assembly to give these proposals its most serious consideration as a way to combat skyrocketing property tax increases.

Wetland Slide Lecture

Scott Simon, wetlands biologist for the Illinois Natural History Survey, will present a slide lecture exploring the various types of wetlands communities in Illinois on Wednesday, March 31st at 7:30 p.m. at the Oak View Center, 4625 W. 110th St. Simon, who has been involved in numerous wetlands restoration efforts in Illinois, says, "Wetlands are beneficial to us all. They are home to 40 percent of Illinois' threatened or endangered species. They provide direct benefits through storm storage, nutrient and toxic assimilation, sediment retention, and they offer us recreational and educational opportunities."

Dawn Radville, landscape architect for the Oak Lawn Park District, has coordinated the lecture with the "Biodiversity in Illinois" travelling exhibit to be at the Oak View Center from March 25th through April 19th.

"Biodiversity is a 900 square foot display that explores the state's rich natural heritage and traces Illinois climate and geology back to the time when Illinois was covered by a warm tropical sea.

Radville emphasizes that the park district, under the leadership of Director Ernest Nance, has placed a top priority on the preservation and restoration of natural areas.

"There is a growing national concern with open spaces, and this lecture and exhibit are part of our effort to raise citizens' awareness, let them know what our program is, and bring them into the planning process," says Radville.

Both the exhibit and lecture are sponsored by The Nature of Illinois Foundation, a Chicago-based non-profit organization that supports the research activities of the Illinois Scientific Surveys.

For information on the lecture and the "Biodiversity" exhibit, call the Oak View Center at (708) 857-2200.

Letter To The Editor

Editor:

For the past five summers, my family has participated in the Oak Lawn Park District's men's slowpitch softball league. Our team, appropriately coined the Buffalo Clowns, consists of my six brothers, two brothers-in-law, and an assortment of family friends. We pay our fees, follow the rules, and play an average game of softball. Last August, an incident occurred within our league that has compelled me to write this letter.

On the very last day of the season, on the last game of the day, our team, with a record of 5-4, was playing a team tied for first place (8-1 record). The game started poorly for the lowly Clowns, falling behind quickly, 5-0. But luck was on the side of the Clowns and after coming from behind, falling behind again, then coming back again, the Clowns (the visitors) had a slight lead heading into the bottom of the seventh.

Unfortunately for family members, including several children who were spectators, the game was marked by several instances of unsportsmanlike conduct by our opponents. The umpire was abused and verbally berated. Players were pushed off base in an attempt to make putouts. With a strong cross-wind, our opponents pensively waited for walks instead of lifting the bat off the shoulder, in underhand limited arc, slow-pitch, 12-inch softball. Thankfully, the umpire would have no part of this and made the appropriate calls in a swift, fair manner.

With the tying run on third with two outs, a soft, wistfully hit pop-up was lifted into short left field. Our shortstop snared it and the game was thankfully over; or so we thought.

Not wanting to give-up, our opponents challenged our roster. All of our players were subjected to driver's license comparisons against the batting line-up. Of course we were able to pass this test. The next step was a challenge of our official roster. So, at 11 p.m., some of us marched on over to the Oak Lawn Pavilion to prove that the players on our roster were also on our official roster on record in the league office.

It turned out the league had no record of our roster which was turned in to park district personnel, in a manner consistent with park district rules. League rules require all teams to turn in official rosters before the third game of the season. If rosters are not turned in, league rules specify that the errant team would be ineligible to continue and all games would be forfeit.

Our manager did retain a copy of our submitted roster and provided this copy to the league president the next day. Although only one or two team rosters were on file in the league office, and the fact that the league did not enforce their own rules by not forfeiting several other teams' seasons, the league president awarded victory to our opponents. As a result, they finished with a 9-1 record (1st place) and subsequently received a cash bonus for winning the title. The Clowns didn't make the playoffs.

Frankly, our team was shocked by this turn of events. Granted this is just a game, but what a poor example of sportsmanship, fairness, decency and anything else a person could think of, even after six months.

Regretfully,
The Buffalo Clowns

Mentoring Award

Suburban Oak Lawn resident George W. Miller, Jr. has received a special award for his support and mentoring work in connection with a federal program for small and disadvantaged businesses.

Miller, a construction management engineer for the U.S. General Services Administration (GSA) regional office in Chicago, was presented the 'Small Business Advocate of the Year' award by the Minneapolis-St. Paul federal executive board.

He was specifically cited for his work with a small painting contractor in St. Paul. John Nakasone, owner of the firm, said Miller was a "patient, knowledgeable mentor and tutor" who worked closely with the company after it won its first government contract seven years ago. Miller's advice on contract compliance and other matters, Nakasone said, were good lessons that helped the company qualify later for other contracts.

A career federal employee with 27 years of service, Miller works in the design and construction division of GSA's public buildings service, the government's real estate agent for other federal agencies. In Region 5, PBS serves as a landlord for the 90,000 federal employees located in over 800 GSA-owned and leased office spaces.

Problems With Non-Resident Pupils

The Senate Education Committee has passed legislation sponsored by State Senator Patrick O'Malley (R-18) to address a growing problem of non-resident students who falsify documents in order to attend schools in other districts. Senate Bill 51 makes it a Class C misdemeanor to knowingly enroll a non-resident student in a school district, or falsify information about the student's residence.

"This problem was called to my attention by the administration of Community High School District 218. Superintendent Petersen requested this legislation on behalf of the board of education because the district has had problems with people who have falsified documents to get their children into district schools," O'Malley said.

Senator O'Malley says only students who live within the boundaries of a school district may attend its public schools without paying tuition.

"Local property owners support schools with their taxes and it is not fair for non-resident students to attend if they don't pay tuition. In the case of High School District 218, more than 90 percent of its funding is derived from local property taxes," O'Malley pointed out.

A Class C misdemeanor carries penalties of up to 30 days in county jail, and/or up to a $500 fine, and/or up to one year of probation.

Senator O'Malley is Vice-Chairman of the Senate Education Committee.

ILLINOIS DEER AND TURKEY CLASSIC - When Judy Kovar walks onto the seminar stage at the Illinois Deer & Turkey Classic, wearing her brilliantly white Cheyenne Indian elk-hide, wedding dress, she undoubtedly will get everyone's attention. Dressed in that manner, she is a striking - but much more difficult to see - presence in her camouflage clothes, for she is a bow hunter ... a skillful and successful bow hunter. Her topic is quite understandable; "Recapture Your Predator Instincts - Hunt Like My Ancestors."

The Deer & Turkey Classic will be held March 26-27-28 in the main expo building on the State Fairgrounds in Springfield. Facsimiles of 15 of the world's highest scoring whitetail deer racks will be on special display at the Illinois Deer & Turkey Classic.

Adjectives don't do justice to the beauty and massiveness of these 15 deer. The workmanship of these replicas is of such quality that you won't be able to tell they're replicas. They look just like the actual antlers ... so much so that even knowledgeable antler measurer often have extreme difficulty identifying replicas as replicas. All are beautifully mounted and displayed. There is a dollar charge to see this special collection. The display allows room for photography.

The Illinois Deer & Turkey Classic will also feature more than 135 booths of hunting equipment (archery and firearms) and accessories, many with products for sale; two seminar areas in both trophy deer event and display, open to all Illinois trophy bucks; a Friday Family Night, with all youth 15 years and under admitted free, limit of one youth per adult, and argun and archery shooting ranges.

Show hours are 4 p.m. to 9 p.m., Friday, March 26; 9 a.m. to 7 p.m., Saturday, March 27, and 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Sunday, March 28.

For full information about the Illinois Deer & Turkey Classic, plus a list of hotels and their rates, call the show's producers at 1-800-324-DEER (3337).

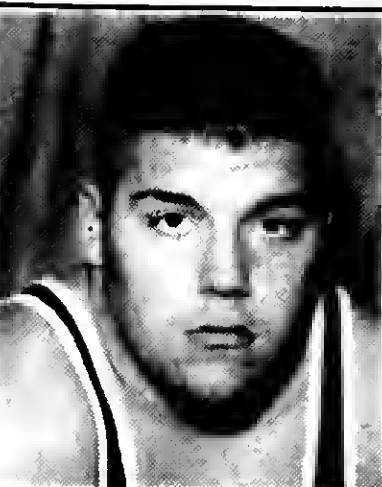

WILD TURKEY FEDERATION CONVENTION, on March 20, at the Radisson Suites Hotel in Downers Grove beginning at 9 a.m. vendors will be selling hunting gear, taxidermy, sporting equipment, fine wildlife arts and crafts. Jim Clay, champion caller and owner of Perfection Game Calls will give a turkey calling seminar, and in the afternoon the Illinois State Wild Turkey Calling Championships and Owl Hooting will start. See the best turkey callers in the Midwest battle for the titles. In the evening, the fund raising banquet will feature many guided hunts, guns and wildlife art.

The Radisson Suites is on Rt. 53 (Butterfield Road), just west of I-355, there will be plenty of free parking. Admission to the event, including seminars and calling contest is only $5. Children under 8 are free. For more information on convention activities, call Mike Dirienzo at (708) 629-4128.

NO SAFE ICE - Now is the time to clean, repair and put away your Ice Fishing Gear. Any remaining ice in the area is unsafe.

Open water anglers can find plenty of action: Perch are hitting along the Lake front, particularly at 95th St. Hiedeke Lake is open and I have received reports of fair catches on the Fox, Illinois and Kankakee rivers.

FISHING REPORTS - Items in this column are obtained through my personal experiences, press releases and a network of friends, tackle stores and fellow outdoor writers. You as readers of this column are invited to share your experiences. All info, comments and fishing reports are welcome. I can be contacted at (708) 448-4960, most afternoons and evenings.

He is the son of Mrs. Connie Taylor.

Former White Sox great Minnie Minoso talks to the students at St. Rita High School during a recent visit to the school as members of the team took to the road to kick-off the organization's annual Winter Caravan. Members of the caravan who visited the school were second basemen Steve Sax and Craig Grebeck, former White Sox great and possible future Hall of Famer Minnie Minoso and WMAQ announcer Ed Farmer. They talked with and signed autographs for several hundred students during the school's lunch periods. Farmer, who is a 1967 graduate of St. Rita, spoke about his years at the school. He spoke of the solid foundation he received from the school and how well he was prepared by the Augustinian priests and brothers who run St. Rita. Farmer recently joined the White Sox as a radio color commentator along with being special assistant to General Manager Ron Schueler. He pitched for the Sox in the late 70s and early 80s and was considered a star reliever for the team.

"I feel that I was very well prepared for all the challenges that I have faced," said Farmer. "During life you will be faced with many difficulties and I am sure that the education you receive at St. Rita will help you handle just about any of life's obstacles."

Minoso spoke to the young men saying, "If you set goals and lead your life on a straight path for success you will achieve everything you set out to do. Stay away from anyone who pushes anything bad into your life."

This was the third year in a row that the Caravan has made a stop at St. Rita. The White Sox visited St. Rita as a part of the school's winter Homecoming, called "Pride Week."

IDs For Forest Preserve Golfers

Now is a great time to get a headstart on the Forest Preserve District of Cook County's golf season, according to Cook County Board President Richard Phelan. Beginning immediately, county residents can purchase a resident identification card which entitles them to discounted play at all forest preserve district golf courses. The cards will be sold at four locations throughout the county.

"It is not too early to begin thinking about warm afternoons on forest preserve district courses," Phelan said. "The resident ID card is one of the best bargains around when it comes to golfing. We are pleased to be able to offer county residents the opportunity for reduced green fees on all of our 10 courses."

Two types of ID cards are available; a resident discount card and a senior/junior pass. A resident discount card, which costs $20, allows for discounted play on weekdays, weekends, holidays and twilight hours. A senior/junior pass, available to persons between the ages of 9 and 17 and 65 years of age or older, costs $3. This card is only valid during the weekdays. If senior and juniors purchase the $20 resident ID card, then they can play golf at an even greater discount.

All cards are valid for one year and are available only to county residents. To purchase a card, golfers must show proof of age and residency, such as a driver's license.

Phelan said that golfers who purchase any of the cards can also use their cards to make advance telephone reservations for tee times by phoning (708) 366-9466. Without the cards, a credit card must be used to guarantee a reservation.

"We are always striving to improve the services and recreational opportunities we offer county residents," Phelan said. "The ID cards are convenient and economical to use."

The locations and times to purchase the ID cards will be expanded once the golf season 'officially' opens. For more information, contact the district's recreation office at (708) 771-1550. Hearing or speech impaired only can call TDD (708) 771-1190. Special accommodations and arrangements can be made.

ID cards are available at Burnham Woods Golf Course, 142nd St. & Burnham Ave., (708) 862-9043, on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.; and at Joe Louis (The Champ) Golf Course, 131st & Halsted St., (708) 849-1731, on Thursday and Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

BASKETBALL ROUND-UP

Romeoville Sectional

Shepard's Astros fell out of their winning orbit at the wrong time as the Lockport Porters eliminated them from the Romeoville Sectional playoffs 74-66 last week.

However, Astro power didn't weaken throughout regulation time as it took an overtime period for the Porters to pull this game out of the fire. Astro junior guard Randy Byron drove the lane with six seconds left on the clock and sent a jump shot through the twine to force the OT.

Byron had actually given Shepard a one-point lead at 62-61 as just under a minute showed on the clock in regulation time, but the Porters refused to give up and made it a fight to the finish.

Shepard senior center Tyrine Wilson managed to dominate under the bucket as he put in 16 markers and helped the Astros to out-rebound the Porters 29-26. Senior guard Ontario Pryor got hot in the fourth quarter with perimeter shooting as he connected for lucky number 13.

Also pouring it on for the Astros were sophomore center Craig Tracy and his 10 points plus another 10 from Byron.

"They had some unbelievable shooting," remarked Astro coach Kurt Enzminger. "My kids did show a lot of character."

Lincoln-Way Sectional

The Hillcrest Hawks were taken out of their flight path by the Tigers of Joliet West 87-64 in their semifinal match-up of the Class AA Lincoln-Way Sectional.

Coming into this game, the Hawks had been victorious in 11 of their last dozen contests and hoped to keep their winning ways. Unfortunately, when they could shoot no better than 37 percent from the floor, on 19 of 52 tries, that statistic didn't help to take home a win.

The lone bright spots for Hillcrest were 21 points for Antwon Hall coupled with 18 from Thomas Cook.

"As soon as they started banking in those threes in the first quarter, I knew it was going to be a long night," lamented Hawk coach Tom Cappel. "We panicked when they got up early and we went to old habits that didn't work. But, I'm still proud of the kids. We've won three regionals in a row and we can go for another next year."

Student Athletes

Over 100,000 collegiate athletic scholarships are available each year to male and female high school and junior college student athletes. Contrary to popular belief, students don't have to be all-state to qualify. Much of this money goes unused. A new publication with forms, sample letters and tables of factual information is available for student athletes. It takes them step by step through the important process of getting an athletic scholarship and includes college and conference listings.

For information on how to get a collegiate athletic scholarship, send a No. 10 self-addressed, stamped envelope to the National Sports Foundation, 611A Willow Drive, P.O. Box 940, Oakhurst, NJ 07755.

Meeting

The Carl Sandburg High School athletic department is holding an athletic alumni meeting on Monday, March 29th at 7 p.m. in the teacher's dining room. We would like to invite all former athletes from 1958 on to attend this gathering.

For additional information, call the athletic office at (708) 361-4600, ext. 173.

Mystery Comedy At St. Rita High

The recently revived St. Rita Drama Club will present George M. Cohan's classic murder-mystery-comedy "Seven Keys To Baldpate" this spring at the school, 7740 S. Western Ave. The play, scheduled for April 2, 3 and 4, will be St. Rita's first full-length production in 10 years.

St. Rita student Tedd Peso stars as William Magee, a naive writer of melodramatic fiction who, on a bet, retires to the quiet seclusion of Baldpate Inn in order to write an entire novel in under 24 hours. "What can be lonelier than a summer resort in winter," he asks himself, expecting a day of uninterrupted writing -- but he soon gets more than he bargained for.

Show times are 7 p.m. on Friday and Saturday April 2nd & 3rd, and 2 p.m. on Sunday, April 4th. All seats are reserved, and a $3 donation is requested. For reservations or more information call Mike or Mary at (312) 925-7366.

"A Trip Down Memory Lane At Museum"

Memory is the foundation of learning. The mysteries of the brain are the key to memory. Chicago Children's Museum explores the quirks, questions and wonders of the mind in its new exhibit, "A Trip Down Memory Lane." The exhibit runs through June 13th. Visually exciting and full of play, "A Trip Down Memory Lane" is a memorable experience. Visitors begin their journey in Memoryville in the museum's radio station WMRE, where disc jockey Doug Banks of WGCI 107.5 FM will play a tune of your choosing. Move from there to the forest preserve and walk down a sensory trail. After that, take the "Telephone Challenge," to test your short-term memory. Visit the sporting goods and grocery stores, as well as the backyard clubhouse and the post office. Wind up in the Brainasium, a gym for the mind, which presents challenging problems to solve and "exercise" for the brain.

"A Trip Down Memory Lane" was developed by Chicago Children's Museum and an advisory committee of scientists, physicians and psychologists. The exhibit is the museum's contribution to the Youth Museum Exhibit Collaborative (YMEC). The museum was a founding member of YMEC, a pioneering group of eight leading children's museums that share ideas, resources, technologies, experiences and exhibits. "A Trip Down Memory Lane" will travel all over North America, after it leaves the museum in July, to YMEC member museums in Cleveland, Denver, Houston, Indianapolis, Memphis, St. Paul and Quebec.

"The brain and memory were challenging topics for Chicago Children's Museum to present in an exhibit. The science of the mind is a subject with endless possibilities," explains Judy Chiss, associate executive director of education and exhibits. "We were fascinated researching the exhibit, and we're sure our visitors will feel the same way. We're proud to contribute 'A Trip Down Memory Lane' so that children all over North America can stretch their memories!"

Chicago Children's Museum, exclusively dedicated to needs and interests of children and their families, is located at 465 E. Illinois St. in North Pier Chicago - 2nd floor. The museum is committed to inspiring interactive learning and fostering problem-solving skills through its exhibits and programs. For more information on "A Trip Down Memory Lane" or general information about the museum, call (312) 527-1000.

Big Band Sounds Renaissance

Move over rock & roll! Goodbye high-decibel beats accompanying indiscernible lyrics! Despite rock & roll's dominance in the music industry for well over 40 years, the big band sounds of yesteryear are experiencing an explosive revival. The likes of singers Harry Connick, Jr. and Natalie Cole, who perform regularly to sold-out audiences, are unquestionably the rage of the 90's. No longer just for the mature audiences, the songs of the big bands are being demanded by music lovers of all ages!

In keeping with this unexpected big band renaissance, the Fairmont Hotel has introduced the legendary Moulin Rouge's Sunday Champagne Dinner Dance Series. Held weekly from 3 to 7 p.m., the cost is $29 per person (tax & tip additional), the Dinner Dances will feature the big band sounds of the Bill Porter Band, an elegant 3-course candle-lit dinner, endless champagne and myriad memories of a bygone era.

The Moulin Rouge's Champagne Dinner Dances recall both the big band supper clubs and the era of leisurely afternoon "tea dances," but are reinvented at the Fairmont with an entirely modern attitude. Primarily for those that recall the splendor of the big band era, they are just as much an opportunity for younger generations to experience firsthand the glamour and nostalgia of days gone by.

In 1989, the Moulin Rouge Showroom was closed to the public due to an ever-changing music industry, but will be reopened temporarily in response to the growing demand for big band entertainment. Appropriately decorated as a tribute to Toulouse Latrec's favorite nightclub in 19th century Paris, The Moulin Rouge is a sophisticated 400-seat showroom that in its heyday hosted big name entertainers such as B.B. King, Tony Bennett and Carol Channing. The upbeat showroom is located off the Fairmont's main lobby. For reservations and other information, call (312) 565-6665.

Home Improvement Exemption Proposed

Cook County Assessor Thomas C. Hynes has submitted a proposal to the Illinois General Assembly which would increase the value on the home improvement exemption from $30,000 to $45,000. State Representative Thomas Dart (D-28) is a co-sponsor of the bill, which he points out will be of benefit to all homeowners.

Hynes stressed, "The purpose of this bill is to help and encourage people who desire to improve, expand or renovate their homes."

Assessor Hynes' office was the first in the nation to grant this home improvement exemption. It is available to owners of single-family homes, condos, cooperatives and small apartment buildings, up to six units.

The home improvement exemption provides relief by delaying taxation for four years on improvements up to $30,000. This delay results in an annual tax saving of approximately $900. The exact amount of the saving depends on the local tax rate in the community where the home is located.

The increase, from $30,000 to $45,000, in the exemption would mean a tax saving of approximately $1,350, again depending on the tax rate in the community where the home, condo, co-op or small apartment building is located.

The exemption is implemented when a homeowner applies for a building permit from the local municipality. Once the permit is issued and the work has been accomplished, a representative from the assessor's office inspects the premises. The owner is then notified by mail that the exemption has been granted.

For further information about the home improvement exemption, contact Cook County Assessor Thomas Hynes, Cook County Building, 118 N. Clark St., Chicago IL 60602, room 301.

POLICE CALLS

On March 6th, Diana Mingauw-Johnson of Chicago reported jewelry consisting of an anniversary ring with a seven-diamond Chanel setting valued at $3,000, a one-carat diamond solitaire valued at $5,800, a four-diamond wedding band and a round, white-faced Seiko watch with a gold-link band valued at $200 was missing when she got through with her session at the Chicago Health Club, 6700 W. 95th St., from 7 until 8:30 p.m. The estimated loss is $9,000.

On the 5th, a resident of the 8900 block of Major Ave. told police he was sitting in his car when Steve Schmidt of Oak Lawn allegedly jumped out of his car, hit the right side of his head with a closed fist and left. Complaints will be signed.

Michael Blake, 29, and Jennifer Blake, 28, of Oak Lawn were rescued after police received a call about two unconscious people in the house. Police arrived at the scene along with the O.L. paramedics. James Blake, father of Michael, had received a call from Jennifer's boss at approximately 10:30 a.m. asking why she was not at work. James went to the condo to check and used his key to gain entry. The door was chained, but he could see them lying on the living room floor and went next door to have them call the police. Police and firemen went to all the units and notified them to air their units, and tests showed a high concentration of carbon monoxide in the condo, possibly due to a malfunctioning heating unit.

On the 7th at 10:08 p.m., Patrick C. Raymond of Hazelcrest reported someone broke the passenger side window of his car while it was parked in the Jewel lot, 4700 W. 103rd St., and the non-factory-installed AM/FM CD stereo valued at $400 was taken along with his pager and stop-watch for a total loss of $750.

Avid Appel of Oak Lawn reported the spare tire which is housed underneath the rear of his vehicle was taken while it was parked at Dominick's, 8700 S. Cicero. It will cost $300 to replace the tire but he did not know what damage was done to the tire housing when the theft occurred.

Mary Londos of Oak Lawn reported someone entered the house through the back door which is usually unlocked and removed a silver metal box containing approximately 100 baseball cards with an estimated value of $2,000 and a savings account passbook with $156 cash for a total loss of $2,156.

A 25 year old Oak Lawn man was charged with unlawful restraint and aggravated battery for forcing an old girlfriend to stay with him in a hotel room on Thursday night, according to police. Asam Abbasi was arrested on Friday morning. At about 1 a.m. on Friday, Oak Lawn police received a call from a Chicago hospital where the woman had gone for treatment. She told police she had gone with Abbasi to the DeLux Motel, 4811 W. Columbus Drive, on Thursday night. He then forced her to stay in the room and beat her when she tried to leave, but then relented and drove her home, according to police. Abbasi was picked up on Friday morning at a Chicago grocery store where he worked.

Arthur Williams, 19, of Chicago was charged with residential burglary after he admitted participating in a burglary in November. Cook County sheriff's police had informed Oak Lawn police that they knew the whereabouts of Williams who was wanted on an outstanding burglary warrant and he was picked up and charged.

Curt Schwaar, 24, of Oak Lawn was charged with battery on Thursday morning after striking another motorist during a traffic altercation. Schwaar got out of his car and punched a motorist on the 9900 block of Southwest Highway, according to police.

A phone, a briefcase, three videotapes and 20 cassette tapes were stolen from a car in the 9000 block of Natoma Ave., according to police.

A 64 year old woman told police a man pushed her down and tried to grab her purse at 109th St. and Lamon Ave. Police said the woman held her purse, screamed and the man fled eastbound on 109th St.

Trustee Ron Stancik District 2 in Oak Lawn

"Safe neighborhoods are a priority for me...."

FOR OAK LAWN residents the possibility of becoming a victim of crime is significantly higher in Districts Four and Six than in other areas of Oak Lawn where there is a highly touted Neighborhood Watch Program in existence. Neighborhood Watch originally began four years ago by Trustee Ron Stancik to deter crime in the village.

In the program, residents meet monthly to discuss the use of crime prevention tactics in their area. "This program is an opportunity for residents to join together with their trustees to use commonsense techniques preventing burglaries and other crimes from occurring in their area," said Stancik. Districts Four and Six, continued Stancik, are the two weak links in the entire Oak Lawn area and, moreover, jeopardize the program's complete success.

Stancik encourages those residents excluded from the program to speak out so their trustees realize the important role that the program plays in the entire village, especially with the emergence of the second phase of the program likely to begin this year. The second phase of the program would ultimately ensure a more carefully monitored neighborhood by having police beat cars patrol the areas in conjunction with each Neighborhood Watch Block Captain.

"Safe neighborhoods are a priority for me. All too often our friends and families fall victim to crime only to realize later how they could have prevented it," said Stancik. With Neighborhood Watch, such prevention exists.

Appointment Is Legal

As meetings go, Tuesday night's Oak Lawn Village Board meeting was relatively short and business in the first part of the agenda went smoothly.

The village attorney reported an answer for a request made by Trustee Ron Stancik about the appointment of Trustee Edward Barron's replacement when Steven Rosenbaum was appointed by Village Manager Michael Feeley. At the time, Mayor Ernest F. Kolb was out of town and Stancik wanted to know if this appointment was legal. According to the attorney, he had consulted another attorney, Ms. Adams who works with home rule problems, that under the current rules the appointment is made by the manager, not the mayor. The rule was changed last year and the appointment may be made by the mayor or the manager as the board decides.

Trustee Marjorie Joy suggested that the board advertise to let residents of the First District from which William Hefka resigned, submit applications or resumes if they are interested in serving on the village board. She would also hope that some women will apply for the position of trustee of the First District. It was agreed that the applications and/or resumes be sent to the village hall on or before Monday, April 12th and that the trustees will serve as a committee to examine these.

It was under the heading of new business by the trustees that the meeting deteriorated. Trustee Harold Mozewcz displayed an advertisement allegedly quoting Stancik who said there seems to be a higher crime rate in the districts not participating in the Neighborhood Watch. Mozewcz said he takes exception to that and although he does not have a Neighborhood Watch, he has his own which are the monthly meetings he holds for residents in his district. He said that Stancik had said there were 55 incidents in his area; that he did his own research and said there were 105 incidents in the Second District (Stancik's).

Joy said on the matter of statistics with the water rates she found her own CPA to go over the report made by village auditors and she was challenging Trustee Streit on this. After quoting a number of figures she said the upshot is, there will be a $390,147 deficit in the 1993 budget. She feels that the figures he has given have been used for political purposes.

Rosenbaum said he has tried not to bring up negative things, but agreed the advertisement was not good. He also said about the Neighborhood Watch, he got the program started in his district within four months, it did not take a year or so.

Streit said he first wanted to acknowledge and commend Feeley for putting liability insurance out for bid. He said they are still with the same company but through the bid process the premium has been reduced by $82,000. He then asked Stancik if he had received many replies about the conflict of interest with our auditing firm and if he had contacted the Government Financial Organization Association and was told no. Stancik said the replies he had received were about evenly divided.

Next on the water audit that Joy raised, he had gone through the reports from 1988, 89, 90 and 91 and made copies of those years and would be happy to have her go through them. Streit also mentioned he had received a letter with an in-house report made by the village of Orland Park that show they pay a higher rate than Oak Lawn.

All this time, Streit backers who made up more than 2/3 of those attending were very vocal and applauding statements made by his allies.

Employee recognition awards were given to Lester Miller, police dept. and James Sweeney, public works/sewer div. for 25 years service; to Dominic Grana of the police dept., 15 years; John Klimek, street div. and Steve Kovats, water div. for 10 years.

Applications for absentee voting by mail are now available at the Clerk's office. The first day to vote absentee in person is Monday, March 29th. Absentee voting will continue in the clerk's office during regular village hall hours from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. and on Saturday, April 10th and 17th from 9 a.m. to 12 noon.

Preschool Open House

A get acquainted day for prospective students and their parents is planned by the Pilgrim Faith Church Preschool, 9411 S. 51st Ave., on Friday, March 26th from 10 to 11:15 a.m. Children will be able to visit the school with their parents, meet staff members, play on equipment, and participate in various activities.

The school is licensed and accredited by the State of Illinois. It operates for three half-days per week, Tuesday through Thursday, between September and May.

Additional information is available by calling the church office, 422-4200.

Pledge Chair

Oak Lawn Library Marks 50th Birthday

A week-long celebration of the 50th anniversary of the Oak Lawn Public Library was approved by the library board of trustees at its March meeting. The "Big Birthday Bash Week" was set for Oct. 10th to 16th. A Sunday birthday party open house will kick off the festivities. Several programs and ongoing activities are to take place during the week. The week concludes with the first fundraising event sponsored by the newly-formed Oak Lawn Community Library Foundation, the "Lucky Library Lock In." Plans and details will be available as they are developed.

Dr. James Casey, library director, discussed with the board a new strategy designed to improve services to patrons entering the library and at the same time free up staff for further development of fiction, young adult periodicals and audiovisual collections. A new booth will be established facing the Cook Ave. entrance where telephone and informational questions will be answered. The current reader services desk will be moved to face the young adult area and function as a reader advisory and interlibrary loan service.

Casey also reported that the library mission and goals, developed by staff and the board after the long-range planning community meeting in January, are being used by department heads in determining the realistic objectives and activities for completing the long-range plan and its timetable as soon as possible.

In regular board business, the board approved payment of $65,147 for library materials; $30,648 for operating expenses; and $175,612 for personnel services. Renewal of disability, dental and vision insurance for employees was approved.

The next meeting of the board is set for 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, April 13th. This is one week earlier than usual in order not to conflict with local elections. Meetings are open to the public and are held in the Oak Lawn Rotary Room, lower level, 9427 Raymond Ave.

Air Guardsman Graduates

Air National Guard Airman Stacie R. Skowron has graduated from the information management specialist course at Keesler AFB, Mississippi. Course graduates learned administrative support and office management for functional staff elements. This included

School District 126 PTA has spotlighted young authors in the district and recently awarded trophies to grade winners of a writing contest. Winners were K-2nd grade, Brittaney Baitman; 3-4th grade Dan Dalzell and Josh Robinson, co-authors; 5-6th grade Laura Salkas, and 7-8th grade Kristen Dierkes. Pictured are the intermediate winners of School District 126 Young Authors contest. District 126 serves students of Alsip, Hazelgreen and Oak Lawn.

Park Lawn Rally Week

Park Lawn kicked-off its new fundraising event "Rally for Park Lawn" at a recent breakfast. Rally Week is a major campaign, designed to raise funds to address the current and growing needs of people with developmental disabilities. Among those in attendance were officials, mayors, community leaders and committee members from the 30 communities Park Lawn serves.

Jim Weise, Park Lawn executive director, stated, "This is a very exciting time for Park Lawn and for people with developmental disabilities... their future is brighter than ever before. Rally Week is an opportunity for individuals and businesses to help all people within their communities realize their dreams."

Weise then went on to introduce the "Rally for Park Lawn" committee chairpersons. LeRoy Corradino, Mark Wiegand, and Maury Barger will head this committee. Other committee members include: Mayor Ernest Kolb of Oak Lawn, Mayor Tony Vacco of Evergreen Park, Mayor Arnold Andrews of Alsip, David Boyd, Leslie Ohm, Steven Rosenbaum, Thomas Gavin, Dan Rodman, Egon Menker, Dorothy Menker, Ed Pratt, Shirley Mis, Janet Evans, Joan Kennedy, Stan Dawson, Thomas Barcelona, Marie Napolillo, Bernice Mornar, Patricia Goldberg, James Kruse, Jewell Perry, John Puhar, Hal Wiltshire, John McNamara, Carolyn Bachman, Marilyn Kodak, Diane Halvorson, Rhonda Conlan, Joe Conlan, Lyle Aulwurm, Patrick Kiley, Bonnie Price, Kathleen Wampach and Bill O'Neil.

Sports writer and columnist Bill Gleason addressed the crowd as the morning's keynote speaker. He encouraged people to become active volunteers and to strive towards making a difference.

Rally Week will be held April 26th to May 2nd. The activities get rolling with an open house on Monday, April 26th followed by tours of Park Lawn facilities. The weeks activities include tagging at schools, churches, and on street corner.

As part of Rally Week, several businesses have agreed to donate a percentage of their proceeds on a specified day as part of the "Business Share" program. Community members can do their part by using 'shop and share' coupons when they do their grocery shopping.

A chuck wagon day caps the week long series of events. Part of the celebration includes an arts and crafts show and a sports card show to appeal to every avid collector. Booths are available for both events. In addition, a local service group, the Telephone Pioneers, will be holding a barbecue and other food items will be sold.

The success of this event hinges upon the involvement of volunteers from the communities that Park Lawn serves. Captains and taggers are needed to pass out supplies, tag on street corners and at store fronts. Businesses are needed to participate in the "Business Share" program. Flyers, posters and shop and share coupons need to be distributed. Vendors are wanted for the arts and craft show and sports card show. Local dance and music groups interested in participating during the chuck wagon festivities should contact Park Lawn at (708) 425-6867.

The campaign goal for Rally Week is $100,000 and proceeds are allocated for capital expansion of Park Lawn's educational, vocational, residential and recreational facilities.

School Reform Progress On TV

The progress of school reform in Chicago and discussion of critical issues confronting the city's public schools is the focus of a daylong television special on Saturday, March 27th, to be televised live from the studios of WTTW/Channel 11. National and local education experts join parents, teachers, principals and members of Local School Councils on each of three panels that will address issues facing the public school system. A studio audience of approximately 130, including Mayor Richard Daley and Governor Jim Edgar, will take part in the discussion. Under the umbrella title, "Chicago Public Schools: At The Crossroads," the panels include "Good Schools, Work in Progress," which airs from 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., "Structure and Leadership" airs from 3 p.m. to 4:30 p.m., and "The Bottom Line" airs from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m.

"Seldom, if ever, in the history of Chicago broadcasting, has television devoted an entire day to live coverage focused on a single local issue," said William McCarter, president of WTTW/Channel 11. "If there is any lesson to be learned from the recent Presidential elections and the President's economic summit in Little Rock, it is that the public welcomes in-depth and well-informed discussion of critical issues. There is certainly no more critical issue facing Chicago than the future of our children."

The concept for the daylong televised event that would focus on education reform originated in discussion among leaders of Chicago's foundation, education, political and business communities following the Little Rock summit. The event took final form when WTTW/Channel 11 offered its unusual level of commitment and Roosevelt University's Institute for Metropolitan Affairs agreed to coordinate it.

Each segment is to follow a dynamic, moving moderator format. "We want to create a climate for tackling major school reform issues," said Richard Krieg, executive director of the Institute. "School management, finance questions and organizational problems all will be fair game. The top-notch moderators assembled for this event will enable us to probe the issues and move the conversation forward."

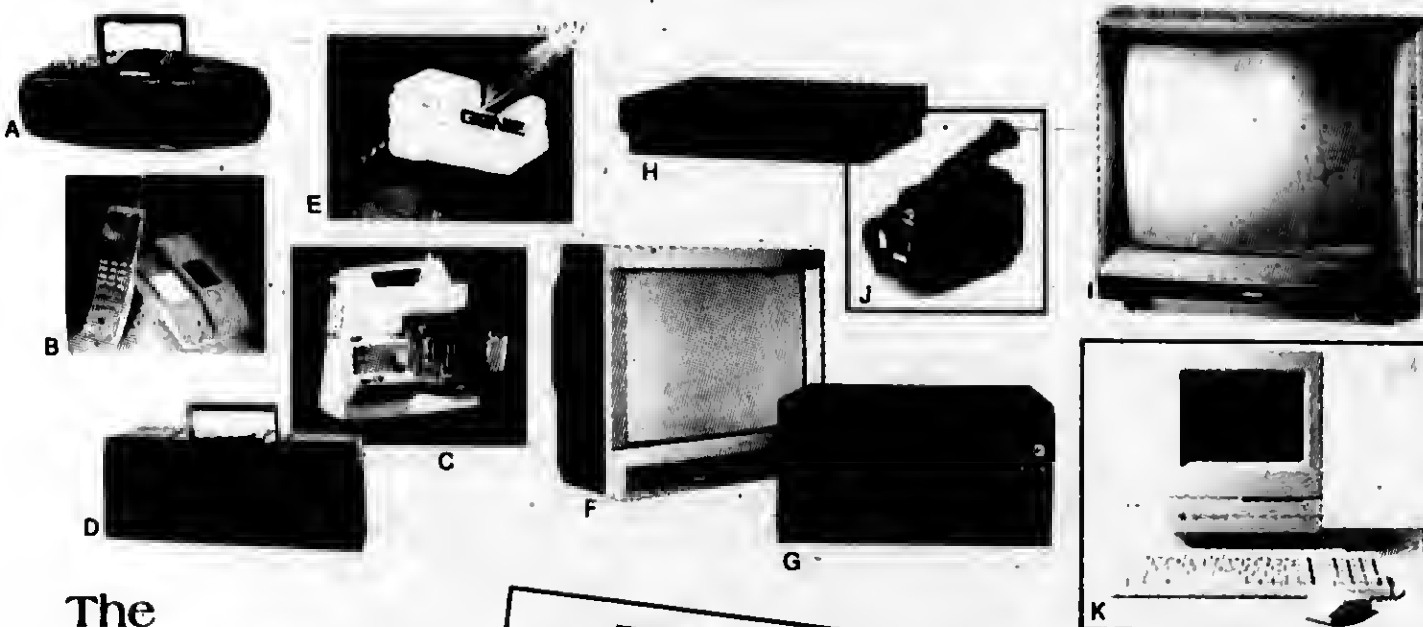

John Callaway, WTTW senior correspondent and anchor of "Chicago Tonight," Clarence Page, syndicated columnist and Phil Ponce, correspondent for "Chicago Tonight," are the moderators. In addition to the event being broadcast live on WTTW/Channel 11, it also will be simulcast in its entirety on WBBM-AM (780).

The first session examines ways school reform has affected classroom practices and local school initiatives in many Chicago Public Schools, with a focus on leadership, high quality instruction, school culture and parent and community involvement. The second explores changing leadership roles, authority and responsibilities in a decentralized school system. Finally, the third session recaps the first two segments, then focuses on funding issues. Although different in content, the three segments have been designed to complement one another and build toward solutions.

Discussing the legislation March 18th at the State Capitol are Sen. O'Malley, State Sen. Judy Baar Topinka (R-North Riverside), Jack O'Malley, State Rep. Maureen Murphy (R-36) and State Sen. More Sales Tax Monies In 1992

General Revenue Fund revenues for February were up $79 million from a year ago due to an increase in federal monies, but state source income was down $26 million, Comptroller Dawn Clark Netsch reported recently. Income tax revenues were $315 million in February, the same as in February 1992. Sales tax revenues increased slightly, from $190 million in February 1992 to $201 million last month.

Overall, GRF revenues increased from $827 million in February 1992 to $906 million last month. The increase was due to a $105 million jump in federal source revenues, from $130 million in February 1992 to $235 million last month.

Through eight months of fiscal 1993, revenues were $8.081 billion, $366 million more than the $7.715 billion through eight months of fiscal 1992. However, $115 million of the $366 million increase is due to short-term borrowing, Netsch said.

Through eight months of fiscal 1993, GRF sales tax revenues are up just $8 million from a year ago, a 4 percent rise. During the same period, income taxes increased from $2.802 billion to $2.989 billion, up $187 million or 6.7 percent from fiscal 1992.

The available balance in the general revenue fund at the end of February was $11 million. At the same time, the comptroller's office held $618 million in spending requests, excluding medical bills held by the department of public aid.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Editor:

As society's needs mount and resources become ever more strained, we depend to an unprecedented degree upon the good works and services performed by thousands of charitable organizations here in Illinois. That is why I view charity fraud as one of the most vicious scams inflicted upon the public and why I have undertaken a massive educational effort to address this significant problem.

The Attorney General's Office is distributing brochures, public service announcements and other informational material to charities and fund raisers around the state. In addition, I recently wrote to nationally-syndicated columnist Ann Landers, encouraging her to continue efforts to alert her vast audience to these dangerous and costly schemes.

Charity fraud stops with an informed donor. That simple idea has become an important motto within the attorney general's office. I urge every Illinoisan to take the time to explore every charitable solicitation thoroughly. Most charities are legitimate; they need your assistance. Contribute what you are able, but only when you are satisfied that your money is going to a legitimate organization and will be spent on those truly in need. Through education, and action, we can put the brakes on charity fraud.

Sincerely,
s/s Roland W. Burris

Robberies Too Frequent In City Of Chicago

According to a recent report, police records indicate there is a robbery reported every 12 minutes in the Chicago area and armed robberies have increased 35 percent since last year. With crime on the upswing, many private citizens are taking steps to work with police in combating crime to keep their homes and families safe. In an effort to recognize Illinois' outstanding citizens, the Illinois Crime Prevention Association (ICPA) and SecurityLink will, for the sixth year, reward one civilian, one police officer and one student with a $500 cash award each based on pro-active work in crime prevention.

Nominations for this year's statewide ICPA-SecurityLink Award are being accepted through April 16th and can be made through an area ICPA member.

To qualify, candidates must have been actively involved with local law enforcement and crime prevention programs, or have performed specific crime prevention acts during the 1992 calendar year.

"These days, a lot of citizens and police officers participate in community-supported crime prevention groups and this program is the ideal way to reward them for their efforts," says Ronald Baran, president of the statewide ICPA.

SecurityLink and the ICPA teamed up six years ago to recognize the efforts of citizens, police officers and students who have helped reduce area crime.

"Communities are aware of crime in their areas and want it stopped," adds Baran. "Police officers can't do it alone, so this award is ideal to promote heroic deeds of local civilians and students."

"For the past six years, this program has proven to be an effective way of honoring citizens who go the extra mile in deterring community crime," explains James W. Covert, chief executive officer of SecurityLink.

"SecurityLink and the ICPA share a common goal, the effective reduction of crime at the local level," says Bob Scanlan, community relations director for SecurityLink. "We believe the program accomplishes this goal by motivating more people to become involved in their communities and leading them to work together to protect their families and businesses."

Nominations should be submitted in letter-form to ICPA-SecurityLink Award Committee, c/o Murphy Knott, 320 N. Michigan Ave., Suite 1600, Chicago, IL 60601 and should include the name, address and phone number of both the award candidate and the nominating party. The letter should fully explain the candidate's role in supporting local law enforcement, either through participation in an area crime prevention or similar program, or through the candidate's assistance in preventing or solving a local crime.

For more information on the recognition program or how to nominate a candidate through an ICPA member, call Stacy Goldman at (312) 346-8472.

Book On Clinton's Tax Proposals

Tax and business law publisher Commerce Clearing House (CCH) has issued "A First Look at Clinton's Tax Proposals," the transcribed result of a recent roundtable discussion by the CCH tax advisory board on Clinton Administration plans in this area. The 22-member board, the publisher said, is composed of distinguished tax lawyers, accountants, academics and practitioners, many of whom previously held important tax positions in government. They reflect diverse experiences, political persuasions and economic philosophies.

"A First Look at Clinton's Tax Proposals" reveals general board agreement that the deficit must be sharply decreased and that both spending cuts and increased tax revenues are needed. The board members' approval of the President's willingness to contemplate deficit reduction did not, however, carry with it substantial support of many of the administration's specific tax proposals.

Many, but not all board members regretted the contemplated resurrection of a sizable long-term capital gain rate advantage, most members doubted the efficiency of the administration's two investment tax credit proposals as formulated, and all deplored the administration's apparent willingness to tolerate a significant increase in tax complexity and a further erosion in the administration and enforcement of the tax law, CCH said.

CCH said single copies of the 48-page "A First Look at Clinton's Tax Proposals" (item 5413) are available at $10 from its cash item department, 4025 W. Peterson Ave., Chicago, IL 60646, or by phoning toll-free at 1(800)248-3248. Quantity price quotations are also available, the publisher added.

Dean's List Of Local Students

Several south suburban residents have been named to the Dean's List at Lewis University for academic achievement during the fall 1992 semester. To be eligible, students must be full-time undergraduates who maintained a grade point average of at least 3.25 out of a possible 4.0 points during the semester. Honor students include Margo J. Stewart and Nicole M. Tynski of Alsip; Catherine T. Claussen, Denise M. Hayes, Victoria Ormins, Maria T. Ostojic, Nikola A. Ostojic, Madeline M. Guerra Staszak and Jon M. Zarazycki of Bridgeview; Christine L. Dusek, Christine E. Evans, Christopher M. Hunger, Shannon M. Lavin, Michelle R. Matthis, Jody L. Meyer, Maureen C. Rasmussen and Michael J. Hometown; Jennifer A. Hathcock of Justice; Mike P. Lotti of Midlothian; Kimberly A. Bullock of Oak Forest; and Karen M. Butler, Giovanna Carli, William T. Casper, Danielle M. Damon, Jeanine T. Area Provider Needs Blood Donors United Blood Services, the area's non-profit community blood provider, relies entirely on volunteer donors to help maintain a constant blood supply. Blood comes from one source, healthy people willing to give of themselves.

"Donating blood is safe, simple and satisfying," said Jill Danielson, director of community relations. "The human body contains about 10 to 12 pints of blood and, since the body constantly manufactures blood, the amount given is quickly replaced."

Patients need blood every day of the year; red blood cells are used for surgeries, plasma for burn and trauma patients and platelets for cancer and leukemia treatment. The only source of blood for these patients is volunteer donations. Help assure that blood is available when it's needed.

To schedule an appointment, contact the blood donor 'hotline' at (312) 751-0246 for a location near you.

Arndt's Third Term

The board of directors of St. Laurence High School, under Chairman Mark Kupiec (St. Laurence '67) in conjunction with the Western American Province of Christian Brothers, has announced the re-appointment of Brother Arthur M. Arndt, CFC, to a third term as principal of the school. Brother Arndt began his tenure in 1988 and will retain his position through June of 1996.

A native of the Southwest Side, Brother Arndt joined the Congregation of Christian Brothers in 1960 from Leo High School. Since that time, he has served for 18 years in the Chicago area: at Brother Rice High School, at Leo and for two appointments at St. Laurence (1968-1972, 1987-present). He is the former principal of Bishop O'Dea High School, Seattle, and has also taught in New York City, Los Angeles and Salinas, California.

Additionally, the board has awarded Brother Arndt a semester sabbatical, to begin this fall. He will join a program at the University of Notre Dame that addresses the personal and professional needs of administrators who have successfully reached the half-way point of their tenure in office. During his absence, the board has selected as acting principal, Thomas Ondra, presently administrative assistant to Brother Arndt, and a 19-year veteran at St. Laurence.

Because Brother Arndt will be working on the West Coast during much of the summer, Ondra will officially begin as acting principal at the end of this current school year and remain in office until the second semester, beginning in January of 1994.

THURSDAY, MARCH 25, 1993—PAGE 5

Drive-By Shootings

Juan Carlos Hermosillo, 19, of Summit, has been charged with aggravated discharge of a firearm in the Village of Bridgeview. He is accused of firing three shots from an automobile into a house on the 7700 block of W. 80th Pl. Graiselda Calderon, 17, the driver of the automobile and a Bridgeview resident, faces the same charge. Police said that no one was injured in the incident and would not divulge what type of weapon was used.

Occupants of the house pursued the car with the two suspects and a street fight resulted. Hermosillo was arrested by Summit police last Thursday and turned over to Bridgeview police. He was then positively identified by occupants of the house where the shooting incident occurred.

Calderon was taken into custody the same day at Argo Community High School, where she is a student, police reported.

According to State's Attorney Jack O'Malley's office, Hermosillo faces a court appearance on April 21st in connection with a drive-by shooting incident in Summit last summer. He faces charges of two counts of attempted murder, two counts of aggravated battery with a firearm, four counts of armed violence and two counts of aggravated discharge of a firearm in the incident.

The charges result from a drive-by shooting in which two teenagers were wounded. Five alleged members of a street gang, including Hermosillo, had been charged with aggravated battery with a firearm. Six shots were fired at a group which included the two teens, each shot in the arm. The victims were treated at Loyola University Medical Center and were released.

The additional charges against Hermosillo were filed subsequently.

According to police, the Summit incident apparently stemmed from racial tensions which had resulted in several fights between black and Hispanic teens at Argo High.

Hermosillo remains in Cook County Jail while Calderon is free on $15,000 bail. She was released Friday after posting the required 10 percent of the bond.

The closer you look at it, the more you realize that there are HMO's from Blue Cross and then there's everybody else.

Tom Denham
Senior Vice President, Sales

Blue Cross has been offering HMO coverage for pretty close to twenty years now. And over those years, we've become the biggest HMO in Illinois.

With far more doctors in far more locations than anybody else. With more options than any of the others.

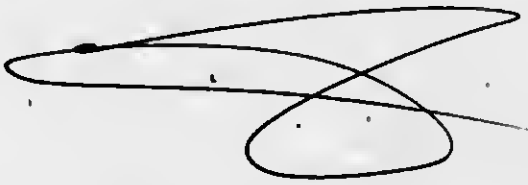

Of course, new HMOs pop up all the time. Promising to give you more. Promising to do it for less.

But HMO Illinois—a Blue Cross HMO—continues to thrive. Taking on all comers. Winning over companies that need a strong, efficient HMO on their side.

Today, nobody can offer your people better access to good quality health care than we can. Here in Illinois. And all across America, where Blue Cross and Blue Shield plans care for more than 70 million people.

When it gets to be time to re-enroll, look at our track record. Look at the hard numbers. Look at what we've accomplished over twenty years.

You know what I think you'll find? I think you'll find that the gold standard in HMO coverage isn't really gold after all. It's actually a very nice shade of blue.

Putting Rein On Spending

By Dr. Richard L. Leshner, President
 U.S. Chamber of Commerce

In surveying the unwieldy federal budget mess, President Clinton hit upon an idea that also had appealed to Presidents Reagan and Bush - the line item veto. Unfortunately, the majority leadership of Congress is no more inclined to grant that authority to Clinton than it was to his predecessors, even though Clinton shares their party affiliation.

The appeal of the line item veto, at least to chief executives, is not hard to understand. Congress is not a single entity, but rather an assembly of 535 competing interests. The prime directive of each individual member of Congress is not to deal with the problems of the nation, but rather to champion the interests of his or her constituents. To the great majority of members, this translates to "bringing home the bacon." Every budget bill quickly disintegrates into a frantic scramble to get more federal money directed to the folks back home. Whether the projects involved are viable, or serve any practical purpose, is virtually beside the point.

When taken to task for this folly, members of Congress invariably insist their particular projects are worthy and that the amounts involved really don't amount to much when compared with the overall federal budget deficit. The flaw in that logic is that lots of little pork barrel projects quickly add up to major waste. Still, individual members are not held accountable for all federal spending as long as they bring home their share of it.

Only the President has political responsibility for the nation as a whole, and enjoys enough independence to safely reject wasteful pork barrel projects that squander the nation's resources to no valid purpose. Thus, it makes sense to enable the President to kill individual spending programs that make no economic sense; that is what the line item veto would do.

Naturally, Congress wants no part of it. It isn't simply a matter of forcing them to stop wasting our money, though of course the very thought makes them shiver. In a larger sense, the line item veto would give the President a lever to use against individual members of Congress, even on issues unrelated to fiscal matters.

To be sure, the President already enjoys some of that power with regard to setting priorities for spending, and administering discretionary spending under his control. But the line item veto would, without question, greatly enhance the President's power to influence the behavior of Congress, and impose discipline on the federal budget.

However much one may sympathize with Congress in its desire to preserve long-standing prerogatives, the continuing fiscal crisis makes clear that change is imperative. The wasteful spending has gotten out of hand, and has reached the point it threatens our future. We are squandering billions on foolishness while serious needs go unmet. We can only hope that in one of its rare moments of lucidity and patriotic concern, Congress will empower the President to impose desperately needed discipline on federal spending.

Federal Judges

Senator Paul Simon has established judicial nominations commissions for the State of Illinois to advise on, and recommend, candidates for United States District Court Judge, United States Attorney and United States Marshal. Although there are no official statutory requirements to be a U.S. District Court Judge, the commission will evaluate applicants on such personal and professional qualities as integrity, legal ability and experience, judicial temperament impartiality and appropriate management skills. Quality and diversity on the federal bench shall be important factors in selecting candidates.

Application forms can be obtained by contacting Ms. Debby Pascal in the office of Senator Paul Simon at (312) 353-4952 or by writing to Office of Senator Paul Simon, 230 S. Dearborn St., Room 3892, Chicago, IL 60604.

Applicants must submit 25 completed questionnaires to Simon's office by 5 p.m. on Monday, April 19th. After reviewing the questionnaires, the commission will select a number of candidates for personal interviews.

As of this writing, there are over 55 health care reform proposals in Congress, and an assortment of 100 plans at the state and local level, all designed to "improve" our health care system. Well-intended legislators and reform activists are strangely silent, however, when asked tough questions about their proposals.

Since when has government been a solution to anything as delicate as our health care? The history of government involvement in many arenas - the savings and loan industry, education and crime control, among others - has been a history of failure. When dealing with social machinery, government has proven itself more of a monkey wrench than a skilled mechanic.

Why do so many citizens of countries with nationalized health care come to us to receive medical treatment? Because their own countries cannot provide them with the quality of care they desire or need. The province of Ontario, Canada, embarrassed by the situation and seeing an easy way to lower its health care budget, refused to pay $260 million in medical bills from U.S. hospitals and doctors for almost 4,000 Canadian citizens treated in the American health care system.

Not least of the questions to be asked is: What would be the consequences of nationalized health care on the fastest-growing segment of our population, senior citizens? Keenly aware of the increased political clout of the senior citizens lobby, advocates of nationalized health care beg the question. Aging of our population is a key factor in the rising cost of health care and any system of nationalized health care will need to address this factor directly. Today, there are twice as many children as senior citizens, so it is easy to promise a tax-supported health care system financed by the young to take care of the old. But analysts predict that by the year 2030 there will be as many senior citizens in this country as there are children and shortly thereafter, the over-65 sector will be the largest sector of the population.

The implications of such a demographic shift for nationalized health care are enormous. The country's medical needs will grow rapidly; senior citizens are high-cost, high-intensity users of health care services. The cost of health care for a person 65 or over is 3.9 times the cost of care for someone under 65. At the same time, our ability to finance health care will fall with the shrinking population of young, active workers whose tax dollars are needed to fund nationalized health care.

As the supply of tax dollars available to fund health care falls, the administrators of a nationalized health care system will have no choice but to control demand. And they will do this by rationing medical services to the elderly.

Today, almost 30 percent of Medicare outlays for hospital care occur within the last year of patients' lives. According to health economist Victor Fuchs, the U.S. spends 1 percent of its GNP, over $57 billion in 1991 alone, on health care for senior citizens in the last year of their lives. The rationing of medical services for the elderly clearly would be an easy way for a nationalized health care system to cut costs.

And in fact, countries with nationalized health care routinely cut their health care costs by cutting corners and their senior citizens bear the brunt of this rationing strategy. In the Netherlands, for example, terminally ill patients are encouraged to take advantage of the euthanasia option; in Great Britain, kidney dialysis and hip replacements are offered only to patients below certain ages.

Ultimately, nationalized health care gives government the authority to play God and decide who gets what health care and when.

Is this the future that legislators and supporters of nationalized health care envision? Are we prepared to give politicians and government bureaucrats that kind of control over our health? And if we change our minds about the wisdom of nationalized health care, as so many countries already have done, where will we go for quality care?

Need For Mass Transit Funding

Congressman Bill Lipinski (D-3) called on the Clinton Administration to designate a half-penny of the existing 2.5 cent gasoline tax for mass transit programs. Lipinski's letter to President Clinton came in response to testimony by Transportation Secretary Federico Pena that those revenues would be used exclusively for highway programs.

Lipinski said, "There is a long-standing policy for transit to receive 20 percent of gas tax revenues. From a transportation perspective and from an urban development perspective, there is absolutely no reason to change that policy. I am surprised to see an administration committed to our big cities even considering it. Locally, it would cost $50 million per year in funds for the CTA and $20 million for the suburban systems, a missed opportunity to create jobs and relieve traffic congestion." Following is the text of Lipinski's letter to the President.

I am writing to express my deep concern regarding your plans for the revenues raised by the proposed extension of the 2.5 cent gasoline tax. Last week Transportation Secretary Pena testified to the Senate Budget Committee that those revenues will be earmarked entirely for the highway account of the highway trust fund.

Though I welcome the use of those revenues for transportation, I believe it is essential that the fund receive its traditional 20 percent share of gasoline tax revenues, or 0.5 cents in this case. As a member of the House Committee on Public Works and Transportation, I know firsthand of the effort expended by Congress and the prior administration to achieve a balance between mass transit and highways in the Intermodal Surface Transportation Efficiency Act of 1991 (ISTEA). Denying the transit account any of the new revenues would violate that delicate balance and prevent funding from reaching the authorized ISTEA levels in the later years of the program.

On a broader level, I believe earmarking 20 percent for the transit account would once again signal your commitment to the revitalization of our nation's largest cities. As you know, mass transit programs both relieve traffic congestion and create jobs, which in turn improves the economic strength of the cities and the quality of life for their residents. In my hometown of Chicago, for example, a half-penny for the account would provide an estimated $50 million in additional transit funds annually and allow the city to rehabilitate its decaying transit infrastructure.

I understand the administration's concern for the future solvency of the highway account, but the Department of Transportation's own projections show that 2 cents of the gasoline tax would be sufficient to meet the account's needs. To provide more than 2 cents therefore amounts to a shift in our national transportation priorities at the expense of mass transit. I hope that is not your intention.

Thank you for your consideration of this critical matter.

Sluggish Economy

During the next 15 years, the American labor force, therefore the economy, will grow more slowly than it has in the recent past. Even allowing for slower growth, however, the labor force will reach 150 million and the gross national product will exceed $5.8 trillion in 2005.

While the number of youth in the labor force will continue to decline for a few years, it will gradually increase after 1996. By 2005, the group is projected to be 2.8 million larger than it was in 1990. Consequently, the worry about a lack of entry level workers in the late 1980s and early 1990s should ease considerably, if not disappear entirely.

These projections are according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Real Estate Assessments On Increase

Cook County Assessor Thomas C. Hynes announced that real estate assessments in Cook County for 1992 rose $1.779 billion or 5.6 percent to a new total of $33,816,983,047. The City of Chicago increased $147.9 million or 1 percent to a new total of $14,543,335,144, and the suburban area of the county, which includes the 13 north and northwest townships which were reassessed for 1992, increased $1.631 billion or 9.2 percent to a new total of $19,273,647,903. The reassessed townships increased $1.534 billion or 14.5 percent to a new total of $12,100,832,949.

In the south and western suburbs, which will be reassessed in 1993, and the City of Chicago, new construction accounts for virtually all the growth.

Hynes pointed out that it can be very misleading to compare an increase on a particular property with an overall township average. "The real estate market can vary by location, even within the same community and from one type of property to another, creating individual increases that can differ greatly from an overall township average."

The figures released are subject to change from reduction requests being made by property owners to the Cook County Board of (Tax) Appeals. The final tax base will also include the state equalization factor (multiplier) and deductions for the homeowner and senior citizen exemptions. Hynes noted that an assessment determines only what percentage one pays of the total real estate taxes for an area, but the dollar amount of any increase in those overall taxes comes from the spending requests of local taxing agencies.

Assessments for area townships include a 1.8 percent increase in Bremen, from $463,824,306 to $472,265,419; a 2.1 percent hike in Palos, from $367,548,360 to $375,211,872; a 0.3 percent hike in Stickney, from $347,106,842 to $348,098,173; and a 1.3 percent increase in Worth, from $931,929,441 to $944,230,088.

Although the City of Chicago no longer is a part of township government, that portion of the city which was once included in Lake Township had a 0.5 percent increase. The increase was from $1,715,090,514 to $1,722,928,629. What was once Lake Township includes the communities of Mt. Greenwood, Beverly, West Beverly, Scottsdale, Ashburn and Morgan Park.

"I want to commend my staff for their dedicated effort and timely completion of a difficult reassessment," Hynes concluded.

Support Block Grant Proposal

The Illinois Chamber is supporting legislation, S.B. 159, that would allow the State Board of Education to consolidate five separate grant programs into one block grant that would be used to improve student performance.

The proposal, sponsored by Sen. Frank Watson, is consistent with the chamber's longtime support of education accountability and improved student learning outcomes.

Dollars from the block grant would be available for school districts to improve student performance according to their individual school improvement plan.

"This approach provides school districts with greater flexibility to build programs that meet the needs of the students in their districts," said Jeff Mays, chamber vice-president of human resource policy.

Currently, numerous grant programs are administered by the State Board of Education and school districts must spend considerable time applying for and administering these programs. This can prove cumbersome and time-consuming and may not ensure that the dollars acquired through specific grant programs are put to the best use for both the school districts and the students. This proposal targets funds directly to improved student performance.

The five grant programs that would be rolled into one block grant under the proposal are: substance abuse, second language planning, staff development, arts planning K-6, outcomes and assessment.

A REAL HUMANITARIAN....When you are a columnist people are always wanting to know why we media-types always write about the dark side of life. "You media guys are always hashing somebody for something," people say. Well, we are going to tell you about a remarkable man who has dedicated his life to helping others. His name is Jack King and he is the founder and executive director of Guildhaus, a halfway house for male alcoholics and substance abusers.

In May, 1980 he was put on disability from the Chicago Fire Department after sustaining lung damage while battling a fire. By this time, Jack and his wife Betty, had eight children, six girls and two boys, and Jack was in the throes of his own alcoholism. He had tried to stop drinking, but he just couldn't stay stopped. After being released in March 1982 from the VA Hospital, he returned home to make another attempt at staying sober. Jack asked his daughter Pat to do his laundry and when he was putting the laundry away, a letter addressed to him fell out of the pile. To this day he always carries the letter with him wherever he goes. A portion of it reads: "Dear Dad, This time you have to try for yourself. Love, Pat." Tears come to his eyes when he reads the dog-eared letter.

Shortly thereafter, in April, 1982, he entered the Way Back Inn halfway house in Maywood. He stayed there for a year, became house manager, and in 1983 returned home to resume his carpentry and remodeling business which he had started after leaving the fire department because of his disability. While at the Way Back Inn, Jack formulated the idea for a halfway house for alcoholics and substance abusers.

In 1985, Jack heard about a man who was planning to open a halfway house in the DeWitt School built in the 1840s at 2413 W. Canal, Blue Island. The building, known as "Guildhaus" because it had become a crafts business in the early 1970s, was without indoor plumbing, electricity, or heat, and 23 windows most of which were broken. Using what little money he had, Jack utilized his carpentry skills and began remodeling Guildhaus while at the same time acquiring 30 letters from politicians, business and professional leaders as the groundwork for a zoning change.

Arriving at Guildhaus in 1986, Jack was greeted by the Chief of Police of Blue Island and other city officials who directed his attention to a sign posted on the door. It read: "Not Approved for Occupancy." Undaunted by this setback, Jack met with Blue Island Mayor Donald Peloquin and told him he was planning on buying the building. Peloquin told him, "I won't fight you, but I can't support you." That is all Jack had to hear. He immediately met with officers of the First National Bank of Blue Island and was told the asking price was $105,000. In his inimitable style, he rounded up eight co-signers plus himself and made an offer of $62,500. He was told by the bank that there was another buyer who would buy the old building for $75,000. Jack relayed the information to his co-signers who told him to "go ahead." When he was told by the bank he would need a $10,000 down payment, he replied "I don't have two cents, but I have co-signers." The bank agreed and after countless meetings with the city's zoning commission, city council, and 250 nearby residents, Jack's dream of a halfway house was finally approved.

With the same determination which had launched the Guildhaus dream, Jack literally begged and borrowed from everyone he encountered. He met with the Southwest Safety Committee, a coalition of 29 local trade unions, and each union agreed to make Guildhaus part of their apprenticeship program. Suddenly walls were coming down, bedrooms were going up, plumbing, heating and electricity was being installed. Assisting in the rehab program were also scores of AA members who donated their time and experience to the project.

Guildhaus today is approved by DASA, licensed by the State of Illinois, meeting architectural standards, and in just a little over five years 350 men have been returned as sober and productive members of society.

Why does this former firefighter, De LaSalle grad, father of eight, recovering alcoholic continue to work so hard for Guildhaus? "Because I have been given the gift of sobriety by God," Jack says. "And you can't keep it unless you give it away," he adds. Asked what his most rewarding experience has been, Jack looks out the window and says, "some day I'll be looking out this window and see a guy, shaking, disheveled, coming up the stairs and know in a few months he will be leaving us sober and starting his life all over." And then with his big Irish grin, he looks at a sign on the wall and says; YAGOTTAWANNA," the Guildhaus motto.

Apparent Death From SIDS

Hickory Hills police reported Tuesday that a two-month-old child who had been abandoned shortly after he was born, died last weekend, apparently of sudden infant death syndrome (SIDS). According to the report, police were awaiting official word from the Cook County Medical Examiner's Office as to the cause of the infant's death.

The child, Alex Delgado, who would have been three-months old this week, was in the care of his mother's aunt and uncle. The mother, 17-year-old Rachel Delgado, has been charged with attempted murder, child abandonment and cruelty to a child.

Reportedly the girl delivered the baby by herself in the bathroom of a Bridgeview home where she was attending a family Christmas party. She then allegedly wrapped the newborn boy in a towel and plastic bag, then placed him behind a parked car. The child was found by relatives.

Fighting Crime With Wiretap

State Sen. Patrick O'Malley (R-18) is sponsoring legislation that will give law enforcement officials more legal tools for investigating narcotics operations, and create a greater market for goods manufactured by the state's prison industries. Senate Bills 880 and 684 are part of a comprehensive legislative package proposed by Cook County State's Attorney Jack O'Malley on March 18th at the State Capitol.

"I am pleased to have the opportunity to participate in the State's Attorney's pro-active effort at addressing so many issues relating to crime. These proposals will help citizens not only in Cook County but across the state," O'Malley said.

Senate Bill 880 expands Illinois' wiretap statute to include a number of new offenses, including criminal drug conspiracy and committing, conspiring or soliciting to commit murder.

"Illinois law currently restricts the use of nonconsensual wiretap to a very narrow range of crimes. It has proven to be a very effective investigatory tool and with the proper protection against misuse, it could help our law enforcement officers in the fight against illegal drugs," according to O'Malley.

Senate Bill 880 would authorize nonconsensual wiretaps for investigating the offenses of committing, conspiring or solicitation to commit murder; criminal drug conspiracy; cannabis trafficking; calculated cannabis conspiracy; and money laundering.

Senate Bill 684 would create more of a market for prison-industry goods by making it easier for local governments and other agencies to buy them. It exempts those government purchases from public bidding requirements and reduces the price of prison-industry goods purchased by units of local governments.

"The Illinois Correctional Industries build and sell quality products that help defray prison costs. The program also teaches inmates the kind of skills they can use once they are released," O'Malley pointed out. "Keeping inmates busy also makes prisons safer."

"Creating more of a market for prison-industry products will not affect business and jobs in Illinois. Most of what prisons manufacture is office furniture and the large companies that manufacture office furniture are not located in Illinois," said O'Malley. "It also makes good economic sense to allow local governments to buy these products at cost, and conserve local tax dollars."

Senate Bill 880 is to be heard by the Senate Judiciary Committee. Senate Bill 684 is pending before the Senate Executive Committee.

U of C Scleroderma Information

A clinical and laboratory research update on the disease of scleroderma is the subject of a public information meeting to be held at the University of Chicago Hospitals, 5841 S. Maryland Ave., at 1:30 p.m. on Sunday, April 25th. The program will be presented by Dr. Michael Ellman, rheumatologist at U of C Hospitals and members of the rheumatology staff.

Scleroderma, or systemic sclerosis, is a chronic connective tissue disease generally classified as one of the rheumatic diseases. The term scleroderma comes from two Greek words: 'sclero' meaning hard and 'derma' meaning skin. This particular term is used because hardening of the skin is one of the most visible manifestations of the disease. The disease has been called "progressive systemic sclerosis," but the use of that term has been discouraged since it has been found that scleroderma is not necessarily progressive. There are several forms that the disease may take and there is also much patient-to-patient variability.

In scleroderma excess collagen production may cause scarring and narrowing of the blood vessels, leading to life threatening changes in the functioning of the heart, lungs, kidneys and alimentary canal. It is estimated that there may be 250,000 to 300,000 scleroderma patients in the United States. The initial manifestations, joint and muscle pain, low-grade fever, weight loss and fatigue, mimic other more common autoimmune rheumatic diseases like rheumatoid arthritis and systemic lupus erythematosus. The cause of scleroderma is unknown and there is no cure.

For additional information write or call the Scleroderma Foundation at (312) 922-3532.

Seventeen awards are made to individuals or groups chosen because of their outstanding volunteer service, five to adults or groups, one to a youth, an education award, and to 10 finalists.

J.C. Penney gives $1,000 contributions to the organizations associated with the winners' efforts. The 10 finalists' organizations will each receive $250 grants.

Nomination forms can be obtained at J.C. Penney catalog desks at Orland Square, River Oaks, Lincoln Mall and Ford City shopping centers, or by calling Roby at the Southwest YMCA, (708) 385-6700.

Office Dedication

Another phase of Catholic Charities' efforts to make its services more easily accessible was completed on March 24th when Bishop Abramowicz officially dedicated the southwest suburban regional office, 10661 Roberts Road, first floor. The event was from 2 to 4 p.m. with the ceremony at 2:30.

Attendees included Most Rev. Abramowicz, auxiliary bishop, Archdiocese of Chicago; Rev. Edwin M. Conway, director of archdiocesan human services and administrator of Catholic Charities; priests, deacons and parish staff in southwest Cook County; board members and elected officials.

POLICE CALLS

The following incidents were listed in the official reports of the Oak Lawn Police Department. Readers are reminded that an arrest by police does not constitute a finding of guilt and only a court of law can make that determination.

On March 9th, an Oak Lawn man reported he discovered two white propane tanks valued at $92 and a car battery worth $60 were missing from the outside shelf in front of his travel trailer. The tanks have his name and address engraved on them. The trailer is parked in his backyard by the alley.

An Oak Lawn resident reported the spare tire which was underneath the rear of his vehicle was taken while it was parked in the Dominick's lot at 8700 S. Cicero. The tire will cost $300 to replace and he did not know what damage was done to the tire housing when the theft occurred.

On March 10th, a resident reported someone removed a Goodyear P-225 tire from the housing underneath the truck body. The locking nut was pried off, threads stripped and the locking bar was bent. Estimated loss is $300.

On the 10th, the manager of Art's Automotive Electronics, 6161 W. 95th St., reported Mirella Magliano of Worth had a radio installed in her vehicle and wrote a check in the amount of $296.82 for payment. The check came back on the 10th marked insufficient funds. The license number on the car came back to Mirella Piazzolla of 9835 W. 151st St., Orland Park. Complaints will be signed.

On the 14th, Richard Renik of Chicago reported someone broke the passenger window on his vehicle and removed the Sony AM/FM cassette stereo radio from the dashboard. The radio is valued at $400 and to replace the window, $200.

On the 15th, Lots for Less, 9543 Cicero, reported the manager had been checking his register receipts and noticed five voids from Sunday sales. He asked the offender, the clerk, about this and the man said he was sorry, handed in his work keys and left. The manager estimated about $150 had been taken. Complaints will be signed.

On the 16th, Mary J. Nosalski of Chicago told police she had parked her boyfriend's car in the rear of the lot at 8800 S. Cicero Ave. and upon her return found the driver's side window was broken out ($150 to replace) and her brown briefcase containing various appointment books and paperwork was gone. There were also two sets of keys taken. Estimated loss is $200.

An Oak Lawn woman reported that someone put key scratches on the hood of her car parked in the driveway and cracked the spoiler on the car. Estimated damages amount to $500.

Bruce Scholze of LaPorte, Ind. came to the station to report someone had entered the rear of his truck through the locked hatch on the cap and removed a red tool box which contained $200 worth of assorted tools while it was parked at the Lincoln Technical Institute, 8900 S. Cicero.

On March 18th, a resident reported someone had shot a BB through her 5x5 ft. front window and also numerous BBs had been shot into the aluminum siding of her garage on the east and rear sides. Estimated damage is $500.

A resident of the 9800 block of Moody Ave. reported someone stole four 30 lb. cans of propane from the trailer parked in his yard sometime between December of 1992 and today's date. Estimated loss is $240.

At 4 p.m. Paul Johnson of Justice told police he was stopped for a traffic light at 95th and Kostner next to a carload of youths. One boy got out of the car with a baseball bat as Johnson made a turn onto Kostner. The subject swung the bat and broke the rear window of his car which will cost $250 to replace.

A resident reported that while she was shopping at the Jewel at 9424 S. Pulaski, someone removed her wallet from her purse which contained $50.

Willard Bischoff of Crestwood reported that while he was parked at 8920 S. Cicero, someone opened the locked cap mounted on the rear bed of his truck and took $1,163 worth of tools. All the tools were marked with his initials W.B.

Letter To The Editor

Editor:

On behalf of the Oak Lawn Community High School Board of Education, staff, and members of the Ecology Club, I would like to thank the park board for its generous donation of $500. These funds will be used to help defray the costs of the Ecology Club's special trip to Colorado in order to attend the youth environmental summit next month.

Our students are very excited about this special opportunity to attend this unique conference. During the week they will interact with youth and environmentalists from throughout the country for the improvement of environmental awareness and the preservation of our natural resources.

The OLCHS Ecology Club and park district have worked very closely together on numerous projects, including cleaning up Stony Creek, a wetlands restoration project, "Adopt a Park Program" and various "Earth Day" celebrations.

We appreciate the assistance of the park district in providing our students with both community projects and financial support. Through your generosity and concern, our students will be better able to make contributions to preserve our environment.

Sincerely,
William C. Hill,

Committee On Special Events

A resolution creating a special events committee for the city's 40th anniversary will be prepared by City Attorney Michael Cankar, according to Mayor Raymond Forsyth at the Hometown city council meeting on March 3rd.

Committee members include Alderman Donna Brochowski, chairman; Alderman Donald Robertson, vice-chairman; City Treasurer Raymond Czajka, treasurer; and Josephine Murphy, secretary.

A motion was made by Alderman John O'Brien, seconded by Alderman Nancy Martin, to allow the police department to purchase a new squad car. The vehicle will replace one that was totaled in an accident. A package with Hawkinson Ford where cars would be traded in after 36,000 miles was discussed as a possibility. Funding for this purchase will most likely come from the police budget and an appropriation ordinance.

Resident Robert Duffy sent a letter to Mayor Forsyth suggesting that the police department compile a list of disabled city residents so that if a '911' call is made from those people, the officers will be aware of it.

Paul Betz, Marist High School volunteer, helps Sylvia Kazecki and Wayne Kraft, Park Lawn School students, make what might be the last snowman of the season during a March snowfall. Marist students regularly demonstrate their commitment to helping people in the community by doing volunteer work for persons with developmental disabilities at Park Lawn and other agencies.

Display Shows Biodiversity In Illinois

"Biodiversity in Illinois," arrives at the Oak View Center, 4625 W. 110th St., on Thursday, March 25th, and will be available to the community through Monday, April 19th.

This elaborate traveling display, brought to the community through the sponsorship of the Oak Lawn Park District, explores the state's rich natural heritage and is testimony to the fact that this nearly 400-mile-long state is more than soybeans, cornfields and shopping malls. In fact, more than 53,000 native species of plants, animals, and insects occupy a surprising variety of habitats from southern swampland to northern forest.

Colorful photographs, maps, narratives, and specimens of animals, insects, fossils, and minerals graphically illustrate the state's wide diversity from landforms and life-forms. The exhibit traces Illinois climate 430 million years to a time when the state occupied a place close to the equator, and it explores the story of how geology and climate interacted to produce habitats that support such diverse species as prickly pear cactus and native pine, snapping turtles and wild turkeys.

An electronic question-and-answer panel and a build-your-own-habitat rubber stamp game are part of the exhibit. To help teach the concepts of biodiversity, the Illinois scientific surveys have prepared accompanying teachers' guides, lesson plans, classroom activities and a supplemental set of 40 slides.

Community groups may schedule visits to the "Biodiversity in Illinois" exhibit. A special community lecture on the subject of wetlands is planned for Wednesday, March 31 at 7:30 p.m., also at the Oak View Center.

Dawn Radville, landscape architect with the Oak Lawn Park District, said, "We are working to establish and restore the community's few remaining natural areas. We feel that this exhibit and lecture, will help us raise public awareness of the need to act quickly and responsibly to protect these parcels before they are lost to us forever.

To arrange for tours of "Biodiversity" and for further information on the lecture, contact Ms. Radville (708) 857-2201.

OUTDOORS

By Jim Kirby

WHAT'S NEW OUT THERE? The outdoor enthusiast can learn a lot from attending OUTDOOR SHOWS. It seems like there is an outdoor show every weekend, I try to spend some time at each one. Not only is the latest equipment displayed, factory reps and seminar speakers can give tips on how to use the products. This is a good way to brush up on your skills while waiting for tolerable open water fishing weather to arrive.

CHICAGO FISHING BOAT EXPO - Joining this show as, "This years best deals in fishing boats and accessories." The Expo features boats and motors for all types of recreational boating and fishing including those all important accessories.

Area pro's will be on hand presenting seminars on fishing, boating safety, electronics, boat rigging, places to go and more. An added attraction is a complete fishing tackle display by well known manufacturers.

This show starts tomorrow - Friday, 3-10 p.m., Saturday, 10 a.m.-8 p.m., Sunday 9 a.m.-5 p.m., is located at the Chicagoland Convention Center, 160 W. Joe Orr Road, Chicago Heights. Admission: Adults, $5. Children 6-15, $2.

MONEY FOR THE COLLECTION BOX? - The Wisconsin DNR in conjunction with other Great Lakes States conducts a fishbanding program for tracking chinook salmon and migration information. The adipose pin, located on top of the salmon near the tail, is removed and a thin wire micro-tag is fastened to the snout of the fish.

REV. WAYNE KOETZ, Worth, caught a tagged fish on Aug. 12th, 1992. The salmon was 16" long, weighed two lbs., and had been released in 1991 in the St. Joseph River in MICHIGAN. For his effort, REV. KOETZ received $3 and a note of appreciation from the DNR for contributing to this foolproof method of getting information vital to stocking of fish in Lake Michigan.

AMERICAN FISHING ASSOCIATION - Hosts "Fishing America" a three day show, this Friday, Saturday and Sunday at the Pheasant Run Mega Center in St. Charles. "Fishing America," offers a one stop showcase of the Midwest's finest fishing lodges, resorts, campgrounds, outfitters and many other fishing related amenities. For information call (708) 503-4800.

THE WISCONSIN DNR warns anglers venturing out onto ice or open water in boats this time of year face increased danger of hypothermia if they break through thin ice or capsize their boats.

HYPOTHERMIA is a life threatening condition caused by a rapid loss of body temperature. Hypothermia may completely numb arms and legs, causing a loss of strength, or it may cause someone to lose consciousness. Hypothermia can prevent even strong swimmers from being able to save themselves.

Warm, spring temperatures can cause a person to think water temperatures are warmer than they are. Actually the water temperature may be near freezing.

Ice and snow still cover many lakes and rivers, but ice conditions can change quickly at this time of year. River ice can be especially dangerous this time of year because of changing currents. Runoff from snow melting is also helping to weaken lake ice in many locations, especially near shore. Anglers should check ice daily. You can't just take it for granted that it is as thick as it was the day before.

Anyone venturing onto the ice or out on open water this time of year should be wearing a life jacket, not just carrying it along. If you should end up in cold water, the life jacket will not only keep you afloat, but help insulate you from the cold water. Also, don't remove clothing; water trapped inside clothing will be warmed by body temperature and help insulate you. LET'S BE CAREFUL OUT THERE!!!

Cougar Softballers

Four freshmen softball players have signed athletic letters of intent for the 1993-94 softball season with Saint Xavier University, and the university has admitted the four, according to athletic director Lynn O'Linski. The new softball Cougars are: Christine McCorkle, a pitcher from St. Frances DeSales High School; Andrea Medinger, a pitcher from Mother McAuley High School; Erin L. Gibler, infielder from Normal Community High School, and Carrie Ferst, a utility fielder from Richards High School.

Saint Xavier, 3700 W. 103rd St., enrolls over 4,000 undergraduate and graduate men and women in its four schools: arts and sciences, education, nursing and the Graham School of Management.

SXU currently has athletic programs in men's basketball, baseball, soccer, women's softball and volleyball.

ball plus two new women's programs in cross-country and a junior varsity softball team.

The University is currently building a football/soccer field in preparation for its first football season in 1993-94.

All State Soccer Players

Billy Savarino and B.J. Carrick have been named to the All-American and All-Midwest soccer teams. The two, also named to the All-State team, played on Brother Rice's Chicago Catholic League championship team that finished with a record of 17-5-2.

Savarino, a junior forward, led the Crusaders in scoring and was second in the state with 50 goals on the season after leading the state his sophomore season. He is the top scorer in school history and needs only 15 more goals to break the Illinois scoring record of 124. The record was set in the 1980s by Steve Snow, currently playing for the U.S. Olympic team.

In the state regional opener against Oak Lawn High School on Oct. 24, Savarino tied a state record by scoring 10 goals in a 20-0 rout. He also had six assists in the game, which was one short of the state record.

According to Rice soccer coach Nick Markulin, a player with Savarino's skills comes along once in 20 or 30 years. He thrives on setting records. He's highly motivated and seeks the highest level of competition. Billy has been an inspiration. He's on the "B" honor roll and will get a tryout with the national team this summer." Savarino is Brother Rice's first All-American.

Carrick, a senior midfielder, is a Mt. Greenwood resident. The team captain, he was the team's top playmaker with 22 assists. Carrick has played varsity all four years. During that time, Brother Rice has gone undefeated in Catholic League play.

"B.J. is the ultimate student-athlete. He's truly an 'all-American kid.' He has been on teams that have won many tournaments and he has gained experience across the nation and Europe playing for various club teams. It has made him a more astute leader and gives him a better perspective on life than most young people have. He's our field general, very creative and skilled," said Markulin.

Carrick also carries a 4.33 grade point average on a 4.0 scale and was recently named to the school's "A" honor roll. He is in the top 10 in his class.

1993 Illinois Fishing Guide

The 1993 Illinois Fishing Information guide is now available, and Conservation Director Brent Manning says anglers will want to consult it for information about a new awards program for catch and release fishing.

"The new fishing guide represents an up-to-date summary of Illinois' fishing regulations - written in non-legal, informative terms," Manning said. "In addition, it contains details about a new state Catch and Release Awards Program in which anglers will be recognized for releasing fish equal to or greater than a required minimum length."

Catch and release fishing is the practice of returning a fish to the water quickly and in a manner such that the fish is likely to survive. Returning a big fish to the water means it has a chance to grow to an even larger size, possibly resulting in a record fish for another angler.

In addition to a certificate of recognition, anglers who submit catch and release applications will receive a pin for each fish submitted that equals or exceeds the minimum qualifying length. There are 54 fish species recognized in the Catch and Release and Big Fish awards program.

Eligible species and the minimum length or weight standards needed for receiving recognition are included in the new fishing guide. Anglers will note nearly all Big Fish minimum weight requirements have been lowered to encourage more participation in the program and to provide more recognition for catches of large fish. A patch and certificate will be awarded for Big Fish awards, while a patch, a certificate and an engraved wall plaque will be issued to new State Record anglers.

Also contained in the 1993 Fishing Information guide is information on sport fishing licenses, fishing prospects, public fishing places, North American and Illinois record fish, fish consumption advisories from the Illinois Department of Public Health and fishing ethics.

Copies can be obtained by writing the Department of Conservation, Division of Fisheries, 524 S. Second St., Springfield, IL 62701-1787.

"Satisfying Year"

The 70-foot shot at the buzzer that put the Moraine Valley Community College men's basketball team into the final four of the Region IV championships was the culmination of an exciting season that resulted in a 23-9 record. Although the Marauders lost in the semi-final, the season was a huge success, said Head Coach Bill Finn, drawing a following of fans not seen in recent years.

"It was an extremely satisfying year overall," Finn said. "We finished 23-9 against very tough competition and we made it to the final four."

The big part of the team's success was the outstanding play of sophomore guard Chris Ellis. Ellis, voted pre-season All-American and named to the first team of the North Central Community College Conference (N4C) all-conference team, led the country in Division II scoring with 28 points per game, broke the all-time scoring record of 1,215 at Moraine Valley, and broke his own single game scoring record by netting 47 points against Triton College.

"It was a great opportunity to coach a player like Chris," Finn said. "I knew he would always come out and perform."

In addition to Ellis, Maurice Bradley, second team all-conference, contributed 18 points and 10 rebounds per game, and Vince Weaver, eight points, six assists per game, "had as much to do with our winning season as anybody," said Finn.

Next year, the team will be without Ellis, Bradley and Weaver, as well as stand-outs Dave Kulis and Kevin Hampton. Freshmen players Eric Andrews, Ron Graham and Marcus Poe, however, will return as the experienced core of next year's squad.

IHSA Seeks Officials

The Illinois High School Association (IHSA) is facing serious statewide shortages of officials in the interscholastic sports of soccer, wrestling, gymnastics and swimming. In general, the IHSA has low numbers of officials in all athletics in which it sponsors including basketball, football, softball, volleyball and baseball. Finally, the IHSA has an under-representation of female officials in its program. With over 11 different sports sponsored by the IHSA, the need for qualified individuals to officiate is vital.

To combat these problems, the IHSA is actively recruiting prospective IHSA-registered sports officials. The main targets of this program are high school senior athletes and others who have a basic knowledge of sports and are physically fit. All ages, 17 and up, are encouraged to contact the IHSA. Women and minorities are urged to apply.

The process for becoming an IHSA-registered official is simple. After completing an application, the IHSA will issue the appropriate rule books to the prospective official. He or she will then be required to take an open-book test. If 80 percent of the questions are answered correctly, the IHSA will notify the individual of his or her status as a registered official. The cost of initial registration in one sport is $20.

Funds For Non-Game Wildlife

Conservation Director Brent Manning thanked Illinois taxpayers who contributed nearly $176,000 to the Non-game Wildlife Conservation Fund in 1992.

"The generosity of the fund's contributors will benefit a variety of projects affecting many plant and animal species," Manning said. "We ask for Illinoisans' continued support this year as they prepare their state income tax forms, where contributions can be designated on line 15a."

Illinois taxpayers can make a tax-deductible contribution to the Non-game Wildlife Conservation by indicating an amount on their IL-1040 tax returns. Any amount of $1 or more can be pledged to the fund, with amounts deducted from any refund due or added to the amount owed. Nearly $2 million has helped fund more than 350 non-game projects during the last decade.

Carl Becker, chief of Conservation's Natural Heritage Division, said contributions collected for the Non-game Wildlife Conservation Fund are distributed following evaluations by the Non-game Fund Advisory Committee, an 11-member volunteer panel.

"The committee recommends projects addressing the state's most pressing wildlife and natural area management problems," Becker said. "From natural area preservation to species reintroduction, the Non-game Wildlife Conservation Fund has been at the forefront in fighting native species loss."

Projects currently receiving funding include: creating new wetlands on private property in order to provide increased wildlife habitat; updating the 1978 Illinois Natural Areas Inventory which details areas worthy of preservation for the habitat they provide, especially to protected species; describing habitat management for non-game birds in a publication for the general public; and continuing development of a comprehensive computerized data base on Illinois moths and butterflies to assist researchers.

By receiving a minimum of $100,000 each year, the fund is assured a place on the following year's tax form. The Non-game Wildlife Conservation Fund and the Child Abuse Prevention Fund are the only two funds receiving the qualifying amount each year since the concept first was offered in 1983.

Besides designating an amount on line 15a of the state income tax form, individuals may make a tax-deductible contribution to the non-game fund at any time by sending a check to the Non-game Wildlife Conservation Fund, Department of Conservation, Division of Natural Heritage, 524 S. Second St., Springfield, Ill. 62701-1787.

Conference Champions

The Moraine Valley Community College women's basketball team capped the 1992-1993 season by winning its fourth North Central Community College Conference (N4C) championship. The Marauders sailed to an 11-1 record in the N4C, 23-6 overall, but lost in the National Junior College Region IV championship.

"We did everything right but make the baskets," Head Coach Ray O'Donnell said of the team's loss in the regional championship game. "Overall, though, we had a great season. We had a well-balanced team with a lot of talented players. All the girls should be proud of their accomplishments."

Six players were recognized for their performances this season: Katie Heinrich, N4C first team all-conference; Denise LoVerde, N4C season team all-conference; Danette Deal-Ball, first team Region IV all-tournament team, and N4C-third team all-conference; Janet Haubenreiser, first team Region IV all-tournament team, and honorable mention all-conference; Eileen DeLozier, first team Region

IV all-tournament team; and Dawn Leatherman, honorable mention all-conference.

The season also marked the end of O'Donnell's seven-year tenure as head coach at Moraine Valley. O'Donnell, 65, who retired after the season, finished with an overall record of 146-67 at Moraine Valley, leading the team to four conference titles, two region titles, and two national championship appearances. Before coming to Moraine Valley, O'Donnell logged 30 years of coaching at the high school level.

Sharing The American Dream

"We grow too soon old and too late smart."

That's why you need an IRA today.

When lifelong friends Floyd and Gus have a meeting of the minds, they tell it like they see it.

What would they do if they were working toward retirement today? "Open an IRA," comes the sharp reply.

Our IRAs pay you high interest—interest that's tax-deferred until you begin withdrawing funds at retirement (when your tax rate will most likely be lower). And, depending on your adjusted gross income and pension plan coverage, you may be able to deduct an annual IRA contribution of up to $2,000 from your federal income tax.

Take it from two guys with 20/20 hindsight: "It's not what you make, it's what you save." Our high-yield IRAs. The smart way to keep your American Dream young.

Band Trophies

Senior members of the Brother Rice/Mother McAuley Band gather around the trophies they helped win during the 'State of the Art' band competition, held Feb. 20th at Marian Catholic High School. The concert band, directed by Patrick Henning, was awarded the best brass trophy and finished in second place out of seven bands in Class A. The symphonic wind ensemble, directed by Leo Henning, who is celebrating his 50th year of teaching, performed Gustave Holts' "The Planets." They were awarded trophies for best woodwinds, best brass, first place in Class AAA and overall grand champion.

Walk For MS

Gov. Jim Edgar has declared Sunday, March 28th as "Multiple Sclerosis Awareness Day" in Illinois. On that day, more than 10,000 walkers throughout Illinois will put on their walking shoes for the National Multiple Sclerosis Society's Super Cities Walk to fight multiple sclerosis. The Walk will involve 200,000 walkers in over 300 sites across the nation.

The money raised through pledges will be used to fund vital research and provide local services to people with MS. Multiple sclerosis is the number one disabling disease of young adults. Every hour an adult, typically between the ages of 20 and 50, learns they have multiple sclerosis; every week some 200 young adults discover they have MS.

For further information about the National Multiple Sclerosis Society and the Super Cities Walk, call (312) 922-8000 or 1(800)922-0484.

Irish Mystery On Stage

The Irish American Heritage Center is presenting "The Secret of the Island," a play of mystery and intrigue by Seamus O'Neill. Performances run from April 15th through 25th, Thursdays through Saturdays at 8 p.m. and Sundays at 3 p.m. The April 22nd performance will be interpreted in sign language. The Center is located at 4626 S. Knox Ave. General admission is $10, seniors and members are $8. Special group rates are available. Free parking and handicapped access. Call (312) 282-7035 for information.

For those interested in Celtic Mythology, "The Secret of the Island" conjures images of Druids, folklore and spells, similar to Brian Friel's award-winning play "Dancing at Lughnasa." Set on Tory Island off the coast of Donegal, Ireland, O'Neill's mystery provides a glimpse of life in a stark island community where the people (including the parish priest) still believe in pagan customs and superstitions. Their ancient belief that you don't tell your secret to a stranger complicates the investigation of an American professor's disappearance from the island.

Address Glitch

Students seeking financial aid to attend the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign may face delays because of a change in procedure at the U.S. Department of Education (DOE). The glitch is resulting from students writing on their applications that the campus is in Urbana, says Orlo Austin, director of the U. of I. Office of Student Financial Aid. Those who identify the campus as being in Champaign are having no problem, he said. The campus financial aid office may not be receiving the data necessary to process requests for aid from students who list Urbana as the campus address.

In previous years, the DOE identified schools that were to receive data by means other than location, Austin said. But for 1993-94, schools are being identified by name and city, and that has caused a particular problem for the Urbana-Champaign campus, he said.

On March 19th, the university sent a letter to all prospective students to explain the situation and suggest how to handle it.

Murphy Appointed

State Rep. Maureen Murphy (R-36) has been named to four key committees in the Illinois House of Representatives for the 88th General Assembly. House Republican Leader Lee Daniels appointed Murphy to the top spokesman spot on the House Revenue Committee. In addition, Murphy will serve on the House Committees on Consumer Protection, Elementary and Secondary Education and Financial Institutions.

"I'm absolutely delighted with my committee assignments. More importantly, my position as Republican spokesman on the Revenue Committee places me in a challenging task to shape our fiscal posture in the months ahead. Illinois' emergence from a recession should be protected from new and higher taxes," Murphy said. "As we start the new session, legislators must address the economic, educational and environmental concerns of the people of Illinois. Our priorities should be geared toward a better business climate and more jobs. To reach those steps, we need to insure that Illinois is a state where people can learn, live and work with better schools, sound consumer protection and a safer environment," Murphy said.

"My committee assignments will help me better represent the interests of the people in the 36th House District. Their voices must be heard," said Murphy, who was elected to the House of Representatives in last November's election.

Special Services

Atwood Heights School District 125 offers a wide range of special services for its children. A child is eligible for special education services if he or she is deaf, blind, hard of hearing, mentally retarded, multi-handicapped, orthopedically impaired, health impaired, learning disabled, speech impaired, visually handicapped or emotionally disturbed. As required under both state and federal regulations, special classes and separate school are provided only when the nature of the child's handicaps prevent achievement of a satisfactory education program in a regular class.

Residents of School District 125 who would like more information or feel they are in need of special services should call Mrs. Anne Krause at 423-3078.

Filing Status

One of the first things taxpayers must decide when filing their tax return this year is what filing status to use. "Your filing status is determined by your marital or family situation," according to Mariette Waters, Manager of the Jackson Hewitt office in Oak Lawn. "In order to minimize your tax liability, you must select the filing status that will be most advantageous to your current tax situation."

The IRS gives taxpayers five filing status choices. Married taxpayers have two choices, either married filing jointly or married filing a separate return. Filing a joint return will save taxes when either you or your spouse earns all or most of the taxable income. If both spouses earn taxable income, you should figure your tax on both joint and separate returns to determine which status provides the lowest overall tax. Single taxpayers may qualify to file single, head of household or qualifying widow(er). These options depend on whether or not single taxpayers have a qualifying dependent living with them and if they provided more than half the cost of maintaining their home. "Filing status is an important factor in determining whether you must file, the amount of standard deduction you may claim and whether you qualify for additional deductions or credits," adds Mariette.

The Oak Lawn office is located at 6056 W. 95th St., Oak Lawn, Illinois, (708) 598-FAST.

Hilton Hospitality

On Easter Sunday, April 11th, the Hospitalized War Veterans will enjoy the gracious hospitality of Mrs. Joan Geary and her staff at the Oak Lawn Hilton for Easter brunch. The veterans will be given the use of two guest rooms, one conference room and also the use of the hotel's swimming pool. Among the organizations who have volunteered to assist the veterans are the Oak Lawn Knights of Columbus, AM Vets, Golden K and Oak Lawn Fire Department, which will also provide lifeguard service at the pool.

Trustee Bill Keane District 6 in Oak Lawn

Professional Management is Necessary for Oak Lawn

OAK LAWN IS a $40 million governmental operation and the largest community in the Southwest suburbs. As a businessman, Bill Keane knows that it requires a good professional management team to administer the daily operations of an enterprise as large as Oak Lawn.

"I became disturbed by the changes that have taken place in the management team that should provide the village with leadership, innovative ideas, and sound management principles that make Oak Lawn the leading community in the Southwest suburbs," said Keane. Keane decided to run for trustee when four UVRP trustees began to replace qualified professional managers with patronage appointments.

The former management team provided the leadership credited with building a new fire station on the west end of Oak Lawn, a new Public Safety Center, improved streets, sewers and streetlights in the Columbus Manor and Dearborn Heights areas, and implemented sanitary connections ordered by the Clean Air Act. Federal grant funding was obtained and used to improve the senior citizens center at no cost to them. All of these capital improvement projects were accomplished without a tax increase to Oak Lawn taxpayers.

As a businessman, Keane knows how to be successful. He believes one must integrate long-term goals into the short-term planning process. Keane, as trustee, wants to restore stability, integrity and professionalism to Oak Lawn by hiring qualified management personnel.

Forum Features Sharp Exchanges

Oak Lawn candidates squared off at a forum held Tuesday night at Covington School. Approximately 200 village residents attended the meeting that featured several sharp exchanges between members of the opposing parties, the Coalition Party headed by incumbent Mayor Ernest Kolb and the Village Reform Party of challenger Robert Streit.

William C. Keane of the Coalition Party took a verbal swipe at Streit and his running mate Harold Mozwez who maintain that the 1992 village budget is "totally unbalanced" and asked why, if that is the case, did the two trustees vote in favor of it in December. Streit charged that the Kolb administration is guilty of fiscal negligence and alleged that the 1992 budget has a projected deficit.

In another disagreement, Streit said that he would serve no more than two terms, if elected in April. Kolb countered that the decision of how long a mayor should serve is best left up to the voters.

The members of the Coalition Party were applauded vigorously when they expressed support for an Oak Lawn-Hometown District 123 tax increase referendum which is to appear on the April 20th ballot. The Village Reform candidates have not taken a position on the tax and apparently are not going to do so.

The lively exchanges piqued voter interest and should contribute to a large turnout at the Consolidated Election on Tuesday, April 20th.

DUI Bills Get Nod

A Senate committee has approved several anti-DUI bills proposed by Secretary of State George H. Ryan, including tougher measures for repeat drunk drivers, anyone using a fake ID and teens who drink and drive. For the third straight year, Ryan also urged legislators to lower the limit for presumed intoxication in Illinois from a blood-alcohol concentration of .10 percent to .08. However, the Senate Transportation Committee, acting on an alternative offered by Ryan, agreed to hold statewide hearings to gauge public sentiment on the issue.

"This is a comprehensive package designed to keep Illinois where it belongs, in the forefront of the national effort to combat drunk and drugged driving," Ryan said.

He said survey after survey shows the public is squarely behind tougher DUI laws, including lower BAC limits.

"The people of Illinois believe, as I do, that the average person should not have four or five drinks in an hour, then get behind the wheel of a car," Ryan said. "They believe we should get tough with teenagers, too many of whom oftentimes value their drivers licenses more than their lives. And they believe we should get even tougher on drunk drivers who are arrested again and again and again."

Apart from the .08 legislation, Ryan's anti-DUI proposals were sent to the full Senate. Those measures, most outlined in Senate Bills 903-907, include addressing dangers posed by hard-core drunk drivers, and an amendment has been attached to House Bill 1362 authorizing the Secretary of State to create a program testing the use of ignition interlock devices by repeated DUI offenders (drivers need alcohol-free breath to start a vehicle equipped with the device and the measure has the full support of the Illinois Bar Association and the liquor industry); On the issue of teen-age drunk driving, Ryan proposed Senate Bill 904 as what he termed "a starting point" for building a legislative consensus on lowering the BAC standard for minors. As now written, the bill provides a suspension of driving privileges for anyone under age 21 convicted of illegal transportation of alcohol. A second offense would result in license revocation. Currently, minors are subject to the same rules as adults, facing a one-year license suspension if they commit two illegal transportation offenses in a single year.

"We need to take serious steps toward halting the slaughter of teenagers who die too young because of easy access to cars, beer and booze," Ryan said. "Driving is a privilege, and teens should know they will lose that privilege if they break this state's drinking laws."

In a related effort to crack down on teen drunk driving, Ryan proposed Senate Bill 905 to impose a $500 fine or 50 hours of public service on anyone caught using a phony drivers license or state ID card. He said the measure would supplement his office's efforts to shut down criminal fake ID rings. Many of those operations exist, he said, because minors are willing to pay hundreds of dollars to falsify their ages to buy liquor.

Ryan said the .08 issue remains at the top of his DUI legislative agenda, but added that statewide public hearings would keep the issue alive and show the concept has wide support. The measure is backed by the American Medical Association (AMA), Mothers Against Drunk Driving (MADD), the Alliance Against Intoxicated Motorists (AAIM), the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration and other safety groups.

Five states already have a .08 law, and New Mexico legislators sent .08 legislation to the governor. Similar legislation is being introduced this year in 23 other states.

Bettenhausen Candidacy Supported By Yourell

Harry "Bus" Yourell, Commissioner of the Metropolitan Water Reclamation District of Greater Chicago, and long time public servant, has pledged his support to incumbent Worth Township Trustee Don Bettenhausen in his bid for re-election. Yourell is serving as Bettenhausen's Campaign Chairperson in the upcoming April 20th election.

Donald I. Bettenhausen, Worth Township Trustee

Bettenhausen, running as an Independent candidate for Trustee, has served on the Worth Township Board for two terms. "I supported Don in the 1985 and 89 elections and he has continued to serve the people of Worth Township responsibly," said Yourell. Bettenhausen has worked hard on the township budget and financial matters. He is well versed in municipal finance, and has balanced the budget and reduced taxes for the people of the township. "It's clear that Don's experience and efforts have benefited the residents of Worth Township. In this day and age of 'political newcomers,' it's important not to lose sight of the value of experience," said Yourell.

If re-elected, Bettenhausen's goals for the next four years include:

1. Continue his fight to make programs and services cost effective.
2. Expand the clinic and the services it provides.
3. Streamline, update and computerize the offices and improve the training of the staff to increase efficiency.
4. Provide additional transportation and health services for the seniors and youth, and coordinate those services with the villages and towns.

Bettenhausen, 39, born and raised in Tinley Park, resides in Evergreen Park with his wife, Susan, and two children, Joey 7, and Tricia, 5. Bettenhausen is an attorney practicing in Orland Park and a Navy veteran during the Vietnam Era. He is an active member of St. Bernadette Parish, the Tinley Park Sertoma, the South Suburban Residential Contractor's Association, as well as various Bar Associations and community groups in Evergreen Park.

Nicotine Patch Claims Disputed

Illinois Attorney General Roland W. Burris, along with 10 other attorneys general, has reached an agreement to end misleading advertising claims by Habitrol, the prescription nicotine patch used by many in the attempt to quit smoking. Ciba-Geigy Pharmaceutical, maker of Habitrol, has agreed to pay $550,000 to the states as part of the settlement.

"The advertisements for Habitrol are misleading and fail to describe material facts concerning the effectiveness of nicotine patches; significant precautions relating to their use and potential adverse health risks that may be associated with their use," Burris said.

"Consumers should be aware of important facts about this very popular prescription drug" including the effectiveness of Habitrol as an aid to smoking cessation for the relief of nicotine withdrawal symptoms has been established only when used as part of a comprehensive behavioral smoking cessation program; it does not work for everyone, that its effectiveness has been tested in three-month studies and that long-term studies of the patch have not been conducted; it should not be used for more than three months; its effect in pregnant women has not been studied and because nicotine patches, like cigarettes, contain nicotine, they could cause fetal harm.

Pregnant women and nursing mothers should first talk with their doctors about other ways to stop smoking; persons with certain health conditions, persons with cardiovascular diseases and persons taking other prescription drugs or under a doctor's care, should first discuss with their doctors the potential risks of nicotine patches; because nicotine patches, like cigarettes, contain nicotine, a person should not smoke or use other nicotine containing products while using nicotine patches; Habitrol has not been studied in persons under 18, and it is a drug available only by prescription.

In the past few years, prescription drugs were rarely advertised as they now are in the mass media. Therefore, Burris wants all consumers to be aware of the possible side effects of prescription drugs.

Under the terms of the agreement, Ciba-Geigy will disclose the above information in all future advertisements and has agreed to pay the state of Illinois $50,000 which will be deposited in the general revenue fund.

Levity Takes Precedence Over Township Business

Levity was more the order of the evening than business during the Worth Township Board meeting on March 25th. With the rare absence of Township Supervisor Joan Patricia Murphy, it was necessary to appoint a supervisor pro-tem. Trustee Donald Bettenhausen made a motion to have Trustee Michael Davies serve in that capacity and when put to a vote, Bettenhausen and Trustees Kathy Spencer and John Dorgan voted aye while Davies cast the lone nay vote. This caused laughter to erupt from the board members as well as those in the audience.

Under old business, adoption of the 1993-94 town fund and general assistance budgets was deferred to the next meeting of the finance committee. "There were some issues addressed on the budget that I just got some information on today," Bettenhausen explained. "That information was regarding hiring a third person in the assessor's office. I want to see what I can do to resolve that issue. I haven't had a chance to discuss it personally with the assessor and I want to do that before adopting anything to the budget."

Additionally, Kenneth Swiderski was appointed as a trustee for the Garden Homes Fire Protection District. "He is filling the unexpired term of David Roach, who recently submitted his resignation," Davies noted. Susan Kaktis was reappointed to serve in that capacity.

A contract with the Merrionette Park Little League Softball organization was approved by the board with some stipulations.

According to Davigs, "On the current liability insurance policy, held with CNA insurance; I would like to request that the township be named as an additional insurer."

Bettenhausen pointed out, "I am uncomfortable with giving them a five-year term. I would rather have a one-year term with a five-year renewable option so that the new board can make a decision on this contractual obligation every year."

The organization will be given annual approval notice in late October as to whether or not they can utilize the township field. "The maintenance department will know what kind of condition that they left the field in," Davies added. "They will be aware of any problems."

League representative Mary Whitlock remarked, "I want to tell the board that Channel 7 called us and told us that

First Lady Hillary Clinton will be in town in April and she is very interested in attending a small-town softball game such as ours. I told them that we would be very happy to have her in Worth Township."

Davies retorted, "Sure, we can have the lawnmower gassed up for her."

In other reports, Senior Citizen and Handicap Coordinator Emmet "Bud" Meyer related, "Our programs are moving right along. We had 16,000 pounds of food delivered this month and we served over 800 families in the township. We have had to close our new programs, an oil painting class and '55 Alive' driving course, because they are filled to capacity."

Highway Commissioner Michael "O'Malley" Witt was the only elected official to present a report. "Well, listen, as long as the other guys gave up their time, can I use it?" he asked jokingly, to which the board gave a resounding "no." He continued to say, "I'm hoping that winter is over and that there will be no more snow. We're currently out patching potholes. We also hope that everyone was satisfied with the plowing job this year."

Nominating Entrepreneur Of The Year

Time is running out to nominate deserving entrepreneurs for honors in the prestigious 1993 'Entrepreneur of the Year' program. Nominations for the Illinois and Northwest Indiana program are due on Friday, April 9th to the Chicago office of professional services firm Ernst & Young, the founder of the program. Local honorees will be feted at the seventh annual awards banquet at the Fairmont Hotel in downtown Chicago on Friday, June 18th. The award recipients then become eligible for national recognition in the fall, including a cover story in the December 1993 issue of "Inc. Magazine," one of the national sponsors along with Merrill Lynch. Local sponsors are WBBM Newsradio 78 and Sprint.

There is no fee for nominations, and self-nominations are encouraged. Nominees must be owners or top managers, primarily responsible for the growth of a company or who have shown active support for entrepreneurship. Companies must have been operating for at least two years and if publicly-held, the founder must be an active member in top management.

Awards will be given to those who have demonstrated excellence and extraordinary success in such areas as innovation, financial performance and personal commitment to their businesses and communities. An elite panel of independent judges comprised of leaders from this area's business, academic and civic organizations will evaluate the nominations and select the award recipients. Individuals who have shown extensive support for entrepreneurial ventures are also eligible for an award.

For more information and nomination forms, call Ms. Laurie O'Connor at (312) 879-3519.

Bar Association Lawyer Phone Referral Service

In the wake of Zoe Baird's failed nomination for U.S. attorney general, Chicago and suburban parents are turning to lawyers for information about their in-home child care arrangements.

Like Baird, many parents who hire babysitters and other domestic workers may be violating Social Security tax or immigration statutes. But these two areas of the law are highly technical and often require interpretation by two different types of attorneys.

"If you're concerned about whether or not you need to pay Social Security taxes for your babysitter, you should talk to a lawyer who concentrates in state and federal tax law," said Jerald Kessler, a Chicago-area attorney and chairperson of The Chicago Bar Association lawyer referral service committee. "But if the problem has to do with green card status, you need an immigration attorney instead."

The lawyer referral service, which assists city and suburban residents in locating competent lawyers, works in the public interest by screening experienced attorneys who work in private practice.

"Some people find lawyers by talking to their friends or family members about attorneys they know," said Kessler. "But people who don't have that kind of network can use our service as an objective resource for obtaining the right legal help."

All referrals through The Chicago Bar Association Lawyer Referral Service are made by telephone. A $20 fee, paid at the time of the initial consultation with a lawyer, helps support the program. The attorney will discuss private fee arrangements during the first meeting.

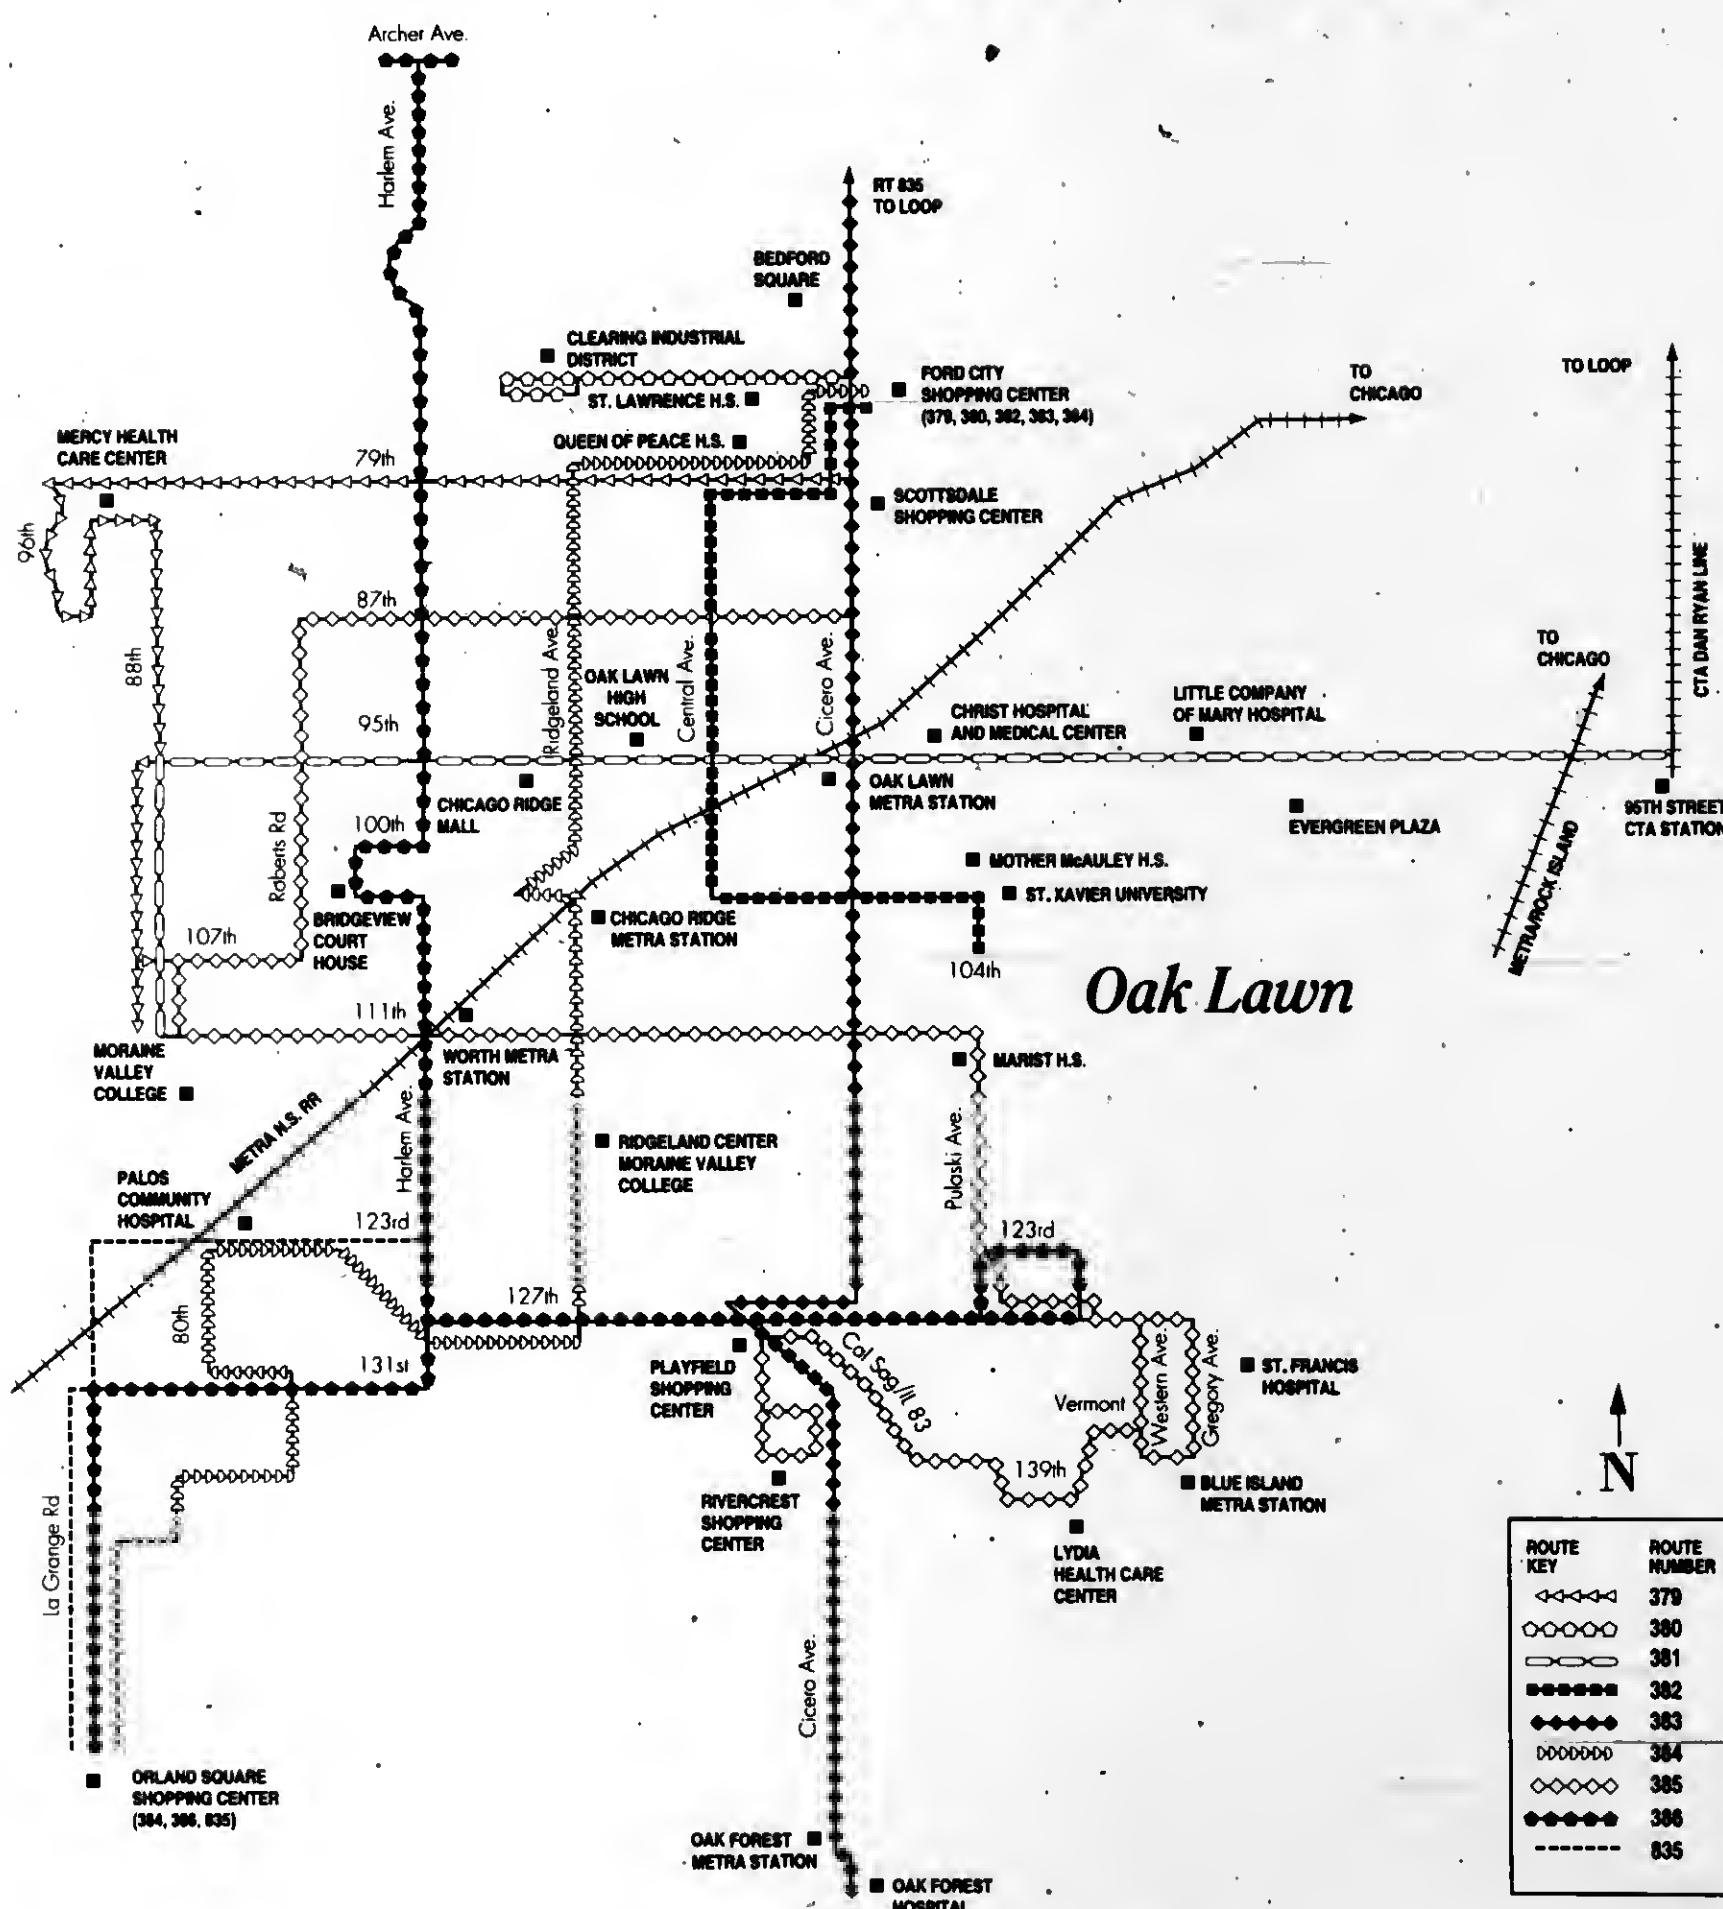

The service was created over 50 years ago and each year refers 25,000 people to over 450 attorneys throughout the city and suburbs.

Parents who think they may need referral to private tax or immigration attorneys should contact the lawyer referral service Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at (312) 554-2001.

Southwest YMCA Fundraising Campaign Underway

The Southwest YMCA launched an eight-week annual fundraising campaign to fund quality programs and meet the diverse needs of youth and families in south and southwest Cook County, on March 22nd, with a kick-off orientation for volunteer campaigners. Volunteer campaigners were given materials at the kick-off to assist them in making personal contacts.

The Southwest YMCA in Alsip joins other YMCA's in promoting good health, strong families, confident kids, solid communities and a better world. It provides quality programs to meet the diverse needs of youth and families in south and southwest Cook County. Programs include but are not limited to counseling, crisis intervention and prevention activities.

The Southwest Y blends the traditional and the non-traditional, providing programs such as Indian Guides and Princesses, Youth and Government, foster care and other outreach programs. Unlike many other YMCA's, the Southwest YMCA does not have a pool and gym facility, but it reaches out into the communities of six suburban townships -- from Burbank to Tinley Park and Blue Island to Palos Park -- as well as Beverly/Morgan Park and Mount Greenwood in Chicago; working in close contact with local police departments, schools and other organizations.

The Southwest YMCA's main facility is located in Alsip. Other facilities are located in Oak Lawn, Blue Island and Harvey. One of its strengths lies in its ability to network with neighborhood agencies and institutions to bring services to those parts of the community where the need is greatest.

Professional, caring staff work together to identify and then meet the individual needs of each youngster and his or her family. Young people are offered a chance to develop the skills and strength to deal with life's challenges. The agency strives to support and enrich every kind of family, and to help young people grow and develop as confident and caring individuals of tomorrow, realizing that America's future depends on the strength of its children, its families and its communities. A measure of its success will be the positive impact the Southwest Y will have on the development of our children.

"The Southwest Y has several programs related to teen alcohol, drug and gang problems, which many of our suburban residents think only affect teens in large cities such as Los Angeles, Boston, Chicago and New York. However, these problems exist in our communities as well, although most residents won't admit to it. It's time we admit to it and commit to doing something about it," commented Wayne Gray, chairman of the Southwest YMCA's Board of Directors, and volunteer chairperson of the annual campaign. "It's important that we have the financial support of local businesses, individuals and organizations in the communities we serve, in order to continue to provide these programs and services," he continued.

The Southwest YMCA is a branch of the YMCA of Metropolitan Chicago.

Persons interested in contributing to the campaign can contact Robyn Kramer or Kathleen Clark at the Southwest Y's administrative office, 3801 W. 127th St., Alsip, 60658, or call (708) 385-6700.

"JUST TAKE ALL THE THINGS THAT MAKE HEALTH CARE NETWORKS A GOOD IDEA AND ADD BLUE CROSS."

RAYMOND E. MCCASKEY, PRESIDENT AND CHIEF OPERATING OFFICER

Employers join networks to gain buying power — the economies of scale. To offer their people quality health care, good service, and the best rates, wherever they may be located.

HMO Illinois is a Blue Cross HMO with more doctors in more places than any other plan. The Blue Cross PPO brings the largest statewide network of hospitals and doctors closer to home. And we've recently put a full scale Point of Service network into place in six major midwest cities.

So, if you honestly believe a health care network is a good idea, doesn't it follow that one from Blue Cross is an even better idea?"

WE HAVE IT ALL.

Curbing 'Entitlements'

By Richard L. Leshner, President
U.S. Chamber of Commerce

"There is only one thing more painful than learning from experience," Dr. Laurence Peter said, "and that is not learning from experience."

When President Clinton called for "sacrifice" in his inaugural address, most observers assumed, based on experience, that he meant higher taxes. There immediately ensued a flurry of debate where the tax hikes would hit hardest, with most experts saying the gasoline tax was the most likely target. In other words, middle income workers who drive to work should be made to pay for Uncle Sam's continuing profligacy.

To be sure, Clinton did not mention tax increases and his top economic advisors insist spending cuts will be part of the mix as well. Since then, the President has proposed a package of tax increases and spending cuts, with an invitation to Congress to suggest even more spending reductions.

That sounds fine, but experience teaches that Congress regards such discussions as a political game to divert public attention from its addiction to promiscuous spending. In 1982, President Ronald Reagan signed off on the largest tax increase in history in exchange for Congress' promise of spending cuts to be named later. The tax increases sailed through easily and quickly. We are still waiting to see the spending reductions.

President Bush fell for the same scam, even though he had to eat his famous "read my lips" campaign no tax pledge. His purpose was to reduce the deficit. Today, the deficit is bigger than ever.

If Clinton makes the same mistake, it will be his undoing, and ours as well. It is the nature of Congress to spend money and not care about the consequences. Congress isn't one person concerned about the nation, it is 535 individual scrambling for a bigger share of the pie. Give Congress $200 billion more in revenues and it will hike spending by $300 billion, then demand still more revenues. Only the President can put the nation's welfare ahead of parochial interests, and impose any discipline on federal finances.

The problem isn't taxing. It is spending, beginning with 'entitlement' programs that expand automatically, growing like a cancer on our economy. Only after we face the truly major items in the budget, can we make a credible effort to deal with lesser challenges, such as pork barrel waste. Any deficit solution that does not address 'entitlements' is by definition a fraud.

On the other hand, the very power of the 'entitlement' lobby affords Clinton an excellent opportunity. Were Clinton to curb 'entitlements,' he would gain sufficient revenues and political momentum to sustain other parts of his agenda. It would be a risky road to travel, but is the only one that offers the prospect of success. Unless the 'entitlements' are dealt with, the deficit will continue to grow, and the economy will continue to stumble under its growing weight.

"Dial The Prez"

The Illinois Department of Rehabilitation Services (DORS) reminds residents who are deaf or hard of hearing that they can contact the White House via regular long-distance phone service rather than by a recently announced (900) number called "Dial the Prez." The (900) number was announced in a March 2nd news release issued by American Telephone & Telegraph

Task Force

Moving to assist more than 19,000 affected veterans of the Gulf War, State Representative Tom Dart (D-Chicago) and State Senator Tom Dunn (D-Joliet) have introduced legislation to create a Task Force to study Gulf War diseases.

"Just like all the men and women of the armed forces who have served their country, veterans of the Gulf War deserve the very best health care we can provide," Dart said. "When we were told the extent of the medical problems many Gulf vets are experiencing, we knew something had to be done."

Some of the medical problems encountered by returning veterans of the Gulf War include: extreme fatigue, extreme rashes, nausea, fever, and other symptoms. These problems can be further compounded by job and family related difficulties due to the medical conditions.

Dart continued, "We learned a painful lesson when Congress dragged its feet on diseases and conditions experienced by the Vietnam veterans exposed to Agent Orange. We, as a country, must learn from our mistakes and resolve not to re-live the past at the expense of the Gulf War vets. That is why I introduced HJR 15. With it, the legislature can act quickly to help the Department of Veteran's Affairs find solutions to these medical problems. The veterans of our nation deserve nothing less."

Bond Issue

Cook County Board President and Public Building Commission Board Member Richard Phelan expressed his support to the commission for issuing $180 million in bonds to repair 55 decaying public schools and build two new ones.

"The best insurance for a productive and happy tomorrow is education," Phelan said. "A healthy, safe school is essential to a good education and a bright future. These bonds will help alleviate overcrowding and halt decades of neglect by fixing water leaks and broken windows as well as providing for asbestos and lead abatement."

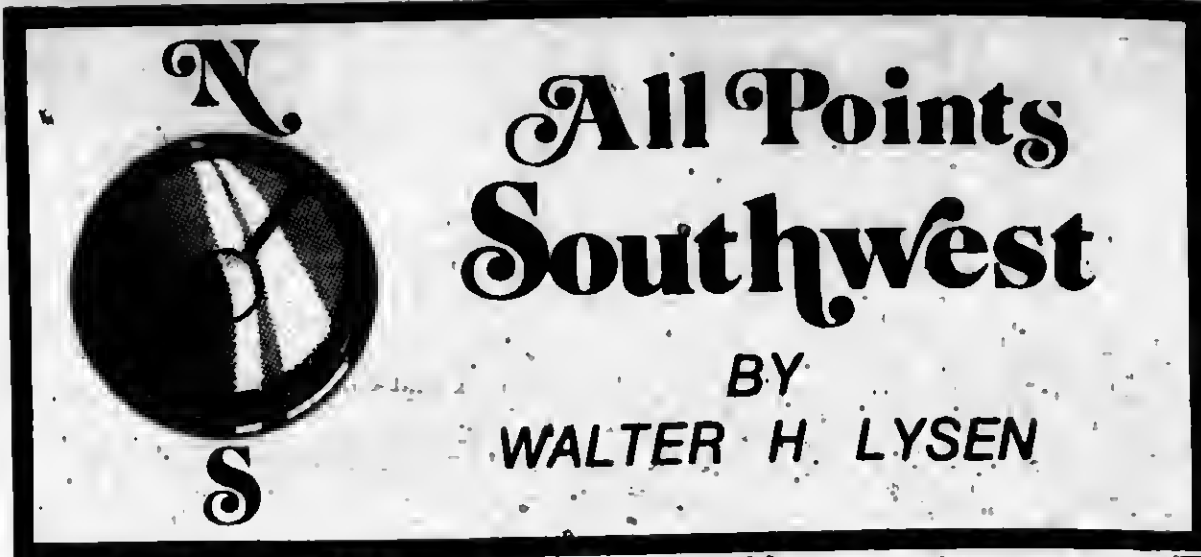

Call-A-Lawyer

Attorneys will provide free legal information during The Chicago Bar Association's Call-A-Lawyer program on Saturday, April 17th from 9 a.m. to 12 noon. Chicago-area residents who call (312) 554-2001 will speak to volunteer attorneys with experience in various areas of the law.

Call-A-Lawyer is designed to assist the public with answers to basic legal questions. Attorneys will be available to discuss domestic relations, Social Security, wills, contracts and more.

The program is staffed by attorneys from The Chicago Bar Association's Lawyer Referral Service, a public resource for obtaining competent, professional legal counsel. Lawyer Referral Service attorneys work in private practice but volunteer their services for Call-A-Lawyer.

Call-A-Lawyer is offered one Saturday morning of each month. Every year, over 1,200 city and suburban residents contact the program for legal information.

My wife Marge and I have always enjoyed vacationing in Florida in the month of March where we could play golf, swim in the Atlantic and take in a few spring training games. However, this March was different.

I didn't see a spring training game, was able to muster in only 16 holes of golf, and stayed out of the roughest Atlantic I have ever seen. Not only rough with water spouts but loaded with jelly fish, and an occasional shark.... which doesn't bode well for even walking along the beach.

The weather was downright awful. Rain, high winds, temperatures dipping as low as the 30's hammered us continually. All of this was topped by a March 13 storm which at 4:15 a.m. ripped through our Hutchinson Island motel, tearing off part of the roof on the north wing (fortunately we were located on the first floor) of the four-story building.

The Treasure Coast weather bureau didn't want to call it a tornado although guests in the hotel (including ourselves) who were from the middle-west know what a tornado sounds like. All of us were sitting in the darkened lobby at 4:30, exchanging stories and all of us agreed.... we heard the 'freight train' roaring down on us.... that's what a tornado sounds like in case you have never heard or been in one.

One woman from Saskatchewan, Canada, awakened her husband with, "I hear the 'freight train'.... I'm heading for the bathroom," where she said she stayed until it passed. She had been through many tornados on the wind swept Canadian wheat fields and sought cover immediately. She knew the sound....her husband joined her a few moments later, she added.

Cars were damaged, utility poles knocked down, electricity and telephones were out.

This was part of the 2,000 mile storm that left 30 miles of cars stranded in four to six feet of snow on Route 75 and Route 24 through Georgia, Tennessee and Kentucky.

Many travelers with children spent two days in their cars without food or water. Some were able to reach shelters in school gyms and churches.

We were lucky. Within a few hours emergency light and telephone systems were working. Rooms damaged were being repaired. The entire crew of the Inn is to be complimented for their response to such an emergency.

I didn't get to see a ball game, but did visit the Mets Bobby Bonilla who was staying at our complex. It's the closest I came to spring training!

Having survived the rigors of a Florida vacation I'll tune in on all the political activities in the southwest area in coming issues.

Evergreen Park's Good Government Party is hosting a smorgasbord at the EP American Legion Post No. 854 on Friday, April 16th. The 'all-you-can-eat' fest is scheduled from 5 p.m. until 8 p.m. at 9701 S. Kedzie Ave. The cost is $5.50 a person for the gourmand smorgasbord. See Mayor Vacco for tickets, or call him at 422-1551. "Everyone is welcome," said the Mayor.

State Representative Harold Murphy (D-30) will hold an open house at his district headquarters Saturday, April 3 from 1 to 5 p.m. The office is in the Canterbury Shopping Center, 159th & Kedzie Ave. Refreshments will be served.

Car Safety Seats Save Kids Lives

A majority of children seen riding in motor vehicles in the Chicago area were unrestrained, according to a recent study, even though Illinois laws mandate use of vehicle restraints, said a trauma surgeon at Loyola University Medical Center, Chicago. The study, conducted by the Chicagoland Safe Kids Coalition, noted that nearly 63 percent of child passengers observed were not secured by any safety devices, said Dr. Thomas Esposito. State laws require use of seatbelts and harnesses; children under the age of five must be buckled in safety seats.

Proper use of car safety seats and restraints would reduce the risk of death and serious injury among children in motor vehicle crashes by as much as 70 percent, said Esposito, assistant professor of surgery and assistant director for injury analysis and prevention programs at the Loyola University Shock Trauma Institute.

"Motor vehicle crashes kill more children than any other type of injury. The number of youngsters under the age of 9 who die annually in such collisions exceeds 1,100 while another 95,000 in this same age group are injured," he stated. "The costs in both human suffering and in health care dollars are enormous. Not only must the laws governing car restraints be enforced, but proper instruction in the use of child safety devices should be offered to parents."

During the month of February, the shock trauma institute maintained informational displays in high-profile pediatric and visitor areas throughout the Loyola University Medical Center campus, Maywood. Available were videotapes and printed materials that describe the effectiveness of motor vehicle occupant restraint devices, alert the public to the Illinois Child Passenger Protection Act and provide information on the proper use and cost of various models of car and booster seats.

The safe kids coalition was formed to address the problem of childhood injuries. In addition to Loyola, participants include coalition leader, Wyler Children's Hospital, Cook County Hospital, Children's Memorial Hospital, the Rehabilitation Institute of Chicago, and the Chicago Department of Health, among others.

More information on child passenger safety and childhood injuries is available by calling the shock trauma institute at (708) 216-8787 or the coalition, (312) 702-7032.

Auction

Thirty-six vehicles, two motorcycles, a refrigerated semi-trailer and a boat formerly owned by drug dealers will be among the 262 cars, trucks and vans to be auctioned off Saturday April 3 by the state of Illinois at the State Fairgrounds in Springfield, according to Central Management Services (CMS) Director Stephen B. Schnorf.

The state vehicles include agency and motor pool vehicles, State Police patrol cars, and pickup trucks, according to Schnorf.

The vehicles seized by the State Police from drug dealers include a 1987 Pontiac Firebird with a T-top, a 1986 Mercedes 190E, a 1989 Cadillac Fleetwood, a 1985 Dodge Ram Charger pickup, a 1986 Yugo, two 1989 and one 1987 Ford Taurus, a 1988 and a 1990 Nissan Sentra, and a 1976 and a 1985 Chevrolet conversion van.

Vehicles, which are located on the north end of the fairgrounds near gate 6, may be inspected from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Thursday and Friday and up to the time of sale on Saturday. To participate in the auction, bidders must register on the day of the sale. Registration begins at 6:30 a.m. The auction begins at 8 a.m. The vehicles will be sold "as is" to the highest bidders.

Merchant Marines

The Midwest Chapter of the American Merchant Marine WW II Veterans is holding its spring dinner-dance on Sunday, April 25th. The event is planned from 1 p.m. until 6 p.m. at Killarney Castle, 8055 W. 103rd St.

The Merchant Mariners were crew members of ships that transported vital supplies and armaments to U.S. Allies during WW II. The men were 'unsung heroes' whose dedication to duty has been, for the most part, neglected.

Last December, three area Merchant Marine veterans were honored for their contributions to the war effort 50 years ago. Ted Clark of Chicago Ridge, Bill Conlon of Chicago's Ashburn neighborhood, and Frank Staszewski of Blue Island were awarded medals of honor in a ceremony at the Russian Embassy in Washington, D.C.

The three were on the Murmansk Run during the years 1943 to 1945, although they did not serve on the same ship. The honor was bestowed on several hundred Merchant Mariners who sailed from New York to Scotland, where they joined convoys that continued to Murmansk or Archangel, a voyage of almost 5,200 miles through the frigid waters of the North Atlantic. Most ships made it to the Russian ports, despite the ever-present threat of German U-boats.

For tickets or for more information, call Frank at 389-2687 or Ted at 424-4833.

Lipinski Opposes Clinton Budget

Expressing concern over the impact it would have on senior citizens and middle class residents of his district, Congressman William Lipinski (D-3), voted against President Clinton's budget resolution in the House of Representatives. Lipinski was one of 12 House Democrats who voted against the resolution, which passed by a vote of 243-183. He noted that he based his decision on feedback he had received from his constituency during four recent town hall meetings and a budget survey which he had distributed at various spots throughout the district. According to Lipinski, there is strong opposition to the proposed energy tax, as well as increasing the tax on Social Security.

WILLIAM LIPINSKI

"I could not in good conscience vote for a plan which hits the middle class and the elderly so hard," Lipinski explained. "The people of my district were expecting tax relief and now they're being told that their burden will be increased. I cannot accept that. I also believe we need to address the issue of further program cuts more extensively. The president's resolution calls for $145 billion in new spending on what he calls 'worthwhile investments,' although I believe some of these programs may have merit, we simply can't afford them at a time when we are facing a $1.2 trillion debt."

"I believe the people of the 3rd District want deficit reduction. But they want a plan which will achieve long term fiscal responsibility, without putting a further financial burden on the middle class and senior citizens," Lipinski concluded. "I will continue to consult with my constituency during the next several months as the specifics of the Clinton plan come before the House of Representatives."

Army Incentives Will Be Increased

The United States Army has increased to $30,000 its maximum Army College Fund (ACF) enlistment incentive effective April 1st. The boost from the previous top amount of $25,200 to the new $30,000 figure was approved by Congress to restore the ACF's buying power from its original 1985 level. The incentive for a three-year enlistment has been increased from $22,800 to $25,000 and the two year enlistment incentive raises from $17,000 to $20,000.

"The new amounts are effective for applicants enlisting on or after April 1st," said Lieutenant Colonel Robert M. Riley, commander of the United States Army Recruiting Battalion, Chicago.

The $30,000 amount is a special incentive to attract high-quality recruits. It combines the Montgomery GI Bill ($13,200) with $1,200 from the soldier added to $15,600 provided by the new ACF amount. The two and three-year options have similarly increased.

Annual college costs have steadily risen since the inception of the ACF in 1985. A year of public college then cost nearly $5,000, while private colleges charged on average about $10,000. Current averages are $7,600 for public and $16,000 for private institutions annually.

At the same time, Riley said, some sources of tuition assistance have nearly dried up. The new ACF provides individuals another avenue by which to obtain guaranteed funding for college.

For further details, those interested should contact their nearest Army recruiter or call (708) 926-7477 or 2617.

Brother Rice students participate in the "English Jeopardy" finals during an all-school assembly. Every student in the school participated in the tournament which was played just like the popular television show except all the questions were on English subjects, ranging from literature to parts of speech. A representative from each class year was determined through a series of games. Last year's champion also participated. Sponsored by the Brother Rice English Department, the tournament is now in its fourth year. Pictured are "English Jeopardy" champion, senior Phil Zack of Evergreen Park, freshman Ed Sedlacek of Oak Lawn, last year's champion, senior Brian Dumals of Beverly, junior Mario Pasamba of Oak Lawn, and sophomore Brendan Kelliher of Burbank.

Complete TESA

Recently 25 teachers from Community High School District 218 completed the district's TESA (Teacher Expectations and Student Achievement) program, an award-winning staff development endeavor started by the Los Angeles Unified School District in the early 1970s. This is the fifth year District 218 has offered TESA to its teachers.

Over the last five years, nearly 100 teachers from District 218 have completed the TESA program. Participation is voluntary.

TESA teaches how to avoid or overcome barriers to learning. Through five workshops, teachers learn 15 specific techniques that help students fulfill their potential. Each workshop focuses on three techniques. In between, teachers use the techniques as they interact with their students. In general, the techniques are used to inspire greater classroom participation.

Techniques include equitable distribution of class participation, individual help, latency (reaching undeveloped potential), delving, asking higher-level questions, affirming/correcting, praising and listing reasons for praise. Also covered are listening, accepting feelings, proximity to students, courtesy, personal interest and compliments, touching and desisting.

Studies indicate that the techniques significantly reduce absenteeism, increase student achievement and reduce discipline referrals.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Editor:

If someone knocks on your door asking for a donation to fight cancer, please check their name tag and credentials before assuming they're with the American Cancer Society and opening your wallet.

There are many look-alike cancer organizations who capitalize on the name 'cancer' and the generous hearts in this community, then skim off most of the money they raise for high administration and fundraising costs, with very little going to cancer research and programs.

The American Cancer Society's annual door-to-door education and fundraising crusade takes place in April. More than three-quarters of the money our volunteer crusaders raise goes directly to fund cancer research and programming. Meanwhile, our 80,000 Illinois volunteers distribute lifesaving information about cancer prevention and early detection.

However, there is currently an organization, Cancer Fund of America, whose fundraising and volunteer recruitment methods bear a deliberate resemblance to those of the American Cancer Society.

We at the American Cancer Society are proud of our reputation for excellence in service and fundraising alike, and we remind the public that we are not affiliated with this or any other charity that raises money for cancer.

For more information, please call the American Cancer Society toll-free at 1(800)ACS-2345 or contact the Better Business Bureau at 1(312)444-1188.

He also starred at Italian Fest, Martinique, the Sabre Room, and his biggest thrill was when he served as master of ceremonies for the re-election of President Ronald Reagan with 14,000 people attending. Before Salvo entertains, a family-style lunch consisting of cream of broccoli soup, tossed salad, mashed potatoes, glazed carrots, rolls, baked ham and roast chicken is to be served. The Gaelic Park Supreme will be the dessert. There will also be a surprise for those attending. Cost of the trip is $29 which includes the luncheon, show and transportation. Buses depart from Long John Silver's lot at 87th & Cicero promptly at 11:30 a.m. and return at approximately 5 p.m.

The Y Service League of the Southwest YMCA is planning a two-night trip for Nov. 30th to Dec. 2nd and for those who enjoy trips, now is the time to mark your calendar and save your nickels and dimes. Lee; a tour of the Lady of the Snows Shrine; The Way of the Lights; and shopping at Union Station. Lost a couple of our long-time residents this past week, Joseph W. Haas, Jr. who died on March 24th. He is survived by his wife, Lyda, nieces and nephews. He was a member of St. Gerald Holy Name Society, past commander of Green Oaks Post 757, American Legion; a member of Johnson-Phelps VFW Post 5220, and was the art director for Associated Design Service and calligraphy teacher at Moraine Valley Community College. Services were held on Friday at St. Gerald Church. He will be missed.

Helen Hultgen, with her late husband, Frank, operated Hultgen Florist at 4835 W. 95th St. in Oak Lawn for more than 20 years. She sold the business last year due to failing health and moved in with her daughter Judy. She was a resident in a convalescent home where she died following a number of strokes, on March 18th. Those who would like to send a sympathy card may send it to Judy Maass, RR 3, Box 199-A, Winterset, Iowa 50273. She was a member of the Johnson-Phelps VFW Ladies Auxiliary and she will be missed.

Congratulations to Robert and Cheryl Thomas who celebrated their 20th wedding anniversary on March 24th. May you have many more.

Twelve members of the Oak Lawn Park District Wrestling Wildcats team were named for the state championship sections, but only four qualified for the trip to the Illinois State University in Bloomington. 62 lb. Frank McNaughton, 130 lb. Gary Sherwood and heavyweight Jason Surratt all won 1st place. Dan Prorok took second place and alternate at 138 lbs., Don Kolkebeck, 4th. Congratulations!

Tony Opila, a senior at Richards High School, competed on Friday, March 19th at Moraine Valley in the Illinois Drafting Association and won 1st place. He received a plaque and certificate and will be competing in another contest. His proud parents are Rich and Sue Opila.

The Park Lawn Association will host a sports card show on Sunday, May 2nd from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. at the school, 10833 S. LaPorte Ave. The public is invited to attend and booths are available for $30. To reserve a space or for more information, call 426-6867.

The Oak Lawn-Hometown School District has placed on the referendum ballot for Tuesday, April 20th a proposition for a 94-cent increase in the education tax rate. All of the funds need more money but it is the education fund that really needs the increase. We have paid $1.55 for more than 15 years which is not enough revenue to offset the spending necessary to fund the quality programs we expect. There has been a 28 percent increase in enrollment since 1985. I know a lot of seniors are going to say they can't afford it, but perhaps they have forgotten we received our education in public schools, for the most part, and it was property owners who helped pay for us. Now it is our turn to help with our children. Vote yes!

WOW Van At St. Germaine

The Cook County Department of Public Health (CCDPH) mobile adult health clinic, the Wellness on Wheels (WOW) van, is coming to St. Germaine Parish, 4240 W. 98th St., on Wednesday, April 14th from 8 to 11:30 a.m. Among the services provided by the WOW van are high school and employment physicals for those who qualify financially.

"Furnished with state-of-the-art equipment, the WOW van offers convenient access to health care services for suburban residents who might otherwise have difficulty obtaining them," according to Richard J. Phelan, president of the Cook County Board of Commissioners. Services offered include health counseling, tests for anemia and diabetes, blood pressure and cholesterol screening, dental screening, tuberculosis (TB) testing, immunizations, urinalysis, self-breast exam instruction, pelvic exams and pap smears for women, and prostate and testicular exams for men. If a health problem is found during an exam, the client is referred to available services for treatment. Some of these services are provided by CCDPH programs such as the dental or sexually transmitted disease (STD) clinics. When necessary, clients will also be referred to other affordable health care services in their area.

If your children receive free school lunches or you qualify for the Women, Infants and Children (WIC) program, then you are among those who qualify for free adult health checkups. If you wish to use WOW services, you must call ahead for an appointment. CCDPH personnel will help you determine if you qualify for this service when you call. Call (708) 445-2530 from 8:45 a.m. to 4:15 p.m. Monday through Friday for more information. Persons needing accommodation for a disability should contact: voice (708) 445-2530 or TDD (708) 445-2406.

Lease Agreement

The Community High School District 218 Board of Education has agreed to lease a parcel of land to the Oak Lawn Park District for wetlands purposes. The park district will lease the 1.065-acre parcel of land for a period of five years at a cost of $1 per year. Located on the grounds of Richards High School, 10601 S. Central Ave., the land "will permit us to meet the Army Corps of Engineers requirements for the wetlands area," according to park district director Ernest Nance.

Over the course of the lease agreement, the district will be responsible for the maintenance and security of the property, while allowing Richards classes to use the wetlands area for educational purposes.

"It will also provide access to the Wolf Wildlife Park portion of the Centennial Bike Path which runs from Central to Cicero," said Nance. The park is located along the northeast border of the Richards High School property.

Other stipulations of the lease agreement include that the park district will pay for all development, improvements and maintenance; that the park district will advise District 218 of all improvements to the property; that the park district will ensure that drainage in the area is not altered in any way that will increase runoff onto the adjacent school property; and that Richards students will be permitted to use the park district's boardwalks located in the park.

Egg Hunt

The Easter bunny will come hopping to Americana-Monticello, 6300 W. 95th St., for the annual Easter egg hunt on Saturday, April 3rd from 10:30 a.m. to 12 noon. Children from the ages of 1-7 will hunt the grounds to locate over 600 candy-filled eggs. Prizes go to the happy hunters who locate the lucky eggs.

The Easter bunny will then be available to pose for pictures with the children for $2 a photo.

Four deserving firefighters from the area were presented with community service awards from the Johnson-Phelps VFW Post and its Ladies Auxiliary on March 23rd. These four men were the ones who rescued three members of a young family from an apartment building at 7825 W. 89th St., Hickory Hills. Roberts Park volunteer firefighters Joe Mazzone and Clinton Sanders, together with Lt. Tom Shervino of the Oak Lawn Fire Department, found the pregnant mother and her two year old daughter lying unconscious on the floor. Mazzone and Shervino quickly carried the severely burned mother to safety, preceded by Sanders who rescued the child. In the meantime, Lt. Chuck Ehrenhaft, OLF, was groping through the same smoke-filled room when he found the seven month old child lying on the floor, covered with debris, whom he mistook for a doll until he saw an arm move. They were rushed to area hospitals, but sadly the two children died on the 3rd day and the mother on the fourth day. Chief Jack Wessellhoff, Oak Lawn, and Chief Joseph Fijalkowski of Roberts Park Fire Protection District are extremely proud of their firefighters. Robert Prinder is post commander and Regina Finnegan is president of the ladies auxiliary.

The POW-MIA awareness night sponsored by the 3rd District VFW and Ladies Auxiliary had a very nice turnout and the candlelighting ceremony was very impressive. The speakers were most informative: Patrick Rea, Brig. General U.S. Army; Carol Ann O'Donnell, Col. USAR, Persian Gulf veteran; Rich Wilusz, Jim Balcer, veterans' liaison for the City of Chicago; and Richard Kutz, VFW POW/MIA coordinator.

Twenty-eight newly enrolled persons into the Johnson-Phelps VFW Post were sworn in as members and seven women were sworn in for the Ladies Auxiliary.

Letter To The Editor

Editor:

I am writing this letter to comment on the political propaganda recently distributed in Oak Lawn about Robert J. Streit's life. However, it was not very truthful. I am a sheet metal worker and belong to the Sheet Metal Worker's International Association Local Union No. 73. I can prove my membership, can Bob Streit? My membership/identification number is 364552. This is something Robert Streit can't do! Yes, he did serve his apprenticeship from 1978 to 1982 completing four years at Washburn Trade School. Then he goes on to say he is a union journeyman sheet metal worker on the back page. I have trouble with this statement because he is not a union member. He was EXPELLED BY THE UNION. He took OUR four-year apprentice program at a great cost to OUR UNION and then turned his back on his union brothers and went non-union. His roofing company that he opened in 1983 is also a non-union company. His pretense to be a great union man is a blatant LIE! We union people have a name for people who cross union lines to take jobs away from union workers and especially those who turn their backs on their Union Brothers. We call them SCABS! In the dictionary, the definition of SCAB is a low or contemptible person.

Stock Car Open House At Santa Fe

On Sunday, April 18, 500 plus drivers, owners, pit crew, family and aficionados alike will shake off the winter doldrums and renew old ties at Santa Fe Speedway's Annual Stock Car Open House and Driver Pit Registration. Registration begins at 1:30 p.m. with practice slated from 3 to 5 p.m.

This year marks Santa Fe Speedway's 41st Anniversary as Mid-America's Center of Racing and seventh season as part of the NASCAR/Winston Racing Series - Mid-America region, one of eight geographic regions across the United States competing for the NASCAR/Winston Racing Series National Championship. In 1993, Winston cigarettes will pay a total point fund in excess of $400,000.

This year, each regional point fund will be $25,000. Points will be tabulated from April 16 through September 12 at Winston Racing Series tracks across the country. One NASCAR/Winston Racing Series National Champion will be determined from the eight regional champions. A new formula index will be used to select the National Champion from the Regional Champions. An additional bonus of $15,000 will be awarded to the Winston Racing Series National Champion.

Leading the pack of Santa Fe hot shoes in '93 gunning for the elusive National Championship is defending Late Model Champion, Frank Reaber of Bensenville.

Making the jump all the way from Santa Fe Speedway's S.T.A.R. (Short Track American Racer) division is Rob Vrstil of Burbank.

In 1992, it was 25-year veteran, Joe Rossio, Sr., of Romeoville, who ran away from the field, out-distancing a host of perennial Sportsman standouts.

In the Lightning Rod division, a host of hard-chargers will be out of unseat defending champion Elmer Fandrey of Lemont. Likely challengers include front-running father-son combo, Paul and Jesse Gaylord from Chicago and Woodridge's Dan Curatolo.

Villa Park speedster, Don Darrow, lit up the S.T.A.R. division in 1992 but looks to have his hands full in '93.

Santa Fe Speedway is located on the corner of 91st and Wolf Road. Santa Fe Speedway 24-hour hotline is (708) 839-1050.

Brother Rice High School varsity volleyball players (left) go up to block a shot by Mt. Carmel during the opening match of the 1993 season at Brother Rice. The match was the first ever for both Chicago Catholic League schools. A capacity crowd watched as Mt. Carmel took the first game 15-10 only to see Rice storm back to shut them down 15-0 in the second game. Brother Rice took the lead early in the decisive game before falling 15-10 in what promises to be the start of a long volleyball rivalry for these two traditional athletic powerhouses. The two teams will meet again at Mt. Carmel on April 22.

MICHIGAN FREE CAMPING WEEKEND - The Department of Natural Resources will waive all camping fees, reservation fees and the Michigan State Park Motor Vehicle permit fee for campers who stay at one of 11 designated state parks on Free Camping Weekend, May 21-22.

"This is the second year we have offered a free camping weekend for state parks campers," DNR Director Roland Harnes said. "It gives them a chance to discover parks they haven't visited before, and it's an opportunity for first-time campers to try out this kind of outdoor recreation at no cost."

Interested campers are encouraged to make their reservations early to stay at one of the participating state parks on free camping weekend. Campers who take advantage of the weekend offer and who complete a short questionnaire for the DNR parks division during their stay will receive a $2 coupon to apply toward a future camping stay in any of the 11 participating parks. They may also reserve additional nights with no reservation charge (but camping fees would be required) if the time period includes May 21-22.

SPRING PLANTING TIME FOR DEER HUNTERS - Deer hunters may be putting away their bows and guns and hanging up their camouflage, but the hunting season is definitely not over, according to the Whitetail Institute of North America. As a matter of fact, spring is a prime time for action.

"As many serious hunters already know, there is no better time to prepare for successful hunting than right now," according to Whitetail president Ray Scott. "As a matter of fact, spring and summer are just as important -- if not more important -- than the fall."

"It really makes sense. Year-round nutrition is critical to deer just as it is to human beings. And just as for children and mothers, it is especially critical for pregnant does and fawns."

The Institute was responsible five years ago for the development of Imperial Whitetail Clover. This remarkable planting was developed by the Institute along with Dr. Wiley Johnson, an award-winning agronomy professor at Auburn University, Auburn, Alabama for over 30 years.

Shepard 5 - Hillcrest 2

The Astros welcomed in the first warm day of the year with a 5-2 win over Hillcrest's Hawks in a non-conference matchup in Country Club Hills.

Shepard's eight-hit attack was sparked by Mike Melichar who went 2-for-3 at the plate.

Brother Rice 8 - Evergreen Park 8

The Crusaders and Mustangs battled it out to a 8-8 tie before the game was called by the umpire due to darkness after six innings.

Rice put four hurlers on the mound in this early-season contest. Mike Schramm went 1 and 2/3 innings until he developed a blister on his finger and left the game. Next in was Tim Harrigan who lasted 2 and 1/3 innings, followed by 1/3 of an inning for Dave Barnes and Jim Fitzmaurice came in for the remaining innings.

The Crusaders drew blood in the first with a double off the bat of Mike Schramm that drove in a pair of runs. Other hitters who drove runs home included Jim Ficaro and his double over the Mustang center fielder's head and a triple by Mike Stritch.

Rice had a chance to win it in the eighth on a suicide squeeze play but Terry Casey popped up to the Mustang pitcher instead of laying down a bunt.

For the Mustangs, they scored five runs in the first, a pair in the fourth and one in the fifth on a total of seven hits.

Hall Of Famer

John George, known to almost everyone as "Coach" George, wrestled for four years at the University of Pittsburgh and was the first Pitt wrestler to earn three varsity letters.

At Evergreen Park High, he was wrestling coach for 20 years and during that span, his dual meet teams won 225 matches and lost just 72. The teams won four conference championships and he had 11 state qualifiers, two of whom won titles.

He and his brothers Pete and Elias are members of the Illinois High School Association (IHSA) Hall of Fame. In addition to his duties as AD, John is a dean of the school. He served as a village trustee for two terms.

On May 21st, John, along with his brothers Pete and Anthony, will be inducted into the Pennsylvania Sports Hall of Fame.

Anthony, a

Pennsylvania state wrestling champion, will receive his honor posthumously.

He was killed in action in 1945 when serving as a U.S. Marine. Elias, who was elected to the Pennsylvania Sports Hall of Fame in 1991, is currently the head wrestling coach at Evanston High School.

Pete, who was an outstanding wrestling coach, is regarded as one of the top wrestling officials in the country.

JOHN GEORGE

The Business and Professional Women's (BPW) Club of Evergreen Park recently hosted a special program, featuring speeches by the participants of the individual development course (IDC). This activity, offered at the district level, is designed to improve public speaking skills, while educating members in the history and traditions of the organization. Participating students were judged on the content, presentation and delivery of a prepared script, focusing on the topic of empowerment - professionally, politically and personally. Each individual also delivered an impromptu speech on a separate subject.

Evergreen Park local organization president Laura Shallow (third from right) welcomed state officer Patricia McNicholas (left), IDC instructor, and the panel of judges, Robert Kuenster (third from left), owner of Thompson-Kuenster Funeral Home, Sheila McNicholas (second from right), professor at University of Illinois-Chicago and past state president Chris LaFrance (right). Contestants included Oak Lawn members Georgine Deacon (second from left), Sonja Wiley (fourth from left) and winner Lucille Crocilla (fourth from right).

The next meeting of the Evergreen Park BPW Club is scheduled for Tuesday, April 6th. Refreshments at 6:30 p.m., will be followed by dinner at 7 p.m., at the Rosewood West Restaurant. Reservations, at a cost of $11 each, can be made by contacting Frances Loving, at (708) 425-9600.

Travel Stipend

Girl Scout "Second City" Event

The activities planned for an upcoming gathering of Girl Scout volunteers and other adult friends of the South Cook County Council on Thursday, April 29th will be a little different from the usual Girl Scout event. There will be no crafts, no group singing, and no cooking fires for the grownups gathered at the council's friendship center in Country Club Hills. However, there will be a $50 per person catered dinner to support the council's operations and services, and there will be fun of a very special kind during "An Evening with the Second City," featuring the Chicago comedy group's touring company.

First stop for the guests will be buffet tables in one of the friendship center's troop suites and the conference room. The tables will hold food with an international flavor, highlighting Mexican, Italian, Chinese and American specialties. Guests will be able to mix and match food choices, then move into the decorated assembly hall for comfortable eating.

A necessary element of a successful evening, after good food and good friends, is good fun. That will be the focus of the show by the Second City National Touring Company, famous for great improvisational skills and for the outstanding people who are graduates of its demanding but creative performance methods. Alan Alda, Elaine May, Mike Nichols, Alan Arkin, Jim Belushi, Gilda Radner, Bill Murray, Martin Short, Linda Lavin, Dana Carvey, George Wendt and Betty Thomas are a few of the many creative individuals whose entertainment careers started with their involvement with Second City.

This friendship center food and fun event has the serious purpose of raising funds for the council, which annually serves more than 12,000 south suburban girls from 5 to 17 years of age.

Most Girl Scouting happens in weekly troop meetings, but there are other options as well, such as "Girl Scouting in the School Day" in some areas, the "Summer Wonders" day camps, operation of Camp Palos troop camp, year-round theme weekends and other special programming at the friendship center, older-girl events for junior high and high school girls, and events open to families.

"Contemporary Issues" programs cover areas such as prevention of child abuse and substance abuse, development of self-esteem and individual potential, environmental awareness, literacy and other topics of concern. This type of programming frequently requires a deeper financial commitment from the council because of the use of professional consultants, specialized support materials, and additional training opportunities to prepare adults to work sensitively and effectively with the girls.

To support these efforts, and the 2,500 adult volunteers who work directly with Girl Scouts, there is ongoing training, help with recruitment, organization and development of local activities, various printed materials, a library and audio-visual resources, and many other kinds of executive and business staff assistance.

It costs about $120 annually to provide programs and services for each girl in the South Cook County Council. Council-sponsored activities are underwritten to keep fees reasonable for all the girls, and program grants are offered to provide financial assistance so the cost of activities doesn't prevent girls from being part of Girl Scouting. Girl Scout council income has traditionally come primarily from product sales, United Way allocations and the fund drive. However, income sources fluctuate and new resources such as this special event are developed periodically to keep programs and services viable while generating more widespread public support.

The deadline for reservations for "An Evening with the Second City" is Monday, April 19th. A drawing is also being held, and winning names will be drawn at the event. For more information, call the South Cook County Girl Scout Council at (708) 957-8100.

Ireland Satire

"When Irish Eyes Are Scathing," a performance of contemporary and historic satirical songs presented by Irish traditional flute-player and songwriter Fintan Vallely, will take place at Gaelic Park, 6119 W. 147th St., on Saturday, April 3rd at 8 p.m. Vallely's performance is the first offering in the spring 1993 Irish perception lecture and performance series of The Irish American Cultural Institute. Admission is free.

Vallely, a native of Armagh, living in Dublin, is well known in Ireland as a songwriter and traditional musician on the flute and tin whistle. A veteran performer, Vallely has recorded two albums, "Knock, Knock, Knock," a collection of satirical songs with Tim Lyons; and "The Starry Lane to Monaghan," a solo album of flute music. He has conducted extensive research into the cultural contexts of folk music and its transmission, and was a participant in the 1991 symposium "Traditional Music -- Whose Music?" sponsored by Cooperation North. Recently he has been involved in musical exchange programs between Ireland and Bulgaria.

The Irish perceptions presents lecturers and performers to as many as 30 cities throughout the United States and Canada. The 22 year old series is sponsored by the non-profit Irish American Cultural Institute, and receives major support from Aer Lingus, the Irish national airline.

For further information, contact Gaelic Park at (708) 687-9323.

Craft Show

Park Lawn, 10833 S. LaPorte, will hold an arts and crafts show as part of their "Rally for Park Lawn" fundraising week. The arts and crafts show will be held on Saturday, May 1st from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Sunday, May 2nd from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Booths are 11' by 11' and are available for $25 for both days.

Old Mexico

Transforming an old appliance store into an authentic Mexican Restaurant is no easy task. But that's what Mike Grant and Jerry Janik did.

The new LaFiesta Restaurant at 3333 W. 111th St. is an open airy, two level restaurant with a fresh southwestern decor. The bright greenery and flowers pale only to the authentic Mexican food they offer at this establishment, all served on white table cloths.

LaFiesta offers a variety of appetizers, tortas (sandwiches), huevas (eggs), tacos, burritos, enchiladas, house specialties and the chef's favorites like grilled chicken and steak, and chiles rellenos. The desert menu includes flan and fried ice cream.

Even waiting for a table can be a south of the border experience when you enjoy a Corona, a frozen margarita or a coca-cola. The margaritas, by the way, come in several flavors including strawberry and raspberry.

Reservations for lunch and dinner are taken only during the week and this 130 seat restaurant bustles. Plan to spend a little extra time on the weekends - your entire experience will be worth it.

Fair Photographs

The Art Institute of Chicago will mark the centennial of the World's Columbian Exposition with an exhibition of photographs by the exposition's official photographer, Charles Dudley Arnold (1844-1927). "Constructing the Fair: Platinum Photographs by C.D. Arnold of the World's Columbian Exposition" will be on view from May 1st through July 4th in the Art Institute's photography galleries. The photographs, which document the daily work of construction on the fairgrounds from early 1891 through the opening on May 1st, 1893, as well as the six-month run of the fair, are large-format platinum prints of striking beauty, remarkable documents of the extraordinary structures that became Chicago's ephemeral "white city."

The beautiful musical score with Ken Kazin directing the orchestra, interspersed by dance numbers choreographed by Melanie Herman, promises an enchanting evening for all ages.

Pilgrim Faith Church, under the musical direction of Julie Bunt, has announced the performance of Robert Vanderschaaf, concert pianist, on Sunday, April 4th, at 3:30 p.m. Vanderschaaf is presently teaching at Chicago Musical College/Roosevelt University. He performs frequently in Chicago and the midwest in solo recital, as an accompanist, and in duo with Shirley Sterling (also pictured). "Clavier" has noted him as "accomplished and enjoyable," and music critic John VonRhein has written: "Vanderschaaf's performing talents...extend well beyond the technical command and a ready grasp of pianistic resource, gifted as he is in those areas. Where I believe he stands apart from so many pianists is his deep musical understanding and his appreciation of the piano as an instrument of communication. His playing speaks to audiences and in a manner recognizably his own. He is an artist indeed." The concert includes works by Wagner, Liszt, Moszkowski and Chopin.

Pilgrim Faith is at 9411 S. 51st Ave., phone (708) 422-4200.

POLICE CALLS

The following incidents were listed in the official reports of the Oak Lawn Police Department. Readers are reminded that an arrest by police does not constitute a finding of guilt and only a court of law can make that determination.

On March 21st, a resident reported someone had removed a Revel NR-7 hockey glove from her unattended gym bag which had been left by the door at the ice rink at 9400 S. Kenton Ave. Will cost $168 to replace.

Theresa Danlow of Orland Park reported someone had smashed the rear window of her Honda to gain entry and stole an Avanti portable phone valued at $410.

Ted Malmberg and Alicia Ponceláon, employees at Pier 1 Imports at 4710 W. 95th St., reported two black women came into the store and one decided to purchase a Papason rattan wicker chair valued at $129.99. The pair loaded the chair into their car, then pretended to shop for other merchandise, walked out of the front door, got into the car without paying for the chair and left.

While on patrol in the parking lot at 87th & Cicero, an officer saw a woman run from the front door of Service Merchandise at 8812 S. Cicero carrying a white bag. The offender entered a gray Buick with plates 1L VR3738 and left the parking lot at a high rate of speed. The officer initiated a traffic stop at 8713 S. Cicero and asked permission to search the bag. He discovered four boxes with various kitchen utensils with Service Merchandise tags on the boxes. The officer asked for a sales receipt and Freda Kennedy of Chicago could not produce one. A check with the clerk, who made a quick inventory, found four boxes missing from a display. Dalliane E. Davis of Chicago, the driver, was found to be on a warrant and Kennedy was charged with retail theft and possession of stolen property.

On March 22nd, Rutledge Buick at 6750 W. 95th St. reported a 1993 Buick Roadmaster valued at $27,700 was taken from the lot.

Frank LaRocca of Oak Lawn, an employee of the Jewel Store, told police he was disposing of some garbage at the rear of the store when he saw a black male putting stolen pallets into his vehicle. LaRocca said he could positively identify Dwayne Phelps because he had signed theft complaints against him approximately 10 days ago. Phelps took off with seven pellets valued at $35.

On March 23rd, Donald Williams of Chicago was arrested and charged with criminal trespass to real property after he had been called to Christ Hospital, 4400 W. 95th St., and they reported he had been seen on the 8th floor when he was barred from entering the hospital following an earlier incident. Williams said he had come to visit a sick friend.

At 7:45 p.m., police responded to a call at Walgreen's, 9503 S. Cicero, and spoke to the manager who told him a male black had removed a large number of boxes of Excedrin PM from a shelf, put them in his jacket and left without paying. Another clerk pointed out a female black who was walking toward a red Chevrolet and she was with the man who took the merchandise and was inside the Chevrolet. Police ran a check on the license and found the car was reported stolen in Chicago on March 1st. The police then went to the car and ordered the two men to get out and while the men were exiting, the officer saw a large quantity of boxes of Excedrin PM on the seat and floor. Bernard A. Middleton, 22, of 5323 Federal was identified as the person who had taken the Excedrin and Sean Savage, 30, of 2600 E. 87th St., both of Chicago, was charged with possession of a stolen motor vehicle. Middleton was charged with felony retail theft and criminal trespass to a vehicle. The Excedrin was valued at $216.03. The woman was released without charges.

Peter Popek of Kolin Ave. reported that at approximately 8:30 a.m. he heard the window break and when he went outside saw three male juveniles running south on Kolin and east on 98th St. A small rock had been thrown through the 20 in. x 60 in. thermopane window. The police called Hannum School and at approximately noon the school secretary phoned and gave him the names of three brothers who allegedly had thrown the rock. The window will cost approximately $200 to replace.

On the 25th at 8:53 a.m., a resident reported that while his car was parked in the driveway, someone removed the AM/FM stereo cassette radio, four speakers and the dashboard plate, two taillight covers, and the offender also damaged the two front light covers and the passenger side window. A neighbor called police at 12:26 and reported he had found the speakers in the easement of his property and returned them.

Learn the Truth About Oak Lawn Water Rates!

DATING BACK TO the 1950s, Oak Lawn has been a pioneer in the delivery of Lake Michigan water to surrounding communities. This process has enabled Oak Lawn residents to enjoy the lowest retail water rate of any southwest suburban community that the village services.

Contrary to what the United Village Reform Party (UVRP) would like you to believe, Oak Lawn does not, and will not, subsidize the water bills of any other suburb. The process of paying for water service is a very complicated procedure and cannot be reduced to a two-page flyer.

Oak Lawn has long-term contracts with all of its water customers. Long-term commitments are essential to justify the cost of building new water lines. All contracts have built-in provisions to raise rates when costs rise. In fact, Oak Lawn's contract with Orland Park was already adjusted twice since its inception.

UVRP claims that Oak Lawn is undercharging other villages for water by $1 million. Where did this figure come from? Apparently they pulled it out of thin air and then proceeded to propose a $1 million tax rebate. What a coincidence! Now, UVRP hopes to plug their million dollar budget hole by arbitrarily charging other villages additional money for the use of water. Though they have not even begun to negotiate the water rates with the village's customers, UVRP has already spent the money. This is the same as meeting the village payroll with a cash advance on a credit card.

Good government doesn't spend money until it is available. Pick up the phone and call your friends in other suburbs and find out how much they pay for 1,000 gallons of water. Then take Bob Streit and his parties' propaganda with a grain of salt.

Kolb's Proud Record

The Village of Oak Lawn received some five million dollars under Mayor Ernie Kolb's tenure from the State and Federal Government for Economic Development, road construction, flood control improvements and capital development projects.

"This Village has prospered significantly under him [Kolb]," said former Village Manager Richard O'Neill. "The amount of money that Kolb has funneled back to the community for goods and services is phenomenal," he added.

One multimillion dollar project received under Kolb allowed for our entire roadway improvement from 95th St. and Southwest Highway to Kilbourn Ave. at a cost of only $100,000. The project, financed on the heels of the state's motor fuel tax, involved new traffic signals and lights, as well as improved drainage, curbs and gutters.

Central Ave., between 98th and 105th streets in Oak Lawn, was reconstructed and at NO COST TO TAXPAYERS. When the construction work is completed, the County rather than the Village, will assume responsibility for maintaining the streets. Additionally, the Village witnesses the construction of a new firehouse, street garage and brand new commuter lot and train station.

"Without all of these projects initiated by Kolb, Oak Lawn would not have grown as an established community economically in the southwest suburbs," said O'Neill. "And this," he continued, "must be continued in the future."

TIF Funds To Municipalities

Gov. Jim Edgar has announced $8.7 million in state funds is going to local governments participating in the Tax Increment Financing (TIF) program.

"The current funding arrangement, reflecting an agreement between local government officials and myself, should end the uncertainty over this source of funding for local governments," the governor said.

Since fiscal year 1987, state government has allocated nearly $75 million in sales tax or public utility tax revenues to 130 local governments that took advantage of an opportunity to participate in the program. The funds are used to help finance infrastructure improvements and other projects designed to boost economic development in communities throughout the state.

Under the agreement worked out by the governor, state lawmakers and local officials in December, TIF districts will receive $8.7 million this year, approximately $12 million in fiscal 1994 and annual increases based on state sales tax growth thereafter.

"Local governments participating in the TIF program get a steady, predictable and growing source of revenue. The state now has a program it can afford," Edgar pointed out.

Completes Basic

Air National Guard Airman Michele A. Skunicki has graduated from Air Force basic training at Lackland AFB, Texas. During the six weeks of training the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special training in human relations. In addition, airmen who complete basic training earn credits toward an associate degree through the Community College of the Air Force.

Michele, the daughter of Shirley M. Peto of Oak Lawn, graduated from Oak Lawn Community High School in 1992.

Art Finalist Chosen

Fred J. Furtner, son of Alfred Furtner of Oak Lawn, was one of 17 art and design majors from Southern Illinois University at Carbondale to have been chosen as finalist for one of the most lucrative U.S. art contests of its kind. The finalists, all undergraduates, are competing for the $20,000 Rickert-Ziebold Trust Award, an endowment set up by the late Marguerite L. Ricert of Waterloo. A single winner could sweep the competition, or several artists could split it. Entries include ceramics, sculpture, paintings and weavings.

Construction Cost Savings

Cook County construction project managers reported that nearly $25 million in construction costs has been saved in the past 18 months. Tracing the beginning of the savings to October 1991, when the County Board voted to improve the use of program management firms, Phelan said, "through the implementation of program managers and careful review of all construction budgets, fees and change orders we have been able to develop realistic budgets and schedules to plan long term financing, thus saving the taxpayer considerable amounts of money."

Phelan added that the savings were realized on projects initiated by the previous administration when the construction program was plagued by budget overruns, loose contracts and lack of planning. Project managers have corrected these past problems by overhauling architectural and construction services to protect the interest of the County and the taxpayer.

Specifically, the savings were generated through careful analysis of fees, construction budgets and value engineering, which aims to cut costs by finding the most economical method or materials to accomplish a task. The program managers have succeeded in reducing change orders, work done in addition to the contract, by about $3.8 million and have saved $8 million through value engineering. Additionally, over $12 million has been saved through better administration of contracts.

In an effort to bring the County's construction program under control, Phelan hired the program managers in October 1991, at a cost of approximately $4 million. The County's $334 million construction budget includes the following major projects: Juvenile Detention Center; South Campus Redevelopment; Divisions I, IV, VII & XI; Provident Hospital; Central Kitchen at the Department of Corrections; County Building New Electrical Service/Elevator Modernization; and Maywood Courthouse Renovation.

Mass Transit Funds

Congressman Bill Lipinski (D-3) announced that mass transit in the Chicagoland area will receive more than $200 million in funding from the federal government. Awarded through the Federal Transit Agency's quarterly grant process, the Chicago Transit Authority will receive $92.6 million for rail and bus projects, the Pace suburban bus system will receive $12.7 million and the Metra commuter rail will receive $49.8 million. The agencies will also divide $49.3 million in operating assistance, of which CTA will receive approximately $42 million.

Lipinski said, "This is good news for the entire metropolitan area. With more than $52 million for the 'L' and $40 million for buses, the CTA will be able to make badly needed improvements and repairs. The operating assistance will also make the budget situations for all the agencies a little less bleak. CTA has been running in the red for several years now and, though this won't solve that problem, it will help."

"This funding may not meet all our transit needs, but it is certainly a step in the right direction," Lipinski added. "And with the expected passage of President Clinton's stimulus package, we will see more funds for transit this summer. Chicago transit has been behind the eight-ball for a long, long time and I think the tide is finally starting to turn in our direction. That will mean a lot to Chicagoland residents who depend on transit, not to mention the boost to local economy by all the jobs created."

State Senate Week In Review

During the week of March 26th, the first major governmental ethics reform proposal in 20 years and legislation to provide statewide property tax caps were approved by Senate committees and sent to the full Senate for consideration, according to State Sen. William Mahar (R-Orland Park).

During the deadline week for Senate committees to vote on Senate bills dealing with substantive issues, a Senate committee passed Senate Bill 900, that would clean up the lobbying process by rewriting the Lobbyist Registration Act to include anyone paid to influence executive, legislative or administrative action.

The bi-partisan proposal, initiated by Secretary of State George Ryan, would require paid lobbyists and their employers to register and pay $50 fees. A lobbyist would have to disclose names and addresses of all immediate family members who are employed by or under contract with the state and be required to file reports detailing lobbying expenditures.

Another provision would prohibit former state employees from taking lobbying jobs for one year after leaving the state payroll. Also, criteria for requiring economic interest statements by state and local government employees would be altered, so statements would be filed based on duties rather than salaries.

Another proposal would provide statewide property taxes. It would impose an annual limit of five percent or the rate of inflation, whichever is less, on increases in property tax extensions for only those taxing districts in Illinois whose equalized assessed valuation has increased since 1982. It's estimated that half of the state's school districts would be exempt. Bond sales for park districts and forest preserves would also be exempt.

The Senate Republican leadership proposal would give local governments, concerned about the loss of revenues, the option of referenda to allow voters to approve taxes higher than the limit.

In other action, the proposal (SB 937) to extend the income tax surcharge was passed by a Senate committee in order to allow further debate and discussion on the issue in the full Senate. The bill would remove the local government's share of the temporary surcharge.

In other action, the following bills were also approved by Senate committees:

Pension reforms (SB 341, 342) -- Would change the way the state funds its pension systems by requiring payment of the unfunded liability of the state's five pensions systems over 47 years and changing the funding of the systems to a continuing appropriations basis.

Primary elections (SB 798) -- Would shorten political campaigns by moving primary elections from March to May, to give Illinois voters relief from long election campaigns and lower candidates' costs.

Powerlines (SB 757) -- Would ensure that electric companies get approval by the Illinois Commerce Commission when installing high-voltage power lines in excess of 60 kilovolts.

Alcohol fines (SB 1031) -- Would increase penalties for selling liquor to a minor and set a minimum statewide penalty of $500 for anyone found guilty of selling, delivering or giving liquor to minors or anyone convicted of furnishing false identification to anyone under 21.

Prisons (SB 1077) -- Would allow the Department of Corrections to authorize private enterprise to construct and operate correctional facilities and allow inmates to do the construction, with any compensation earned used to help pay the cost of the inmate's incarceration.

Property taxes (SB 380) -- Would allow Illinois citizens to pay their property taxes in six equal installments, instead of the current two equal installments a year.

Home buyers (SB 828) -- Would require sellers of residential real estate to document known property defects in houses, condominiums, and co-ops before buyers sign sales agreements.

Wiretaps (SB 880) -- Would give law enforcement officials more legal tools against drug crimes and murder by expanding Illinois' wiretap law to include a number of new offenses, including criminal drug conspiracy and committing or soliciting to commit murder.

Carjacking (SB 902) -- Would make Illinois one of the first states in the nation to treat car-jacking as a separate class of crime. Car-jacking would be a Class 1 felony with a mandatory four- to 15-year prison sentence.

Human rights (SB 433) -- Would cut in half the time it takes for the Illinois Department of Human Rights to investigate and resolve discrimination cases.

Smoking (SB 985) -- Would ban smoking in elementary and secondary schools, licensed day care facilities, and municipal teen centers.

Murder (SB 1033) -- Would provide that a person commits first degree murder if they caused the murder by ordering or procuring a person to deliver a controlled substance to someone who died as a result of the substance.

Structural Work Act (SB 2) -- Would repeal the Structural Work Act, which fosters excessive litigation, financially burdens businesses and duplicates the Workers Compensation Act.

Abortion (SB 209) -- Would require one parent or legal guardian to be notified 48 hours before an abortion is performed on a minor.

Board of Regents (SB 987) -- Would abolish the Board of Regents and create separate governing boards for each state university the board governed.

CUB Fighting Com. Edison Rate Hike Plan

The Citizens Utility Board (CUB) is asking consumers across the state to help fight a plan that could raise rates for Commonwealth Edison customers alone by over $500 million a year.

The measure has been passed by committees in both the Illinois House and Senate and is headed for a vote by the full legislature. CUB is urging consumers to call or write their senators and representatives immediately and ask them to oppose the bill.

If the measure, SB 770 and HB 2014, is approved, it will set the stage for a round of massive utility rate hikes by giving utilities free rein to diversify into unregulated businesses, CUB President Katie Troccoli said.

"This bill would unleash Com Ed and the rest of the state's utilities and set the stage for massive rate hikes for years to come," Troccoli said. "We can prevent that, but only if legislators hear loud and clear from their constituents back home."

CUB estimates that Com Ed customers eventually would see a rate increase of $519 million, or 8.5 percent, if the bill is approved.

Under current law, if utilities want to diversify they first must seek approval from the Illinois Commerce Commission (ICC) to ensure that the plans do not harm consumers. Com Ed's plan would eliminate that safeguard and allow the companies to divert money from the utility into any new, unregulated business they want.

Consumers of diversified utilities in other states have suffered dreadful results when consumer protections were lifted, Troccoli said.

According to one recent survey, 17 electric companies that recently diversified posted losses of $1.15 billion during just the five-year period from 1986 to 1991. Consumers in several of those states were forced to pay rate increases to bail out their utilities.

The bill is on the fast track in Springfield, Troccoli said. Legislators on one committee approved the measure less than 24 hours after it was made public and without allowing any testimony from consumer groups who are opposed to the plan.

Consumers who want more information about how they can help CUB fight the plan, should call CUB's Consumer Hotline at 1-800-669-5556.

"Wildlife Week"

School children across the nation are to be introduced to the flowers, the trees, the animals, the birds and the people of the Earth's rain forests during the National Wildlife Federation's 53rd annual "Wildlife Week," April 18th to 24th. "Rain Forests: Help Save Their Layers of Life," is the theme of this year's Wildlife Week kits, distributed through NWF's state affiliates to 620,000 teachers for use in their classrooms, nature centers and libraries.

Each kit contains an educator's guide, a colorful poster showing the four "layers" of a tropical rain forest, a sheet of NWF conservation stamps, and a full-color poster of a dozen endangered species.

Teachers who use the kits pose the critical question, "Why save rain forests?" Children will be given 10 reasons, such as: people don't have the right to destroy the world's rain forests and other habitats for their own purposes; many scientists think that destroying tropical rain forests could drastically change world weather patterns, and as rain forests disappear, so will the cultural traditions of many native peoples, "indigenous peoples who have a right to live where and how they want."

The week winds up with encouraging words to kids: "You Can Help!" Suggestions for things that kids can do to help save our remaining rain forests include visiting a rain forest and sharing the experience with others, writing letters to senators and representatives to express concern about forest destruction, and contacting pen-pals in tropical countries.

"Our children's generation has a strong appetite for knowledge about the environment," said Gary San Julian, NWF vice-president for research and education, "Wildlife Week is a great opportunity for parents and teachers to serve them food for thought about our role in preserving a healthy planet."

Safety

Window screens are installed to keep pesky insects out of your home. They are not strong enough to support the weight of even the smallest child. The National Safety Council suggests keeping an eye on children at all times. Make sure they stay from open windows and never let them lean on screens, even at ground level.

Getting Rid Of Nuclear Waste

Editor:

Our grandchildren could end up hating us. We have developed a way that could generate electricity safely into the foreseeable future, at the same time it gets rid of long-lived nuclear waste and avoids producing greenhouse gasses. We have invested $700 million over eight years of successful research. Now the nation is on the verge of wiping out the program.

The immediate impact on the nation will be negligible. It's our grandchildren who will pay the real cost.

The program is called the Integral Fast Reactor (IFR). A few days ago, we started generating electricity by burning fuel refined from the elements of nuclear reactor waste. We're burning nuclear garbage, if you will.

The significance of this demonstration is immense; instead of storing nuclear waste for hundreds of thousands of years, we can use it to create energy. The resultant waste is much lower in volume and needs storage for only a few hundred years to become as safe as natural ore from which it came.

The IFR can burn not only its own nuclear waste, but the used fuel from commercial reactors sitting around in pools all over this country. And it can use as fuel plutonium from dismantled nuclear weapons.

The reactor emits no greenhouse gases. Because it recycles its own fuel, it could operate its full lifetime of 30 years or more on an initial loading of fuel without radioactive material entering or leaving the plant. Seven years ago, researchers demonstrated its safety by subjecting it, in one day, to similar conditions that caused the accident at Chernobyl and the one at Three Mile Island. In each case, the reactor shut itself down without any human or mechanical intervention.

Three years ago, engineers demonstrated its economy by running fuel in the reactor to 18 percent nuclear burn-up without changing the fuel. In commercial reactors, fuel has to be pulled out of the reactor and replaced, after plant shutdown, at about 5 percent nuclear burn-up because build-up of fission by-products interferes with power production. We are preparing to go experimentally to 25 percent.

It isn't surprising that last year, the National Academy of Sciences recommended to Congress that the IFR rank as the "nation's highest priority advanced reactor program." Utilities agree. One California utility plans to provide $2 million to support the research. Japanese utilities are contributing $46 million through 1996.

They have a legitimate self-interest. So do we all. If a reactor like the IFR is not ready early in the next century, we will have to trade environmental caution for electricity. The first generation of nuclear reactors is approaching retirement. Increased reliance on fossil fuel plants means more greenhouse gases. Wind power and solar have a role to play, but cannot replace nuclear, in the judgment of objective experts.

If we want more electricity assured into the foreseeable future, we need safe nuclear. And without increasing electrical generation, we can't increase gross domestic product, which means jobs.

Those jobs, that need for electricity, that greenhouse gas, that nuclear waste are looming threats to us. They could be monumental daily problems to our grandchildren. We have a promising solution nearly in our grasp, and are about to throw it away. If we do, our grandkids would be justified in hating us.

Hiring Local Officers

State Sen. Patrick O'Malley (R-Palos Park) is sponsoring legislation that will give local law enforcement agencies more leeway in hiring firefighters and police officers.

"State law has some artificial restrictions or overly stringent guidelines that limit the ability of local governments to hire the people they need to fill fire and police positions," O'Malley said. "We need to trust these local officials and give them more control over such decisions."

Senate Bill 871 deletes the maximum age limit of 34 for new police officers.

"Blue Island Mayor Donald Peloquin requested this change to allow police candidates older than 34 to be considered for jobs," O'Malley said. "This legislation makes the point that age alone is not the best guideline by which to judge ability and responsibility."

Senate Bill 1083 allows the Fire Protection District Board of Trustees to conduct a promotional examination only when a vacancy exists. The law currently requires such examinations every three years.

"This legislation was suggested by the Palos Fire Protection District as a way of saving money," O'Malley said. "Every three years, they are required to conduct a promotional examination even if there is no vacancy. With the passage of Senate Bill 1083, the Palos Fire Protection District will save the estimated $6,000 cost of conducting an examination. Similar savings will accrue to fire protection districts statewide."

Senate Bills 1083 and 871 have been passed by the Senate Local Government and Elections Committee and are pending before the full Senate on third reading.

Wins Big

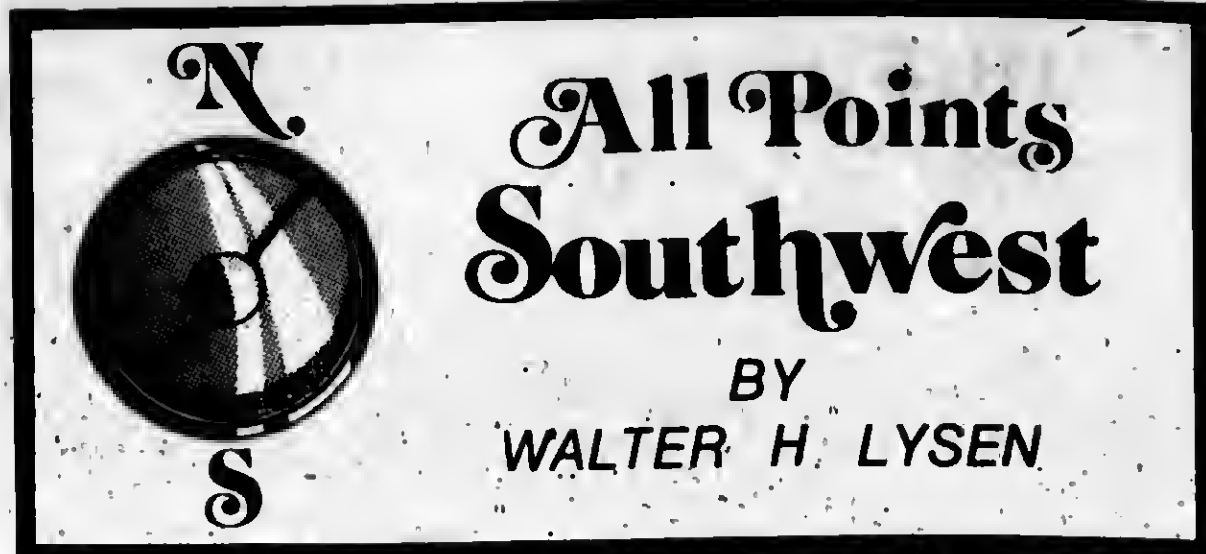

Billy Hawkins of Chicago's Ashburn Gresham neighborhood won $100,000 on the Illinois Lottery's "$100,000 Fortune Hunt" game show on April 3. Hawkins returns on April 10 to compete for another $100,000. "$100,000 Fortune Hunt" airs on WBBM-TV on Saturdays at 6:30 p.m.

Environmental Hearings On Quarry Storage

Environmental hearings will be mandatory before any sanitary waste or stormwater is dumped into stone quarries along 55th St., according to legislation sponsored by State Rep. David McAfee that won Illinois House committee approval at the Capitol.

"This legislation is intended to safeguard the health of residents throughout the southwest suburban region," McAfee said.

McAfee introduced HB 1464 in response to a proposal by the Metropolitan Water Reclamation District. The district wants to use stone quarries along 55th St. as storage areas for stormwater and untreated sanitary waste. The quarries would temporarily take up to 18 billion gallons of stormwater and sanitary waste that overflow the sewer system during heavy rains and runoffs.

While there are heated political battles in Oak Lawn, Worth, Orland Park, Tinley Park, Palos Hills and Palos Heights, Mayors Tom Murawski of Midlothian, Chester Stranczek of Crestwood, Arnie Andrews of Alsip, and Anthony Vacco of Evergreen Park are enjoying the softest political campaigns of their careers. None has opposition in the coming April 20 Consolidated Election.

Mayor Gene Siegel of Chicago Ridge has no opposition although his incumbent trustees George Ryniak, Maureen Socha and James Saunoris and Clerk Chuck Tokar are being challenged by a loose group of independents. Seeking Tokars's position is Don Pratl while new comers Karen Gaylord, Kathy Van Klaveren, and Ken Schmidtke want to be trustees. Regardless of the outcome Siegel still has three trustees to dominate the board.

In Oak Lawn Ernie Kolb and his Citizen's Coalition Party for Integrity are being challenged by the UVRP's headed by Trustee Robert Streit. Streit was elected to the board two years ago getting less than half the votes in a multi candidate race. Previously he lost a bid for Worth Township committeeman. He has elevated himself to the candidacy of Village President and according to insiders is throwing out hash that clobbers Kolb and Co. regardless of authenticity.

Candidates with Kolb are incumbent Clerk A. Jayne Powers, incumbent Trustee Ron Stancik, and newcomers for trustee Mike Walsh and Bill Keane. A powerful ticket that will represent the people of Oak Lawn with honesty and integrity, the basis of the Kolb-Powers combination through the years.

Dan J. McLaughlin, one of four candidates running for village president of Orland Park, Tuesday demanded that the Board of Trustees replace the village attorneys after learning the legal firm of Klein, Thorpe, and Jenkins Ltd. represents both Orland and Tinley Park.

"Orland, Tinley Park and Mokena are each working to annex all or part of the prime commercial property adjacent to Interstate 80 between LaGrange Road and Wolf Road. It is a blatant conflict of interest for Klein, Thorpe, & Jenkins to represent both Orland and Tinley Park while efforts are underway to annex this property," McLaughlin said.

Other candidates are Ed Schussler, current acting Mayor, Rich Nogal who served as interim mayor for six months prior to Schussler, and Penny O'Sullivan.

Safety Check

When spring cleaning begins, the National Safety Council reminds you to check your fire extinguisher. If you've used a rechargeable extinguisher, get it checked by a local service center as soon as possible. Have it recharged if necessary.

Make sure the extinguisher is in good condition and easy to remove from the bracket. Check the pressure gauge to be sure it hasn't developed a leak.

"We need to make sure there will be public hearings and environmental assessments done before anything like this occurs. Local mayors approached me and expressed very serious concerns. We want the Illinois EPA involved since there are state dollars being used to acquire properties for this use," McAfee said.

McAfee said the House Energy and Environment Committee gave a strong endorsement to his legislation. HB 1464 now goes to the full House for further consideration.

WW II Defense Plants

By 1939, nearly 50,000 Americans worked in the aircraft industry. World War II saw the total increase to over 2,000,000 in 1943 as production zoomed to 95,000 planes a year. Working day and night, wartime workers built 12,000 ships, 300,000 planes and 87,000 tanks. By war's end, 2,000,000 heavy machine guns, 6,000,000 bombs and 9,000 pieces of artillery had been produced.

During World War II, more than half the workers in defense plants were women. Furthermore, women represented more than a third of the entire wartime workforce. The war also meant greater job opportunities for blacks and other minorities; one in 10 wartime workers was black.

Both the American Federation of Labor (AFL) and the Congress of Industrial Organizations (CIO) pledged not to strike in World War II. Collective bargaining took a back seat as government agencies steered the wartime economy. By war's end, paychecks had risen 15 percent, while prices soared more than 40 percent. A coal strike in 1943 and wildcat walkouts throughout the duration betrayed mounting discontent. These figures are according to "The American Worker," a U.S. Department of Labor publication.

St. Rita Students Walk To Navy Pier

St. Rita High School announced that its students are getting ready to walk the Chicago lakefront to North Pier on Thursday, April 29th. The walk-a-thon is a student fundraiser that helps to offset the school's operating cost and to keep student tuition as low as possible.

Traditionally, the students have walked to the Chicago White Sox home opener, but this year because the home opener falls on Good Friday, we had to look for a new option," said Jim Segredo, director of development. "We wanted to do something different, to show our students part of the city that they don't often see."

To be eligible to walk, students must raise $50 in pledges. The young men will be walking with the young ladies of Lourdes High School. After the walk-a-thon, a special reception will be held for the students at the Baja Beach Club in the North Pier. The reception will feature food and pop for the students, dancing, games and a rally sponsored by Students Against Drunk Driving (SADD). The rally is a very important part of this year's walk since it is so close to prom for the juniors and seniors. Prom season has always been a time for celebration for students and a time of fear for parents. The rally is expected to give students a strong reminder about staying safe during their proms.

"We are happy to be able to offer our young men such an exciting fundraising event," Segredo continued. "Now we just have to pray for good weather!"

The goal for the walk-a-thon is 60 percent participation of the student body and $20,000 by April 23rd. Other student incentives include a 50/50 cash back offer, in which individual students who surpass their $50 quota will receive half of all additional money they raise. The top junior and senior salesmen receive free limousine service to their prom.

Congress passed the Civilian Conservation bill on March 31st, 1933. By June, 1,300 conservation camps were in operation. About 2.5 million men went through the Civilian Conservation Corps (CCC) program, planting trees; digging reservoirs, fishponds and diversion ditches; building dams, bridges and fire towers; fighting tree diseases; restoring historic battlefields; and clearing beaches and campgrounds, according to "The American Worker," a U.S. Department of Labor publication.

"DON'T SETTLE FOR COST, QUALITY OR SERVICE. CALL THE PEOPLE WHO CAN GIVE YOU ALL THREE."

THEODORE E. DESCH, SENIOR VP,
LAW & CORPORATE AFFAIRS

Health insurance is a balancing act. You don't want to realize cost savings at the expense of quality care. And you don't want to save money if it means losing out on the level of service you expect. So what's the answer?

Well, over the years, nobody has done more to manage cost and preserve quality than we have. Nobody is more responsive to the needs of your people. And no one has more doctors, hospitals and coverage plans to choose from. Cost. Quality. And service. If you don't have all three, you don't have Blue Cross."

WHEN YOU HAVE BLUE CROSS, YOU HAVE IT ALL.

- ☐ You are working with the pioneer in effective cost containment strategies.
- ☐ The carrier that's doing more to monitor quality.
- ☐ The most professional claims and customer response systems in the business.
- ☐ The most trusted health plans in Illinois.

WE HAVE IT ALL.

Leadership Award Told

Each year the Catherine McAuley Leadership Award is presented at Mother McAuley High School's annual celebration dinner. On April 23rd, the worthy recipient of this award is to be Sister Catherine Gallagher, RSM, formerly Sister Inviolata. This award is given to those who demonstrate a strong commitment to the school's mission to provide a quality liberal arts education for young women, exemplify the ideals of Catherine McAuley; concern for the poor, sick and uneducated and continue to make major contributions to church and society.

Sr. Catherine Gallagher

In 1939, Sister Catherine entered the teaching profession in the intermediate grades as an instructor at St. Xavier Academy, the first school chartered in Illinois. Founded in 1847 by the Religious Sisters of Mercy, the academy provided a unique education for young women from first through 12th grade and also served as lab school for St. Xavier College, now St. Xavier University, located on the same campus. Sister Catherine became directress (principal) of the academy in 1951 and continued until 1954. In 1956, the academy and the college moved from 49th and Cottage Grove to its present site where it became Mother McAuley High School and St. Xavier College.

According to Sister Brian Costello, RSM, former superintendent of Catholic Schools of the Archdiocese and presently serving as Chief of Staff to Cardinal Joseph Bernardin, "Sister Catherine exemplifies the educational continuity that exists between St. Xavier Academy and Mother McAuley High School."

Sister Catherine's accomplishments will be celebrated at the '93 dinner to be held in the new gymnasium on April 23rd. Cocktails begin at 6:30 p.m. with dinner at 7:30 p.m. The dinner, in its seventh year, has been a celebration for the recipients of the annual Catherine McAuley Award. McAuley supporters each year have made the dinner an overwhelming success. Last year due to the major capital campaign, dinner plans were postponed until the construction was completed. This year the celebration will be significant in that it will be held in the school and will showcase the new facilities made possible by the generous support of the community.

Ray Lazzara of the Martinique, Evergreen Park, is lending his expertise to the details of the dinner. The gymnasium will be transformed into shimmering scenes in black and silver. Dancing to the musical sounds of Stanley Paul and his Orchestra follows dinner. Proceeds from the dinner are earmarked for endowment for financial aid.

For further information concerning the dinner, or for reservations, call Mrs. Mary Clark, development director at (312) 881-6558.

Cook County Announces Reassessments

Townships included in the 1993 Cook County reassessment of the south, southwest and west suburbs are Berwyn, Bloom, Bremen, Lemont, Lyons, Oak Park, Orland, Palos, Proviso, Rich, Riverside, Stickney, Thornton and Worth. Further information about filing deadlines for these townships will be announced as the notices are mailed, according to Cook County Assessor Tom Hynes.

"When people receive their assessment notices is the time to ask questions and make corrections, not after the tax bills are mailed," Hynes said. He also noted that an assessment determines only what percentage one pays of all real estate taxes, but the dollar amount of any increase in those overall taxes comes from the spending requests of local taxing agencies.

For more property assessment information, contact Hynes' office in downtown Chicago at the County Building, 118 N. Clark, Room 301, (312) 443-7550; or at any of the branch offices located in Circuit Court Buildings: in Bridgeview, 10200 S. 76th Ave., Room 237, (708) 974-6541; Maywood, 1500 Maybrook Sq., Room 005, (708) 865-6032; Markham, 16501 S. Kedzie Ave., Room 237, (708) 210-4100; Rolling Meadows, 2121 Euclid Ave., Room 237, (708) 818-2444; Skokie, 5600 Old Orchard Rd., Room 149, (708) 470-7237.

Homeowners may also seek assistance at their local suburban township assessor's office.

Lipinski Opposes Robbins Facility

Congressman William O. Lipinski (D-3) announced that he opposes efforts to build a trash-to-energy and recycling facility in Robbins. Lipinski made the announcement at a town hall meeting held at Shepard High School in March. Lipinski explained that although the incinerator would not be located in his district, it would definitely have an impact on his constituents in Worth and Bremen Townships.

"I have a number of concerns with regard to this incinerator including its impact on air quality, local traffic and property values," Lipinski stated. "In my opinion these issues have not been adequately addressed thus far."

"I was also quite disappointed in the way the December siting hearing was conducted," Lipinski said. "Not only was the timing of the hearing poor (conducted on a Friday night, three days before Christmas), opponents of the project were barely given any time to present their side. If the officials in favor of this project are so convinced of its benefits, why are they afraid to hear citizens' concerns? Based on what I have seen and heard thus far, there is nothing I can do but oppose the Robbins incinerator."

"I would encourage all interested persons to contact my office and those of other local elected officials to make their feelings known about this project," Lipinski concluded.

County Board Approves Human Rights Ordinance

Dear Friends,

With significant bipartisan support, the Cook County Board of Commissioners approved the Cook County Human Rights Ordinance at the regular board meeting of March 16. Two keys to the passage of the ordinance were an amendment to exclude protection based on a person's source of income and the consideration of municipalities that feel that the ordinance will usurp the power of local governments.

The administration correctly explained that the key to preparing an ordinance with broad-based support was the development of an agreement with suburban officials regarding the applicability of the county's ordinance in their communities. Many municipalities already have adopted or plan to adopt local human rights and fair housing laws which they do not want superseded by the county law. However, after extensive negotiation, the county reached an agreement which will honor local prerogative and minimize duplication of effort while assuring uniform human rights protection to all the people who live and work in Cook County.

Equally significant, commissioners accepted an amendment to exclude protection based on a person's source of income. I agree with commissioner Herbert Schumann, the amendment's sponsor, that landlords should not be forced to accept tenants who use federal subsidies, known as Section 8 housing assistance, to pay the rent. Section 8 is a program sponsored by the federal government which provides housing subsidies to the poor. The amendment assures that Section 8 will remain a voluntary program and will not be mandatory under the ordinance.

The amendment, which was added to Section V (B) (3)-Publications and Section VI (C) (5)-Housing-of the ordinance, specifically states: notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained in this ordinance, nothing contained in these articles shall require any person who does not participate in the federal section 8 housing assistance program to accept any subsidy, payment assistance, voucher, or contribution under or in connection with such program or to lease or rent to any tenant or prospective tenant who is relying on such a subsidy, payment assistance, contribution, or voucher for payment of part of the rent for such housing accommodation.

Passage of this amendment, along with changes to allow municipalities to pass their own laws that would supersede the county measure, ultimately convinced me to vote in favor of the Cook County Human Rights Ordinance.

Although I do not agree with every aspect of the ordinance and I voted for many amendments that would have altered it; I feel that comprehensively, it is a reasonable, well thought-out and a generally acceptable plan. The ordinance passed on a 14-3 vote.

Cook County Assessor Thomas Hynes introduced two pieces of legislation in the Illinois General Assembly that could lead to some property tax relief and increase the value on the Home Improvement Exemption (HIP) from $30,000 to $45,000.

Property taxes are a major concern to the people of Cook County and hopefully these proposals will shift some of the property tax burden to a tax that is more equitable. The highlights of the legislation includes a proposed property tax-income tradeoff. I am, however, not in favor of tax caps extending to Cook County.

Hynes is urging serious consideration of these proposals and I will attempt to keep everyone posted as to their outcome.

The Forest Preserve District of Cook County will mark the 106th Arbor Day in Illinois on Saturday, April 24 and Saturday May 1, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. by distributing free native seedlings at its nature centers and golf courses.

Naturalists will also be on hand to demonstrate the proper planting and growing techniques for new trees.

A major campaign is being launched by the office of Special Events to inform and familiarize Senior Citizens with the wide range of free activities and events that are offered by the District. Seniors are encouraged to check with their local neighborhood senior center for forthcoming events.

Cook County Board President Richard Phelan "officially" welcomed the arrival of spring with the traditional first tee shot at the Indian Boundary Golf Course. New this season are the twilight rates at the 18-hole locations and the acceptance of reservations for tee times seven days in advance.

Sincerely,
s/s Robert P. Goolley (Bob)
Cook County Commissioner

Tri-State Sunday School Convention

The 1993 Annual Tri-state Sunday School Convention is coming to the ODEUM in Villa Park on Friday and Saturday, April 16th and 17th, the 54th annual convention sponsored by the Greater Chicago Sunday School Association. Over 3,000 Christian education and church workers from hundreds of area churches are expected to register for intensive training and inspiration. This year's theme is "Vessels Fit for the Master's Use."

Participants may choose a maximum of eight workshops from almost 150 hours of training sessions in 20 tracks of Sunday School and Christian ministry emphases. Ten of the tracks relate to Christian education and Sunday School ministry with instruction on teaching at every age level. Other featured tracks include ethnic urban ministry, evangelism/outreach, issues of the nineties, worship/music and family/counseling.

All workshops are taught by professionally-equipped and trained instructors, representing Christian education publishers, Christian colleges and many other specialized ministries. Many of these will also be available in exhibit booths to consult with participants. The exhibit hall will be filled with booths where Christian suppliers, organizations, and ministries will display and sell materials useful in most areas of church and individual ministry. General sessions will feature well-known Chicago area pastors who will inspire the participants to serve Christ more effectively wherever they are ministering.

Registration for this event is $22, if pre-registered before April 7th, and $16 for those pre-registering 12 or more from the same church. For information or materials, call the GCSSA office at (708) 383-7550.

Real Estate Deduction Caution

The Internal Revenue Service has cautioned that real estate taxes are only deductible for individual taxpayers after they are billed. Real estate taxes paid in advance into an escrow account but not billed during the year cannot be deducted. For example, on 1992 tax returns, you may only deduct that portion of the money taken from your escrow account and used to pay your real estate tax bill due last year. You may not deduct amounts paid into your escrow account during 1992 but not used to pay your tax bill.

If you incorrectly deducted amounts paid into an escrow account on either a prior year tax return or your 1992 return, you should file an amended tax return, Form 1040X, showing the correct deductions.

Recent calls to the IRS indicate that some people are confused about the timing of this deduction. More information is available in Publication 17, "Your Federal Income Tax," and Publication 530, "Tax Information for First-Time Homeowners." Both publications and Form 1040X may be ordered by calling the IRS at (800)829-3676.

If you have questions about real estate deductions, call the IRS at (312) 435-1040.

Railroad Employees Annual Corporate Communion Breakfast

The Order of St. Christopher for Catholic Railroad Employees and their guests are invited to participate in the annual Corporate Communion breakfast to be held at St. Benedict Catholic Church, 2339 York St., Blue Island, with a huge parking lot across the street from the church. The breakfast is on Sunday, April 25th at 11 a.m. Please be there five minutes before 11 a.m. so we can enter the church as a group. Arrangements have been made to go to Demars Restaurant, 12941 Western Ave., within walking distance of the church. After breakfast, a short meeting will be held with the main topic of having a replacement of our most faithful officer, James C. Keating, who has been retreat chairman & secretary for over 30 years.

Jim has asked to be relieved of duties because of ill health & being a victim of diabetes. He has had both feet amputated above the ankles and his eyesight is failing to the extent that he cannot read or write too well. We all know no one will ever be able to replace Jim with his devout love & faithfulness to the office he held. We will have to elect some new people for these two positions at this coming function. Officers & trustees especially, please try to attend as we need your 'know how' and have more things to discuss.

The retreat for 1993 is at Villa Redeemer Retreat House, 1111 N. Milwaukee Ave., Glenview, on Oct. 15th, 16th and 17th. For more information, please contact Stan Jerkins, acting retreat chairman.

Our latest report of deceased members includes Michael R. Alamprese, R.I.; John J. Brynda, Erie; Joseph G. Burbatt, R.I.; Edward M. Connors, R.I.; Edward R. Costello, R.I.; Eugene P. Area Scholars

Marquette University has selected recipients of the 1993 Greater Chicago Scholarship Program. They will receive an $8,000 scholarship, or $2,000 for each year of undergraduate study, provided they maintain a 3.0 (B grade) average and meet other requirements related to academic progress. The recipients were chosen based on academic qualifications, community involvement, leadership and an essay. The recipients include Beverly residents Colleen E. Conway of Seton Academy and Kristen E. Gibbons of St. Ignace College; Dalia M. Kizlauskas of Nazareth Academy from Hickory Hills; Jennifer R. Lucas of Queen of Peace High School from Burbank; Jennifer J. Paske of Oak Lawn Community High School from Oak Lawn; and James P. Wills of Brother Rice High School from Evergreen Park.

The first event of the 25th anniversary year of the Women's Guild of the Balzekas Museum of Lithuanian Culture will be the annual spring luncheon and fashion show, for the benefit of the museum, on Saturday, April 17th. Reception will be at 11:30 a.m., with lunch at 12:30 p.m. at Annie Tiques Silver and Rose Room, 8200 S. Cicero Ave. Installation of officers for the '93-94 year also will take place. Reservations at $22.50 each are available through Irene Norbut, reservations chairman, (312) 585-3727.

Luncheon chairperson Ruth Hoffman, of West Lawn, is assisted by committee chairpersons Margi Mankus and Irene Norbut of West Lawn; Ruth Katauskas, Marquette Manor; Elsie Yurkus, Cicero; Fran Simanonis, Oak Lawn; Mary Krauchunas, Chicago North Side.

Estimated Tax Payment Due Soon

The IRS reminds people who make estimated tax payments that the first installment for 1993 is due Thursday, April 15th. The payment should be sent along with the first quarter payment voucher from Form

1040ES, Estimated Tax for Individuals. To be sure that the payment is properly credited to your account, you should write your social security number and the words, "1993 Form 1040ES" on the check. Illinois residents should mail the check to P.O. Box 6413, Chicago, IL 60680-6413.

If your 1992 return shows a balance due of at least $500, and if you expect your financial situation to stay pretty much the same during 1993, then you probably should be making these payments. Moonlighters and two-wage-earner households should also consider making estimates. The same goes for people who receive significant income on which no tax is withheld, such as business profits, rental income, alimony, interest, dividends, capital gains and unemployment benefits.

Form 1040ES has a worksheet which can help you figure out whether or not you need to make estimated tax payments and, if so, how much. To get this form, call toll-free 1-(800)-829-3676.

Scholars, professors and the director of American Indian Treaty Rights Committee have been presenters this season.

The morning lectures finish with a question and answer period and conclude by 12 noon. To be placed on the mailing list for next year, please address a request to Theology South, St. Xavier University, 3700 W. 103rd St., Chicago, IL 60655.

Labor Statistics

From 1980 to 1990, the proportion of college graduates in the labor force who held jobs not requiring a degree or who were unemployed remained at about 20 percent as the number rose from 3.6 to 5.8 million. This indicates that the number of graduates in the labor force continued to exceed the number of college-level job openings, according to the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Dysfunctional....The most overworked word today in the American vocabulary is the adjective 'dysfunctional.' A simple definition of the word is abnormal, impaired or incomplete functioning. But with the mushrooming self-help or recovery movement, the word divides the human condition into two distinct possibilities. A person is either 'in recovery' or 'in denial.'

The latest book to take a hard and sometimes whimsical look at the phenomena sweeping the nation and sending the "worried well" into group therapy sessions is I'm Dysfunctional, You're Dysfunctional by lawyer and journalist Wendy Kaminer. After spending countless hours talking to 'recovery' experts and receiving firsthand information on how 'victims' of childhood abuse get help, the author condemns the anti-intellectualism of the movement, its therapeutically mellowed evangelical browbeating and its infatuation with charismatic authority.

Today's "New Age" recovery movement, according to the author, seem to have abandoned old fashioned "get well" techniques such as original sin, sexual repression or faulty neurotransmitters, in favor of zeroing in on dear old 'Mom' and dear old 'Dad.' Thus the "Dysfunctional Family," in the eyes of those involved in the recovery movement, churn out nothing but emotionally crippled individuals. In her research Kaminer has found that in meeting room after meeting room 'victims of a dysfunctional family' gather to blurt out their secret miseries and shortcomings to each other. A specific target of her book is the 'adult' children who meet regularly and under the heading of 'recovery' groups these grown-up crybabies meet with other grown-up crybabies to point the finger of blame and obsess on how their parents ruined their lives. In one telling passage, she says; "If child abuse is every form of inadequate nurturance, then being raped by your father is in the same general class as being ignored or not getting help with your homework. When everything is child abuse, nothing is."

According to the author 'self-help' groups talk about 'recovery,' but seldom do it alone. Carefully avoiding getting into whether people do or do not get help from these groups, the author focuses her attention on the movement's ideology. What she finds disturbing is that participants in 'adult' children groups have a tendency to suggest that growing up was a holocaust and the implication is that growing up in an American family is no different than surviving a concentration camp.

According to Ms. Kaminer, the so-called experts or 'New-Age Gurus' of the movement seem to have adopted computer language as part of the recovery program. The 'experts' tell the eager listeners that they must learn to "access with their 'inner child,' or 'interface' with family members or co-workers." And to add another buzz word to the movement, they have come up with the overworked and totally misunderstood word, 'co-dependency.' The word now means any distorted relationship in which controlling behavior is a form of clinging dependency, and the appearance of powerlessness is actually an exercise of power. To illustrate her point, she tells a joke. It goes like this: "What do partners in a co-dependent relationship say to each other after they have had sex? That was wonderful for you. How was it for me?"

The author is at her very best when she uses crisp, witty prose to explain a point. Addressing Melody Beattie's best-seller, Codependent No More, and the topic of guilt and shame, Beattie says; "Guilt and shame makes everything harder." Kaminer returns with: "Someone should remind Beattie that there's a name for people who lack guilt and shame: sociopaths." And she concludes; "we ought to be grateful if guilt and shame makes things like murder and moral corruption harder."

One of the more interesting chapters in I'm Dysfunctional, You're Dysfunctional are the pages devoted to the scores of personalities who seem driven to go on talk shows like Oprah and Donohue and blab intimate details about their past. These compulsive blabbers seem to gain a certain amount of acceptance by going on TV talk shows and blabbing. Kaminer concludes. "Like trees that fall in the forest, they're (blabbers) not sure they exist when no one is watching." Or she could have said; "when no one is listening."

The co-dependency crowd is an extremely sensitive lot and Kaminer's book, sub-titled: "The Recovery Movement and Other Self-Help Fashions," is bound to send 'Adult Children of Alcoholics' participants into a blue funk over her appraisal of the latest get-well pathology. However, the wry author and former prosecuting attorney, has a ready answer for her critics. "If they're so happy in recovery, why do they resent and take personally the skepticism of strangers?" she asks. Beats me! But for $18.95 plus tax it's worth trying to find out why so many 'dysfunctional' group therapies are in themselves 'dysfunctional.'

Telecommuting

Chicago area employers are invited to attend an "Illinois Telecommuting Conference," on Friday and Saturday April 15th and 16th, at the Westin Hotel, 909 N. Michigan Ave. The conference will provide employers with information about telecommuting opportunities for employees and is co-sponsored by the Illinois Department of Energy and Natural Resources (ENR) and the Chicago Lung Association.

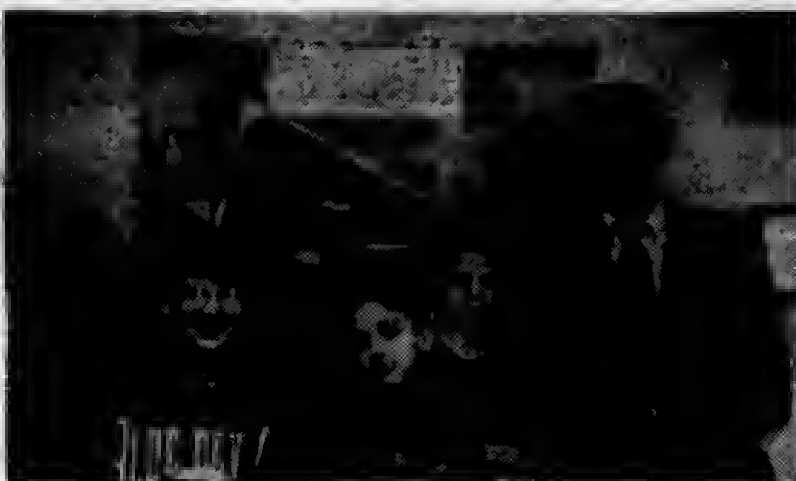

"Telecommuting allows employees to work at home or at an alternative site through telecommunications," said ENR Director John S. Moore. "Telecommuting enables companies and their employees to conserve energy and reduce highway congestion, and in some cases, may be the best solution for employers to meet the requirements of the Clean Air Act.

Federal and state laws will require employers in north-eastern Illinois with 100 or more employees to reduce the number of vehicles employees use to commute to work.

"Automobiles are the major contributor to the air pollution problem in the Chicago area," said Ron Burke, director of occupational and environmental health, Chicago Lung Association. "Telecommuting and other transportation alternatives will enable employers to contribute to clean air and help everyone breathe a little easier."

To obtain conference registration information, write Gloria Niles at the Illinois Department of Energy and Natural Resources, 100 W. Randolph St., Suite 11-600, Chicago, IL 60601 or call (312) 814-3631.

Donald Zickert, principal of Hazelgreen School, is shown with intermediate students selected as 'Students of the Month' for March. Selection is based upon completion of homework, cooperation, a polite and courteous attitude and performing to the best of their abilities. Shown with Zickert are Courtney Clausen, grade 5; Mark Augustinus, grade 4; Katie Shelden, grade 6; Alladean Jadallah, grade 4 and Randy Eller, grade 5.

Close Tri-State Ramp

The eastbound ramp onto the Tri-State Tollway at 95th St. will be closed until Sept. 1st because work to widen I-294 has begun on a nearby portion of the roadway. Drivers can use the ramp from westbound 95th St. as an alternate. Eastbound drivers can get on northbound Harlem and turn onto the entrance ramp for westbound 95th and then get on the tollway.

South Suburban Human Rights Authority

The Human Rights Authority, a division of the state's Guardianship and Advocacy Commission, is empowered by statute to investigate alleged rights violations and respond to complaints regarding care for nursing home residents, children in special school programs, persons in facilities for those with developmental disabilities, and persons in mental hospitals and clinics. The authority will work with the facility to determine the validity of the complaint and, if it is confirmed, recommend changes to the facility. Each year the authority's recommendations, as adopted by service providers, affect thousands of recipients across Illinois.

If you have concern about the care you receive, or are a relative, friend or just someone concerned about a patient, contact The South Suburban Human Rights Authority, P.O. Box 7009, Hines, Illinois, 60141.

IECC Members

A coalition of civic and grassroots organizations advocating educational choice has announced the addition of six new member organizations. The Illinois Educational Choice Coalition (IECC) seeks the successful implementation of educational choice for all children and parents throughout Illinois. It is supporting legislation in both chambers of the legislature that would create scholarship certificates that parents could apply toward tuition at private and religious schools of their choice. New members include Independent Business Association of Illinois; Eagle Forum; Artists for Educational Choice; Association for Public Justice; The Cross Coalition; and People for Educational Choice. This brings coalition membership to 17 organizations representing approximately 3 million parents and children.

According to Michael Padden of People for Educational Choice, the IECC "is a grassroots powerhouse which the political and educational establishment will not be able to ignore."

Separately, IECC co-chairs Herbert Walberg, research professor of education at the University of Illinois-Chicago, and Ralph Conner, spokesperson for the New Coalition for Social and Economic Change, announced the appointment of Thomas N. Hines as IECC coordinator. Hines is a longtime political and public policy strategist, being active throughout the midwest and southern states.

The IECC is organizing rallies, sending informational packages to thousands of opinion leaders, and leading a lobbying effort in Springfield to win approval of educational choice legislation in the current legislative session. One educational choice bill backed by the coalition, HB 890, was passed out of committee in the House recently and a similar bill is expected to be approved by the Senate shortly.

The IECC can be contacted through Hines, (708) 643-1400; Walberg, (312) 966-8133; or Conner, (708) 450-4400. The group can be contacted at (312) 427-3156 or by writing to P.O. Box 2708, Chicago, IL 60690.

Gang Crimes Initiatives Pass Committee

Clearing the first legislative hurdle, a package of gang crime initiatives sponsored by State Rep. Maureen Murphy (R-Evergreen Park) were approved recently by the House Judiciary II Committee.

Two of Rep. Murphy's proposals, House Bills 122 and 124, were unanimously approved by the committee. HB 122 permits the courts to impose stiffer prison terms for gang-related crimes, while HB 124 provides a better means to protect students with timely reports from prosecutors on youths convicted of gang crime misdemeanors.

By a 10-to-5 vote, committee members approved a third measure, House Bill 126, that cracks down on gang conscription with a tougher punishment of prison and fines. All three measures now go to the House floor for full consideration.

A fourth gang-crime proposal, co-sponsored by Rep. Murphy, is scheduled to be heard in the Judiciary II Committee next week. This measure, House Bill 121, cracks down on drug lords' operations out of rented residences by extending a drug drain shop law against them.

State and local law enforcement officials testified at the committee hearing prior to the vote, including two police officers from Oak Lawn.

Rep. Murphy welcomed the bipartisan support from the committee on her proposals, saying that testimony from Oak Lawn Police Department gang crime specialists Bill D'Amato and Joe Stubbs helped sway the panel's decision.

"I invited law enforcement officials from my legislative district because they are very knowledgeable about the spread of gangs from the inner-city. I appreciate these two experts on gang crime being available to travel to Springfield to give important testimony," Rep. Murphy said.

During testimony, Murphy and law enforcement officials stressed that gang influence is rapidly spreading throughout the state with five major gangs from Chicago reporting membership in nearly one-third of Illinois' 102 counties. In addition, copycat gangs are springing up throughout the collar counties, including southwest Cook County.

"The legislature must tackle the problem of growing gang crime with more public safety-minded laws," Murphy said. "Gang crime is not an inner-city problem, but a statewide problem that requires regional cooperation to solve it."

"Our approach against gang conscription is a reasonable one that attacks fear and intimidation of youths. It will also aid to stem drive-by shootings, another common fear tactic," Murphy pointed out. "Our courts also gain another tool in the war on gangs, being able to levy tougher prison sentences on persons convicted of gang-related crimes."

Named To Dean's List

Michele Griegel and Amy Rafa of Mt. Greenwood; Keith Phillips of Beverly; Kelly Durkin of Evergreen Park; and William Kafka of Oak Lawn were named to the Ball State University Dean's List for the fall semester of 1992. Students on the Dean's List have earned at least a 3.5 grade point average on a 4.0 scale.

Congressman William O. Lipinski (D-3rd) recently announced the list of winners in his "All American Boy and Girl" program, celebrating its 25th year. The program applauds students who reside or attend school in the 3rd District who not only excel in school, but are active in extra-curricular activities and community projects. All finalists received a certificate of recognition and the top finalists received Congressional plaques and Savings Bonds. The top 8th grade boy and 8th grade girl also received a round-trip flight on Southwest Airlines, compliments of Southwest Airlines.

YMCA Commends Volunteers

The Southwest YMCA held its 29th annual meeting and volunteer recognition dinner on Feb. 23rd. The event recognized the outstanding service of volunteers who contribute time, talent and energy to the Southwest YMCA, including board members, foster parents, Y-Indian Guides and Princesses leaders, the Y Service League and other program volunteers.

Special recognition was given to Wayne Gray, chairman of the Southwest Y's Board of Directors and Oak Lawn resident who was named 'Volunteer of the Year.' His involvement in the Southwest YMCA dates back to 1972 when he and his son joined the Y-Indian Guides and Princesses program. He joined the Southwest Y's board in 1986 and became chairman in 1990.

Under his leadership, the Southwest YMCA recently ran its first Capital Campaign, raising funds toward the purchase and renovation of the Barn in Blue Island, an area-wide community youth center. He has volunteered to serve in a similar capacity as chairman of the Southwest Y's Annual Campaign. The March of Dimes and various political campaigns have also benefited from Gray's volunteerism.

For a brochure describing the full range of Southwest Y's programs and services, readers may telephone the Alsip office at (708) 385-6700.

Letter To The Editor

Editor:

This is a letter of appreciation to our coach Chet Mirus who has been working very hard all season long for the Oak Lawn Park District Wrestling Wildcats, trying to keep young boys off the streets and in the gym. Coach has taken so much time away from his family and we just wanted to let him know he is "the best." He makes us feel important and we tried hard for him this year and will try harder next year. He always gave us a pat on the back to make us feel good even when we took our losses. Thanks for having faith in us.

ILLINOIS HOUSE COMMITTEE APPROVES LICENSE FEE INCREASE - HB 1990 and HB 1991 were approved by the House Agriculture and Conservation Committee on a 12-6 vote with one member voting present. The House Agriculture and Conservation Committee requires 12 votes in favor of a bill to send it to the House floor.

The bills were approved by the committee, but have a long way to go before the bill reaches the Governor's desk. Much of the credit for approval of the bills goes to Reps. Joel Brunsvold of Milan and Larry Wennlund of New Lenox, who are sponsoring the bills, and to constituent groups who have been contacting their legislators letting them know how important the additional funds are to their recreational pursuit.

HB 1990 increases the following: a sportman's license from $13 to $18.50, a fishing license from $7 to $12.50, a half-price fishing license for seniors, a non-resident fishing license from $15 to $24, a non-resident 10-day from $8 to $12.50, a 1-day Lake Michigan fishing fee from $2 to $5, a Lake Michigan salmon stamp from $2 to $6, a new inland trout stamp at $6, the commercial fishing fee from $25 to $35, the commercial non-resident fishing fee from $100 to $150 and a commercial mussel license from $25 to $50.

HB 1991 creates half-price senior hunting and fishing licenses for individuals at least age 65 and requires all individuals age 62 and older (except POWs and disabled veterans) to pay half-price camping fees Monday-Thursday and full price Friday-Saturday for sites with showers or electricity. Seniors age 62-64 currently pay half-price camping Monday-Thursday and full-price on weekends, while individuals 65 or older camp for free Monday-Thursday. The bill also increases the following: non-resident hunting license from $45 to $50, five-day non-resident hunting license from $25 to $28, a three-year boat registration fee by $2 to $4 annually depending on the size of the boat.

DUCKS UNLIMITED, INC. (DU)-The world's largest private sector wetlands and waterfowl conservation organization, hosted dedication ceremonies for its new national headquarters in Memphis on Saturday, March 13.

The facility known as the International Center for Wetlands and Waterfowl Conservation, serves as the administrative, fund-raising and research hub for the conservation organization and housed all national and international habitat programs and services for DU's nearly half million members.

In September of last year, DU moved its national headquarters to Memphis from Long Grove, IL., after local regulations prevented expansion of the suburban Chicago facility.

Ducks Unlimited is the world's largest private sector waterfowl and wetlands conservation organization with nearly 500,000 members nationally. Since its inception in 1937, DU has raised more than $760 million and conserved over 6 million acres of habitat throughout North America.

Golf Courses Open

Just when you thought winter would never end, the Forest Preserve District of Cook County officially opened its 10 golf courses and 4 driving ranges for the 1993 spring/summer season on Thursday, March 25th (weather permitting), announced Cook County Board President Richard Phelan.

"The beginning of the golf season is always a welcome relief from winter," Phelan said. "The Forest Preserve District has instituted new changes that will undoubtedly make golf more enjoyable for county residents."

For the first time, the Forest Preserve District will offer twilight play. Special twilight rates will be available on weekdays and weekends and holidays (except at Billy Caldwell and Meadowlark Golf Courses).

Also for the first time, golfers will be able to make advance telephone reservations for up to seven days in advance for all of the courses. Reservations can be made by calling (708) 366-9466 from a touch-tone phone.

"The advance reservation will allow fair and equitable access to the golf courses," Phelan said, "and this will make it easier for residents to use the golf courses."

To really take advantage of this golf season, Phelan is encouraging Cook County residents to purchase a resident identification card, which entitles them to special low rates on weekdays, weekends and holidays. The $20 card will be available for purchase at the various golf courses.

"The Forest Preserve District has some of the finest golf courses in the area," Phelan said. "We are proud to offer such extensive golfing opportunities to Cook County citizens."

For more information on obtaining a resident discount card, advance reservation system and general golfing information, contact the recreation department at (708) 771-1550, TDD (708) 771-1190.

BASEBALL ROUND-UP

The baseball season is in full swing and local teams are braving the likes of snow and cold temperatures to get their games in.

Tuesday Games (March 30th)

Joliet Catholic Academy 9 - Shepard 3

The Astros came up a tad short as they faced the Joliet Catholic Academy Hilltoppers and lost the match-up 9-3. Shepard's record went to .500 at 1-1.

Nazareth Academy 19 - Luther South 0

It only took five innings for the Nazareth Academy Roadrunners to wipe out Luther South's Braves 19-0. The Roadrunners got 18 walks off of Brave pitching in this Private School League game. The Braves managed to connect for one hit.

Sandburg 11 - Lincoln-Way 2

A grand slam homer off the bat of catcher Doug Murray put the icing on the cake for Sandburg as they took down the Knights 11-2 in New Lenox. The game was called after four innings because of darkness, but it was all the time that Sandburg needed. Murray also went 2 for 3 at the plate with six RBI. The winning pitcher was Tony O'Brien.

Bremen 5 - Joliet Central 2

The Braves got the '93 season underway with a victory over the Joliet Central Steelmen 5-2. Brave pitcher Mickey Oganovich worked the mound for five innings and kept the Steelmen hitless. Dennis Smith came on in relief and gave up only one hit in his two-inning performance.

Hot bats for the Braves belonged to John Abramic as he went 2 for 3 with a double, two runs scored and an RBI. Adam Verble connected on 2 out of 3 trips to the plate, tallied a double and an RBI.

St. Laurence 3 - Kelly 1

A lone first inning single from Viking Pete Lotus was enough for St. Laurence to chalk up a 3-1 win over the Trojans. Lotus stole second and scored on a botched pickoff throw. Wayne Drukenis hit a sacrifice fly. Viking hurler Joe DiGangi fanned nine Trojans in three innings to get the win.

Eisenhower 3 - Argo 2

The Cardinals edged the Argonauts 3-2 during this contest in Blue Island. The Argonauts' Tony Novak took the loss.

Brother Rice 9 - Kennedy 5

The Rice Crusaders had their act together as they took down the Kennedy Crusaders from the other side of town 9-5 in Mt. Greenwood. Rice pitcher Brian Dundee got the win in 4 2/3 innings on the mound. He struck out eight and allowed only one earned run.

Connecting for Rice were Jim Schmidt, who went 3 for 4 with a pair of doubles, two RBI, and two runs scored, and Mike Stritch was 3 for 4 with a double and four RBI.

Monday Games (April 5th)

Brother Rice 3 - Curie 2

The Crusaders pulled this one out of their hats 3-2 over Curie's Condors with a seventh inning comeback spurt triggered by Jim Schmidt's single shot to right field.

They had the game knotted with a suicide squeeze bunt off the bat of Jeff Venable that drove in Jim Ficaro from third.

Jim Sexton started the game on the mound and went six innings before Jim Fitzmaurice came in to relieve.

"What a ballgame," commented a happy Crusader coach Cliff Petrak. "It took us a while to get things going offensively, but we finally did. We got some real timely offense today when we needed it. It was just a great ballgame to watch."

St. Rita 12 - Eisenhower 1

St. Rita's Mustangs trounced Eisenhower's Cardinals 12-1 in Blue Island. Four Mustang batters put it together at the plate and pounded on the Cardinal pitching staff.

John Nee connected for a trio of hits and a pair of RBI, Pete Kelly came away with a pair of hits and two RBI, Brian Romanowski clouted a pair of hits and two RBI, and Neal Naworocki tallied two hits and two RBI.

The Mustang winning pitcher was Jason Wallace, who fanned 11 Cardinal hitters in five innings.

Shepard 5 - Mt. Carmel 2

The star Astro for this game was Craig Taczy as he pitched the entire contest and added a two-out, two-run double shot in the third inning.

Oak Forest 4 - Thornridge 2

Oak Forest's Bengals combined pitching skills with hot bats as they took care of business against Thornridge's Falcons 4-2 in a non-conference match-up in Oak Forest.

Bengal hurlers Dave Kinsella and Brian Dainton put their arms together and kept the Falcons from connecting at the plate.

Bengals Dan Castellaneta (1 for 2 with two RBI) and Adrian Nazar (1 for 2 with one RBI) provided the necessary offense.

Chicago Christian 2 - St. Laurence 1

The Vikes came up at the short end of the bat as they fell in a tight contest to Chicago Christian Knights 2-1 in Burbank.

St. Laurence was only able to master a trio of hits off of Knight pitching.

Evergreen Park 10 - Richards 8

The Bulldogs battled bravely but couldn't come up with a win over Evergreen Park's Mustangs in Oak Lawn as they fell 10-8.

This non-conference contest saw Mustang pitcher Matt Zdand take the win and he also went 2 for 3 at the plate and had a trio of RBI. Teammate Mike O'Reilly also had a successful day at the plate as he tallied 3 for 4 with one RBI.

Argo 9 - Tinley Park 4

Jason Michalowicz hurled a complete game for Argo and he fanned eight Titan batters.

At the plate, Argonauts George Spatharakis (2 for 3 with a trio of RBI) and Tony Novak, who clouted a 2-run triple shot, put a spark in the offense.

Trout Fishing Mapbook Now Available

Wisconsin's thousands of miles of inland trout streams are presently placed into various categories for management purposes, by the state's department of natural resources: (class one) high grade trout waters with conditions favorable for natural reproduction, requiring little or no stocking of hatchery fish; (class two) some native trout but not in sufficient numbers with moderate to heavy stocking required to maintain good fishing; and (class three) marginal trout habitat where stocking legal trout is necessary to provide trout fishing.

The book "Wisconsin Trout Waters" provides detailed, two-color maps showing the class one and two sections of the streams. The surrounding territory with all roads, especially county trunk highways and town roads, are provided on each map. Fishermen can pre-plan the trip using the maps and the accompanying trout species index. The angler can spend time on the stream instead of needlessly driving.

The book has been updated, revised and enlarged to 60 pages and is available by sending $12.95 to "Wisconsin Trout Waters," Stock No. 913M, P.O. Box 5096, Madison, Wisconsin 53705-0096.

Separate from the maps is a list for all trout streams in the state, with notes as to species of trout, stream length and location.

Chick Evans Scholars Named

This fall 206 students from 15 states will begin their freshman year in college with full tuition and housing scholarships from the Evans Scholars Foundation.

The Foundation selected the scholarship winners at meetings held in 10 states this winter. Most of the students will live in Evans Scholars chapter houses at 14 universities.

With the incoming freshman class, enrollment of Evans Scholar students will total approximately 850 in the 1993-94 school year. All of the Scholars are golf caddies or former caddies who earned scholarships based on four criteria: academic record, financial need, caddie record and character.

"These young people have demonstrated their abilities and dedication both in the classroom and as caddies on the golf course," Jim Moore, educational director of the Evans Scholars Foundation, said. "We are confident they will continue the tradition of academic excellence and campus involvement established by the 5,700 former caddies who have graduated as Evans Scholars."

The Evans Scholars program, sponsored by the Western Golf Association, was founded in 1930 by Charles "Chick" Evans Jr., famed Chicago amateur golfer and winner of the 1916 U.S. Open. Since then, the program has grown to become the largest privately funded scholarship program in the nation.

Funds for the scholarships come mostly from contributions by more than 100,000 golfers who annually donate more than $5 million to the Foundation. Golfers contribute through the sponsoring Western Golf Association's Bag Tag Program and the WGA Par Club.

The scholarship program also benefits from special charitable gifts and from proceeds generated by the Sprint Western Open, the Chicago area's annual PGA Tour tournament conducted by the WGA.

"Not only does the Jump-a-thon raise funds for Heart Association research and programs, it teaches children the importance of exercise at an early age, before heart disease can begin to develop."

Every participating student will receive a "Jump T-Shirt" and a heart-healthy snack from Blue Cross. Each school will be represented by a team of four jumping students. Four student teams will win tickets to a Cubs' home game.

This is the fifth year of the "Jump Rope for Heart" demonstration. This year's goal is $739,000. Students in the Chicagoland area have been jumping rope for the Heart Association for fifteen years.

"We're very proud to be once again working with the Heart Association," said Blue Cross vice president Richard F. O'Connell. "Both Blue Cross and the Heart Association are leaders in establishing better health for the people of Chicagoland, and heart research is a most worthwhile investment."

Hawk Scholarship Awardee Is Named

St. Laurence goalie Sean Carter has been chosen as the recipient of the 1993 Chicago Blackhawks alumni scholarship award. The $2,000 renewable scholarship is given annually and is presented to an Illinois ice hockey player who combines athletic skills with academic excellence and extracurricular involvement. Carter was presented the award at the Blackhawks alumni luncheon on March 8th. Former Blackhawks defenseman Keith Magnuson presented the award.

Each year St. Laurence coach Tom Kurzawski nominates one player who "has exhibited the overall characteristics needed to win this award. The choice for nomination was between a few of our players, but Sean had tremendous drive, both academically and athletically. He is the best overall representative from St. Laurence High School." Carter is the second St. Laurence player to receive the award in the last three years. Keith Johnson won the coveted award in 1991.

Carter boasts the number two ranking in St. Laurence's senior class and carries a 4.23 grade point average. He has been starting goaltender for the Vikings for most of the last two seasons. His play this season earned him a spot on the Catholic League all-star team and he is one of two Vikings recently named to the Illinois all-state team. His 2.08 goals against average ranked first in the Catholic League. He served as captain of the hockey team and also was St. Laurence's Most Valuable Player. In addition, he is a member of the National Honor Society, an NHS tutor and an Illinois State Scholar.

"It's a great honor to win this award," said Carter recently. "Only one high school hockey player in Illinois receives this award annually, so I feel fortunate to be in select company. Though this award comes in the form of personal recognition, my family, my teammates and the entire student body at St. Laurence share in this."

Carter is a graduate of Tinley Heights Grammar School and resides in Orland Park with his parents John and Kathy. He has narrowed his choice of colleges to Wisconsin, Michigan Tech and Michigan State.

Sixth For MV Team

The Moraine Valley Community College Speech Team ended its 1992-93 season with a strong sixth place team sweepstakes win at the Phi Rho Pi regional tournament hosted by Illinois Central College. This win marked a historic moment for the college's forensics program as it was the first team placement in regional competition by a Moraine Valley team. The achievement was especially rewarding since this year's forensics team consisted of all novice, first year competitors.

Individual contributors to this success were James Fisher of Worth, gold medal in persuasive speaking; Kevin Krejca of Palos Hills, gold medal in extemporaneous speaking and bronze medal in communication analysis; Christopher Ceccato of Palos Park, silver medal in informative speaking; Jason Cichocki of Burbank, bronze medal in dramatic interpretation; and Joseph Haleem of Justice, bronze medal in speech to entertain. Fine performances were also given by Chris Kinsella of Evergreen Park in informative speaking and Akira Nojiri of Worth in prose.

With seven members of the team returning next year, Moraine Valley should have a strong varsity team for next season's competition.

For more information on the Moraine Valley forensics team, call Patricia Baden at (708) 974-5254.

Senior Housing Update

The Suburban Area Agency on Aging has announced the availability of the "Suburban Senior Housing Directory Winter 1992 Update." The directory contains valuable information for older persons in suburban Cook County on such topics as continuing care retirement communities, homesharing programs, home repair and maintenance programs and reverse mortgages. The directory also provides seniors with valuable information on subsidized housing and property tax deferral, weatherization and energy assistance programs. Included are names, addresses and telephone numbers of over 140 traditional and nontraditional housing facilities in the suburban Cook County area.

The complete directory is available from the agency at a cost of $30. Future update sheets are an additional $10. To order the directory, contact Mary Bowers (708) 383-0258.

The first grade students in Mrs. Hennen's class at Lane School celebrated the 100th day of school by cutting out red, pink and white paper hearts then laying them end to end in the hallway, until they had 100 hearts. The students were encouraged to predict how long the "chain of hearts" would be and where in the hallway it would end. The hearts ended up being over 30 feet long. Pictured with the chain of hearts are (standing) Michael Dillenbeck and Chris Quintanilla (seated) Liz Tobin and Allison Enriquez.

Report Indicates EPA Data Poorly Managed

Poorly managed data and too little research are among the problems facing the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), according to a recent report by the U.S. Government Accounting Office (GAO). The report, released in January as part of a series of transition audits produced by the GAO every four years, concluded that significant changes must be made at the EPA before the agency could be elevated to a Cabinet-level department.

Among the recommendations are program priorities should be based on the risk to public health and the environment. The GAO noted that setting priorities based on actual risk could be difficult "as long as public policy and in particular, the budget allocation process are dominated by public perceptions of risk rather than by scientific and expert judgment." The EPA should rely more on market-based incentives, rather than government regulations, to reduce the costs of complying with environmental standards. In order to assess environmental risks, better scientific data should be developed. According to the report, scientific data "often do not exist or, when they are available, are of poor quality or difficult to access and use."

Also, alternative financing, technology and managerial approaches should be developed in order to help state and local governments bear the financial burdens placed on them by federal environmental requirements. Better accountability is needed to correct the weaknesses that have "affected the efficiency and effectiveness of virtually all of EPA's programs." For example, the GAO reported that the EPA does not adequately monitor the costs associated with federal contractors.

The GAO found that mismanagement was not unique to the EPA, however. As a Jan. 8th "Newsday" story reported, another GAO study noted that the federal government wastes money in a variety of "big and small ways," ranging from the use of outdated computers, which kept the Internal Revenue Service from collecting up to $111 billion in overdue taxes, to overpaying for supplies.

SXU Prof At Marist

Eileen Quinn Knight, professor of psychology and mathematics at St. Xavier University, recently spoke to the faculty at Marist High School on alternate assessment for students. Her presentation was a part of the current outcomes accreditation program for the North Central Association (NCA) accreditation underway at the school.

Professor Knight spent an entire morning in August, then returned last week to help the faculty and staff use the multidimensional process of judging students. Through alternate/authentic assessment, teachers can gradually assist the student to take control of his own learning process. All students are included in this process and through authentic assessment, they will possess the process skills of communication, decision making, problem solving, group process and accountability.

The entire process provides the Marist staff with tools to prepare students for the world of the 21st century.

During his lifetime, he'll create over 50 tons of trash.
Why let it go to waste?

You think kids are the only ones who make messes?

In a lifetime, the average American throws away 700 times his or her adult weight in trash.

Of course, a lot of that can be recycled. And it should be. Recyclable containers of aluminum, steel, glass and plastic, plus newspapers and cardboard, make up 27% of our trash.

But that leaves a lot of unrecyclable trash to dispose of. (The sort of stuff you'd find in his pockets and under his bed.) Everything from used tissues to soiled food packaging.

Today, in the South Suburbs, we bury almost all of our trash. Yet, in places like Sweden, after recyclables are removed, the unrecyclable trash is turned into useful electricity — cleanly, safely, and efficiently. Just like the Robbins Recycling and Trash-to-Energy Plant will do.

Trash is a fact of life. And so is disposing of it. Let's not dump the problem on our kids.

Attends Seminar On Fiscal Concerns

Worth Township Supervisor Joan Patricia Murphy is pleased to report that she participated in a symposium entitled "Impact of Fiscal Stress on State and Local Governments" hosted by the University of Illinois at Chicago on March 4th and 5th.

According to Supervisor Murphy "the term fiscal stress is not new to government. The purpose for my attending this governmental accounting symposium revolved around entertaining new and better ways to measure and manage fiscal stress facing local governmental bodies..le Worth Township."

The symposium consisted of two program segments. Initially, we observed a half-day technical workshop focusing on measuring and evaluating the effect of fiscal stress, particularly from the perspective of capital markets. Next, the full-day main program emphasized an alternative strategy and approaches to manage such stress.

"I felt that this conference was extremely informative and beneficial. Many new and innovative ideas surfaced.

JOAN MURPHY

Procuring funds for improving and expanding programs for taxpayers, without burdening them financially, was a priority," stated Murphy.

"I have learned about additional ways to report our income and expenditures to insure an excellent rating for the township, if we ever have to plan a capital improvement project.

"In the final analysis a few of the most effective tools to determine what taxpayers want are surveys and town meetings, and I intend to employ both of these in the future," Murphy concluded.

Interfaith Service

An interfaith prayer service, with all assemblies in the 'Village of Churches' is to be held on Good Friday, April 9th, at Bethel Lutheran Church, 3240 W. 98th St. All residents are encouraged to attend this service which begins at 12 noon.

Veneration of the Cross is scheduled at 3 p.m. in St. Bernadette Church, 9343 S. Francisco. The veneration is not in the evening as in previous years, for the sake of those who do not go out after dark. It is timed for the hour of Jesus' death after he had been on the cross for three hours. However, an evening service with the Stations of the Cross is to be held in the church at 7:30 p.m.

Dance Social

Young Single Parents, Chapter 104, is having a dance social on Thursday, April 15th, at the Burbank Rose, 6501 W. 79th St. Doors open at 8:30 p.m. For more information call (312) 581-5589.

Seek Home Rehab Volunteers

Christmas In April * Metro Chicago is seeking skilled and unskilled persons to help repair 26 single-family homes in the Chicago area on Saturday, April 24th. The homes, owned by disabled, elderly and low-income people, are located in the Lawndale and Englewood communities, as well as in suburban Ford Heights, Harvey and Maywood. Interested volunteers may write or call Christmas in April * Metro Chicago: P.O. Box 641250, Chicago, IL 60664-1250, (312) 201-1188.

Christmas in April * Metro Chicago is a joint venture between the public and private sectors. Mayor Richard M. Daley and Cook County Board President Richard J. Phelan are honorary co-chairmen.

Mayor Daley remarked, "I am proud to once again have Chicago participate in Christmas in April. I am also proud of the fact that Chicago is the largest participant of Christmas in April. It says a lot about the fine and caring individuals who live in our city."

Phelan commented, "Last year, volunteers from across the county helped renovate and rehab eight homes in the area. This year, Christmas will come early for 26 homeowners. Cook County government is proud to help administer such a valuable program. County employees will lend their time and expertise as well as solicit private enterprise for valuable supplies. By rebuilding we help build pride in our neighborhoods and strengthen our communities."

Corporate sponsorships range from $2,000 per home; $5,000 a block; $10,000 for the program itself.

Last year seven general contractors and two unions participated in Christmas in April. This year a total of 21 firms are expected to become involved. The City of Chicago and Cook County became the nation's largest metropolitan area to participate in the program during last year's pilot event.

Celebrate Earth Day

The Metropolitan Water Reclamation District of Greater Chicago will be at the John G. Shedd Aquarium this week to celebrate Earth Day. From Thursday, April 8th through Saturday, April 10th from 12 noon until 4 p.m., the District will graphically demonstrate the increase in fish life in the local waterways that is the result of the District's success in keeping pollution out of the streams and rivers.

Commissioner Kathleen Therese Meany, chairman of the Public Information and Education Committee, said,

"Many more numbers and a greater variety of fish are being found today in the Chicago River, the North Shore Channel and the Sanitary and Ship Canal because polluted stormwater is being kept out of the water. Increased fish life is the best evidence of the improved condition in the waterways."

A fish biologist from the District will be on hand to answer questions and present a slide show that illustrates the local fish life. Coloring books will be available free for children who visit the exhibit.

Campus Recruits

Data on the behavior of employers, such as their recruiting activity on campuses, suggest no unusual efforts to hire college graduates. For example, a College Placement Council survey of 1989-90 graduates found that even though 60 percent of the seniors used the placement office, only 27 percent found jobs through the office and only 9 percent were hired through on-campus interviews. If graduates were in short supply and employers needed to seek them out, one would expect employers to hire more graduates through school placement offices, according to the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Illinois Attorney General Roland W. Burris recently visited the Meadowland School in Merrionette Park, where he spoke to school children about his position.

Begin Historic Pullman District Tours

Guided walking tours of the Historic Pullman District, a city, state and national historic landmark begin the 1993 season on May 2nd and continue on the first Sunday of each month through October. Those dates are June 6th, July 4th, Aug. 1st, Sept. 5th and Oct. 3rd. Tours will begin at the Historic Pullman Center, 614 E. 113th St., at 12:30 and 1:30 p.m. and are $3.50 for adults, $3 for seniors and $2 for students with the appropriate ID. Pullman's 20th annual house tour on Oct. 9th and 10th from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. features a number of homes opened for viewing. Visitors may enjoy brunch at the Victorian, elegantly appointed Hotel Florence, the town's focal point, before the tours. In conjunction with the city's "Chicago '93" centennial celebration of the 1893 World's Columbian Exposition, a highlight of this year's tours will feature a brief discussion and walk around the famous Market Circle. Visitors are invited to see George M. Pullman's famous Market Circle apartment buildings erected to house his personal and business friends during their visit to the 1893 exposition.

Pullman is an architectural and historic national treasure. Built by George M. Pullman's Palace Car Company in 1880-1884 as a model industrial community, it was considered "the world's most perfect town." Now, a century later, it is of paramount interest as a place in which historic preservation stimulates vitality and commitment. Tours begin with a brief multimedia presentation which introduces visitors to the historic district. A trained knowledgeable volunteer accompanies guests through the community, giving an informed commentary and answering questions.

School District 126 PTA has spotlighted young authors in the district and recently awarded trophies to grade winners of a writing contest. Winners were K-2nd grade, Brittany Baitman; 3-4th grade Dan Daizell and Josh Robinson, co-authors; 5-6th grade Laura Saikas, and 7-8th grade Kristen Dierkes. Pictured are the intermediate winners of School District 126 Young Authors contest. District 126 serves students of Alsip, Hazelgreen and Oak Lawn.

Group tour packages are also available. One price includes the tour and luncheon at the Hotel Florence. The hotel's spacious dining rooms, parlor, lobby and bar, "The Brass Tapper," offer gracious service blended with timeless tradition. The hotel is open daily throughout the year for lunch (11 a.m. to 2 p.m.); on Saturday for breakfast (9 a.m. to 1 p.m.); on Sunday for a sumptuous and reasonably priced brunch (10 a.m. to 3 p.m., $8.95 for adults, $4.95 for children); and is also available for weddings, banquets, business meetings and private parties.

Other events include the Victorian Dinners on June 26th, Sept. 11th and Dec. 3rd & 4th. All proceeds support the effort to restore the hotel and help to support historic preservation in Pullman.

For more information concerning the tours and the Victorian Dinners, call (312) 785-8181. For more information concerning the hotel's restaurant, call (312) 785-8900. The Hotel Florence is at 111th St. and Forrestville Ave. (at Cottage Grove), four blocks west of I-94 and one block from the Pullman Station (111th St.) of the Metra/Illinois Central Railroad.

College Students

College enrollment rates for whites have increased fairly steadily since the early 1980s, from about 50 percent in 1980 to 65 percent in 1991. Rates for blacks and Hispanics have fluctuated significantly since the mid-1970s. Overall, however, Hispanic enrollment increased only a few percentage points, and rates for blacks changed little, according to the U.S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Board Appointee

Cook County Sheriff Michael F. Sheahan recently announced the appointment of former FBI Special Agent Terrence Hake, the government's lead investigator in "Operation Greylord," to the Sheriff's Merit Board. The five-member board administers testing and background checks on prospective sheriff's officers and conducts promotional exams and disciplinary hearings for all sworn sheriff's personnel.

The Cook County Board of Commissioners approved Hake's appointment.

Hake, 41, gained national attention in the 1980s as an undercover "mole" in the federal government's investigation of corruption in the Cook County court system. "Operation Greylord" resulted in the prosecution and conviction of more than 90 judges, attorneys and court employees. Hake left the FBI in 1988 to become inspector general of the Regional Transportation Authority (RTA).

"The integrity of the entire sheriff's office ultimately rests with the merit board as they are the body responsible for making the final decision in all disciplinary cases," Sheahan said. "Terry is an individual of unquestioned integrity who is perfectly suited for this position. His extensive experience in fighting corruption makes him well-equipped to ensure that the board meets the highest standards of ethics."

Merit Board members, who work in a part-time capacity, serve six-year terms and are paid $10,000 annually. Hake will retain his post with the RTA while serving on the board.

POLICE CALLS

The following incidents were listed in the official reports of the Oak Lawn Police Department. Readers are reminded that an arrest by police does not constitute a finding of guilt and only a court of law can make that determination.

On March 26th, Barry Construction Co. of Summit reported that $2,480 worth of tools for carpentry were taken. Vickie Stoklosa, 18, and Karen Pader, 17, both of Burbank, told police they were stopped at a red light at 95th and Cicero when a group of youngsters, 10 to 12 years of age, approached the car demanding a ride. Some of them opened the car door but were stopped by Pader. A short time later as the girls were driving north on Cicero they saw the group again at Rosie's Drive-in. They threw rocks and eggs at the car. The windshield was chipped in several spots and there were scratches on the hood of the car. Stoklosa was hit by an egg and Pader was hit on the arm with a rock. The offenders were Hispanic or Arabic wearing starter jackets.

Ali Sheikh of Oak Lawn reported someone threw a six-inch landscape rock on the left side of his van. He told police he has had the same type of damage many times in the past and has ongoing problems with youths residing in a nearby house. Complaints will be signed.

John P. McMahon of Oak Lawn told police he had come home at 1:30 p.m. on the 27th and parked in the street in front of his home. When he went to the car on the 27th, found eggs smashed on the windshield which was also cracked. Estimated cost to repair is $250.

On the 27th, Lawrence Hughes of Darien was seen by the K-Mart security agent with a 13-inch remote control Sharp color TV. The offender left through the main entrance without paying. He was detained by the agent until police arrived. He was charged with retail theft.

Lisa Gonzales of Chicago was seen by a security agent at Walgreen's, 8708 S. Cicero, taking bottles of vitamins off the shelf, concealing them in her blouse and leaving without paying. She was charged with retail theft.

On March 29th, Jennifer Molinar of Mokena came to the police station to report that while she was parked in the lot at 4700 W. 103rd St., someone stole the spare tire and wheel from her car. It will cost $150 to replace.

Peter Costello, owner of Costello's Harp & Shamrock, 9953 Southwest Highway, reported that someone had pushed down a 10-foot section of chain link fence and also the horizontal pole was taken. Estimated cost to repair is $200.

On March 30th at 10:49 p.m., police were called to the 5700 block of 90th Pl. about a theft in progress. When the officer arrived, he talked to Shirlee Ward who told him that when she had looked out of her basement window, she saw a white vehicle with the parking lights on parked in the street next to her car. She had called police but the vehicle was gone by the time they arrived. The offender had removed the dome light cover, the in-dash AM/FM cassette stereo with equalizer valued at $250 and caused another $250 damage to the dashboard for a loss of $500. Also taken was a black folding case with eight audio cassette tapes and eight other tapes were missing for a total of $460.

On the 30th at 7:43 a.m., Sandy Paskus of Oak Lawn reported someone slashed the 24-foot swimming pool liner which will cost $750 to replace.

The owner of the Clip Artist, 9706 S. Cicero Ave., reported someone had shot a BB through his 6x6 ft. window of the shop. Estimated cost to repair is $100.

On April 2nd at 3:21 a.m., two officers were called to Les Brothers Restaurant at 8705 S. Ridgeland Ave. to investigate criminal damage to a vehicle. Johnnie Dougherty of Chicago Ridge told police he is a CBER and was sitting in his car parked in the plaza lot and parked next to him was his friend John Yurka of Burbank. Dougherty saw his ex-girlfriend walk to her car. Deborah Tinman saw him and waved him over which he did and when he got there, she began yelling blaming him for letting the air out of her tires. Dougherty denied this, then Tinman allegedly became violent and began punching him in the face, kicking the car door and broke the side-view mirror. She then got into her car to leave and Dougherty said he punched and broke the left taillight of her car.

LIBRARY NOTES

An "Underwater Travelog" in two-parts is scheduled for 7 p.m. Thursdays, April 8th and 15th, at the library. Master scuba diver Frank Slonina will bring slides from some of his latest dives featuring underwater views of sea life and sea plant life. Two years ago, Slonina's presentations drew rave reviews from his library audiences. Using two cameras, Slonina photographs underwater subjects from around the world. The color, the beauty and the exposure to an underwater world seen by very few provides evenings of great enjoyment. The close-up, macro lens views are highlights of the programs.

Additional information on library programs is available from Mary Nelson, public relations and development officer at 422-4990.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Editor:

Heh, what's going on? A case of Ripley's Believe It or Not has struck Oak Lawn where the United Village Reform Party (UVRP) has clung to the all-too-common "Putting People First" motto which was used successfully by President Clinton.

Could it be that the opposition here in Oak Lawn is so starved for a winning strategy that they have to look to their opponents for an answer, not to mention turning to dirty tactics to win votes? Believe it or not, this is exactly what is happening with UVRP led by Robert Streit, a person who claims to want change for the better but continues to support the "patronage politics" poured into the system of late by he and his fellow cronies.

This is especially evident by the backdoor dealings that occurred last year, resulting in the hiring of Village Manager Michael Feeley for $77,000 and his co-conspirator Dave Looby as Public Information Officer. Looby, who is not even an Oak Lawn resident, currently receives an annual salary of $48,100 with a village car and fringe benefits. This is a change for the better? Blasphemous. Outrageous. Horrendous. Ridiculous. Are we, as a village, going to allow this to happen? I think not. We need to stand up and be counted and, more importantly, come out in full force on April 20th and vote against Streit and his other slated UVRP candidates.

Otherwise, we may begin hearing the tune from "Don't Stop Thinking About Tomorrow" at UVRP's functions throughout the village. And somehow, I seriously doubt they could carry a tune!

Sincerely,
Mary Nolan

What Was Happening...

50 YEARS AGO THIS WEEK IN THE INDEPENDENT

St. Gerald's School, Oak Lawn, recently was given wide publicity when a picture was printed in a metropolitan newspaper, showing the school's seven set of twins. The twins in the school are: Donald and Ronald Pfeiffer; Bobby and Buddy Belz; Bobby and Betty Bruan; Elaine and Eleanor Buehler; Dorothy and Dolores De Runtz; David and Donald Walsh; and James and John Dehne. Four sets of twins - all boys - are in the first grade.

Mrs. Margaret Dracha, stamp and bond chairman of Columbus Manor, announced this week that the Simmons School children had sold $900 in war stamps in two weeks - enough to buy a jeep, although the time allotted for the sale was six weeks.

The Women's Republican Club of Worth Township will hold their election of officers on Tuesday, April 13th at the Legion Hall in Oak Lawn. Only paid-up members are permitted to vote and these are urgently requested to attend.

The Oak Lawn PTA is asking all parents to have children entering school this fall to have their doctor examine them or to bring them in for a free examination. They will be notified as to the time and place if they will call Mrs. R. Rosenau, Oak Lawn 208.

The young married people's group of the Oak Lawn Congregational Church are practicing on a comedy, "I'll Explain Everything," to be presented on May 7th at Covington School. Mrs. Carl Lambright, who is an honorary member of this organization, is directing the show and that alone is a promise of a good time.

YMCA Campaign For Funds

The Southwest YMCA launched an eight-week annual fundraising campaign to fund quality programs and meet the diverse needs of youth and families in south and southwest Cook County on Tuesday, March 22nd, with a kick-off orientation for volunteer campaigners who were given materials to assist them in making personal contacts. The Southwest Y, Alsip, joins other YMCAs in promoting good health, strong families, confident kids, solid communities and a better world. It provides quality programs to meet diverse needs of youth and families. Programs include, but are not limited to, counseling, crisis intervention and prevention activities.

The Southwest Y blends the traditional and the non-traditional, providing programs such as Indian Guides and Princesses, Youth and Government, foster care and other outreach programs. Unlike many other YMCAs, the Southwest Y does not have a pool and gym facility, but reaches out into the communities of six suburban townships -- from Burbank to Tinley Park and Blue Island to Palos Park, as well as Beverly/Morgan Park and Mt. Greenwood, working in close contact with local police departments, schools and other organizations.

The main facility is located in Alsip with others in Oak Lawn, Blue Island and Harvey. One of the strengths is the ability to network with neighborhood agencies and institutions to bring services to those parts of the community where the need is greatest. The Southwest Y is a branch of the YMCA of Metropolitan Chicago.

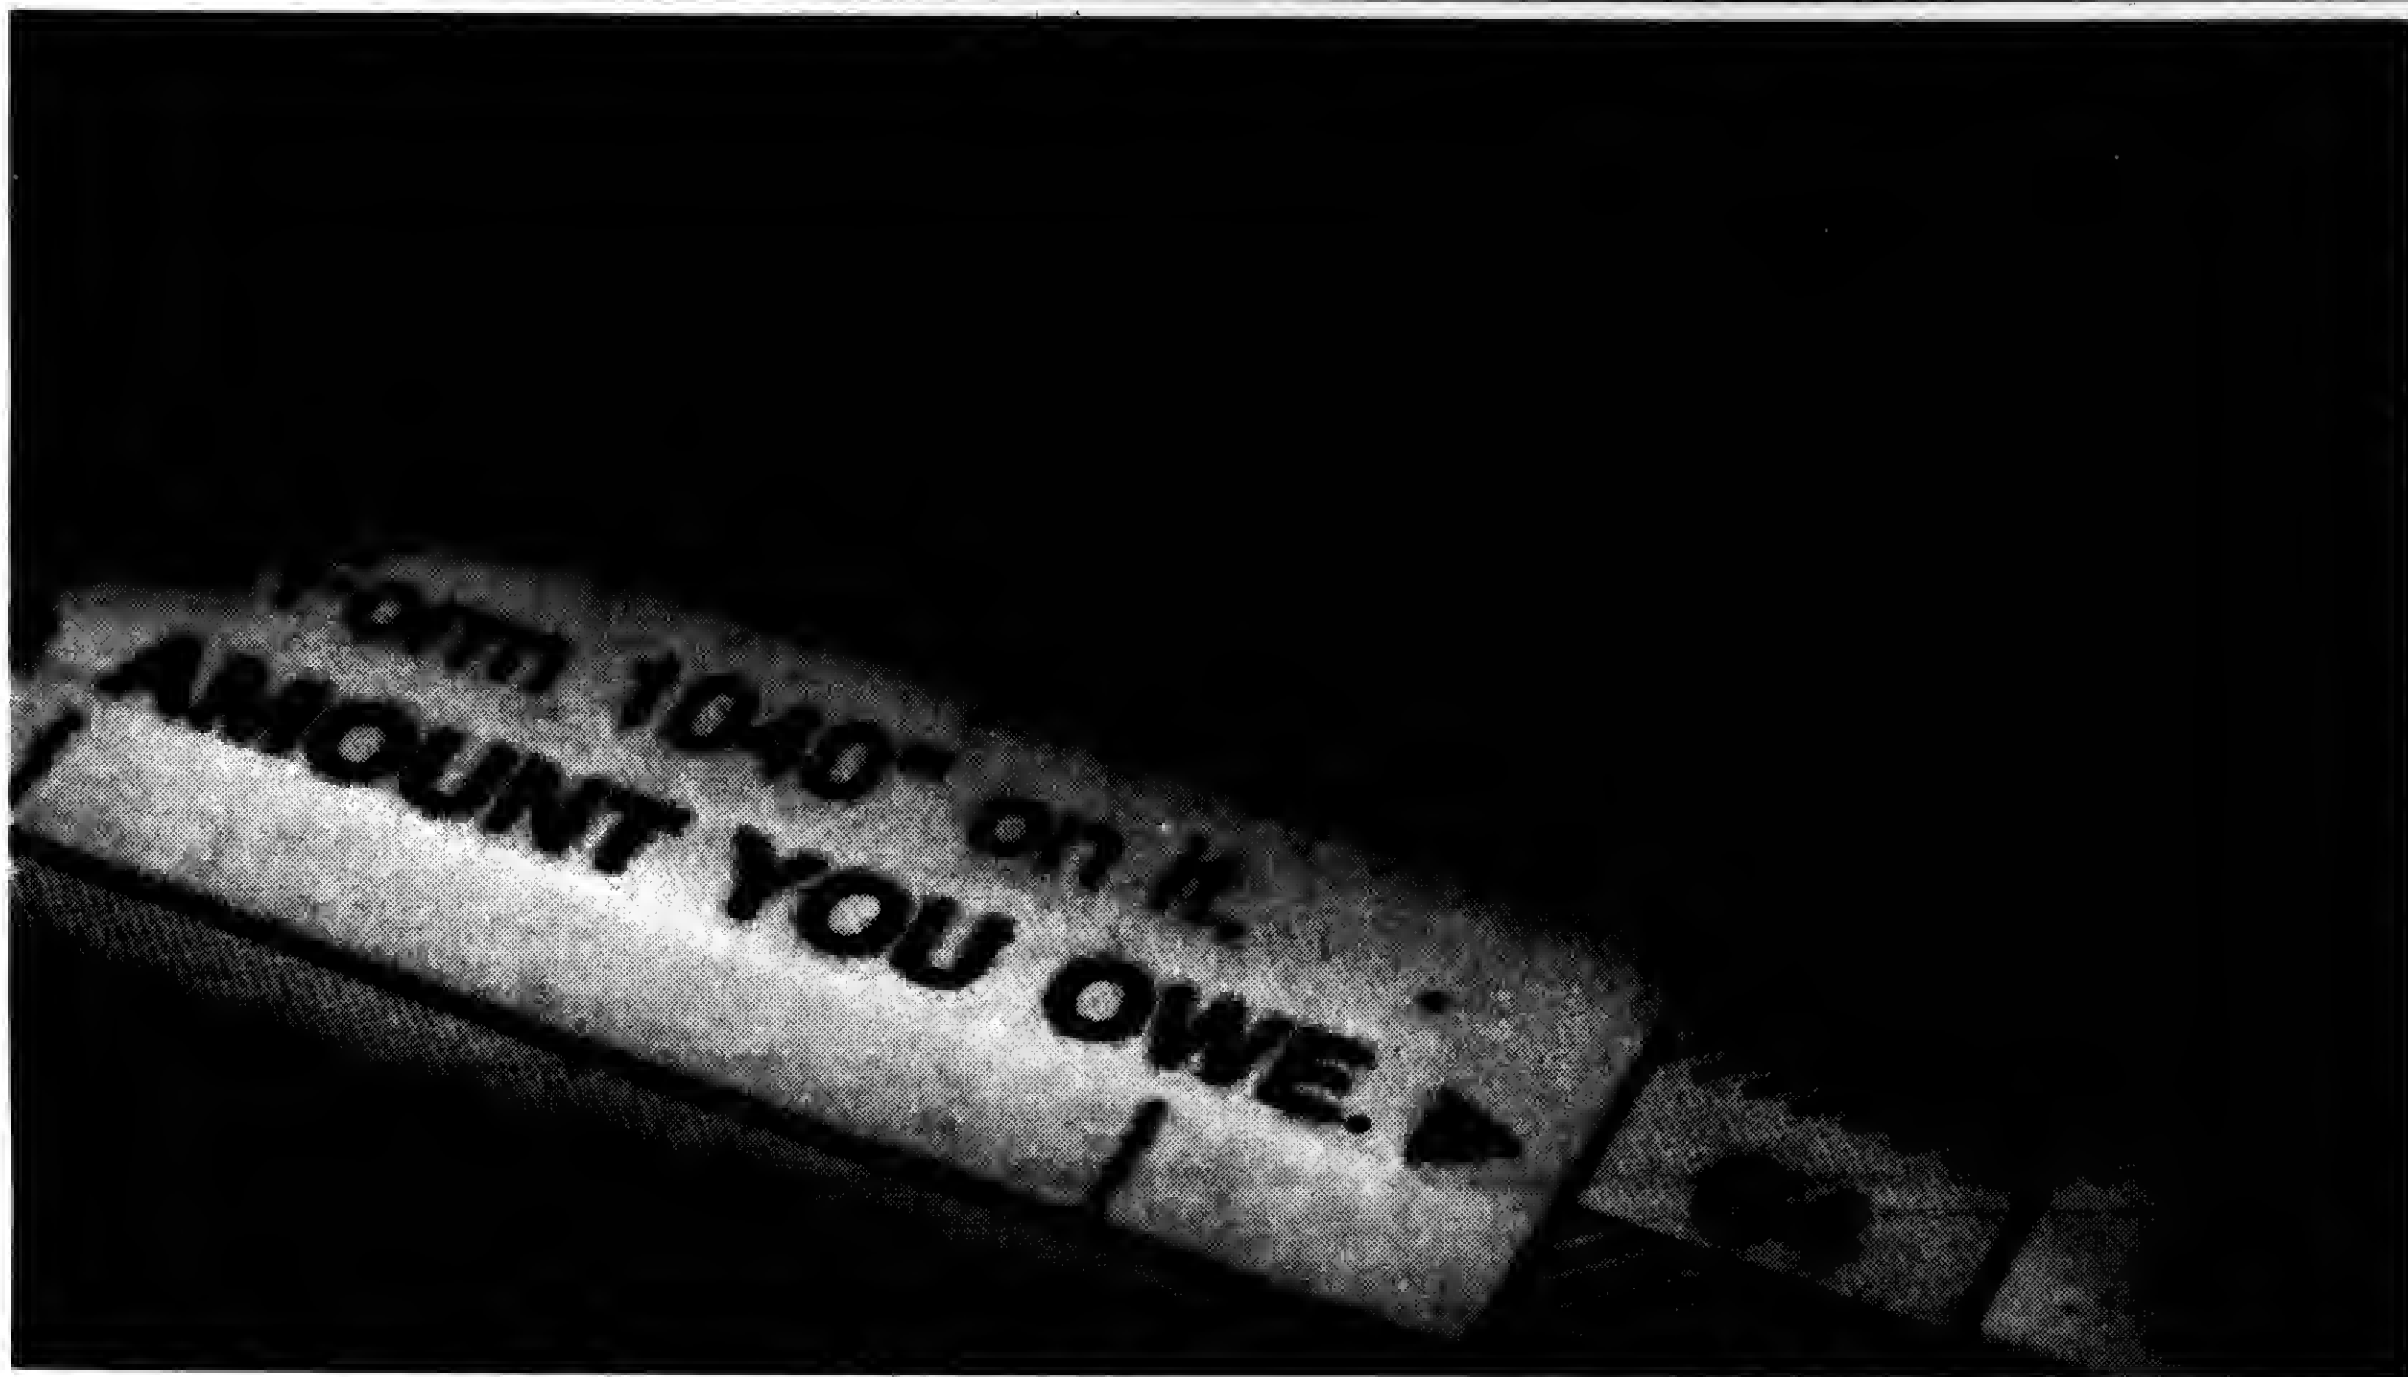

Persons interested in contributing to the campaign can contact Robyn Kramer or Kathleen Clark at the Southwest Y's administrative office, 3801 W. 127th St., or call (708) 385-6700.

Dancing The Night Away

Jen Malinowski of Oak Lawn danced non-stop for 30 hours on March 5th, 6th and 7th in Northwestern University's Dance Marathon. Jen, a senior biology and art major, and her partner, Craig Mallery, were sponsored by Pi Beta Phi sorority and Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity and joined close to 300 other dancers for 30 straight hours of "movin' and groovin'" to raise money for the American Heart Association.

Dance Marathon is one of the largest student-run college philanthropies in the nation and has raised more than $1.5 million for 15 different charitable organizations. Aside from dancing, the marathon includes a Vegas-style casino, a 5K run, fabulous concerts by live bands, and a performance by one of downtown Chicago's hottest comedy groups. The money raised this year goes to help fight heart disease, which causes nearly one out of every two deaths.

Fight Their Line With Ours.

If you're winding up on the wrong side of who owes whom at tax time, what you really need is a new line of attack. And one of the smartest could be a First Chicago Equity Credit Line, an easy way to borrow the money you need for any good reason.

Your rate is tied to the Prime Rate*, so your timing couldn't be better. And, in most cases, 100% of your interest goes right up on Line 34—your deductions (you'll want to ask your tax advisor to be sure). Which means an already low Equity Credit Line APR of 7.50%, to use a current example, could have a real after-tax cost of only 5.18% if you're in the 31% tax bracket.

No Application Fees.
Equity Credit Lines.

To make it easier yet, right now you'll have no points, application fees, or closing costs to pay. You can even use your phone to apply, or just to get more information. So give us a call. Because we'd much rather see you end up on the ever more popular Line 62—what they owe you.

Municipal Race Heating Up

In a heated race in the village of Oak Lawn, the Citizens Coalition for Integrity candidates are incumbent Mayor Ernest F. Kolb, Clerk A. Jayne Powers, and Trustee Ronald M. Stancik, District 2. Running with the incumbents are newcomers for trustee positions Michael Walsh, District 4, and William C. Keane, District 6.

Running for Mayor in Hometown are incumbent Raymond J. Forsyth, Martin F. Safstrom, and Donald L. Robertson. For City Clerk, Joan Dobrowits and for Treasurer, Raymond J. Czajka. Aldermanic candidates include 1st Ward, Judith Sparakes and Diane L. Lynch; 2nd Ward, Ronald A. Masino; 3rd Ward, Michael A. Lynch and Mitchell A. Rowe; 4th Ward, Nancy D. Martin, and 5th Ward, Joyce A. Tyler.

In Worth Township, for

Trustees the Performance Party has a slate of candidates including Joan Patricia Murphy, supervisor; Thomas "Bud" Gavin, clerk; William E. Connors, assessor; Emmett "Bud" Meyer, collector; Michael O'Malley Witt, highway commissioner; Dorothea H. Hoch, Frederick S. Shannon, Nancy A. Stack, and William J. Bailey for Trustee positions. Incumbent Trustee Donald I. Bettenhausen has filed as an independent. Republican candidates include Ed Barron, supervisor; Marcia Ozinga Hite, clerk; Dan Donahue, assessor; Jeff Layhe, highway commissioner; Pete Paulius, collector; and Trustees, Michael R. Davies, Jay John Zurek, Delbert J. Swanson, and Jack O'Connor.

Voters are reminded that the polls are open at 6 a.m. on April 20 and close at 7 p.m.

CITIZENS COALITION FOR INTEGRITY

Integrity Candidates

The Oak Lawn Citizen's Coalition for Integrity (CCI Party), Mayor Ernie Kolb (center), Village Clerk Jayne Powers, veteran Trustee Ron Stancik (right), (District 2) and Trustee candidates Mike Walsh and Bill Keane (left) for districts 4 and 6 respectively, are poised for victory on Tuesday, April 20th. Precinct polling places are open from 6 a.m. to 7 p.m. "Vote for Integrity; vote straight CCI," said Mayor Kolb.

The CCI Party is motivated by a desire to eliminate the 'patronage politics' (with which the opponents have flooded the system) and restore the concept of better management for the village. The Coalition for Integrity is deeply committed to fighting for the village's interests, rather than for an agenda of self-interest.

Members of the Coalition slate are quite concerned over the adverse publicity plaguing Oak Lawn and encourage residents to vote against opponents who have diminished the credibility established between village government and the people over the past decade. "It is our intention to elect our entire slate and restore public confidence in local government, move on to improve the village and provide the best possible service for the people of Oak Lawn," said Kolb.

Anyone interested in volunteering support for the CCI Party in order to bring back integrity and dignity to Oak Lawn, is invited to stop by CCI headquarters, 5205 W. 95th St., or call 423-7767.

Mayor Kolb Gets The Job Done

As Oak Lawn Mayor for 16 years, Ernie Kolb has remained a visible and viable leader for the Village by serving on numerous committees and boards. These include: Southwest Council of Suburban Mayors (SWCSM), Southwest Council of Chicago Area Transportation (SWCATS), Board of Directors of the CATS Council, Board of Directors of the Illinois Municipal League (IML) and Chairperson of the Voting Delegates to the National League of Cities (NLS). He also serves as a member of the local chapter of the American Cancer Society, Lion's Club and St. Gerald's Holy Name Society.

Kolb's committee and board participation have resulted in a tenacity for obtaining and maintaining projects considered vital to the Village. For example, Kolb, along with Evergreen Park Mayor Anthony Vacco, spearheaded a drive dubbed "Operation Greenlight," a program aimed at keeping the parking on 95th Street from being eliminated by the Illinois Department of Transportation (IDOT).

Another project spearheaded by Kolb and known as "Build Illinois" allowed Oak Lawn to receive $100,000 for the installation of a flood control gate to stop backflow of the Oak Lawn Creek cutoff from entering the Moody Park and Columbus Manor areas. An additional $750,000 from Build Illinois was granted to the Village for the construction of a Communications Center now equipped with a 911 system, enabling joint communication between the local police department and residents.

"Without all of this funding and subsequent projects initiated by Kolb, Oak Lawn would not have grown as an established community economically in the southwest suburbs," said former Village Manager Richard E. O'Neill, "and this must continue in the future."

Roundtable Talk

Join State Rep. Maureen Murphy (R-36) and other area leaders for a roundtable discussion on upcoming legislation that may affect your community on Saturday, April 17th. The discussion begins at 10 a.m. in the Elks Club, 11340 S. Cicero Ave.

Call (708) 424-3636 for more information.

Re-Elect Kolb

For responsible leadership in the Village of Oak Lawn, the choice is crystal clear. The party label says it all: Vote the straight Coalition for Integrity Party ticket of incumbents Mayor Ernest Kolb, Clerk A. Jayne Powers, Trustee Ronald Stancik and Trustee candidates Bill Keane and Mike Walsh. The alternative is potential disaster for the village, with a group of candidates dedicated to self-interest, not to the people of Oak

Lawn. A straight ticket is in order, as Mayor Kolb needs all Coalition candidates to be elected with him in order to restore integrity to the village and to reverse the embarrassment his self-aggrandizing opponents have caused. Punch 17 for the people of Oak Lawn, not a smug cabal of self-serving individuals. Vote the straight Coalition for Integrity slate on Tuesday, April 20th. Punch 17.

Agreement Reached On Robbins Incinerator

In a major step toward construction of the Robbins recycling and trash-to-energy facility, a Cook County judge has ruled that the plant's environmental permits had not been invalidated by prior court action on the site approval process. A consent decree accompanying the court order also provides for an unprecedented environmental monitoring package, assuring that this plant will maintain the highest level of air quality controls of any such facility in the country.

The order, signed by Circuit Court Judge Everette Braden, marks the final resolution of a complaint lodged by Illinois Attorney General Roland Burris regarding a procedural technicality in the original siting of the plant in 1988. The site approval process has since been repeated and, following a second public hearing last December, this technicality was corrected when the Robbins Village Board once again unanimously approved siting for the plant. The only remaining question, now favorably resolved by the court, concerned validity of the environmental permits after the original siting approval.

The order clarifies that the siting flaw did not affect the validity of the environmental permits and that responsibility over these permits rests with the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency (IEPA). The IEPA approved the original environmental permits in 1990.

"I envision this as a model project for the country," said Judge Braden. "The people have been given an opportunity to be heard in the second siting process, so the court is now satisfied that there has been ample compliance with the law. I commend all parties for working together on this agreement. The ultimate result is in the best interest of all parties."

The consent decree represents the culmination of diligent settlement discussion among the parties. It was signed by Attorney General Burris; Mayor Dr. Irene Brodie for the Village of Robbins; Reading Energy Company, the plant developers; and approved by Judge Braden.

"This is a great day for the Robbins plant and the many who are eager for construction to begin," said Dr. Thomas Cassel, president of Reading Energy. "The consent decree shows the good that can come out of sitting down in responsible negotiations to create a win/win situation for all parties. I commend the attorney general's staff, with the cooperation of the Illinois EPA, for their efforts in moving this process along to such a successful conclusion."

The settlement sets out a package of monitors and checkpoints both within and outside of the plant to assure public confidence in the facility. These include a six-year ambient air monitoring program, on-site EPA employees to monitor operations and new equipment to reduce mercury emissions even further.

"While our original plan meets or exceeds the stringent standards set by the EPA, we are taking these significant extra steps to assure the public, once and for all, that they can have every confidence in the safety of this plant," said Cassel.

Part of the plan will be a long-term ambient air quality study conducted by Dr. Peter Scheff of the University of Illinois at Chicago, occupational health and safety center, school of public health. Monitoring stations will be designed and operated according to Dr. Scheff's receptor model, which measures air quality components and identifies their sources in the area. The model allows scientists to identify the ground-level effects of trucks, cars, factories and other such sources throughout the region. The monitoring program begins with a base-line study for one year prior to plant operations, then takes measurements at each station every sixth day for a five-year period. These monitoring stations become part of the ambient air network being proposed for the area, to be supervised by the Illinois EPA and the attorney general's office.

"We have every confidence that Dr. Scheff's model will conclusively show that modern trash-to-energy facilities, such as the Robbins plant, have no adverse impact on local air quality," said Cassel. "This has been proven in Sweden, throughout western Europe and in the more than 140 U.S. communities that rely on such plants to reduce their waste and convert it to useful energy."

Plant operations will be monitored full-time over the life of the project by IEPA employees or independent contractors on-site. An additional control will also be added to the plant design to further reduce mercury emissions below the already-safe permit limits. The system will inject activated carbon into the flue gas in order to achieve an 80 percent reduction in mercury emissions below the permit limit.

Other provisions in the consent decree include stack tests to be conducted and reported every six months, an analysis of potential noise sources to limit the noise level beyond the boundaries of the facility, and monthly written reports to the IEPA and the attorney general's staff on safety operations.

When complete, the Robbins recycling and trash-to-energy facility will process much of the household trash from Chicago's south suburbs. After removing recyclable materials from millions of dollars worth of front-end processing equipment, the facility will cleanly incinerate the remaining non-recyclable trash to produce electricity. The facility will create an estimated 600 jobs during a two-year construction period, about 80 full-time permanent jobs on-site and many more jobs indirectly.

Heritage Bank Gets Four-Star Rating

Bauer Financial Reports, Inc., Coral Gables, Florida, a bank research and rating firm is pleased to announce that Heritage Bank has again been awarded Bauer Financial Reports' four-star rating. This coveted award ranks Heritage Bank highly for safety, strength and performance. The rating is based on the analysis of Sept. 30th, 1992 financial data as filed with federal regulators. A four-star rating indicates that Heritage Bank's adjusted tangible capital is between 6% and 9% of tangible assets, its risk-based capital ratio exceeds 8.85%, that there are no excessive delinquencies or repossessed assets and that Heritage Bank posted a profit in the third quarter 1992. For comparison purposes, the capital requirements for Bauer's four-star rating are significantly higher than those required by federal regulators.

"Heritage Bank continues to be a strongly capitalized bank that has earned our unconditional recommendation. We're pleased to again award it a four-star rating," said Paul A. Bauer, president of the research firm.

Letter To The Editor

Editor:

By a vote of 25-0, the House Financial Institution Committee recently sent legislation to the floor opening up competition in the currency exchange industry. More competition will ultimately lower the exorbitant fees that currency exchanges charge Illinois wage earners, senior citizens and welfare recipients.

The first step has been taken...now the public needs to know more about House Bill No. 2079.

THOMAS "BUD" GAVIN For Worth Township Clerk

As Township Clerk for the past four years, "Bud" Gavin has been a model of honesty, integrity, and truth in government.

Gavin also is serious about seeking ways to cut waste and avoid unnecessary spending. And Gavin's record proves it: over the past four years Gavin has operated the Clerk's office 46% under budget.

But cutting costs has not meant cutting services. Gavin is responsible for installation of the first computer system for the Clerk's office which will provide instant access to important records. He also is responsible for such programs as Issuance of Handicapped Parking Permits, the sale of Cook County vehicle stickers to residents of unincorporated areas, and even a Travel Assistance Program begun in 1990. The travel Assistance Program, a cost free service, provides maps, brochures and information on every state and other travel destinations.

Gavin was born in Chicago, is a graduate of DePaul University and a veteran of the U.S. Navy. He has lived with his wife and six children in Hometown and Oak Lawn for over 40 years.

Gavin has a long history of civic involvement. Starting in 1975 he has served with many Oak Lawn Agencies, including the Civil Service Commission, the Zoning and Planning Board and the Oak Lawn Centennial Commission. He has been president of Oak Lawn Baseball for boys and served as an active member of St. Catherine of Alexandria Church and active in fundraising with Misericordia Heart of Mercy. He is a member of the Alsip, Chicago Ridge/Worth and Oak Lawn Chambers of Commerce.

Prior to becoming Township Clerk in 1989, Gavin served from 1981 to 1989 as a Township Trustee and Youth Commission Officer. Here he introduced the Toys for Tots, Identichild and S.T.E.P. (Systematic Training Effective Parenting) programs.

A lifelong successful businessman, Gavin currently works as the Community Relations Director of Prospect Federal Bank in Worth.

Gavin has lectured on and taught Civil Service procedures at Eastern Illinois University. He also has taught advanced business courses at Moraine Valley Community College as well as management courses at St. Xavier University, where he also serves on the President's Advisory Board.

Renewal Stickers At Area Banks

Approximately 2,180 Illinois financial institutions are selling passenger car, motorcycle and small truck and trailer renewal stickers for 1994, Secretary of State George H. Ryan said.

The new, dark gray stickers are available at 1,429 banks, 23 savings and loan associations, 38 credit unions and 683 Chicago-area currency exchanges.

"Selling renewal stickers at financial institutions helps ease the workload in the Secretary of State's office," Ryan said. "In 1992, 2,180 financial institutions sold nearly 3.2 million stickers, or 43 percent of all passenger car, motorcycle and small truck and trailer registrations processed by this office."

Stickers also may be purchased over the counter at 89 Secretary of State license facilities throughout the state, or by mailing renewal applications to Springfield.

After purchasing a new sticker, protect it from possible theft by removing as many of the old stickers as possible before placing the new sticker at the bottom of the rear plate.

IEPA Speakers For Earth Day Told

Illinois Environmental Protection Agency (IEPA) Director Mary A. Gade announced today the development of an agencywide Speakers Bureau to accommodate public requests for Earth Day and afterwards.

The Speakers Bureau is made up of volunteers throughout the agency, including employees from all IEPA regional offices. Most of the more than 40 speakers are from the Springfield office. However, employees from the Marion, Collinsville, Champaign and Maywood offices are also available to give talks in their geographical areas.

"Earth Day is of major interest to the public, especially schools and civic organizations," Gade said. "This Speakers Bureau will enable the agency to better communicate to children and adults the need to protect the environment."

Earth Week runs from April 28th to 24th, and the 23rd anniversary of the first Earth Day is Thursday, April 22nd. The agency has already received more than 50 requests for information about Earth Day.

The speakers are available to talk about general IEPA programs or such topics as recycling, vehicle emissions, emergency response and hazardous waste. Members of the public interested in obtaining a speaker for Earth Day or afterwards should call the IEPA's Public Information Office at (217) 782-5562.

Prevent Child Abuse

April is 'National Child Abuse Prevention Month.' Decide to make a difference in the lives of Chicago-area families by volunteering for Parental Stress Services, the program component of Child Abuse Prevention Services. The registration deadline is Friday, April 23rd for a two-part training class to be held on May 8th and 15th. Call Laura at (312) 427-1161 for details.

Volunteers are needed to answer hotline calls at their homes from parents under stress (daytime, weekend or late night) and to facilitate parent and children's support groups (evenings) at several Chicago locations. Group facilitators require some additional training. An orientation for facilitators will be held on Monday, April 19th from 6 to 7 p.m.

Volunteers will be trained in the cycle of child abuse, parenting issues, listening and problem-solving skills. Experience in a related field is preferred but not required.

WISE Summer Program

Ninth-to-12th-grade girls interested in math, science and engineering are invited to apply for Illinois Institute of Technology's Women in Science and Engineering (WISE) free summer program at the university's south side campus. The two-week session will be from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., weekdays, from July 19th to July 30th. Participants will hear from successful women scientists and engineers, conduct experiments and participate in discussions and problem-solving exercises.

To apply for the WISE summer program, contact Anita Rymar at (312) 567-5250 for more information. The initial deadline is May 15th.

Tax On Energy Is Unfair

The amount of revenue that Clinton is seeking from energy in 1997 would suggest a BTU tax that would equate to about 4 cents per gallon of gasoline. However, Clinton is proposing to tax energy derived from oil sources twice as much as coal, natural gas or electricity. As a result, Clinton's BTU tax will equate to approximately 8.3 cents per gallon of diesel or gasoline and approximately 7.5 cents per gallon on gasohol (the ethanol or methanol portion of gasohol would not be taxed directly, thereby equating to a 10 percent tax break—0.83 cents per gallon—on gasoline containing 10 percent ethanol or methanol).

This is a huge increase in fuel taxes that will hit transportation-oriented states like Illinois very hard.

Based on 1991 data, Clinton's BTU tax would cost Illinois taxpayers $411 million per year.

$233.8 million in taxes on gasoline

$118.4 million in taxes on gasohol

$58.8 million in taxes on diesel fuel

Clinton's BTU tax would effectively amount to a 59 percent increase in federal gasoline taxes and a 41 percent increase in federal diesel fuel taxes. (Currently, federal fuel taxes are 20.1 cents per gallon for diesel and 14.1 cents per gallon for gasoline.)

People in Illinois depend on gasoline and diesel fuel to power the cars that get them to work, to fuel the tractors and trucks that help them raise their grains and livestock, and to power the planes, trains and trucks that transport the goods they produce and deliver the goods they need everyday.

This tax is not just a fuel tax—it is a tax on getting to work, doing your work, and every item transported into or out of Illinois.

Illinois' automobile owners and trucking companies are willing to pay their fair share of taxes to reduce the federal deficit. In fact, 2.5 cents per gallon of the federal fuel tax has been going to deficit reduction since 1990. However, tack on Clinton's 8.3 cents per gallon BTU tax, and the taxes on motor fuels for deficit reduction clearly become unfair. We cannot allow the largest share of the tax burden to be placed on the backs of Illinois workers, farmers and truckers who depend on gasoline and diesel fuels to get to work, do their work, and deliver the goods they manufacture, grow and consume everyday.

Let's just say NO to unfair taxes—and work together to come up with a better plan.

Election Referenda

A number of referenda are appearing on ballots in several areas served by the Southwest Messenger newspapers. These include a request from School District 111 asking for an increase in the tax rate for schools from 1.46% to 2.21%; a request from SD 123 asking for a tax rate increase from 1.55% to 2.49%; a request from SD 127 asking for a rate increase from 1.485% to 2.235% and a request from SD 130 seeking a tax rate increase from 1.60% to 2.50%.

In Worth Township, voters are to cast ballots on whether or not the present system of financing public schools through the property tax should be eliminated and replaced with funding through the Illinois State Income Tax.

The Hometown Fire Protection District is asking that bonds in the amount of $200,000 be authorized for issue and the City of Burbank is asking, Should the State of Illinois enact legislation requiring that financial consumer contracts, such as mortgages, leases, insurance policies, automobile sales contracts and credit card agreements, be written in understandable, plain language?

Renew Truck Plates

For the first time, owners of pickup trucks can buy license plate renewal stickers over the counter at 100 full-time driver's license facilities statewide, Secretary of State George H. Ryan announced recently.

The statewide expansion of over-the-counter sticker sales—including the soon-to-expire B-category stickers—was based on a successful pilot project initiated in fall 1991 at the driver's license station in Moline.

"The public response to this new service has been extremely positive," Ryan said. "Vehicle owners are telling us it's a great convenience to buy renewal stickers at the same place they renew their driver's licenses."

All B truck stickers expire on June 30th.

"People can beat the last-minute rush by buying the stickers as soon as possible," Ryan said. "The stickers are in our facilities now, and they will stay valid through June 30th, 1994."

The stickers are available at all full-time facilities outside Cook County. In Cook, they are also available at the Chicago Central, Chicago North, Chicago West and Charles Chew facilities.

Renewal stickers are also available for a nominal fee at about 2,180 financial institutions across the state.

Tax Study Urged

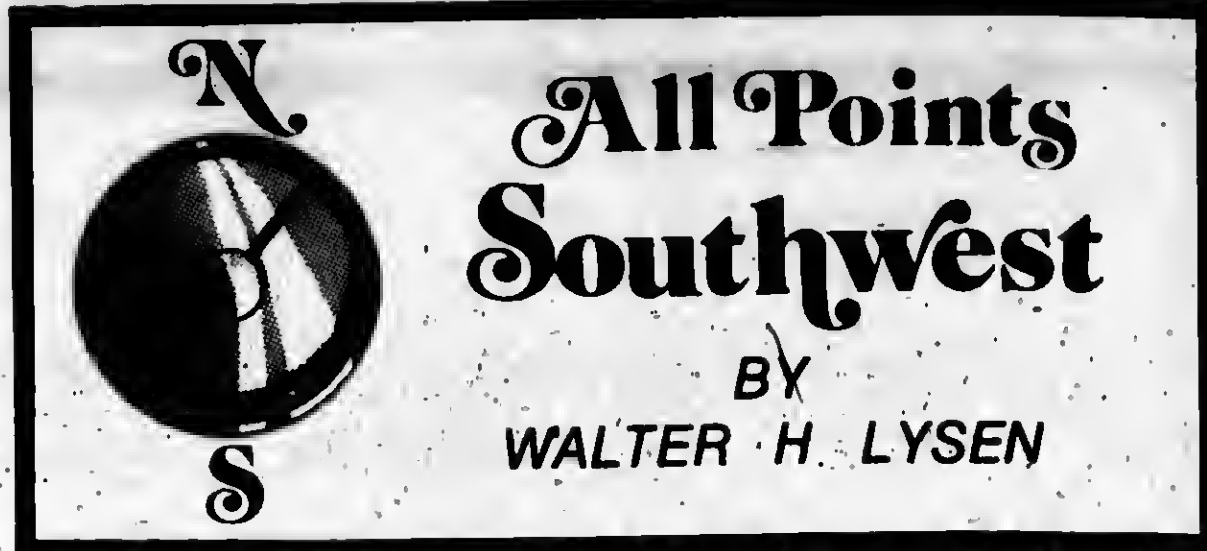

State Senator Patrick O'Malley (R-18) has introduced a Senate resolution calling for a comprehensive study of the tax system in Illinois.

Senate Resolution 232 requests that the Senate Revenue Committee work with public and private groups to study the State's tax system and submit recommendations for change to the General Assembly no later than Dec. 1st.

"The legislature is faced each year with the difficult task of balancing the demand for State services with limited revenues," O'Malley said. "Many of these decisions are based, however, on a tax system that is outdated and unnecessarily complicated. The approach to raising revenues in Illinois has resulted in a hodgepodge of taxes that are unresponsive to our fiscal needs."

The 18th District Senator says an objective and comprehensive study would provide the factual information lawmakers need to help them overhaul the state's tax system.

"The current system of taxation appears to be reactive instead of proactive. Revenues are driven by expenses rather than the more generally accepted practice of expenses being decided by available revenues," O'Malley said. "Meaningful tax reform will result in a system that is simpler, more reliable and responsive to the needs of Illinois' citizens."

The BIG Day... Tuesday April 20 is only five days away when suburban Cook County voters will go to the polls to choose their political leaders for the next four years.

It's the Consolidated Election under the jurisdiction of Cook County Clerk David Orr. Every precinct under the jurisdiction of the Election Department of the Cook County Clerk will vote on: Township Elections; City, Village or Town Elections; Park District Elections; Library Elections and Referenda (where applicable). Polls will be open from 6 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Campaigns in some of the villages took off right after the Presidential Election in November and ever since, many voters have been bombarded with some of the most negative, vile, deceptive, scurrilous propaganda issued in the history of their precincts.

And, with five days left, they can expect more. Years ago the late bashing came from "midnight riders" the night before polling day. This gave the attacked no chance to answer the charges.

As we said last week the incumbent tickets of Mayor Tom Murawski of Midlothian; Chester Stranczek of Crestwood; Arnie Andrews of Alsip and Anthony Vacco of Evergreen Park have no opposition. (However there is one independent trustee candidate in Midlothian.) They are home free unless a late write-in occurs... which is impossible on the basis of the job these incumbents have done over the last four years. We would have endorsed them... but now it isn't necessary.

In Oak Lawn we endorse the Citizen's Coalition Party from top to bottom headed by Mayor Ernie Kolb and Clerk Jayne Powers along with trustees Ron Stancik, Mike Walsh and Bill Keane over the UVRP ticket headed by renegade Bob Streit. There is no question but that Kolb and Powers will be elected, but Kolb needs the three trustees to give him the power to restore Oak Lawn to a stable government not dominated by opportunists.

It isn't often (perhaps never) that I ever refer to an editorial of a competing newspaper. But today I urge all voters in Oak Lawn to read the Sunday (April 11) Southtown Economist endorsement of Kolb. It would take most of this column to reprint and we agree in what they said. Oak Lawn voters should give the Kolb-Powers ticket a straight vote... Punch #17.

In Palos Hills we endorse Mayor Jerry Bennett and his Palos Independent Council ticket seeking re-election. One only has to look at the 12 year record of Bennett and his incumbent running party to see what a great, no magnificent job... they have performed... that's from top to bottom. This isn't to mean the opposition isn't good... but Bennett and Co. are the best... Punch #18.

The Performance Party in Chicago Ridge has meant honesty in government and has seen that property taxes are held to a minimum for the village portion of the tax bill. A resounding vote of confidence for the entire Siegel team is urged. Mayor Gene Siegel, Clerk Chuck Tokar and Trustees George Ryniak, Maureen Socha & Jim Saunoris have consistently demonstrated their dedication to the best interests of Chicago Ridge and a straight ticket vote is recommended. ALL POINTS feels that 'Punch 16' is assurance of continued good government for the Village of Chicago Ridge.

Second District Trustee Ronald Stancik, a candidate for re-election, is questioning why a Chicago Republican Committeeman, James Tierney (19th Ward), was hired by Oak Lawn Village Manager Michael Feeley as a temporary legal advisor. According to Stancik, Feeley hired Tierney to represent the village in labor negotiations with Oak Lawn firefighters and Tierney was paid approximately $4,000 for his efforts. Tierney had contributed some $950 to the Village Reform Party, according to Stancik, who asked "I have questioned these payoffs and want to know if the village is for sale; are jobs being offered for political favors?" Stancik is running as a member of Mayor Ernie Kolb's Coalition for Integrity slate.

In Worth Township Supervisor Joan Patricia Murphy and Clerk Thomas "Bud" Gavin and their Performance Party should be returned to office. This ticket is made up of Republicans and Democrats and has a blend of candidates that has made Worth Township one of the leaders in health and dental clinic services, senior citizen programs and youth commission services.

In Bremen Township Supervisor Jim Jesk has once again put together the Bremen Independent Party, a coalition ticket of Republicans and Democrats which is unopposed.

In Palos Township incumbent Supervisor Beverly "Betty" Leblock has put together her Independent Palos Township Party in a race for re-election. Hers is a coalition of Democrats and Republicans as is her opposition the United Township Coalition Party headed by Walter Bregin for supervisor.

While Mayors Arnie Andrews of Alsip and Chet Stranczek of Crestwood have no opposition they have another thing in common. Both are opposing the proposed tax increase in School District 130 which is part of each village. Mayor Don Peloquin of Blue Island which is also part of this rambling district is for the increase.

We have been bombarded with letters and postcards from the senior citizen community expressing solid opposition to President Clinton's proposed tax on Social Security. The seniors are urging everyone, including representatives in the media, to direct mail to Senators and Congressmen asking them to 'pledge opposition to any new taxes on, or cuts in, Social Security benefits.' They maintain that Social Security, rather than adding to the federal deficit, is running a surplus. Their gripe is that it is patently unfair to attempt balancing the budget on the backs of senior citizens.

The first known American political cartoon printed in 1747, showed a wagon stuck in the mud and the wagoner praying for help. Ignoring him is a Quaker-like Hercules leaning on his club up in the clouds. The cartoon's message: Heaven helps only those who help themselves. The cartoonist: Benjamin Franklin, according to The U.S. Department of Labor's Bicentennial History of "The American Worker."

The first Secretary of Labor, William B. Wilson, vowed to promote "the welfare of wage earners in the U.S.," according to The U.S. Department of Labor's Bicentennial History of "The American Worker."

Quick Cure For Leaky Toilets

Many Americans are surprised to learn that approximately one of every four of this country's 150 million toilets leak precious water. This is no drop in the bucket when you consider just one leaky toilet has the potential to waste 76,000 gallons a year.

With the proper flapper valve that controls the flow of tank water into the bowl being the usual culprit, a flush of interest is being shown in a flapper that is easy to install and inexpensive.

Fluidmaster's Bull's Eye Flapper includes a unique adaptor that permits installation on virtually all flapper-style toilets in use today. It is available at most hardware stores, home centers and plumbing supply outlets nationwide.

Most important of all, it stops wasteful, leaky toilets.

It's estimated that one of every four toilets leak, making the matter no drop in the bucket.

Outdoor Lighting Adds Safety And Security

If you enjoy country living, the addition of outdoor lighting equipment to your property can enhance that enjoyment year-round, while also increasing your property's safety and security.

On any rural property or small farm, there are always a few after-hours chores to be done "in the dark". Good outdoor lighting will reduce both time and effort, and add safety, especially during those long and dark winter nights.

To maximize your investment, the right light bulb in the right location is what counts most. For outdoor lighting, those golden-colored high pressure sodium bulbs are the most energy efficient of the high-intensity discharge (HID) bulbs. The white-colored mercury vapor bulbs, although not as energy efficient, cost less initially, and are the most readily available HID bulb.

Comparing the light output from different lighting products using the same amount of electricity shows that mercury vapor bulbs produce 2.5 times as much light as standard incandescent bulbs, and high pressure sodium bulbs produce 4- to 5-times as much light as incandescent. This means more light for you at a lower cost of operation.

The average life of an incandescent bulb is from 750 to 1000 hours of operation. A high pressure sodium bulb has a life of 24,000 hours. This means an extended period of time between bulb changes, particularly if the bulb is controlled by a photo-electric cell allowing only nighttime operation.

In addition to its security aspect, outdoor lighting can also be used to enhance the beauty and safety of your farm's surroundings. All of these lighting applications will increase the value of your property as well.

For more information on the relative efficiency of outdoor light sources, contact your electric utility, or send $1.00 for Farmstead (outdoor) Lighting to the non-profit National Food & Energy Council, 409 Vandiver West, Suite 202, Columbia, MO 65202.

Refinishing Homeowners Consider Termites

By Jeff Keller

Most Tenacious Enemy

(NU) - Many of you thrive on the satisfaction gained by taking an old, beat-up wood object, refinishing it and showcasing it in your home.

Family dressers, end tables found at flea markets and the old rocking horse purchased for a few bucks at the garage sale easily can be refinished.

But don't rely on the old methods. New water-based strippers work well. While working slower than methylene chloride strippers, they are much safer than the chemical-based products.

The leading water-based product, 3M's Safest Stripper, has been used successfully at Monticello, Woodlawn Plantation (owned by the National Trust for Historic Preservation) and at other historic sites.

It was even used to restore a carousel. Of the estimated 4,000 carousels made, fewer than 300 remain. They are threatened by continued decay and the increased value of the individual hand-carved animals.

The 1917 C.W. Parker Carousel, a popular attraction at the Pacific National Exhibition in Vancouver, British Columbia, was threatened, until a group of friends raised more than $300,000 to buy and restore it.

Workers decided to use a water-based stripper, according to Keith Jamieson, the restoration artist who directed the project. Since the stripper didn't have harmful chemicals, the stripping process was completed indoors. Public stripping demonstrations of carousel animals were held inside schools, shopping malls and other locations to raise funds to support the project.

When the restoration is completed, the carousel will be permanently displayed and fully operational at the Village Museum in Burnaby, B.C.

Stripping tip: Do not use steel wool with a water-based stripper or finish. It may cause dark spots to appear on the wood. A new synthetic steel wool from 3M can be used for refinishing and all other conventional steel-wool applications.

Termites cost the American consumer about $1.1 billion each year with no region of the country except Alaska safe from their insatiable appetites.

Termites, which feed on cellulose in wood, cause extensive and expensive structural damage to a home's structure. Even in brick homes, a tiny crack in the foundation provides an entry way for termites. New Orkin Foam termite treatment from Orkin Pest Control can protect the home from termites for a fraction of the cost of repairing the damage they can cause.

Many homeowners think if they don't see termites they don't exist. In fact, termites eat 24 hours a day, 365 days a year non-stop and can damage more than two feet of wood each year.

"Homeowners can look for warning signs such as swarmer termites, mud tubes and soft wood," says Dr. Maxcy P. Nolan, Jr., Ph.D., Professor of Entomology, University of Georgia.

How to treat termites is another concern. An independent study of the industry's termite control experts reports "a complete barrier" and "applying the proper amount of termiticide" the most important elements of effective termite control. Experts cite the top considerations to select a termite company include:

- Good Reputation;
- Professional, Reliable, Well-Trained Personnel;
- Company Stability.

For more information about effective termite control, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to: Orkin Termite Facts, P.O. Box 647, Atlanta Ga. 30301.

A cement slurry is pumped via grout holes under the concrete slab. The slurry under pressure depresses and stabilizes the sub-soil, fills the void and thus raises the slab to its proper grade.

IMPROVE HOME MAINTENANCE GUIDE

CHOOSING THE RIGHT SIZE WATER HEATER

While there is no set formula for estimating the hot water needs of a family, certain factors should be considered. Obviously, the number of persons in your family is the biggest factor. Next, allow for the size of the house, the number of small children, and the use of an automatic clothes washer and/or dishwasher.

When buying a water heater, it is wise to estimate your needs generously. Consider your future needs as well as your present requirements. Demands for hot water will be greater as the size of the household increases, as the children become older and begin to take showers or soak for hours in a full tub of water, and as certain new appliances are added.

This table indicates the electric water heater sizes usually considered adequate for various family sizes:

Family Size	Heater Size
1 to 3	50-gallon
4 to 7	80-gallon
7 or more	100-gallon

Another way to help determine the right size electric water heater for your family is to examine your specific hot water needs. See the table below for average amounts of hot water used in some common household routines:

Average Use	Gallons of Hot Water
Tub bath	10-15
Shower bath	8-12
Baby bath	5
Meal preparation	3
Dishwashing-hand	3
Dishwashing-automatic	8
Clothes-washing-automatic	18

After you have chosen the right size water heater, Edison Electric Institute advises the installation of a water flow restrictor in the shower head. An estimated saving of 1337 Kwh/year can be realized by the introduction of a flow restrictor (assuming 6 Gal./Min., 10 minute shower, 365 showers a year, with a 50% temperature). According to Edison Electric Institute, many of the nation's utility companies offer the flow restrictors free.

Hints To Make Spring Cleaning Complete

Spring cleaning should include areas that may be missed during regular day-to-day cleaning activities.

These areas include ceiling light fixtures, draperies, the tops of door and window frames, and underneath furniture, according to Service-Master, a recognized leader in heavy-duty residential and commercial cleaning services.

Dr. William Borid, vice president for Technical Development for Service-Master, advises that "a good rule of thumb for front-line cleaning troops is to concentrate on cleaning everything that's below knee level and above eye level, as those areas are more likely to get missed during regular cleaning."

Aside from cleaning areas that may typically be overlooked, a good, once-a-year cleaning in the spring is necessary to remove the mold and mildew that tend to build up during the cooler winter months. Closed-up, heated homes cause musty odors within a home and add to problems many people have with allergies.

Below eye level, Service-Master urges homeowners to vacuum underneath furniture, as well as dust in corners and around the bottom areas of furniture. With hard surface floors, vacuum or mop regularly, and apply floor finish two or three times a year. During the spring, clean baseboards by wiping them with a rag dipped in a mild detergent.

Above eye level, Bond recommends dusting light fixtures and window and door frames. Draperies also require spring-cleaning attention.

"A drapery's close proximity to a window causes it to collect as much or more dirt as other furnishings and also leads to deterioration of the fabric," Bond says. "To avoid this, vacuum the header or remove dust and cobwebs, and professionally dry-clean the rest of the drapes every two years."

Bond cautions homeowners against vacuuming the entire drapery, as the suction pulls dirt from the far side into the center of the fabric, where it could get caught in the weave.

In some areas of the country, spring cleaning is further challenged by salt and water that are tracked into the home following snows.

"Salt tracked into your home during the winter attracts water and the water-salt mixture attracts soil which sticks to carpet fibers," Bond says. "If it is left in the carpet, it will attract and retain dirt, leading to dark traffic lanes. Vacuuming removes loose debris, but leaves sticky substances intact. Thorough extraction with a hot water rinse is really the only way to thoroughly clean your carpet."

Carrying out a comprehensive cleaning effort will remove damaging residues left behind during the cooler winter months and prepare the home for warm weather.

Be Cautious Around High Tension Lines

Even though electricity is one of our safest forms of energy, there are certain situations in which electricity can be deadly. High voltage power lines are designed to carry large amounts of electricity, at exceptionally high voltages, from the generating source to the end consumer. Because it would be prohibitively expensive to insulate these lines or bury them underground, they are carried 18 ft. or more above the ground on wooden poles or metal towers to reduce the risk of equipment or people coming in contact with the bare wires.

But even with these precautions, individuals working on top of buildings, using metal ladders, or operating tall machinery must be particularly cautious not to come in contact with overhead lines. As you work outdoors this season, please keep these safety tips in mind:

- Know the clearance height of all farm machinery or other tall equipment you are about to operate. To be safe, keep all equipment 10 ft. away from overhead lines.

- NEVER attempt to raise or move a power line. If you're operating a tractor or other tall equipment that touches a line, stay where you are and have someone call the utility.
- If you must leave the equipment, jump as far as you can so that no part of your body touches the equipment and the ground at the same time.
- If you are carrying a tall metal ladder, irrigation pipe, TV antenna, or other tall object, always look first to see whether overhead power lines are nearby.
- Always remember, utility lines are uninsulated.
- Never let your body become a direct link to ground, or the result could be fatal.

Check Building Code

Building codes are on the books of virtually every town, city and county in the nation. But they vary widely from one municipality to another.

If you plan to add a room to your home or convert an existing one, familiarize yourself with local building codes, says the National Home Improvement Council.

As a general rule, a building permit is required whenever structural work is involved or when the basic living area of a residence is to be altered.

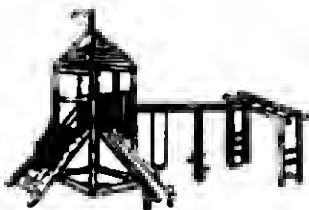

As an example, if you plan to partition off an unfinished area of your home and turn it into a room you'd need a building permit in most localities because you're changing an area from storage to living space.

Code requirements and details on building permits are usually available at your town hall. You simply pay the required fee and assume responsibility for failure to file required permits. Noise restrictions, Sunday work rules, street blockage and cleanup requirements should be carefully noted, as should any electrical or plumbing needs.

IMPROVE HOME MENT GUIDE

Safely Enjoy Outdoor Activities This Spring

(NU) - As the temperature rises, people spend more time working and relaxing outdoors. The safety experts at Underwriters Laboratories Inc. (UL) have some important safety tips for you to remember while enjoying your outdoor activities.

Around the Yard

Before using any appliance or tool — including your lawn mower, trimmers and ladders — read and follow the manufacturer's use and care instructions that come with the product. Use a tool only for its specified use. Follow the manufacturer's recommendations regarding attachments.

Always look for the familiar UL Listing Mark before purchasing a ladder, power tool, garden appliance or any other electrical product.

Before each use, inspect power tools and electric lawn mowers for frayed power cords and cracked or broken casings. If the product is damaged, stop using it immediately. Don't attempt to repair it yourself. Send the product back to the manufacturer or have a qualified repair shop do the work.

When using electrical tools, always wear proper attire. Keep your clothing, hands and feet away from cutting blades. Never wear jewelry when working with tools. Always wear safety glasses when using power tools.

Pay attention to warning markings on tools. Don't allow tools to get wet unless they are labeled "Immersion-able." When using tools or extension cords outside, make sure they carry markings indicating they are appropriate for outdoor use.

Never alter a product or remove safety features such as blade guards or electric plug grounding pins.

Have a qualified electrician install Ground Fault Circuit Interrupter (GFCI) receptacles in all outdoor outlets. After installation, test your GFCIs monthly.

Use only properly rated outdoor extension cords with outdoor electrical tools.

Unplug all portable electrically operated power tools when not in use. These tools still contain electricity even when they are turned off but still plugged in.

Use and store power tools away from water sources to avoid electric shock. Never use power tools in the rain.

Unplug power tools before cleaning or changing attachments and/or blades. Store tools out of the reach of children.

In the Hot Tub and by the Swimming Pool

Have a qualified electrician install a Ground Fault Circuit Interrupter (GFCI) receptacle in swimming pool underwater lighting circuits and in electric circuits of hot tubs. Never let children use swimming pools or hot tubs while unsupervised.

Never swim in a pool or soak in a hot tub alone.

Keep hair, body parts and clothing away from drains, pumps and filters.

Never use a swimming pool or hot tub while under the influence of alcohol or drugs.

Never use a telephone — even a cordless one — while in a hot tub or swimming pool.

Never use a portable lamp outdoors or near a swimming pool or hot tub.

The safety experts at Underwriters Laboratories Inc. (UL) hope you and your family have enjoyable — and safe — warm-weather seasons of fun.

Tool Box Essential In Today's Homes

(NU) - An essential component in most homes used to be a well-stocked pantry. Today it's a well-outfitted tool kit.

With doing-it-yourself a growing pastime, studies show, 90 percent of U.S. households own a tool box. Half of those own more than one. And half the do-it-yourselfers in America are females.

Sales of do-it-yourself products have risen annually at a rate of 8.6 percent since 1980. The National Retail Hardware Association cites the high cost of new housing and raising children as major reasons for the emphasis on fixing up and renovating. Inflation-driven frugality is another factor, as is the aging of baby boomers.

The ultimate in practicality and innovation for any do-it-yourselfer is the Roughneck® Step Stool Tool Box from Rubbermaid, which combines the benefits of a step stool with a tool box hidden inside for convenient, space-saving and rustproof storage.

Rubbermaid's Step Stool Tool Box includes a lift-out tray inside with five compartments to hold small tools; the box has rounded no-sag contours and a dual-action latch designed to prevent accidental opening. A large cushion-grip handle makes carrying easy. The Step Stool Tool Box will support up to 300 pounds. Available in hardware, home center and discount stores.

please note:
• For a variable rate home equity line of credit, depending on the amount of the line, as compared to the equity in the home, the annual percentage rate (APR) is established at 2 different interest rate levels: at 0.50% over the prime rate, or at 1.00% over the prime rate, as published in the Wall Street Journal. The maximum APR is 17.50%. Although the prime rate can change daily, the APR will not change more than once each month, on the 5th day of the month. For example, based on the prime rate at 6.00% on February 03, 1993, the APR at 0.50% over prime is 6.50%, while the APR at 1.00% over prime is 7.00%.
• For a fixed rate home equity loan, the current APR is 8.50% for loans from 12 months to 60 months, and 9.00% for loans from 61 months to 120 months.
• Under the special offer, with a variable rate home equity line of credit of $10,000.00 or more, the application fee of $100.00, and set-up fees of $150.00, to cover each item as the appraisal and title, are waived. An annual fee of $30.00 is not charged until after the 1st year. Under the special offer, with a fixed rate home equity loan of $10,000.00 or more, the application and set-up fees of $250.00 are reduced to $99.00. Under both programs, the minimum loan amount is $5,000.00. No closing points or fees are charged if an escrow outside appraisal is required, there may be a 3rd party fee, ranging from $150.00 to $300.00. IMPROVE HOME ENERGY GUIDE

Consumers Learn Energy Linked Terms

If you're a homeowner and think KWHR is a West Coast radio station, it's time to learn otherwise.

KWHR, or kilowatt hours, is one of many "buzz words" in the growing energy conservation field.

To help the energy-conscious homeowner know more about this field, Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corporation has put together this glossary of some of the most frequently used energy-linked terms:

AIR INFILTRATION: This is the leakage into your home, through cracks and crevices, of hot — or cold — air. It causes winter "heat loss" or summer "heat gain" and a waste of your energy dollars.

BTU: Literally, British Thermal Unit. A measure of heat flow. One Btu of heat is required to raise the temperature of 1 lb of water 1°F (e.g., from 59° to 60°).

CAULK: To make a given area water- or air-tight by filling cracks and crevices — around windows and doors and where exterior walls meet the roof and foundations. Caulking guns and paste are relatively inexpensive and easy to use.

CHINKING: Filling in cracks and narrow openings with leftover pieces of insulation. These openings are most often found around the chimney and where attic side walls adjoin the attic floor.

CRAWL SPACE: The area between the bottom of the house and the ground. Usually two to four feet high, crawl spaces are usually found in homes without a basement or a concrete slab base. Installing insulation on the underside of the first floor (the top of the crawl space) retards the loss of heat through the floor. Piping and heating ducts are often found in crawl spaces. Be sure to insulate ducts to prevent loss of heat; wrap pipes with insulation to prevent them from freezing.

DOUBLE-GLAZING: A specially made window consisting of two panes of glass with an air-space between to serve as an insulating medium. Or it can be a storm sash installed over existing windows. Either way, the addition of a second (or even third) layer of glass helps plug an important area of heat loss. Also, tinted or reflective glass may aid in reducing heat gain in summer.

DUCTWORK: Passages through which heated and cooled air are distributed throughout the house. Ducts running through portions of a house that aren't heated or cooled, such as attics or crawl spaces, should be insulated to ensure maximum efficiency.

EAVE VENTS: Openings around the perimeter of the attic that allow an air flow that keeps attics cool in summer and prevents moisture build-up in the attic in winter.

FILTERS: Porous barriers inserted in heating and cooling systems to keep dust and other contaminants from being circulated in the living area. Naturally, they become clogged after a while and lower the efficiency of the system.

INSULATION: A material that resists the transfer of heat. The more effective insulating materials are those with the higher resistance or "R-values." Insulation is commonly available in either blanket or "batt" form, or in a loose, chopped-up form.

The blanket type is prefabricated to yield a uniform thickness and density, which, in most cases, assures consumers of getting the R-value they're paying for. (See definition of R-value.) It is sold in widths (of 15-16 in. or 23-24 in.) to fit between conventional framing joists and studs in most American homes, making it fast and simple to calculate the amount of coverage for each package of insulation.

Loose insulation must be carefully hand poured or pneumatically blown into walls and attics to achieve a desired R-value for each square foot of coverage. Instructions for achieving the coverage at a given R-value may be found on the package, but it still is very easy for do-it-yourselfers to make a mistake during installation. When using loose insulation, it is best to hire a qualified insulation contractor who has been trained to install the material correctly.

INSULATION CONTRACTOR: A specialist in the installation of insulation. Do not confuse with a building or roofing contractor. Such contractors are listed in the Yellow Pages under "Insulation Contractors — Cold and Heat."

KILOWATT HOUR (KWHR): A measure of the use of electric energy equal to 1,000 watts of electricity used steadily for one hour. One KWHR will power a 100-watt bulb for 10 hours.

LANDSCAPING: The planting design of shade trees, shrubs and bushes. It not only can beautify the home but also can help lower fuel bills. According to the climate, strategically placed evergreen trees and shrubs can act as wind, rain and snow breaks in winter and provide shade in summer.

NAHB RESEARCH FOUNDATION, INC. LABEL: When this label appears on a package of insulation, it means samples of the material have been tested by independent experts of the National Association of Home of the heating and air-conditioning system. With some systems, such as baseboard heating, you can control temperatures in every room, if you ask for individual thermostats.

Builders Research Foundation, Inc.

PEAK LOAD PERIOD: The time when the demand for energy is the greatest. Summer days and winter nights are termed "peak load" periods in many utility service areas. And, in some cases, energy consumed during peak load hours is priced at a premium.

RETROFITTING: Adding items to existing homes. A typical "retrofit" package might include: increased attic insulation, storm windows and caulking around windows, doors and all accessible construction joints to cut air infiltration.

Proper Carpet Care

Like most other household investments, carpet ages. It loses color and luster long before the individual carpet fibers begin to wear down, and the carpet appears "old" or "worn out."

One way to slow the carpet aging process is through proper care and maintenance.

Soil and stain resist treatments, such as Scotchgard Carpet Protectors, add durability. Combined with proper cleaning techniques, these treatments enhance the lifetime of the average residential carpet.

Vacuuming
Carpet sweepers are good for occasional spot cleaning. Sweepers pick up strings, crumbs, paper or other loose, dry litter from the carpet's surface. But to really prolong the life of your carpet, regular, thorough vacuuming

R-VALUE: A measure of insulating ability — applied to materials of construction, windows, doors, framing members, concrete, etc., as well as insulation itself. The higher the R-value, the greater the insulating power.

THERMOSTAT: The temperature regulating dial or sliding gauge with which you can control the temperature

VAPOR BARRIERS: Shields that resist the flow of water vapor through the ceiling, walls and floors of a structure. Most blanket type insulation is available with a kraft paper or foil facing.

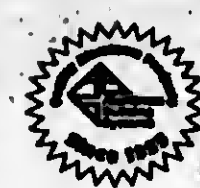

WEATHERSTRIPPING: Strips of metal, plastic, rubber or felt applied around the perimeter of all exterior doors and windows to stop air leaks. Like caulking, weatherstripping is easily applied and normally not too expensive.

For more information and advice on all areas of energy conservation contact your local utility, or write: J.H. Meeks, Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corporation, Fiberglas Tower, Toledo, Ohio 43659 for a free brochure titled "How To Bring Your Fuel Bill Under Control."

is needed. These cleaning tips will help:

- Vacuum cleaners with a motor driven brush and a beater bar raise the carpet's pile, and can more effectively remove dirt and soil.

- To avoid "spot crushing," or indentations caused by heavy furniture, periodically shift the positions of larger items in the room.

Murder In Wrightwood

Stanley Kichler, 81, of the 8000 block of Francisco Ave., was shot and killed Tuesday, April 13th in what is considered a 'crime of opportunity.' Kichler and an unidentified 84-year-old friend were sitting in a car after visiting the grave of the friend's wife.

Lt. John Regan of the Wentworth violent crimes unit reported that two young men in ski masks tried to rob the two men as they were sitting in the car talking.

Kichler was in the front passenger seat of the friend's car.

The two offenders approached the car, one on each side and demanded money. Mr. Kichler started to struggle and the passenger side door was opened.

The suspect on the passenger side asked for help with the struggling Kichler and the other robber leaned into the driver's side window and shot Kichler once in the chest.

The offenders ran eastbound through a gangway to the alley where their car was waiting. They drove northbound to 80th St., then eastbound on 80th St. The car was described as a full-sized, light blue car.

Mr. Kichler's companion was unharmed.

Regan assumed that the two attackers might have been looking for an opportunity as they drove down the street. When they saw the men sitting in the car talking, they drove into the alley and came through the gangway.

Funeral Talk

On Tuesday, April 20th at 7 p.m. in the community room of Thompson & Kuenster Funeral Home, a presentation will be given by Sandra Stanley, a pre-arrangement consultant, explaining funeral planning.

Marvin Bernberg will be on hand to inform participants about "Long-Term Care" and how to make provisions for the expense of "Long-Term Care."

Call 425-0500 to reserve a place.

Township Performance Party

Worth Township Performance Party candidates who are seeking election in Tuesday's April 20 election are Highway Commissioner Michael O'Malley Witt, Trustee Candidate Nancy A. Stack, Assessor William E. Connors, Supervisor Joan Patricia Murphy, Clerk Thomas "Bud" Gavin, Collector Emmett "Bud" Meyer, and Trustee Candidates Dorothea H. Hoch, Frederick S. Shannon, and William J. Bailey.

Sports Card Show

Park Lawn is hosting a sports card show on Sunday, May 2nd from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at 10833 S. LaPorte. Tables are available for $30. Sports memorabilia will be raffled off throughout the day and a surprise celebrity guest will be present to sign autographs. The public is invited to attend and admission is $1.

Proceeds from this event benefit Park Lawn, a non-profit agency that provides programs and services for children and adults with mental and physical disabilities.

For information, call (708) 425-6867.

The Lake Shore Association (LSAA) comprised of more than 100 young athletes of all ages in the south suburban area presented Oak Lawn Mayor Ernie Kolb with a service award at its annual banquet in early April. The association is led by Lou Novinson, a vital force behind LSAA's inception, and a person recognized for his fundraising and organizational abilities. LSAA Athletes expressed gratitude to Kolb for his 22 years of continued dedication to the association. They described Kolb as "a gentleman who never showed us a deaf ear when we needed help."

One athlete, in particular, remembered the countless calls made by Kolb in behalf of LSAA in addition to attending numerous games and contests. "He would always come at our beck and call as village clerk, and as mayor." He would set aside his busy schedule and attend our functions," said another athlete.

Letter To The Editor

Editor:

We hear much today of our new friends, the Russians and the Mexicans.

We are supposed to feed the Russians, subsidize everything from their vodka to their military. They still have a militarist, Communist Congress that controls a navy with nuclear powered submarines and nuclear warheads in the North Atlantic. They could destroy us in a few minutes.

Our so-called Mexican friends forbid American citizens from owning real estate in Mexico. Mexican citizens own considerable real estate in the U.S. Is this a good neighbor?

Mexico fosters illegal immigration into the U.S. and protects criminals who murder U.S. law enforcement people who try to stop drug shipments into the U.S. Such friends we do not need.

How about a few cheers for the good old U.S.A.?

POLICE CALLS

The following incidents were listed in the official reports of the Oak Lawn Police Department. Readers are reminded that an arrest by police does not constitute a finding of guilt and only a court of law can make that determination.

On April 3rd, Thomas Cech of Haggerty Pontiac reported someone removed part of the dashboard in order to get to the Delco AM/FM stereo cassette radio. Cost to replace is $550.

Alia Naser of Oak Lawn reported someone entered his locked vehicle in the apartment parking lot and stole the Sanyo AM/FM stereo player cassette and four videotapes, a stuffed brown bear and black leather spotted ring.

Richard Sanicky of Oak Lawn reported someone threw a rock through his 4x5 ft. front window of his apartment. Estimated cost to replace is $500.

On the 4th, Adrienne Baker of Chicago Ridge told police she was walking west when she noticed two male subjects walking behind her. She started walking faster and so did the men who each grabbed her by the arms. She managed to pull an arm free, reached into her pocket for a can of hairspray and sprayed both offenders in the face and they fled the scene. One of the men wore a silver & black Raiders coat and Raiders cap; the other wore a black coat and black Raiders cap worn backwards.

Harriet Green of Chicago was arrested after she was allegedly seen taking packages of cigarettes from the Jewel store at 4650 W. 103rd St. They were valued at $17.58.

On the 2nd, the police were patrolling the K-Mart lot at 95th & Pulaski when a male black was spotted standing in front of a pickup truck and the subject, later identified as Derrick Montgomery, was urinating in the parking lot. As the officer approached the truck, Montgomery got in and drove off. The truck had only one license plate on the front bumper and that plate was a passenger license registered to a 1973 Chevrolet. The officers made a traffic stop; they pulled into the Venture lot. Suretta Baker was in the front seat and Luke Taylor in the rear seat. When the vehicle was stopped, Montgomery got out and asked what was wrong and was told the plates were registered to a different vehicle. Montgomery told the officers it was his mother's. The officers saw the steering column was pried out and there were no keys in the ignition. It turned out the vehicle had been stolen in Chicago on Feb. 29th, taken from a firehouse at 1405 E. 63rd St. Baker said the plates were from her car. Baker said he had gotten the truck from a man named Swann. Montgomery was charged with a misdemeanor, disorderly conduct and the others were charged with possession of a stolen vehicle.

Helena Dubeck reported the right rear wheel and tire were stolen from her car while parked in the driveway. Estimated loss $60.

On the 5th at 2:50 a.m., Roger Holland of Chicago was stopped at 111th and Pulaski and charged with DUI, BAC over .10, no proof of insurance and possession of cannabis.

John Miller of Oak Lawn was stopped at 95th & Cicero and charged with DUI, BAC of .32, failure to give information and no insurance.

Howard Ratcliff of Chicago was charged with retail theft after he was seen in the Jewel at 9424 S. Pulaski allegedly concealing three packages of meat and a package of cough drops in his clothing.

Richlee Vans, Inc. of Chicago Ridge reported unknown persons had broken the rear window on the driver's side. Will cost $175 to repair.

On the 6th, Eleanore Woods of Evergreen Park reported her 1992 Buick Century valued at $14,000 was stolen from the Dominick's lot at 8701 S. Cicero.

Pascal Kerin of Oak Lawn surrendered himself to the police at the station at 9466 S. Raymond Ave. He was charged with a hit and run and disobeying a red light.

Susan Trachuk of Hometown reported her 1991 Olds Ciera valued at $10,500 was stolen from Dominick's lot, 8712 S. Cicero.

Herbert Garnett of Chicago Heights was seen by an agent of the Jewel at 9424 Pulaski allegedly concealing 13 packages of assorted meats and a bottle of Lawry's seasoning. The meat was valued at $98.93.

Mayor Kolb Keeps Order, Meeting Is "Quick And Quiet"

Despite the fact that there were pickets outside and residents jammed the village hall chambers to capacity, the Oak Lawn Village Board meeting on Tuesday remained quick and quiet. Mayor Ernie Kolb asked that the audience not be allowed to speak, stating that "this is a business meeting and not the time or place for election rhetoric."

Police were on hand to control the crowd, some of whom were members of Sheet Metal Worker's Union Local 73 who said that mayoral candidate Robert Streit had misrepresented himself as a union member. Others were protesting the fact that they would not receive their share of a $1 million income tax surcharge refund. These checks were stopped by order of a circuit court judge. The crowd reluctantly complied with Kolb's request.

In board business, trustees held a swearing-in ceremony for new firefighters Paul J. Chocola, Daniel J. Grennan, James E. Leikel and new patrol officer Patrick J. Barron.

The board also passed a truancy ordinance. The ordinance which states that any student in any Oak Lawn school who is truant is subject to a fine of up to $500 and community service.

Contracts were awarded to Freeway Ford Truck Sales for a 1993 ¾ ton utility truck in the amount of $15,098. Also awarded was a contract to Crowley Sheppard for the asphalt material for 1993 in the amount of $23.75 per ton for binder material and $26.80 per ton for surface material. Vulcan Material was awarded the contract for stone in the amount of $6.76 for G-8 stone and $7.76 for 3-inch stone.

Trustees directed Village Attorney Burton Odelson to make certain that the resolution against the proposed incinerator facility in Robbins is clear on one point. The resolution is against burning trash at the incinerator, but some residents asked that the wording specifically should forbid the village's trash pick-up service, Waste Management, Inc., from taking garbage to the Robbins facility.

Odelson feels that the resolution as passed should be sufficient, but said he would look into it further.

Property Disclosure Act Before Illinois House

An Illinois House committee has approved a proposal that would protect home buyers from defects and other conditions during the sale of a residence, State Rep. Maureen Murphy (R-Evergreen Park) said recently.

Rep. Murphy's measure, House Bill 1809, now goes to the full House for debate and deliberation sometime prior to the April 30th deadline on all House bills. Her legislation, which creates the Residential Real Property Disclosure Act, was unanimously approved by the House Judiciary I Committee on March 24th.

HB 1809 requires home sellers to complete a document disclosing defects and other conditions of the property and the structure. The seller is also required to disclose material defects of which he or she has actual knowledge.

"This pro-consumer proposal ends the common law practice of 'buyer beware' of defects during the hunt for a new home. It is designed to protect both the home buyer and seller during this very important business transaction," Rep. Murphy said.

Under Illinois law, there is no statutory requirement for full disclosure. However, with common law, Rep. Murphy said the seller must disclose a known defect if asked by the real estate agent or buyer.

"At one time in our lives, we all have experienced the trials and joys of buying a home. It's not always possible to ask at every instance questions about the house's or property's condition. Sometimes defects are not detected until after the sale has been made and the buyer moves in," Rep. Murphy said.

"With full written disclosure, the uncertainty is eliminated and everybody knows what to expect during the tour and sale of a house," she added. Highlights of HB 1809 include:

- Requires the sellers to make full disclosure of defects and other conditions of the land and house. It also requires disclosure of material defects for which the seller has actual knowledge.

- Applies to any residential land transfer by sale, exchange, installment land contract, assignment of beneficial interest, lease with option to purchase, lease of grounds or assignment of ground lease.

- Requires a written disclosure form that provides a checklist for the presence or absence of flooding, foundation problems, leaks and defects in the walls, electrical system and plumbing.

- Provides that no sale can be invalidated by failure to disclose, but the seller becomes liable in court for actual damages and court costs if the person violates the law or fails to disclose.

Letter To The Editor

Editor:

I am concerned about the innuendo being circulated in news articles and campaign literature that I was appointed to my position by the current political party. In fact, I was interviewed by the Mental Health Board and recommended for hiring to the Village Manager prior to the election 16 years ago. Because of my qualifications--MSW with over 15 years experience--I was hired and began work April 1st, 1977. My duties were expanded to include the Youth Commission in 1984.

Sincerely,

Bids On Sale Of Bonds

Governor Jim Edgar announced that the state has accepted a low bid of 5.5729 percent on the sale of $165 million in State of Illinois general obligation bonds. Four bids were submitted and the successful bidder was Prudential Securities Incorporated.

"The number of bidders and the interest rates show that the financial community continues to have confidence in this administration's ability to manage state finances," Edgar said. The bid was the lowest interest rate paid on any general obligation bond issue since November 1978.

The bonds are rated Aa by Moody's Investors' Service and AA- by Standard & Poor's Corporation.

Budget Director Joan

Walters said proceeds from the bonds will be used to finance capital projects, grants to school districts for construction purposes and grants for transportation and anti-pollution projects.

Other bidders and rates include: First Boston Corporation, 5.59401 percent; Bear, Stearns & Co. Inc., 5.60869 percent and Lehman Brothers, 5.61832.

Murphy Chosen To Judge Golden Rule Awards

Worth Township Supervisor Joan Patricia Murphy announced that she has been selected to serve as a judging panelist of the local J.C. Penney 'Golden Rule' award program. According to J.C. Penney spokesperson John Cady, "For a number of years J.C. Penney has recognized the importance of volunteers to the well-being of a community. We have tried to encourage volunteerism through two volunteer recognition award programs: the 'Golden Rule' award for volunteers in the community-at-large; and the James Cash Penney award for community service by our companies own associates."

"The 'Golden Rule' program is aimed at encouraging volunteer service by honoring and publicizing the outstanding efforts of individuals and groups. In addition to a personal award and public recognition for hard work and self-sacrifice, a winner earns a cash contribution to the non-profit organization he or she represents," continued Cady.

Cady concluded, "We are honored that Mrs. Murphy has agreed to serve on our 'Golden Rule' award panel. Her experience and leadership will be a great asset to the panel."

"TAKE IT FROM A GUY WHO WAS A CONSULTANT. THE DAYS WHEN BLUE CROSS COULD BE CALLED INFLEXIBLE ARE ANCIENT HISTORY."

SHERMAN M. WOLFE, SENIOR VICE PRESIDENT, FINANCE

There was a time that Blue Cross and Blue Shield seldom made my recommended carrier list. I didn't think they were willing to design plans specifically for individual clients.

Well, I was wrong. And if you believe it's that way around here, you're not as well informed about us as you could be.

One of the big reasons we're thriving is that we build every plan exactly the way a client wants it. And our range of products, plus the power of our networks, helps us do that better than anybody else."

WHEN YOU HAVE BLUE CROSS, YOU HAVE IT ALL.

- ☐ Balanced Benefit Planning to meet financial as well as human resource objectives.
- ☐ Comprehensive plans that are tailor made for specific client objectives.
- ☐ A greater ability to negotiate more favorable terms than any other carrier.
- ☐ The most trusted health insurance company in Illinois.

WE HAVE IT ALL.

Debates And Forums On Cable

Cook County Clerk David Orr and representatives of the seven cable companies serving suburban Cook County recently announced an innovative project to help suburban voters make informed choices in the upcoming local suburban elections. The systems serving Cook County, including local outlets, MetroVision, Multimedia Cablevision, have worked with community organizations to develop coverage of debates and candidate forums for the April 20th local elections. The coverage of these events will be broadcast prior to the April 20th election on the evenings of Sunday, April 18th and Monday, April 19th.

Coverage can be found on local cable access or origination channels when available, in an effort to insure residents have access to this important informational programming.

"I want to compliment the cable companies for the energy and time they have given this project," Orr said. "Their commitment will help thousands of citizens take on more active, informed roles in their communities. Most people want to take part in democratic self-government, but often they can't find enough information. By coordinating broadcast times and guaranteeing complete coverage of the county, the cable companies make information about local candidates and issues much more accessible."

"We want to help make democracy work in the communities we serve," said Gary Maher, president of the Illinois Cable TV Association. "In local elections, it can be difficult to find out about candidates. Cable can really deliver more specialized coverage of the issues and candidates. More specifically, cable companies have plenty of daily contact with the communities they serve via programming staff who are out there year after year covering village and municipal board meetings or local candidate debates. What better access can you get?"

To find out what races in your area will be covered and broadcast times, viewers can check their cable local access listings for Sunday, April 18th and Monday, April 19th.

Area contacts are Multimedia Cablevision, Jan Pollack, (708) 636-9571; MetroVision, Holly Salce, (708) 430-4840; and Cablevision of Chicago, Susan Bisno, (708) 383-5850.

NO ELK FOR NORTHERN WISCONSIN - The state's natural resource board voted unanimously to oppose efforts to re-introduce elk into Northern Wisconsin. The board decided to direct its efforts toward more urgent wildlife management programs.

Private individuals are interested in establishing an elk population in the Clam Lake Area of Ashland County. In time, the monies expended would come back in the form of increased tourism and elk hunting license fees. The state of Michigan has been very successful with their elk re-introduction program.

TRAIL RIDERS ALERT - The proposed Old Plank Road Trail will follow a 20 mile route along the abandoned Penn Central Railroad right-of-way between Park Forest and Joliet, 11.7 miles in Will County and 8.3 miles in Cook County.

The tentative plan calls for asphalt paving. Horses would be allowed to ride the three-foot shoulder on either side of the paved path with the exception of three towns; Park Forest, Matteson and Richton Park that have ordinances against horses.

This trail has been designated "multi-use" for everyone's enjoyment (including horses). A frightening trend is developing, we are at the crossroads concerning horses on trails.

All horseback riders are urged to attend the next Old Plank Road Trail Committee meeting on April 27th at 1:30 p.m. at the Rich Township Central, 22013 Governors Highway. The Illinois Trailriders and Horse Promoters, Inc. need your voice at this meeting.

ALCOHOL BANNED AT 27 STATE PARKS - Conservation Director Brent Manning reminded state park visitors the use of alcoholic beverages is restricted in 27 recreation areas statewide.

It is unlawful for any person to possess or consume intoxicating beverages, including beer or wine, in any department - controlled property which is posted with signs indicating that alcohol is prohibited. A violation is a Class B misdemeanor punishable by a $75 fine. Those requesting a court appearance face up to six months in jail and/or a fine up to $500.

Complete or partial alcohol bans are imposed following administrative review of recommendations made by site superintendents and conservation law enforcement personnel. The list of conservation sites enforcing alcohol restrictions hasn't changed during the past year.

SMILE - The Forest Preserve District of Cook County announced their 1993 amateur photography contest. Any amateur photographer is eligible to submit three photographs per $10 entry fee. Photos may be submitted in one or two categories; conservation or recreation. All entries must be received by 5 p.m. Friday, October 29th. For information contact the special event dept., (708) 366-9420.

DON'T LEAVE HOME WITHOUT IT - Your current fishing license that is!! The 1993-94 fishing licenses and salmon stamps are required as of April 1st. This will be the last year that Illinois residents over the age of 65 will be exempt. Be sure to obtain a copy of the 40-page booklet on Illinois fishing regulations at the time you purchase your license. The rules vary statewide with site specific regulations.

WHICH SIDE ARE YOU ON? - Illinois and Kentucky have reached an agreement making it easier for sportsmen to hunt and fish on the Ohio River. Now anglers and hunters from both states have the opportunity to enjoy this scenic river, understanding that they need to abide by the fish and game rules of their home state.

The interim agreement was signed by Brent Manning, director of the Illinois Department of Conservation (IDOC), and Don McCormick, commissioner of the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, who are responsible for enforcing fish and game laws in their respective states.

Wisconsin Lake Maps

The fisherman who hopes to catch more than occasional straggling bass or walleye begins by learning something about the lake. Step one, is the lake map, a hydrographic chart, showing the depths of the lake bottom. More than 2500 Wisconsin inland lakes have been surveyed to date. Mapping agencies include the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources, U.S. Forest Service, C.C.C. and various electric power companies. The complete alphabetical index for these lakes is available.

The listing can be obtained at no charge by sending a self-addressed, stamped (52¢)

No. 10 business envelope to Lake Map Section, P.O. Box 5096, Madison, WI 53705-0096.

BASEBALL ROUND-UP

The calendar might indicate the middle of April, but Mother Nature is certainly not cooperating. As temperatures hover in the 40-degree range, skies remain cloudy and winds are chilly instead of warm, baseball seems to be an out-of-place activity.

Tuesday Games (April 6th)

Oak Forest 5 - Joliet Central 3

A pair of runs in the bottom of the sixth sealed a 5-3 victory for the Bengals. The sixth-ranked Bengals took this nonconference game with the bats of Dan Walsh (1 for 1 with 2 RBI) and Bill Jones (1 for 1 with a double, three runs scored and an RBI). Jason Castner came in for the last three innings and fanned six, while not giving up a hit.

Stagg 8 - Rich Central 8

It was neither a win nor a loss for Stagg and Rich Central as they battled to an 8-8 tie before darkness set in during the eighth inning. Highlighting the Charger offense were home runs from the bats of Ryan Darrah and Jeff Watzke.

Marist 5 - Sandburg 2

A three-run sixth brought home a win for the Redskins. The Redskins were sparked by Brian Hermon and Mike Sommerfeld (2 for 4 with a pair of RBIs). On the mound, Brian Falat got the victory while Chris Smith came on to get the save.

Reavis 4 - St. Laurence 3

It was one Burbank team pitted against another as the Rams downed the Vikings. A seventh inning Ram rally on their home field did the Vikes dirt as a Bill Flood single to centerfield brought his brother Matt across the plate with the winning run. Reliever Bob Davila got the save after starter Tim Bednarz had fanned 11. On the Viking side, Pete Lotus was 2 for 3 with a pair of RBIs.

Rich South 6 - Oak Lawn 0

The Spartans ended the day with a goose egg in their win column as Rich South did them in 6-0. A total of 17 Spartan batters fell prey to the Stars' pitching staff as they managed to connect for only one hit.

St. Rita 8 - Curie 2

The Mustangs had their offense in high gear with the likes of Bryan Romanowski (2 for 3 with 4 RBIs), Jason Miller (2 for 3 with an RBI), Marty Quinn (2 for 2 with an RBI) and John Nee (2 for 2 with a pair of runs scored and an RBI). The winning pitcher was Tim Carrig.

Bremen 9 - Richards 5

The Braves captured a victory on their home field as they held on for a 9-5 win over the Bulldogs. At the plate, Braves Joe Bressanelli (3 for 4), Ken Chenoweth (2 RBIs) and Adam Verble (2 for 3 with a pair of RBIs) did the job. On the mound, Dennis Smith took care of the Bulldog offense.

Wednesday Games (April 7th)

Marist 3 - Brother Rice 0

Crosstown rivals Marist and Brother Rice fought to the finish as ace hurler Jim Peterocelli hurled a four-hit shut-out game with six strikeouts and no walks. A pinch-hit single off the bat of Redskin Tony Chiuseo drove in a run and proved to be the only offense necessary.

St. Laurence 9 - Argo 1

Four innings of one-hit baseball from the arm of Vikes hurler Mark Gutkowski sealed the Argonaut fate. At the plate, Joe Pickarz went 3 for 3 with an RBI and two runs scored to highlight the offense.

St. Rita 12 - Thornton Fractional North 1

The Mustangs scored the 'lucky dozen' over T.F. North. St. Rita kept on their winning way as John Bayer went 2 for 2 with a pair of RBIs. Bill Young connected on three of four

Freshmen Have A Good Season

The St. Laurence High School freshman basketball team concluded its season recently by finishing with a 7-5 record in the Catholic League South, good for third place in the conference. The Vikings finished 11-8 overall. The mark represented one of the finest seasons in recent memory.

"We had a very good season," commented coach Mike Corbett recently. "From the standpoint of wins and losses, 11-8 might not sound outstanding, but seven of those losses came by six points or fewer, and those games went down to the final minute. More importantly, we put ourselves in position to win in 18 of 19 games this year."

The foundation of the team's success was a solid defense as the Vikings allowed only 44.3 points per game on the season. The Vikes used a variety of man-to-man and zone defenses, applying pressure at time aiming to keep its opponents off guard.

St. Laurence started the season 3-5 but in mid-January started a streak that found them winning 8 of their last 11 games.

"The big weekend of the season was beating De La Salle, 36-34, and Fenwick, 36-34. Those were two good teams that were ahead of us in the standings and we really gained confidence and came together after those games," said Corbett.

Leading the way during the season were guard Blaine Roatch who averaged 13 points per game and guard Bill Gannon who scored 11 points per game. Brian Thompson combined inside-outside shooting and was a major threat as the season went on. Sean Foley and Marc Milanowski provided most of the inside scoring punch and were both instrumental in the rebounding department. Other key players were point guard Jim Adducci, forward Matt O'Neill and forward Rudy Ramirez.

Other team members included: Kestutis Babarskis, Charlie Czachor, Robert Johnson, Brian Leonard, Ryan McKinney, Tim O'Reilly, Leo Ramirez, Enrique Vega and Nick Vitacco.

"Our goal at the beginning of the season was to be competitive," said Corbett, a four-year varsity assistant prior to this season.

trips and tallied a trio of RBIs. Winning pitcher Brian Romanowski also drove in a pair.

Oak Lawn 2 - Hillcrest 0

Spartan pitcher Bob Mackowiak didn't give up any walks and fanned 10 Hawk batters in this two-hit effort.

Shepard 6 - Thornton 2

Hot Astro bats belonged to Craig Taczay with a pair of hits that drove in two runs and Jim Dallio who clouted a solo round tripper.

Monday Games (April 12th)

Sandburg 4-6 - Oak Forest 3-5

The Eagles captured a victory in game one in the bottom of the seventh as a wild pitch drove in Jim Wroblewski. On the mound, hurler Eric Welsh pitched a five-hitter. He also single scored the tying run in the seventh. In the nightcap, Welsh came through again and won the game with a single in the bottom of the seventh. Doug Murray added a trio of hits and relief pitcher Eric Losieczka went 5 1/3 innings without giving up a run. "We've been playing some close ballgames," commented Eagle coach Doug Sutor. "But the way we played today, maybe we're turning the corner. We don't like to lose."

Lincoln-Way 5-2 - St. Laurence 2-3

A bags-loaded walk by Pete Lotus brought the winning run across the plate in the nightcap. Three hits off the bat of Joe DiGangi plus relief pitching from Jason Amato sealed the victory.

Brother Rice 6 - Gordon Tech 2

A five-run sixth brought cheers to the Crusader dugout as they took care of Gordon Tech 6-2 in their Catholic League North opener. A suicide squeeze bunt from the bat of Mike Englebrecht plus a two-run single by Mike Stritch gave the Crusaders a win that really counted. Tom Tracy went the distance and gave up only five hits.

St. Rita 8 - St. Francis de Sales 4

The Mustangs won their Catholic League opener as Tim Carrig went seven innings and gave up only three hits while fanning a dozen. For the offensive end, John Bayer was 3 for 3 with two runs scored and a pair of RBIs, Pete Kelly was 2 for 3 with a pair of RBIs and Marty Quinn ended the day 2 for 3 with a pair of runs scored.

Bremen 4-12 - Eisenhower 1-6

Pitcher Mickey Oganovich was the star of the game in the opener as he went the distance while fanning seven. He also connected for an RBI double. In the nightcap, it was Mickey again as he pounded three hits, including a double with the sacks jammed.

Richards 2 - Chicago Christian 1

Pacing the Bulldogs offense was Brian Robinson who tallied 2 for 3 at the plate including a double. On the mound, Roger Belt fell just one out short of a no-hit contest.

Evergreen Park 4 - Morgan Park 0

At the plate, Brian Olenick was 2 for 4 with a double and a triple to lead the batters while additional runs came in via the bats of Mustangs Neil Vanderloer, Tim McKenna, Dan Rossi and Mike O'Reilly. On the mound, Chris Kalfut allowed only two hits while fanning nine.

Shepard 14-4 - Crete-Monroe 2-1

Winning pitchers were Joe Wroble (13 strikeouts in five innings) and Brian Chillon (8 strikeouts in seven innings). At the plate, the Astros had the powerful bats of Mike Melich (1 for 3 with two RBIs), Jim Dallio (1 for 3 with 2 RBIs), John Parr (3 for 4 with a trio of doubles and an RBI), Dallio was 2 for 3 with a pair of doubles and an RBI in game two.

Forest Preserve Acquires Land From MWRD

Cook County Board President Richard Phelan announced that the Forest Preserve District of Cook County is acquiring 400 acres of land, the largest land acquisition for the district in 10 years, within the Illinois and Michigan Canal National Heritage Corridor. The district will lease the land from the Metropolitan Water Reclamation District (MWRD) for $1 a year.

"This is a wonderful opportunity for the forest preserve district to strengthen its existing land holdings in southern Cook County, which includes the 14,000-acre Palos Preserve with its many lakes, trails and recreational facilities," Phelan said. "I am confident open space preservation and public recreational development will be greatly enhanced."

Under the terms of the agreement, the district will enter into a long-term, 40-year lease with the MWRD. The land will eventually be used to create part of the centennial trail, a 25-mile recreational trail planned for the I&M canal corridor.

The trail will ultimately connect public parks and forest preserves, historic structures and adjacent communities spanning Cook, DuPage and Will Counties. It also commemorates the 100th year of the MWRD and stands as an excellent example of intergovernmental cooperation between the forest preserve, the MWRD and the other counties' forest preserves.

"Partnerships such as this one allows the county to expand services without expense to the taxpayers," said Joe Nevius, general superintendent of the forest preserve district.

The land the forest preserve district will use follows the Des Plaines River, the Sanitary and Ship Canal and the I&M canal from the district's portage site at 47th and Harlem to Columbia Woods in the Willow Springs area.

"Open space is such a limited commodity in Cook County," Phelan said. "It didn't make sense for such prime open space to remain under-utilized and we are grateful for MWRD's vision to open these historic lands."

"The centennial trail is a very exciting project which will expand recreational opportunities for everyone in the county."

Nevius said the district is also working with many civic organizations to coordinate this effort. Some of those groups include the Open Lands Project, the Canal Corridor Association, and the Illinois and Michigan Canal Civic Authority.

Close Pulaski Bridge

The Pulaski Ave. bridge at approximately 133rd will be closed for a week and a half; reopening the week of April 19th, according to the Cook County Department of Highways. The project, which was begun earlier this month, will see a complete rehabilitation of the bridge. Current work is being done under the bridge. The bridge, when it is again opened, will be one lane in each direction.

It is expected that there will be other closings of the bridge during the course of the project.

Scheduled completion date for the project is in November.

National Astronomy Day

On Saturday, May 1st, The Adler Planetarium is joining other institutions and groups around the world in celebrating 'National Astronomy Day,' an annual opportunity for the general public to get in touch with the universe. Adler kicks off its festivities at 12 noon, offering live demonstrations and telescope views of celestial objects, along with lectures, films, sky shows and vendor booths throughout the day and into the evening, extending to 12 midnight. Except for the sky show, all activities are free of charge.

"National Astronomy Day offers everyone a chance to get in touch with outer space and find out what's going on in the field of astronomy," said Adler Senior Astronomer Phyllis Pittuga. "We hope it provides incentive for people to follow up on their curiosity about what they see in the sky, to use telescopes and find answers to questions about how the universe works."

The Planetarium Cafe will be open, offering a special planet Earth-theme menu throughout the event.

History Search

To celebrate its 75th anniversary, the National Easter Seal Society is launching an Easter Seal Story Search. Easter Seals hopes to fill in the gaps in its history through the stories it gathers from people who have been involved with Easter Seals over its first 75 years.

The national society, its affiliates nationwide, and its network of corporate sponsors invite people who have been Easter Seal clients or their families, employees or volunteers to call a toll-free 1.800.STORIES (voice or TDD) and let them know who you are. Callers will receive a brief questionnaire and will be asked to share their Easter Seal story with others as the national society celebrates its 75th anniversary.

"We know that there are pieces missing from our history and look forward to hearing what people can tell us about their own Easter Seal experiences," explains James E. Williams, Jr., president and CEO, National Easter Seal Society. "We hope to find people who have received Easter Seals' quality rehabilitation services and achieved independence in their lives, and we'd love to hear from some of the people who, as staff and volunteers, have made our programs and services possible," said Williams.

To contact the Easter Seal Story Search, call 1.800.STORIES (voice and TDD).

Sig Sakowicz is celebrating his 50th anniversary of broadcasting this year. Not too many around can say that. He has over 3,500 audio celeb interviews, over 5,000 celeb slides, over 1,000 TV shows in the can and 14 filing cabinets with pics. & bios. You know a book is in the making.

During WW II, Sig edited a monthly 5" x 7" newspaper "Sakowicz Jug" sent to over 2,700 GIs each month. All copies are bound in a book now in The Library of Congress, Washington, D.C.; The Illinois State Library in Springfield and The Polish Museum in Chicago. Loose copies of "Sakowicz Jug" are on display at the Chicago Historical Society in their Chicago Contribution to WW II. Sig's recent visit to The Library of Congress verified the book is on their shelf.

All this talk about Phonovision is not new to Sig. In 1964, Illinois Bell had him do an interview with Broadway producer Herman Shumlin, a first.

Church Reunion

St. Anthony of Padua Italian Church Parish School, 11533 S. Prairie Ave., Roseland, is holding an all-class alumni reunion on Sunday, April 25th at 10 a.m. mass. The reunion draws a capacity crowd each year, bringing together former students, their families, teachers and former parishioners. After mass, refreshments will be served in the church hall with classrooms open for visitors.

St. Anthony Parish School was founded in 1914 by the late Horatio D'Andrea, then pastor, and since its founding more than 3,000 students have graduated and went to higher learning in high schools, colleges and trade schools. Mrs. Carol Miceli, school principal, and Fr. Peter Gandolfi, CS, pastor, invite all St. Anthony School graduates, their families and former parishioners to attend the all-class alumni reunion.

For more information, phone Mrs. Carol Miceli at (312) 468-1454.

Navy Memorials

Dear old dad, or some grandfather before him, proudly served in the U.S. Navy, and just for serving, a national monument has been built for him in Washington, including a place to record his name for generations of Americans to see. The U.S. Navy Memorial honors all who have served in the Navy, and there are more than 200,000 records in its high-tech, interactive video Navy Memorial Log of active, retired and former bluejackets and officers, living or dead.

"Putting Pop in the Log" is a great gift for Father's Day, according to Master Chief Petty Officer Dave Michael, coordinator of the log.

"You never get the wrong size and it's a gift that lasts forever," said the master chief. "A large percentage of our enrollments are gifts for birthdays, holidays, anniversaries and Father's Day."

Displayed in user-friendly video consoles in the log room of the Navy Memorial's Visitors Center, each log record includes the name, date and place of birth, period of naval service and highest rate or rank held. The $25 tax-deductible contribution requested for enrollment helps defray the cost of building and operating the memorial and visitors center.

For Father's Day gifts, the memorial will acknowledge enrollments with a special greeting card and log registration forms for presentation to the father being honored. The cards will be sent in time for Father's Day for requests received by Tuesday, June 1st. For requests received after that date, delivery by Father's Day on Sunday, June 20th is not assured.

Navy vets or their kin desiring to enroll them in the log should send in the sailor's name and address (plus name and address of donor, if different), date and place of birth and, if known, dad's highest rank or rate and dates of naval service. Enrollment, including check, should be sent to: U.S. Navy Memorial Log, 701 Pennsylvania Ave., NW, Dept. M, Washington, DC 20004-2608.

A clearly identified photograph also may be entered for another $25. Photographs cannot be returned.

Authorized by Congress in 1980 with the stipulation that funding come solely through donations, with no taxpayer funds to be used, the memorial, completed in 1987, includes the statue of the Lone Sailor, bronze relief sculptures, a granite map of the world which serves as an amphitheater for concerts; a visitors center with the log room, a ship's store, and a big-screen motion picture about Navy operations entitled "At Sea."

Trying to prove that the Westbrook women are extraordinary, Dorothea (Tricia Wertheim, left) attempts to persuade her daughter, Artemis (Jamie Cooper) that she can fly using only a pair of homemade wings. Observing this is Artemis' daughter, Echo (Chris Vorberg) in Harold L. Richards High School's 4th place IHS state championship drama.

Veterans Information Workshop Is Scheduled

The state of Illinois will hold a veterans information workshop on April 16th in Joliet to help veterans learn about opportunities for employment in state government, according to Stephen B. Schnorf, director of the Illinois Department of Central Management Services (CMS).

"Veterans have given much to this state and nation," Schnorf said. "The least we can do for them in return is to assist them in learning about job opportunities with the state and to streamline the employment process for them."

The workshop will be held from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Friday, April 16th at the National Guard Armory, 2900 W. Jefferson in Joliet. Written testing will also be held on site exclusively for veterans.

The event is being sponsored by the CMS Veterans

Outreach Program, with assistance from the Illinois Departments of Veterans Affairs and Employment Security.

Representatives from state agencies will be available to discuss job opportunities and qualifications needed for employment. Individual counseling will also be available. Veterans attending the workshop will learn how to match their skills with existing state positions. Written testing for specific job titles will also be held.

Persons seeking more information can contact the CMS Veterans Outreach Program at (217) 524-1313 or (312) 814-6968, or toll-free 1(800)643-8138 or toll-free TDD 1(800)526-0844. Anyone needing reasonable accommodations in order to participate should call (217) 524-1312 or TDD (217) 524-1383.

Burris Receives Award

Attorney General Roland W. Burris received the Chicagoland Chamber of Commerce Distinguished Service Award at the chamber's 18th annual crime prevention awards luncheon. Burris was presented the award by Crime Prevention Committee Chairmen Dan Webb and Anton Valukas at the ceremony hosted by John Drury of WLS-Channel 7.

The awards recognize individuals who have made extraordinary contributions to their community's fight against crime. Each year, members of the committee nominate and select recipients.

The award honors Burris for his commitment to law enforcement. As Attorney General, Burris significantly increased the role of his office in investigating drug trafficking. For the first time in the history of Illinois, a statewide Grand Jury was seated to investigate and prosecute drug distribution chains that operate in two or more counties. In conjunction with that authority, he created the cash transaction reporting unit and the drug conspiracy prosecution task force, two units made possible through grants from the Illinois Criminal Justice Authority. These units will work in partnership with an Illinois State Police component.

In addition, Burris works with state's attorneys in all regions of the state and experienced staff assist with prosecutions upon request.

When it comes to creative solutions for our trash problem, our children can teach us a lot.

The funny pages become a funny hat. Tin cans become a space station. An appliance carton becomes a lemonade stand.

We need to encourage creative instincts like that. Because every year in South Suburban Cook County, we produce more than 922,000 tons of household trash (2,400 pounds per person). And we bury over 80% of it in landfills.

Consider instead, how countries like Sweden recycle and then make imaginative use of their unrecyclable trash to light homes, warm greenhouses and power businesses.

Today, children in 37 states are benefiting from a more environmentally responsible approach to trash disposal — like the Robbins Recycling and Trash-to-Energy Plant, which will recycle 25% of all trash and turn what's unrecyclable into useful electricity.

Trash is a fact of life. Let's be as creative with it as our children.

To Claim Or Not To Claim Deductions

One of the most confusing questions for many taxpayers is how to determine whether to claim the standard deduction or itemize deductions on their federal income tax return.

"For the average taxpayer, the amount of mortgage interest and taxes paid will determine whether they should claim the standard deduction or itemize," according to Mariette Waters, manager of Jackson Hewitt Tax Service in Oak Lawn.

In order to benefit from itemizing deductions, your allowable deductions must exceed the standard deduction for your filing status. The basic standard deduction, which has been increased for 1992 to reflect a rise in inflation, is $6,000 if married filing joint or qualifying widow(er), $5,250 if filing as head of household, $3,600 if single, and $3,000 if married filing separately.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Editor:

I am writing on behalf of my husband, Patrick Sullivan, a candidate for the Oak Lawn Park District Board. While campaigning, I met a citizen who asked me one question, "Why should I vote for him?", an excellent question and one we all should ask each of the candidates.

The park board, like the library and school boards, although elected, are volunteers in the full sense of the word. They do not receive any compensation for the many hours put in, not only at the monthly meetings, but the various committee meetings, call-out meetings, emergency meetings, etc. Many an evening Pat has received calls from people concerned about our parks. Yes, Patrick and all other board members work hard to keep our community the pride of the southwest side.

Patrick, over the years, has seen our parks grow. When first elected, the members of the board had the foresight to plan for the needs of a growing community and Oak Lawn has come to enjoy what has been accomplished. There is the pavilion, a multi-recreation facility now generating revenue, and the target date for the completion of the golf course is spring 1994. This does and will add immensely to the value of our homes and bring in revenue to our businesses and community. The children's safety village is completed and well-used by the youngsters and their parents. Cultural arts theatre programs are enjoyed by young and old alike. Where else can we attend live performance of popular plays without spending a large amount of money and still be close to home? Updating of playground equipment, with the help of committees of parents such as the Beverly Lawn, Oak Meadows and Lake Shore areas, has been done. There is the implementation of the "Eagle Eye Neighborhood Park Watch." This is important because people are keeping an eye out for any suspicious activities in their immediate area. They are helping the park district to preserve our million dollar investment. I could go on as to what Patrick has helped to accomplish while on the board.

But the program closest to Patrick's heart is the special recreation for our very special population. Without this program, these children would not be able to participate in various sports and programs. For his volunteer service, he received the prestigious "Excellence in Service" award, given by the therapeutic section of the Illinois Park & Recreation Society and is the result of his support throughout the years of the special recreation program and his contribution to other needy families with members who are disabled.

Patrick has not only experience, but he has the most important thing, the love he has for our parks, the employees and most of all, for the people of Oak Lawn. He is a man who knows what is taking place, what the people need and want. He makes sure that the park district is financially astute to maintain quality facilities and services. And he will continue to make sure that all present and future programs address the needs, health and especially safety of the park district users.

Letter To The Editor

Editor:

This is a time of ever-increasing taxes and uncertainty about where the next tax increase will come from. It is very unpopular to suggest - never mind actually propose - a tax increase. However, this is exactly what school officials in Oak Lawn-Hometown School District 123 have done. School officials are asking voters to approve an increase in the education fund tax rate on the April 20 ballot.

If the educational excellence currently provided by District 123 is to continue, voters must approve the increase. Some community members may ask, "I don't have any children in SD 123, why should my taxes increase to support something I do not use?"

The public school system available in a community helps define the quality of life in that community. The better the quality of life, the more attractive the properties within that community are. This translates into the dollars and cents associated with property values. The property values in a community affect ALL of the members of that community. A "yes" vote on April 20 is an investment in the property within that community.

On a more altruistic level, approving the referendum will funnel tax dollars directly into the classrooms. The classrooms benefiting from those tax dollars are the classrooms found right here - in our neighborhoods. The children benefiting from those dollars live right here - in our community. Of all the tax dollars we pay, how many go directly into our community, to benefit members of our community? Voting "yes" on April 20 is a vote for tax dollars appropriated directly to the classrooms of District 123.

Finally, the fundamental reason SD 123 must approach the tax payers for a rate increase is because the state has abdicated its responsibility to public education. The State of Illinois ranks 47th out of 50 states in terms of the amount of funding it provides to public school education. The amount of money provided by the state to District 123 has decreased from $2,140,000 received in 1977 to $483,000 received in 1992. If the district was currently receiving the same monies from the state it received in 1977, District 123 would not have to seek more taxes from the property owners.

Certainly, it seems appropriate to approach the state legislators and ask them to address their responsibility to public education. The response of the legislators and the implementation of that response could take years. District 123 cannot afford to wait. If the community is going to continue to enjoy the excellence in education, which is the tradition of District 123, it must approve the proposed rate increase.

District 123 is not the first in this area to propose an increase to the education fund tax rate. If anything, District 123 is one of the last in this area to approach the voters to approve such an increase. The administration and board of education should be commended for maintaining a fiscally sound district for this length of time, given the current attitudes of funding public education by the state legislators.

Past budgets proposed and implemented by the administration and board of education of SD 123 have been intensely scrutinized by independent persons - most of whom were community members. There has been discussion about certain items in the budget, but the reviewers and auditors have arrived at the same bottom line. That bottom line was expressed most succinctly by a Kolmar parent, at the meeting held at McGugan Jr. High School for canvass workers, "They [District 123] need the money!"

Support Oak Lawn-Hometown SD 123 and our community. Vote "yes" on April 20.

New Principal Hired

The Community High School District 218 Board of Education hired a principal on Monday, April 5th for the alternative school scheduled to open in August. Since 1986, Ken Freeman has been the principal of the alternative school in the Elgin school district. Freeman begins working officially for District 218 on July 1st.

District 218's new alternative school will address student needs that fall beyond the scope of a regular comprehensive high school. Examples include students who have children, students classified as 'at risk,' students with erratic attendance patterns, students who have made marginal progress in credit achievement, and students who do not behave appropriately within the traditional school setting. Many students who will attend the school live in circumstances which prevent education from being a top priority.

"The intent is to provide these students with an effective, true educational alternative to traditional high schools," said Assistant Superintendent for Instructional Services Dr. Norman Felland, who led the four-year alternative school exploration.

The alternative school will be phased in over the 1992-93 and 1993-94 school years. During the 1992-93 school year, the district will organize the school's academic program and staffing needs and prepare the school site for use.

"We hope to begin operation in fall of 1993," Felland added.

District 218 will operate its alternative school in what was the north building of the Sauk Area Career Center, Crestwood. Students may choose to attend the alternative school from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m., 12 noon to 3 p.m., or both.

Academically, students attending the alternative school must meet the same graduation requirements (21.25 credits) as other District 218 students. This includes core courses in English, math, science, social studies and health. Elective courses and career training comprise the balance of the curriculum.

The alternative school will provide a day-care facility for students who have children. Parents who attend the school and utilize the day-care service will be required to spend an appropriate amount of time helping in the center. Student-parents also will be required to complete appropriate parenting courses.

"Students graduating from the alternative school should be as proud of their achievement as those who graduate from the traditional high schools," said Felland.

It is projected that the alternative school will serve between 200 and 250 students at a cost ranging from $1,750 to $2,300 per student. District 218 currently contracts with the Ombudsman program at a cost of $3,000 per student (with an anticipated 1992-93 enrollment of 80).

District 218 will examine state and federal grants to subsidize the cost and attempt to establish the school as a model for other districts. Alternative school students will have limited or no extracurricular activities, nor will they participate in extracurricular activities at the other district schools.

"Students who attend the alternative school do so because the educational environment best suits them. If they want what is available in the traditional school, such as extensive extracurricular activities, then that is where they are to attend and succeed," Felland pointed out.

Monthly SIPP Survey In Area

Local representatives of the U.S. Census Bureau are to visit selected area households beginning on Monday, May 3rd, to conduct the Survey of Income and Program Participation (SIPP), Stanley D. Moore, director of the bureau's Chicago regional office, announced.

SIPP, a continuing nationwide survey, was introduced in the fall of 1983. It is one of the nation's largest, with about 60,000 households participating.

The Census Bureau publishes periodic reports with information from the survey. Subjects covered include jobs and earnings; the economic effects of unemployment, disability and retirement; how taxes affect personal spending; and participation in programs such as Social Security, Medicare, Medicaid, food stamps and pension plans.

Information from SIPP helps policy makers and administrators determine how well government programs are serving the public and how changes in programs and policies will affect the public.

Here are some facts about persons and their health insurance between 1987 and 1990, based upon findings from the survey. The sample size limits accurate reporting to national figures only. Twenty-one percent of all U.S. residents, approximately 50 million, lacked health insurance for at least a month during 1987; the average monthly total of uninsured persons in the final quarter of 1990 was 13 percent of the population or about 32 million; 28 percent of men lacked continuous health insurance between 1987 and 1989, compared with 25 percent of women because of higher levels of Medicaid and Medicare coverage among women, 46 percent of Hispanics lacked insurance for at least a month between 1987 and 1989 while among racial groups, the percentages lacking insurance for at least a month were 40 percent for blacks and 24 percent for whites. Also, private health insurance covered 91 percent of whites and about 75 percent of blacks and hispanics for at least one month between 1987 and 1989. One-half of persons aged 18 to 21 had no insurance for a month or more. For those aged 25 to 44, 73 percent had continuous coverage compared with 82 percent of those aged 45 to 64, and 99 percent of those aged 65 and over.

Orland Park Businessman Found Guilty

Orland Park businessman Duane "Butch" O'Malley, 40, of 14317 S. 82nd Ave., was found guilty of felony solicitation to commit murder for hire and faces a minimum 20 year prison sentence after being convicted last week of the attempted 1991 contract murder of a former employee who had established a competing business.

O'Malley is the owner of O'Malley Trucking & Fire Authority Systems in unincorporated Orland Township, a business that installs fire prevention sprinkler systems.

O'Malley was convicted in a one day bench trial before Associate Criminal Court Judge Joseph J. Urso in Chicago. Urso revoked O'Malley's bond and ordered him held at Cook County Jail pending sentencing on May 10th, according to an associate for Linus Kelecius, special prosecutor with Cook County State's Attorney

Jack O'Malley's organized crime division. The spokesman said O'Malley had approached an acquaintance in the summer of 1991, offering to pay him to break the ex-employee's hands. He subsequently asked the man to kill the former employee.

Instead, the acquaintance went to the authorities and an undercover Illinois State police officer was assigned to pose as a hired killer and meet with O'Malley. According to the spokesman, the undercover detective and O'Malley met twice on July 8, 1991, in or near O'Malley's home.

At first O'Malley told the undercover officer he would pay $5,000 to have the ex-employee killed, then later reduced the offer to $2,000, Kelecius' spokesman stated.

The detective tape-recorded the conversations for use in making the criminal case against O'Malley.

Property Tax Bill Exemption Deadline Is May 10th

Cook County homeowners until May 10 to apply for their 1992 Homeowner or Senior Citizen Exemption, said Assessor Thomas C. Hynes.

"The deadline is fast approaching for eligible homeowners to get their applications in, if they haven't already," Hynes said.

"If applied for on time, the exemptions will be reflected on this summer's property tax bills," he said. "Now is the time to apply for these important benefits, and not after the bills come out."

Hynes said his office sent second applications to homeowners in Cook County who did not respond to the first mailing.

Applying is simple. All that is required is that the homeowner verify the information on their exemption form, sign it, and return it to the Assessor's Office.

Hynes urged seniors who turned 65 in 1992 to register for the Senior Citizen Exemption. First-time registration requires specific documentation showing proof of age. Once registered, the senior homeowner in future years will receive a simple renewal form.

"Seniors registered for the Senior Citizen Exemption automatically qualify for the general Homeowner Exemption," Hynes said. "They don't have to apply for the Homeowner Exemption. But they'll benefit from both, saving substantially on their property taxes."

The general Homeowner Exemption can save hundreds of dollars on a homeowner's real estate bill, the exact amount depending on the local tax rate. The Senior Exemption can save homeowners 65 and over even more.

Both exemptions reduce the taxable value of a person's home. They are not cash rebates, but are deductions off second-installment bills that come out in the summer.

Properties that qualify are single-family homes, townhomes, condominiums, co-operatives, and apartment buildings up to six units. The current or previous owner must have lived on the property as a principal residence as of January 1, 1992.

For those who have not yet applied for their exemption, contact Hynes' main office in the County Building, 118 N. Clark, Chicago 60602 (Homeowner Exemption Dept., Room 301, 312/443-7500; Senior Citizen Exemption Dept., Room 301, 312/443-6151) TDD No. 312-443-6181, or one of his branch offices in the following Circuit Court Buildings: 10200 S. 76th Ave., Bridgeview 60455 (Room 237, 708/974-6451); 16501 S. Kedzie Pkwy., Markham 60426 (Room 237, 708/210-4100); 1500 Maybrook Sq., Maywood 60153 (Room 005, 708/865-6032); 2121 Euclid Ave., Rolling Meadows 60008 (Room 237, 708/818-2444. Office hours for all locations are 8:45 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Assistance is also available at suburban township assessor's offices.

Net Income Is Up At Heritage Financial

Heritage Financial Services, Inc. (NASDAQ/NMS:HERS) reported net income for the first quarter ended March 31st, was $2,371,000, up 8% from $2,186,000 in the comparable 1992 period. Earnings per share for the three-month period rose 7% to 29 cents from the 27 cents earned in the 1992 first quarter.

Richard T. Wojcik, chairman and chief executive officer, said higher earnings in the 1993 quarter were due principally to a 12% increase in net interest income. He attributed the growth in net interest income to a 13% increase in average earning assets, primarily reflecting the acquisition of Alsip Bank and Trust in December 1992.

According to Wojcik, the ongoing containment of operating expenses also contributed to the net income increase. Excluding the operating expenses of Alsip Bank, total operating expenses in the 1993 first quarter rose approximately 1% compared to the 1992 period.

He said the plan to merge Alsip Bank with Heritage Bank, the company's principal subsidiary, is on schedule. "After the merger, Alsip Bank will be operated as a branch of Heritage Bank and, within a week, Alsip Bank customers will be able to conduct business at any one of Heritage Bank's 11 locations."

"Heritage Financial Services' asset quality remains strong," Wojcik said. At March 31, 1993 the level of nonperforming loans decreased to $3.5 million from $4.6 million at December 31, 1992. Nonperforming loans as a percent of loans were .78% at March 31, 1993, compared to 1.01% at December 31, 1992, and 1.29% at March 31, 1992. Nonperforming assets as a percent of loans and other real estate owned decreased to 1.38% at March 31, 1993, from 1.61% at December 31, 1992, and 1.91% at March 31, 1992.

Heritage Financial Services, Inc. is a multibank holding company with assets in excess of $815 million. It is headquartered in Tinley Park and through its bank affiliates operates 11 banking offices in the southwest suburban Chicago market. The company also operates a trust company which serves all locations. The company's shares are traded on the NASDAQ National Market System under the symbol HERS.

St. Rita Walk-A-Thon

St. Rita High School announced that its students are getting ready to walk the Chicago lakefront to North Pier on Thursday, April 29th. The walk-a-thon is a student fundraiser that helps to offset the school's operating cost and to keep student tuition as low as possible.

"Traditionally, the students have walked to the Chicago White Sox home opener, but this year because the home opener fell on Good Friday, we had to look for a new option," said Jim Segredo, director of development. "We wanted to do something different, to show our students part of the city that they don't often see."

To be eligible to walk, students must raise $50 in pledges. The young men will be walking with the young ladies of Lourdes High School. After the walk-a-thon, a special reception will be held for the students at the Baja Beach Club in the North Pier. The reception will feature food and pop for the students, dancing, games and a rally sponsored by Students Against Drunk Driving (SADD). The rally is a very important part of this year's walk since it is so close to prom for the juniors and seniors. Prom season has always been a time for celebration for students and a time of fear for parents. The rally is expected to give students a strong reminder about staying safe during their proms.

"We are happy to be able to offer our young men such an exciting fundraising event," Segredo continued. "Now we just have to pray for good weather!"

The goal for the walk-a-thon is 60 percent participation of the student body and $20,000 by April 23rd. Other student incentives include a 50/50 cash back offer, in which individual students who surpass their $50 quota will receive half of all additional money they raise. The top junior and senior salesmen receive free limousine service to their prom.

MVCC Hosts "World Game" Competition

The world is coming to Moraine Valley Community College on Friday, May 7th. Well, not the whole world, just the largest and most accurate map of the entire earth, used to play the World Game. The game is to be held from 8:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. in the gymnasium, 10900 S. 88th Ave.

Conceived by Buckminster Fuller as an alternative to war games, the World Game is a new participatory event that allows players to experience the state of the world from a new, empowering perspective. The game consists of role-playing and using a multi-media production that will provide a unique experience. More than 150 area high school and MVCC students will participate in the game, which uses a heavy plastic map, 70 feet long and 40 feet wide.

"The World Game brings the global picture into sharp focus. It's a very interactive, hands-on experience," said Henry Allan, director of the Center for Peace and Conflict Studies at Moraine Valley. "Participants gain a new awareness and insight into the world."

The World Game travels across the country and has been demonstrated in the U.S. Congress, the State Department, the United Nations, major corporations and at many colleges and universities.

The game focuses on creating a positive vision and the means for achieving it. Participants work to solve problems such as hunger, poverty and inadequate health care through diplomacy, involvement with international organizations and cooperative ventures with neighboring countries, Allan said.

The public may observe the event free of charge. For more information, call the college activities office at (708) 974-5717.

Suburban Post Office Gets "Thumbs Up"

South suburban customers gave the U.S. Postal Service a resounding 'thumbs up' approval rating in the second quarter for 1993, announced District Manager James Olden. Independent measurement by Opinion Research Corp. indicated 87 percent of the households with 604 and 605 ZIP Code prefixes rated their service 'excellent,' 'very good' or 'good,' three points over last quarter's figures, according to Olden. "This is slightly below the national score of 89 percent, the highest satisfaction rating since measurement began nearly two years ago. However, we're encouraged to see that we've won the approval of an additional three percent of our customers."

In a separate measurement, the Postal Service delivered 83 percent of the overnight-committed first-class mail for the south suburbs on-time in the mid-December through mid-March time period, according to testing conducted by Price Waterhouse.

"This score is equal to the national average and a five percent increase over the score received for the period of Sept. 19th through Dec. 11th," said Olden. "These two nationwide measurement systems provide us with the feedback necessary to identify the areas where service improvements are needed."

After we identify those areas, we make the changes; the end result is improved service to our customers," concluded Olden.

New Office Hours

If you have business with the recorder of deeds office, you can beat the rush by getting up early on Monday, May 3rd, the day Cook County Recorder Jesse White debuts new early hours, and offers a one-stop morning to customers with a free 'continental breakfast' as well. Starting May 3rd, the recorder's central office, 118 N. Clark St., will open at 8 a.m. daily, providing customers an additional hour to conduct business. Suburban locations in the Markham, Bridgeview and Skokie courthouses will open at 8:30 a.m., in compliance with security procedures at those facilities.

"Everyone is busy these days and time constraints are a common problem," White said, "it makes good sense to extend government office hours to provide a little more flexibility, and we in the recorder's office are happy to meet the need."

White is exploring additional options, including Saturday and evening office hours.

"We will welcome early-birds on that first day with a handshake and a hot cup of coffee," White added. "Considering the number of requests we've had for longer hours, I think this first step deserves a bit of fanfare!"

Coffee and rolls will be served from 8 to 9 a.m. at the downtown location and from 8:30 to 9:30 a.m. at the suburban offices.

Recorder White will host at the downtown location.

Letter To The Editor

Editor:

156,641 people can't be wrong. That's the number of Illinois drivers who opted to join the Secretary of State's Central Organ/Tissue Donor Registry in the first quarter the registry was operational. These people are among the growing numbers who see the value of organ and tissue donation. They are willing to give part of themselves some day in the future to save the lives of others. They have indicated that they will sign their organ donor card and discuss their wishes to donate with their families.

As a transplant recipient (I received a kidney in 1991), I applaud these potential donors. I know how hard it is to wait for a donor organ, hoping that one will come before time has run out.

You can easily give the 'Gift of Life.' Just sign your organ donor card today. And next time you go to a driver's license facility, join the Central Registry. The fact that you've joined won't be printed on your license. Only organ procurement agencies have access to the information once you have died. And, even then, no organs and tissues will be removed without your family's consent.

Aluminum cans and newspapers aren't the only things that can be recycled. Think about it!

Sincerely,

Mary K. Michaels

Reasons For Filibuster

By Congressman Harris W. Fawell, 13th District

Many constituents are asking me why the Republican Senators are filibustering (holding up passage of) President Clinton's $16 billion 'economic stimulus' legislation. First, let's look at a few of the projects that will likely be funded with American taxdollars if the 'stimulus' package becomes law: $1 million for a casino building in West Haven, Connecticut; $1.4 million for a grocery store in Inkster, Mississippi; $2.75 million for a baseball stadium in Auburn, New York; $808,000 to do "research for (a) bikepath" in Eugene, Oregon; $10 million to purchase a ferry vessel for Alameda, California; $5 million for a "beach parking garage" in Fort Lauderdale, Florida; $600,000 to "expand (a) shopping center" in Hammond, Indiana; $750,000 to install "period-type street lighting in downtown" Shawnee, Kansas; $2 million to renovate a theatre in Louisville, Kentucky; $1.2 million for a mall in Boston, Massachusetts; $650,000 for a baseball diamond and pool in Lima, Ohio; $5 million for a "sports facility" in Ciales, Puerto Rico; $1 million for baseball fields in Mayaguez, Puerto Rico; $1.2 million for a pool and $340,000 for "athletic park lighting system" in Vega Baja, Puerto Rico; $90,000 for a "portable dental school" in Seattle, Washington; and $325,000 for five new softball fields in Cheyenne, Wyoming.

These are just a sampling of 4,396 projects assembled by the nation's mayors at the request of the Clinton Administration. These are projects the mayors would fund using President Clinton's "stimulus" plan through $2.5 billion in additional Community Development Block Grant funds and $3 billion in Transportation funds.

The irony is that the President's "stimulus" package, including the above examples, is being hustled through Congress as "emergency" 1993 spending. By using that gimmick, the riddled spending limits of our "current" (1990) five-year $500 billion deficit-reduction law (including $164 billion of new taxes) can be further avoided. The $16 billion of "stimulus" spending, thus, becoming simply more debt in 1993. 1993 is the third year of the failed 1990 deficit-reduction law which has produced our nation's largest annual deficits. In fiscal year 1993, ending on September 30, the annual deficit is already estimated to reach $430 billion without the "emergency" spending of the stimulus bill. The $430 billion of new debt includes $100 billion borrowed by Uncle Sam from government trust funds, like Social Security.

Worse yet, if all of the Administration's new taxes, new spending (investments-stimulus) and promised cuts in spending (cuts in increases) were to accrue over the five-year period of the President's budget, (an extremely doubtful assumption) even the Administration's own budget acknowledges our national debt will zoom from $4.1 trillion today to $6.2 trillion by 1998.

Considering these facts, Senator Hank Brown (CO) offered an amendment to the "stimulus" package in the Senate to at least strip the bill of the pork barrel projects listed above as well as many others. His amendment passed by four votes, then, Senator Robert Byrd (WV) used parliamentary shenanigans to bring it up for a vote a second time, this time narrowly defeating the amendment. Thus, all of pork remains in the "stimulus bill."

I believe that once the American people understand what is in this bill, and the sorry fiscal mess of our federal government, those who filibuster against the Administration's "stimulus" package will have their complete support.

Wiretap

Law enforcement officials could use wiretap procedures to investigate the illegal activities of drug dealers, under legislation sponsored by State Sen. Patrick O'Malley (R-Palos Park) and passed by the Illinois Senate:

Senate Bill 880 expands Illinois' wiretap statute to allow its use for investigating criminal drug conspiracy, which covers actions of two or more people who conspire to deal drugs, including the delivery to children or sale to minors on school property.

"Nonconsensual wiretap has become an effective investigatory tool since its use was first allowed in Illinois four years ago," O'Malley said. "It will make it easier for law enforcement officers to prosecute the illegal drug dealers who are such a scourge to our society."

Part of an anti-crime legislative package proposed by Cook County State's Attorney Jack O'Malley, Senate Bill 880 now moves to the House of Representatives for consideration.

The CCC

The concept behind the Civilian Conservation Corps (CCC) was the establishment of a jobs program for unemployed youth. The start of the program was developed during the early years of the Great Depression. CCC recruits included jobless men between the ages of 16 and 25, unmarried, and from families on relief. These young men were put to useful work. Land restoration was one of the principal goals of the CCC. Army reserve officers managed the CCC camps, while the Forest Service and National Park Service planned the projects.

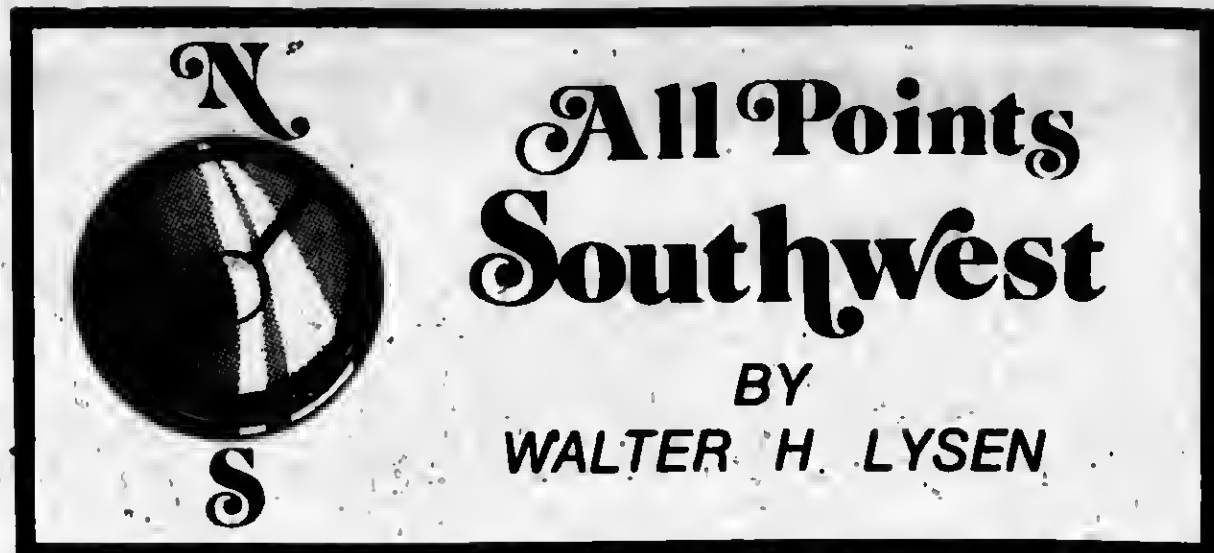

Congress passed the Civilian Conservation bill on March 31st, 1933. By June, 1,300 conservation camps were in operation. About 2.5 million men went through the CCC program: planting trees, digging reservoirs, fishponds and diversion ditches; building dams, bridges and fire towers; fighting tree diseases; restoring historic battlefields, and clearing beaches and campgrounds, according to "The American Worker, a U.S. Department of Labor publication."

Law Week

Attorneys will provide free legal information during The Chicago Bar Association's "Law Week" Call-A-Lawyer program, Saturday, May 1, 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Chicago-area residents who call (312) 554-2001 can discuss legal problems with experienced attorneys from The Chicago Bar Association Lawyer Referral Service.

Call-A-Lawyer is designed to assist the public with answers to basic legal questions. Attorneys will be available to address legal issues related to domestic relations, wills, criminal matters, contracts and more.

Call-A-Lawyer is offered one Saturday morning of each month and serves over 1,200 Chicago and suburban residents every year. The May program will fall during "Law Week," April 24-May 2. It is one of many activities sponsored by The Chicago Bar Association during the week.

Tuesday's Consolidated Election results ran pretty much as we predicted last week. Mayor Ernie Kolb and Clerk Jayne Powers of Oak Lawn led their Citizen's Coalition Party ticket to a complete sweep of all offices over Trustee Bob Streit and his UVRP Party.

As we said there was no question that Kolb and Powers would be re-elected but could they carry the three trustee positions to regain control of the board. They did convincingly.

Their running mates incumbent Ron Stancik in the 2nd had a 5-1 margin over Estelle Batzel; In District 4 newcomer Mike Walsh had a 300 vote plurality over incumbent Steve Rosenbaum; and in the 6th District William Keane clobbered incumbent Harold Mozwez by over a thousand votes.

It means Kolb with present sitting Trustee Marjorie Joy has regained control of the board and will be able to return it to its stable operation as before the UVRP came on the scene.

This leaves Streit as the only UVRP member on the board. He still has two years to serve out his trusteeship. The sixth trustee seat is vacant because of Hefka's resignation and leaves Kolb to select the successor which will give him five of the six council votes and assure him of four years of control of the village.

Watch for a quick change and elimination of UVRC appointees which include Village Manager Mike Feeley; public relations man (?) Dave Looby, Burt Odelson village attorney, Ed Barron special prosecutor, along with other subordinate appointees who cluttered the scene.

Mayor Jerry Bennett of Palos Hills rolled to an easy victory along with his Clerk Rudy Mulderink, and Treasurer Ken Nolan, but lost three aldermanic positions.

Mayor Gene Siegel (unopposed) of Chicago Ridge carried his whole Performance ticket into office including Clerk Chuck Tokar who had a close race with Don Pratl Jr.

In Worth Township Performance Party candidates headed by Supervisor Joan Patricia Murphy and Clerk Thomas "Bud" Gavin captured all the top seats but did lose two of four trustee seats to the Republicans. Mike Davies and Jack O'Connor were the only Republicans to win trustee slots. Performance winners were Dorothea Hoch and Nancy Stack.

Carl 'Clean Water' Klein called to remind ALL POINTS that the first Earth Day, in 1970, was proclaimed by the U.S. Department of the Interior when Carl was Under Secretary of the Department, headed by Interior Secretary Walter Hickel. Hickel, a dedicated environmentalist, and Klein, who is a firm supporter of preservation of the planet, are Republicans who belie the challenge that the GOP ignores the environment. Klein iterated his opposition to incineration as a means of waste disposal. He pointed out that no matter what is said or written, toxic chemicals such as mercury are by-products of incineration and find their way into our earth and into our water supply.

Grant funds to assist 36 local communities in the state have been allocated. The $912,884 total of grant money is administered by the Department of Commerce and Community Affairs and is designated for use in providing services to the homeless. The second largest grant went to CEDA of Cook County, which services the suburban county area. The amount was $82,645. The largest amount went, of course, to the City of Chicago, $404,686.

Mayor Tony Vacco of Evergreen Park, outspoken in his criticism of Governor Jim Edgar's insistence on allocating all surtax money to the state, is going to be in Springfield next Tuesday and Wednesday. He is planning to plead the case of cities and villages which were originally promised a share of the surtax now being denied by the governor. "The State of Illinois could learn a lot from its local communities on how to balance a budget," Vacco said. He added, "We don't spend money we do not have, a valuable lesson for county, state and federal government." He is adamant in his opposition to the state using the backs of local communities to try to solve its fiscal problems.

Each year the Salvation Army helps nearly 2,000,000 people in the Chicago Metropolitan Area which is partially sponsored by funds raised during their annual "Donut Day" event. Special Events Director Donald L. Eley reports that they are planning their Donut Day Program (June 4-5) and are looking for volunteers to contribute an hour or two selling "Tags" on Friday June 4th and or Saturday June 5th. For more information call him at (312) 725-1100 Ext. 572 or Ext. 552. Donut Day has been held in Chicagoland for 55 years.

Women who have served in the military are being sought by the U.S. Department of Labor to alert them of services and benefits to which they are entitled.

The U.S. Department of Labor and the Illinois Department of Employment Security are sponsoring a free "Awareness Conference for Women Who've Served in the Military" Thursday, April 29 from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. at the Congress Hotel, 520 S. Michigan, in downtown Chicago. For more information call (312) 684-5500.

Governor Jim Edgar announced last week that he has appointed Manny Hoffman as chairman of the State Labor Relations Board. Hoffman, 56, is the Chairman of the Cook County Republican Organization; a former state Representative and served as Mayor of the Village of Homewood for six years. The position pays an annual salary of $54,862 and requires State Senate confirmation.

ALL POINTS recently received the 1993-94 "Illinois Handbook of Government." This information-packed booklet should be of interest to every student of government, if not to every resident of the state. An eye-opener is comparison of the U.S. Constitution with the Illinois Constitution. The Federal Constitution, adopted over 200 years ago, had seven articles. The first 10 Amendments, known as the 'Bill of Rights' also date to more than 200 years ago. Since that time, only 16 Amendments have been ratified, and one of those 16 repealed an earlier Amendment. This Constitution takes up only 14 pages of the "Illinois Handbook."

By comparison, the Illinois Constitution, dating from 1970, already has been amended seven times in addition to its original 14 Articles and takes up 31 pages of the "Illinois Handbook." Progress?

United Colation Victorious In Palos Township

With the exception of clerk and one trustee position, the United Coalition won all offices voted on at Tuesday's Consolidated Election. Most of the races were close, however the UTC engineered a virtual sweep. Walter Brégin of the UTC edged Beverly "Betty" Lebloch of the Independent Palos Township Party, 5,194-5,054. For clerk Barbara Eastman of the IPTP won over UTC candidate Jean Lambertsen. Lee Harris won as assessor candidate, defeating Leonard Surdyk, 5,114-4,921; Steve Stratakos won over Henry Zwartz for collector, 5,383-4,649 and Gene Adams was elected highway commissioner over William Williams, 5,227-4,792.

Totals for trustee candidates were Andrew Cisanik (IPTP) 6,947; Arlene Kasper (UTC) 5,639; James Riley (UTC) 5,335; Jean O'Toole (UTC) 4,999; David Fewkes (UTC) 4,763; John Griffin (IPTP) 4,763; Dorothy Tomes (IPTP) 4,664, and Diana Bezanis (IPTP) 4,647.

Referenda Vote

In referenda voted on at Tuesday's Consolidated Election an overwhelming majority of Burbank residents supported the effort to have legal documents written in understandable language; voters in the Hometown Fire Protection District voted for sale of $200,000 in bonds by a two and one-half to one margin; Midlothian residents rejected a tax rate increase for the library to .34 cents from .15 cents; a request from the Roberts Park Fire District for sale of $700,000 in bonds was passed by more than 400 votes, and a referendum in Worth Township seeking financing of schools through the state income tax rather than through property taxes passed by a margin of approximately 1,000 votes.

Burbank Elementary School District 111 was the exception, in several village and city referenda asking for increases in tax rates. The education fund tax for District 111 is to be increased from $1.52 to $2.21 as the referendum passed by 674 votes. The total vote was 6,586. Similar referenda in North Palos Elementary School District 117, in Oak Lawn-Hometown Elementary School District 123, in Worth Elementary School District 127, in Blue Island Elementary SD 130 and in Prairie Hills Elementary SD 144 went down to defeat.

Murphy Slate Wins In Worth

In Worth Township Supervisor Joan Patricia Murphy and her Performance Party running mates achieved a virtual sweep in the Tuesday election. Murphy defeated Republican Ed Barron, 19,622 to 12,250; Clerk Thomas "Bud" Gavin was victorious over Marcia Ozinga Hite by a margin of 17,711 to 13,623; Assessor William Connors won over Dan Donahue by a count of 17,097 to 13,513; Collector Emmet "Bud" Meyer received 17,370 votes to Pete Paullus' total of 13,240 and Highway Commissioner Michael O'Malley Witt turned back a challenge by Jeff Layhe, winning with a total of 16,619 votes to 14,196.

Joan Patricia Murphy

In the races for Township Trustee, two Republicans were successful Michael R. Davies, with 13,583 votes and Jack O'Connor who received 13,698. Performance Party candidate Nancy Stack led all trustee hopefuls with 16,294 votes and Dorothea H. Hoch won the fourth trustee seat with 12,982. Trailing were Frederick S. Shannon, 12,900; William J. Bailey, 12,893; Jay John Zurek, 11,971; Delbert J. Swanson, 11,264, and Donald I. Bettenhausen, 10,239. Bettenhausen, an incumbent, ran as an independent candidate when the Performance Party rejected his bid to be re-slotted on that ticket.

Highway Safety Seminar

Renewing his pledge to help rid the nation of drunk drivers, Governor Jim Edgar encouraged attendees of the Lifesavers 11 National Conference on Highway Safety Priorities to seek new strategies to attack traffic safety problems and further reduce deaths on our highways.

"The gains in highway safety over the past decade are the result of the determination and tenacity of people who have committed themselves to reducing fatalities on our highways. Our challenge is to build on the momentum of our past success," said Edgar, who for 10 years championed a war on drunk driving and other highway safety problems as Illinois' Secretary of State.

Last month, Edgar announced that Illinois recorded the lowest mileage death rate in its history. Fatalities on the nation's highways have also dropped dramatically.

"We must recognize that no one person has all the information and answers," Edgar said, "the best chance for continued success in the highway safety arena is the development and nurturing of public/private partnerships. Do not undersell what you can accomplish. Our goal is to make highway safety a habit, not an effort, until this is accomplished, there is work to be done."

The conference provides the opportunity for information and technology exchanges among the public, private and voluntary partners in highway safety. Key issues of interest include highway safety as a public health problem, community traffic safety programs, drunk driving, occupant protection, law enforcement, emergency medical services and the highway safety aspects of federal legislation.

Dividends

The board of directors of Heritage Financial Services, Inc. (NASDAQ/NMS: HERS) recently declared a regular quarterly dividend of 8 cents per share, payable May 11th, to shareholders of record at the close of business on April 26th. The dividend is the same amount as paid in the preceding quarter and is consistent with Heritage Financial Services' annual dividend plan of 32 cents per share announced in January.

Bremen Township

In Bremen Township, incumbent candidates ran unopposed. Supervisor James W. Jesk, 15,308 votes; Clerk John E. Horn, 14,427 votes; Assessor Wayne Ramsey, 14,007 votes; Collector Ronald Patterson, 13,988; Highway Commissioner Fred Massat, 14,371 votes; and Trustees Betty Bergmann, 13,584 votes; Myrtle Dunn, 13,506 votes; George Pryor, 13,096 votes, and Robert Roberts, 13,424 votes.

Also unopposed were township candidates in Orland. Returned to office for another four years were Supervisor Wayne Mraz; Clerk William Gaynor; Assessor Marcia Peznowski; Collector William Bell; Highway Commissioner Donald Yunker, and Trustee Kevin Comyn, Joan Herman, William Hurley & Terry Agnes Matyus.

Economic Recovery

By Dr. Richard L. Leshner, President
U.S. Chamber of Commerce

Recently, a group of politicians and Nobel Prize winning economists convened in Los Angeles at the California Economic Summit to consider the state's economic malaise, and presumably devise practical remedies.

The issue has implications far beyond the borders of California, home to one of eight Americans, and boasts an economy larger than all but seven nations of the world. "I don't believe for a moment that America's economy can recover unless California recovers," President Clinton has said. During the current economic downturn, some 800,000 jobs have fled the state.

But the politicians and economists at the California Economic Summit would have done well to forego their own deliberations and heed the chants of small business demonstrators outside in the street. Their message was summed up in a large sign mounted on a truck that read: "It's Workmen's Compensation Fraud, Stupid."

California's economic crisis is at least partly of its own making, the result of an irrational workers' compensation system that honors vague claims of work related stress. Some 15,688 which were filed in 1991, up from 10,444 the year before. It is a legal scam run largely by and for lawyers whose influence deters the state legislature from making desperately needed changes in the system.

In part, California's experience is part of a nationwide trend. At the urging of lawyers, a growing number of workers who lose their jobs because of economic restructuring routinely file workers compensation claims. In far too many cases, these claims are accepted at face value without adequate review or medical documentation.

One can sympathize with factory workers who lose their jobs, especially those living in depressed areas of the country where jobs of any kind are scarce. It is only natural that they would seek whatever compensation is available, especially when advised to do so by attorneys who presumably are acting within the law.

But the workers compensation system was designed to assist people who incur injuries or illnesses on the job, not as a supplement to unemployment compensation. The concept of work-related stress is likewise an open invitation to fraud and abuse, for there is a certain amount of stress associated with every human activity, be it work or play. In California, workers comp claims based on stress have become a statewide joke, but employers are not laughing. In fact, a growing number of them are packing up their enterprises and moving to other states where lawyers have less influence and state legislatures are less committed to subsidizing litigation.

We will know the California legislature is serious about the state's economic distress when it finally summons the courage to put the interests of the citizens ahead of those of the lawyers.

Twenty-Five Years Of Montessori School

The classroom at the Oak Lawn school was amazingly quiet.

"Are you Adam's mom?" the child asked.

"No. Is your teacher here?"

"Yes. She's in the next room. I'll go and get her," the child replied and left the room.

The other five or six children just smiled and went back to their work. It was quiet again.

The children are between 2½ and 6 years old and they attend the Oak Lawn Montessori School, which is in its 25th year.

Montessori learning is an education program that was developed more than 70 years ago by Dr. Maria Montessori that incorporates a type of teaching that allows a child to develop his or her fullest human potential through what the Oak Lawn School's director calls a prepared environment.

"I can't say that this child is either slow or dumb because the potential is there. It is possible for every child to develop to his or her fullest capacity with this system," says director Norma de la Cruz. "But the environment has to be prepared. All the materials must be available and the child must have the freedom to develop socially, physically, intellectually and spiritually."

According to de la Cruz, children are much smarter than they are given credit for, and when we think we are helping them, what we often are really doing is hindering their development.

In the classroom a 4-year-old stands at a table cutting carrots. She is not being watched over by the teacher, but is left to learn how to do the most effective job by herself. If she needs assistance, she knows she can get it. She doesn't need it, however, and within minutes she is happily munching away. The child is learning an application of practical life, which is one of the five major developmental areas that the Montessori approach deals with. The other four are sensorial, language, math and cultural studies.

Sensorial focuses on the senses taste, hearing, seeing, smell and touch, providing concrete experiences for refinement of perception, classification and organization. It helps to prepare the children for the math and language areas.

They learn by example. Most of the children at this age can't focus on two elements at one time. "If you talk to a child at the same time you are presenting something, he is already concentrating on your movement and he doesn't hear what you are saying."

The Montessori approach advocates guidance and not helping. The passive child needs more encouragement, otherwise he may go through life expecting other people to do things for him.

Phonics are used with the language aspect of the program and using materials such as beans will help to develop

Learning Is Fun At Montessori

As if to testify to the premise that learning is fun, these students at the Oak Lawn Montessori School look on as the computer screen calls up answers and challenges.

concrete numerical concepts before moving on to abstract mathematical operations like adding and subtracting.

"Some parents will come in and tell me their child can count to a hundred," says de la Cruz. "I say that's not such a big deal; children hardly have a notion what 10 is, let alone a hundred. So we give them the opportunity to learn what 10 means."

"When teaching the sounds of the letters, for example the letter 'h,' we have a little object. We show them a horse and say 'h—horse.' It's very sensorial. They are using their eyes and their ears," she explains.

Children love the Montessori school, according to de la Cruz. "My experience has been that when the parents bring the child for the interview, I take the child into the classroom and the child doesn't want to leave," she says. She cites this as a perfect example of preparedness in the classroom being the foundation for stimulation. These children want to learn and they do.

Parents should understand when they bring their children to the Montessori school that their education begins at home and de la Cruz does not hesitate to call parents in and tell them what they need to do with their children to enhance his or her education.

"Yelling and other similar punishment do nothing but ruin a child's development," says de la Cruz. "We never yell here. We use only soft voices. I recommend that the parents do the same."

The Montessori approach recognizes that discipline is essential for learning. But this discipline is an "inner control" by which the child develops over his own behavior by working in this special environment.

In addition the child learns social development, because he is allowed to move freely from activities and often two or more children will work on a project together.

For more information about the Oak Lawn Montessori School, which is located at 8901 S. 52nd Ave., call 499-1574.

"You may just give your child a key to the world," says a smiling de la Cruz.

Preschool Shots Week

Cook County Board President Richard J. Phelan declared the week of April 24th to 30th as 'Preschool Immunization Week' in the county. The week is being celebrated nationwide in an effort to educate parents on the importance of immunizing children prior to school entrance.

"We lose sight of the need for infants to be immunized because the tracking system does not start until they go to school," said Phelan. In fact, children need 15 immunizations before they are two years old. "I did not know this until the recent birth of my granddaughter. We tend to attribute the need for shots with kids going to school when in fact the majority of shots are needed well before that," added Phelan.

The measles epidemic of 1989-90 clearly demonstrated that young children were not being immunized. During the epidemic, 598 cases of measles were reported to the Cook County Department of Public Health (CCDPH) among suburban residents. Nationwide, in 1989, more than 18,000 measles cases were reported resulting in 41 deaths and jumped to 26,500 cases and 60 deaths in 1990. Between 1991 and 1992, only 19 cases were reported in suburban Cook County. "The epidemic created awareness among parents of the need to get their children immunized," said Karen L. Scott, MD, MPH, director of the CCDPH. The department provides free immunizations for all residents of suburban Cook County.

Area Physicians To Hear Sleep Disorder Care Talk

In response to an urgent call by the National Commission on Sleep Disorders Research for greater education of physicians and the public, the National Sleep Foundation (NSF) is mounting a nationwide education campaign on insomnia, coming to Chicago on Wednesday, April 28th. At a tutorial for Chicago primary-care physicians, some of the nation's leading sleep experts will offer insights on diagnosing and treating insomnia, a frequently unrecognized sleep problem that affects about one-third of all adults each year. Through public education activities, the experts also will help consumers learn what to do when they have trouble sleeping.

"It's important for the public to understand that they should seek advice from a physician when insomnia occurs with some regularity because it can affect their everyday performance," said Andrew O. Jamieson, M.D., clinical director of the sleep/wake disorders center at Presbyterian Hospital, Dallas, one of the tutorial leaders. "Poor quality sleep and sleep deprivation have been shown to contribute to diminished productivity and ability to concentrate, compromised physical health and many thousands of automobile accidents."

Despite the potentially serious consequences of insomnia, a Gallup survey has shown that only a small percentage of individuals with the complaint seek professional help. In addition, the National Commission on Sleep Disorders Research found that medical and residency programs provide only a small amount of training on the recognition and treatment of sleep complaints.

"Many people with transient or short-term insomnia can be successfully treated by their own doctors without the need for referral to a sleep specialist," says Thomas Roth, Ph.D., president of the NSF. "This campaign is an important step toward closing the 'education gap' about sleep disorders."

The NSF physician tutorials include presentations by sleep experts on the causes, diagnosis and treatment of insomnia, and on when referral to a sleep medicine specialist is appropriate. Physicians will learn how to use a "five-minute sleep history," a practical in-office tool that can help guide the diagnosis and treatment of insomnia which can be incorporated easily into every patient visit. Also covered by the seminars will be behavioral methods for improving sleep habits and the proper use of sleep medications, an issue that has troubled physicians.

How does a country known for its clean air, safe cars, and good health handle its garbage?

Garbage is a problem everywhere. So what does the country recognized as a leader in environmentally responsible trash disposal do?

Sweden uses more than 20 trash-to-energy plants to process 55% of its household garbage (over 2.7 million tons last year). In cities like Göteborg, one in five homes is heated with energy from a trash-to-energy plant — which greatly reduces the need for expensive fossil fuels.

The Swedes have one of the world's highest recycling rates. However, not all trash is recyclable. What's unrecyclable is processed into fuel and converted into energy — cleanly, safely, and efficiently. Just like the Robbins Recycling and Trash-to-Energy Plant (modeled after a Swedish facility) will do.

Today, communities around the globe are benefiting from Swedish ideas and innovative technology. Stockholm, Hong Kong, Milan, Zurich and soon, Robbins, Illinois.

Youth And Government Program

March 19th to 21st proved to be three exciting days, filled with learning, fun and accomplishments for local teenagers, high school advisors and Southwest YMCA staff. Nearly 200 high school students and 17 supervisors from eight southwest suburban high schools joined forces at the Holiday Inn, Springfield, for a three-day assembly, part of the YMCA Youth and Government program. The high schools represented were Andrews, Eisenhower, Shepard, Sandburg, Morgan Park Academy, Stagg, Lourdes and Richards.

As part of the YMCA youth and government program, juniors and seniors are elected to legislative posts and elected offices. Three area students were elected. They were Eugene Yen of Palos Heights, a Shepard senior, elected to the position of President of the Senate; Ryan Eggert of Alsip, also a Shepard senior, Speaker of the House; and Rebecca Condon of Palos Hills, a Stagg junior, elected to the position of editor-in-chief of the press corps.

The YMCA youth and government program began in Illinois in 1950. Nearly 1,000 high school students participated this year. Its purpose is to prepare youth for leadership as well as informed citizenship in the American Democratic process. Each year, students who decide to participate as legislators become involved in creating bills that identify areas of critical need that can be remedied or made less severe on the state level.

During the assembly, students were invited to sit in the actual Senate and House Chambers in the Illinois Capitol to debate their legislation.

A judicial branch of YMCA youth & government gives high school students a broader understanding of the state judicial system by providing an opportunity to serve as youth justices, lawyers, witnesses, jurors, clerks and bailiffs in an actual courtroom with a real judge. Students serve as lawyers, appealing cases, and as Supreme Court Justice, hearing the cases of others and rendering decisions. In addition, they serve as lobbyists, pages and in the press corps.

The major value of the YMCA youth & government program is the development of young men and women who will, because of their experience with the program, become better citizens, knowledgeable and active in determining the future of their democracy.

Interested high school students can contact Michelle Jones at the Southwest YMCA by calling (708) 489-3719.

CURIOSITY CAN KILL BALD EAGLES - Curiosity kills the cat, the adage says. But in Indiana, curiosity does much more; it kills bald eagles. This spring, bald eagles are nesting in greater numbers than ever before throughout Indiana. Some eagle pairs are beginning to nest, while others have eggs or chicks. Well-meaning people who want only a look at the young raptors can scare parents away from their nests. Eggs and chicks that go unattended can die quickly.

Most bald eagle nestlings are identified with yellow warning signs; lake sites are marked with buoys to discourage boaters from approaching shoreline nests. River sites are not marked, but nestlings sites can be obvious. Crossing buoy boundary lines and beyond the yellow signs is illegal trespass and a violation of the U.S. Endangered Species Act. It also is hazardous to the future of nesting eagles.

"People must realize that trying to get close to wild bald eagles will hurt the nesting birds," said John Castrale, nongame research biologist in charge of the state's bald eagle reintroduction program. "If people trespass into eagle nesting area, the DNR will place greater restrictions on boating and fishing areas on lakes. We hope people will obey the law and remain outside eagle nesting areas, both for their sake and the lives of eagles." People caught disturbing bald eagle nesting sites face up to $50,000 in fines and one year in jail.

ILLINOIS BALD EAGLES - It is bald eagle nesting time in Illinois. Early indications are that several new nests have been established and the state will improve on the 11 nests it had last year. Most of the migratory eagles have left for the north so citizens who see eagles remaining in the area should contact the Department of Conservation at 217/785-8774.

CALL AHEAD - If you intend to go to an Illinois State Park during the spring, please call ahead. Rain and freezing/thawing conditions can influence whether a site is accessible.

Access to interior roads near Mazonia Lake are open to pedestrian traffic only, due to construction. This condition is expected to continue until mid-June. Walk-in fishing is available at Mazonia from 6 a.m. until sunset daily. Bank and boat fishing are available at Braidwood Lake from 6 a.m. until sunset. For more information contact MAZONIA-BRAIDWOOD STATE FISH AND WILDLIFE AREA at (815) 237-0063.

WISCONSIN ENJOYED LANDMARK SNOWMOBILE SEASON - State officials crediting good snow cover across the state and the formation of new alliances to promote snowmobiling safety are being cited as key contributors to the success of the 1992-1993 snowmobiling season.

Glistening trails drew a large number of enthusiastic, responsible visitors to the state according to the state Division of Tourism. At the same time, the Department of Natural Resources recorded a 24 percent reduction in snowmobiling fatalities.

"With all the snow we received, people in many parts of the state had riding opportunities they haven't enjoyed in years," said Gary Homuth, DNR snowmobile safety program coordinator. "That may help account for a slight increase we noted in overall accident reports. But snowmobilers themselves deserve a lot of credit for the drop in fatalities."

Homuth said the reduction, from 29 deaths last season to 22 this season, may reflect a growing awareness of the need for responsibility on the trails. This season was notable, Homuth said, for enhanced snowmobiling enforcement efforts, for the publicity surrounding those efforts, and for a responsible snowmobiling campaign sponsored by the Miller Brewing Co. and the major snowmobile manufacturers.

In the five counties in the state's "hot spot" enforcement program, Homuth said, snowmobiling fatalities dropped from last season's total of 14, to seven this season.

Volleyball Program At Rice

When Brother Rice High School began its volleyball program with a match against Chicago Catholic League foes Mt. Carmel, it marked the beginning of an era at the school. Other schools started their programs up to two years before Rice, but now the Crusaders were competing in the newest IHSA-sanctioned sport as well. Although everyone at the school expects it to take some time before the Rice volleyball team compete for the state championship prize, the students faculty and junior varsity and varsity players are excited about the possibilities.

Many players and fans who packed Rice's gymnasium that opening night probably weren't aware that this season and the entire program might not have happened if it wasn't for the generosity of Richard and Jan Ickes of Brighton Park (pictured). The Ickes donated $7,500 to Brother Rice to help with the start-up costs of the volleyball program. The money went for such things as equipment, tournament and referee fees, and outfitting the north gym with the SENOH volleyball system. This is the same state-of-the-art system used in the Olympic Games.

Although a fledgling program can be expected to take some lumps, Rice has been competitive in its first few matches and the program has won raves from their Catholic League opponents. Much of this has to do with head coach, Brother Paul Ickes, Richard and Jan's son. Since assuming responsibility of the program, Brother Ickes has seen a groundswell of support from the school community. More than 200 students expressed interest in joining the team when the first notice of the program was announced. A total of 80 tried out for the 30 open positions in early March. Brother Ickes enlisted Dan Dwyer, a 1988 Rice grad to help with the coaching.

Thus far, the teams are improving with each match. The junior varsity won its opening match against Mt. Carmel, but the varsity is still looking for its first victory. As for now, stressing fundamentals and learning the game are top priorities. All involved realize that starting a sports program holds many opportunities for learning and growth—for both players and coaches. "It's like getting a new car," Richard Ickes said. "You have to drive it for a while to get the feel of it. But once you get used to it, it's just like you've been driving it for years."

BASEBALL ROUND-UP

Local high school teams seem to be doing battle with the elements of Mother Nature more than they are with each other. Rainy days coupled with chilly temperatures have been making it difficult to stay on schedule.

Tuesday Games (April 13th)

Andrew 9-3 - Sandburg 0-0

The Eagles came away with a pair of proverbial goose eggs as they faced the Thunderbolts. Thunderbolt hurlers Mike Leatherman and Vince Fiori combined to sweep this double header. Leatherman threw a one-hit game in the opener while Fiori gave up only four hits in the nightcap.

Going three for four at the plate with two RBI in game one was Ben Kotwica. Driving in a pair of runs in game two was Ryan Dwyer.

"We played well today," beamed T-Bolt coach Frank Ganser. "The pitching was good and we started to hit the ball. The kids are confident."

Bremen 10-4 - Thornton 0-8

The Braves split a double header with Thornton as they took game one 10-0 but couldn't hold on, and lost game two by a 8-4 margin. In the opener, Brave Mickey Oganovich totaled four RBI.

Shepard 4 - Homewood-Flossmoor 1

The Astros chalked up win number seven downing Homewood-Flossmoor 4-1. Astro Daren Protolipac hurled a one-hitter and added a pair of hits to spark the victory.

Reavis 5-1 - St. Rita 4-9

The Rams and Mustangs split this double header with Reavis taking the opener 5-4 and Rita returning the favor in the nightcap by winning 9-1. An RBI single off the bat of Ram Chuck Foltz in the bottom of the seventh in game one sealed his team's victory.

The Mustangs won their 10th game of the season by taking game two 9-1.

Wednesday Games (April 14th)

Marist 1-8 - Reavis 3-9

The Redskins and Rams knocked heads and came away with a split as Reavis took game one and Marist came back strong in game two. All three of the Ram runs in the opener came in the second as Eric Grimes and Brian Kouba drew walks off Brian Falat. George Fortier clouted an RBI single, and sophomore Matt Flood (2 for 4) connected for a two-run double.

"It looks like we're in pretty good shape with our top two pitchers, but we're still looking for some depth," commented Ram coach Adam Perch. "Now all we've got to do is figure out how to win the second game."

The Redskins took revenge pounding the Rams 18-9. Six runs in the first inning did the trick as their offense caught fire. Four hits apiece from Chris Smith and John Dunneback plus a trio of hits from Mark Schadrif, John Wideikus and T.J. Barcelona ignited the team.

"You can't expect to go undefeated on a week like this when you play so many double headers," remarked Redskin coach Don Kuehner.

St. Rita 6 - Fenwick 4

Four runs in the sixth insured a 6-4 win for the Mustangs as they took down Catholic League rival Fenwick. Mustang hurler Jason Wallace went the distance and got the win as he fanned seven.

A pinch-hit round tripper off the bat of Jason Miller, a pair of hits apiece from Bob Wagner and John Bayer, plus a two-run triple from Brian Romanowski sparked the Mustangs.

St. Laurence 4-11 - De La Salle 2-12

Things went well for the Vikes in the opener of a Catholic League twin bill, but they ran out of steam in game two.

Highlights for the Vikes in game one included a two-run homer off the bat of Matt Daley plus Joe Di Gangi hurled a two-hitter.

Loyola 4-0 - Brother Rice 2-6

The Crusaders traveled to Wilmette to battle the Ramblers and split the double header. They lost the opener 4-2 but came back in game two for a 6-0 shutout. In the nightcap, Crusader hurler Jim Sexton was throwing smoke as he fanned eight Rambler batters and gave up only three hits. Five runs in the third inning gave the Crusaders all of the offense they needed as Mike Strich clouted a two-run double and Jim Ficar connected for a two-run single.

Tinley Park 5-4 - Oak Lawn 4-3

The Spartans journeyed to Tinley Park and came back home with a pair of losses in their scorebook. The Titans took the opener by a 5-4 margin and game two was also by a one-run margin.

Stagg 8-6 - Joliet West 4-7

The Chargers took on the Tigers in Joliet and split a double header as they won game one 8-4 but lost 7-6 in the nightcap.

The Charger offense was highlighted in game one as Ryan Darrah went 2 for 3 with a trio of RBI. Chuck Olson was 2 for 4 at the plate, and Jeff Watzke pounded a two-run round tripper to support hurler Chris May. May added a pair of doubles. In the nightcap, Charger Ed Modla tallied a two-run double.

Argo 5-5 - Bollingbrook 4-15

The Argonauts and the Raiders split in this nonconference matchup. Brian Johnstone hurled himself a win in game one. On the offensive side, teammates Bill Kalantzis (2 for 3 with one RBI), George Spatharakis (2 for 3 with one RBI), Jason Michalovich (2 for 4 with one RBI) and Ed Rush (3 for 4 with one RBI) sparked the win.

Riverside-Brookfield 2 - Evergreen Park 1

Raindrops fell on the heads of players from Riverside-Brookfield and Evergreen Park but they got in enough innings for the Bulldogs to take a 2-1 decision in this Southwest Suburban Conference home opener.

Neil Vanderlee took the loss in this five-inning contest.

Saturday Games

De La Salle 7 - St. Rita 2

The Mustangs took a loss in the Catholic League as they fell to De La Salle 7-2. A second-inning spurt by De La Salle that totaled six runs proved to be the back-breaker.

St. Rita 10 - Vocational 9

The Mustangs rebounded from a loss earlier in the day to De La Salle and took down Vocational 10-9. Mustang Mike Bubacz was hot at the plate as his bat went 2 for 3 with a trio of RBI.

Brother Rice 17 - Weber 3

Crusader bats were swinging and connecting as they pounded the Red Horde. Crusader Tim Panfil clouted a pair of triples and drove in four. A three-run triple off the bat of Jeff Venable plus the pitching of Tom Tracy sealed this victory.

Oak Forest 4 - Reavis 3

Bengal power had the edge over the Rams as they chalked up a 4-3 victory. Bengal Bill James drove in Mike Stacy with a single in the sixth inning that won the game.

Ohio River Boundary Dispute Is Settled

Illinois Attorney General Roland W. Burris and Kentucky Attorney General Chris Gorman last week signed an agreement which would end a seven-year-old lawsuit filed by Illinois over the states' common boundary on the Ohio River. Under the agreement, the boundary will be set at a minimum of 100 feet from the Illinois shore (and extending considerably farther into the river at some points along its length), while Kentucky will retain possession of several parcels of land which were formerly islands within Kentucky territory.

The two attorneys general met and ratified the agreement while attending a conference of the National Association of Attorneys General in Washington, D.C. The agreement was first announced in mid-March, following weeks of intensive negotiations between Burris and Gorman and their respective staffs.

"The citizens of both states can rest assured that we have crafted a fair, equitable and just settlement," said Burris.

The agreement resolves a 1986 lawsuit filed by Illinois in the United States Supreme Court seeking a determination of the boundary. Prior to the lawsuit, Kentucky had claimed the entire width of the Ohio River as its own territory; Illinois, citing Kentucky's earlier border disputes with Indiana and Ohio, said the border should be set at the river's low-water mark as it existed in 1792, the year Kentucky was admitted into the Union.

In 1991, the Supreme Court sided with Illinois and ruled that the 1792 mark would be the standard used in determining the border. However, no definitive maps of the river in that year exist, and the states have been engaged in efforts to reconstruct that line. Without an agreement, court hearings would have been necessary and a final decision would have been left up to Special Master Matthew Jasen, who was appointed by the U.S. Supreme Court to hear the case.

Under the settlement, Illinois and Kentucky will jointly commission a final map from the United States Geological Survey; "the 1792 low-water mark is most accurately represented" by this "digitized" map, according to the agreement. That final map will also be adjusted so that, at any points where the boundary lies less than 100 feet from the Illinois shore, it will be extended to provide for a 100-foot minimum. Where the boundary falls more than 100 feet from shore, Illinois will receive whatever territory is dictated by the map.

The settlement also calls for Kentucky to retain possession of several pieces of land which were islands on the Ohio River in 1792, but which have since become attached to the Illinois shore because of the river's changing shape over the last two centuries.

"This agreement finally removes the cloud of uncertainty which for too long has hung over the Ohio River," Burris said. "It will allow for the unhindered and lawful use of the waters of the Ohio to advance economic development, leisure and tourism objectives for the people of Illinois, while giving all due consideration to the laws and concerns of the state of Kentucky."

The signing of the agreement means that a previously-scheduled hearing on the border case for April 13 will be averted. The agreement is contingent upon the final approval of the U.S. Supreme Court.

Volunteer Week

Lieutenant Governor Bob Kustra announced that April 18 through 24 has been proclaimed 'Volunteer Week' in Illinois in recognition of the contributions of volunteers throughout the state and he urged Illinoisans to lend their talents and resources to a local community charitable organization during that week.

"We live in a time in which the demand for human services continues to escalate," said Kustra, whose office houses the Illinois Office of Volunteer Action, "government alone cannot solve all societal problems. Now, more than ever, the support of volunteers is needed to address these problems and to strengthen our communities."

Throughout the country, many states will join with Illinois in celebrating the 18th National Volunteer Week this month, saluting the efforts of more than 94 million Americans who volunteered last year.

Late last year, Lieutenant Governor Kustra's office submitted a successful federal grant application that provided nearly $867,000 to Illinois schools, universities and community organizations participating in volunteer activities.

"The opportunity to volunteer can be found in every community in this state," said Kustra. "Whether tutoring youngsters in local schools, visiting seniors in need of care and friendship or working with neighbors to rid a community of drugs, volunteers make a difference in their communities and serve as inspirations to many."

For information on volunteer activities in Illinois, call 1(800)-THE-LTGV or write to the Office of Volunteer Action, 100 W. Randolph St., Suite 15-200, Chicago, IL 60601.

Girl Scout "Walk Of Fame" Event

On national Girl Scout Leader's Day, April 22nd, the South Cook County Council will recognize the work of exceptional adult volunteers during a dinner at the organization's Friendship Center, Country Club Hills. At this special "Walk of Fame" event, individuals who have contributed in outstanding ways to the success of Girl Scouting in the council will be presented with several national-recognized awards. These honors require service well beyond the expectations of each individual's position, nomination by others, and committee recommendation for approval by the council's board of directors.

The most prestigious honor for a Girl Scout adult is the Thanks Badge II. It recognizes members whose service has been so significantly above what might be expected that no other award would be appropriate, and in fact show that this person has already received Girl Scouting's other significant honors.

Virginia Cubalchini, a member of the Trail's End Association, was selected as this year's recipient of the Thanks Badge II. A Girl Scout volunteer for over 30 years, she has been a troop leader of Juniors, Cadettes and Seniors, has been most involved with programs for junior and senior high Girl Scouts, and has worked on many council and inter-council events. She is considered by her peers as someone always on call to help others, devoted to the environment, and a person who carries Girl Scouting into all aspects of her life.

The Thanks Badge is reserved for recognition of adults whose service at the council and other levels over a period of at least eight years has been truly outstanding, consistently above expectations, of benefit to the whole council, and for which no other award would be appropriate. The 1993 recipient is Diane Hatfield, a member of the Trails End Association. Among her responsibilities she has been a leader, association chair and consultant, registrar, calendar and cookie sale chair, involved with local and council special events, training, and service on many task groups and in other positions. Recommendation letters noted her leadership skills, ability to come up with new ideas, encouragement of other adults to do well, giving selflessly of her time and energy to girls, and her deep dedication to Girl Scouting.

The Honor Pin recognizes dedicated and devoted service of volunteers who have consistently demonstrated effectiveness and innovation in at least two divisions or types of service in the council for at least five years. Recipients include Diana Sparr of Burbank; Sara Zervos, Orland Park; Pamela Martin, Country Club Hills; Pat Rodgers, Homewood; Sharon Alberts, Patricia Arendt and Barbara Pennington of Park Forest.

The Appreciation Pin is given for effective, outstanding service and initiative for at least three years, primarily in the troop and association level, and recipients include Ceal Beyer and Gloria Kimmey, Oak Lawn; Bernadette Trusk, Burbank; Linda Pesek, Chicago Ridge; Patricia Fijalkowski, Hickory Hills; Gail Lobsinger, Palos Heights; Debbie Provencher, Palos Park; Mary Lou Brasher and Eileen Garrison of Orland Park.

Beverly Consier, Diane Gittings and Roxane Nowicki of Tinley Park; Marilyn Cesaro, Sharon Mannix, Jacklyn Meli and Sue Sours of Oak Forest; Debbie Coyle, Midlothian; Celestine Gatson and Sharon Graham from Hazel Crest; Barbara O'Connell, Riverdale; Lana Magsam, Glenwood; Pam Williams of Homewood; and Ellen Zalewski of Park Forest are other Appreciation Pin awardees.

For information on Girl Scouting, call the South Cook County Girl Scout Service Center in Homewood at (708) 957-8100.

Massage Therapy Reduces Stress

Recognizing stress in your life can be a tough call. Something as simple as a change in work hours or a change in social activities can add to everyday stresses and go unnoticed. One morning you wake up and find your fingers are stiff or your feet hurt and have no idea what happened!

When the body is functioning under stress, blood flow is redirected to the major muscles in an effort to relax them. During this process, the functions of the immune and digestive systems are decreased due to the lack of oxygenated blood and you can begin to suffer from indigestion and disease, according to the American Massage Therapy Institute.

The easiest way to relieve both the stress and the symptoms is to spend six months on a desert island. However, here in the real world, the majority of us must find another way to cope before we become seriously ill.

One of the practical methods of relieving tension and stress - along with the physical disorders they cause had been found to be Massage Therapy.

According to the Institute: Massage Therapy is the manipulation of soft tissue... which enhances the function of joints and muscles, improves the circulation and body tone and relieves mental and physical fatigue.

Andy Stefik, certified massage therapist, and founder of Stress Stoppers in Palos Hills offers his clients up to date professional massage therapy techniques. Stefik also offers related procedures, workshops and chair massages for the busy executive in their own office.

"Massage for inactive, elderly or injured bodies can compensate for lack of exercise and lessen the impact of the aging process," says Stefik.

The Southtown Dahlia Club, a non-profit organization, now in its 56th year, will make it possible to purchase outstanding prize winning Dahlia varieties directly from members who are the top experts of this hobby. Reasonably priced roots and small plants will be placed on sale Sunday, April 25, 1 p.m. at Polaris High School, 4625 W. 107th St., east entrance on Kenton.

Proceeds of this sale are applied to cover the cost of staging the magnificent Dahlia Show in September. There is no admission charge and free refreshments will be served to dahlia buffs in attendance. Specialists will be on hand to personally answer questions pertaining to dahlia culture.

Football Game Trip

A bus trip to the Notre Dame vs. Blue-Gold football game is planned for Saturday, April 24th by the St. Catherine of Alexandria Men's Club. A bus will leave the church parking lot, 4100 W. 107th St., at 9 a.m. and return at 6 p.m. Tickets are $6 per person and include transportation, game ticket, soft drinks and beer.

Further information is available by calling the rectory at 425-2850.

Psychics

A psychic fair is coming to the American Inn, 4000 Calumet Ave., Hammond, on Saturday & Sunday, April 24th and 25th. J&M Psychic Fairs is presenting 25 of America's best psychics, including presidential astrologer Irene Hughes; Joseph DeLouise of Morton Downey fame; Alexandria East, seen on Oprah Winfrey Show; Marlena Rock Lady, guest of Irv Kupcinet; and Bill Monroe, documented by "Time" magazine as an official Houdini medium.

Doors open at 10 a.m. with the fair scheduled until 7 p.m. on both days. Along with personal consultations, the fair has frequent lectures and demonstrations. Marlena Rock Lady brings her incredible collection of New Age stones and crystals. The Hammond Astrology and Metaphysical Bookstore will be presenting hundreds of the best titles on all subjects. J&M presents these psychic fairs throughout the greater Chicagoland area.

Bingo

Special bingo will be played on Sunday, April 25th beginning at 6:30 p.m. in the parish hall of Our Lady of Loretto, 8925 S. Kostner. A total of 15 games will be played, including three $500 games. Tickets are $20 per person and can be purchased at the door.

"One of our major fields is Sports Massage Therapy. Some of our noted clients are players for the White Sox, Bears and Blackhawks. However," stresses Stefik, "you don't have to be famous to need this type of therapy. We see a diversion of people from high school football players, college basketball players and middle age 'week-end warriors'. People who want to live life to the fullest have knots every now and then. That's why we're here - to help improve the quality of life."

Next time you wake up with those stiff fingers or that same old knot in your shoulder, give Stress Stoppers a call. As the saying goes, "try it - you'll like it." You won't believe how relaxing and refreshing a therapeutic massage can be.

Stefik and his staff will put you at ease by explaining all the steps to a brand new client. They are keenly attuned to the needs of the busy, seasoned clients, as well.

Stress Stoppers is located at 8126 West 111th Street in Palos Hills. The phone number is 708-974-3322.

Irish Film Talk

Dr. Kevin Rockett of Dublin, Ireland, founder of the Irish Film Institute and the author of the most widely cited book on the history of the Irish movie industry and film culture, is speaking at Gaelic Park, 6119 W. 147th St., on Monday, April 26th at 8 p.m. Rockett's talk is part of a nationwide "Irish Perceptions" tour organized by the Irish American Cultural Institute (IACI), a non-profit foundation devoted to creating an informed understanding of Ireland. The lecture series also receives major support from Aer Lingus, the Irish national airline.

"The recent success of films such as 'My Left Foot,' 'The Field' and now 'The Crying Game' has overshadowed the fact that Ireland has been involved in film-making for 80 years now," says Rockett. "In fact, the first American movie shot outside the U.S. was a 1910 melodrama called The Lad from Ould Ireland."

Rockett will discuss the development of cinema in Ireland and show brief clips of historic Irish films. He is especially interested in the ways in which Ireland has been portrayed in the movies of other nations. Admission is free.

For further information, call Gaelic Park, (708) 687-9323.

Kids' Medic Alert

To reach the estimated 10 percent of school children in the United States who have special medical conditions, school nurses and the non-profit Medic Alert Foundation have formed a partnership to help educate at-risk children and their families on the importance of emergency medical identification. A new 'School Nurse/Medic Alert Kids' program is being introduced. Children with asthma, allergies, epilepsy or diabetes can trigger emergency situations through normal exercise, missed medication or inadvertently eating the wrong foods. Many times children are unable to communicate vital information to emergency personnel because they are too young, too frightened or can't speak. When a child wears the Medic Alert emblem, emergency responders are informed within seconds of the medical data needed to help save the child's life.

Founded by a doctor in 1956 to protect his own child, the non-profit Medic Alert Foundation protects lives with the most comprehensive emergency medical service in the world. Within seconds emergency responders can reach Medic Alert's computer emergency center, 24 hours a day, and gain access to critical medical data, physician and family information.

Additional information and enrollment forms can be obtained from school nurses, or by calling 1(800)633-4219, or writing to Medic Alert Foundation, 2323 Colorado Ave., Turlock, CA 95380.

Water Charge Settlement Is Reached

Sixteen years ago, 27 south and southwest suburban communities filed suit against the City of Chicago, charging that suburban residents who do not benefit from the city's sewer system, were being charged a sewer assessment. The assessment is a part of bills paid by Chicago residents.

Last month, the Chicago City Council approved a settlement of $8.8 million which is to be apportioned to the suburbs, it was announced last week.

A 1990 Illinois Appeals Court ruling that 51 suburbs were wrongly charged the assessment for city sewers. Most of the settlement is to be paid in water charge credit over the next three years. Only $586,000 is to be paid in cash, money which had been put in escrow to pay legal fees for the case. The overcharges to suburban cities, villages, towns and other municipal entities were made between 1973 and 1976. A separate surcharge for city sewers is now levied for Chicagoans.

According to Andrea Brands of the Chicago Corporation Counsel's office, the cost of the settlement has already been covered in the budget and that there will be no hike in water rates or in property taxes.

The suit filed by the 51 suburbs and the South Stickney Sanitary District had sought $170 million.

Area suburbs included in the settlement include Alsip, $147,852; Blue Island, $208,635; Bridgeview, $142,923; Chicago Ridge, $62,426; Evergreen Park, $174,136; Hickory Hills, $64,069; Hometown, $33,678; Midlothian-Markham, $151,137; Palos Heights, $71,461; Palos Hills, $72,283; Robbins, $89,532; and Worth, $58,319. The South Stickney Sanitary District is to receive $156,066.

Evangelical Movement Is Topic On Public Television

"Mine Eyes Have Seen the Glory," a series of three one-hour programs on the American evangelical movement, will be broadcast on public television stations nationwide beginning Tuesday, May 11th at 9 p.m. on WTTW, Channel 11. Evangelism is considered by many to be the most important social and religious movement in American history, but for all of their numbers and their growing influence in this country's political and cultural life, evangelists remain largely unknown and misunderstood.

Many people are familiar with only the popular stereotype of the American evangelist leader as a teary-eyed demagogue. But host Randall Balmer, a professor of religion at Barnard College, Columbia University, offers a more complex portrait of American evangelism, highlighting the geographical breadth and diversity of the movement as well as the way evangelism has shaped American history and culture.

In the first episode, "America's Folk Religion," Balmer offers a profile of four different churches which illustrates the diversity within American evangelism. The second, "The Making of a Sub-Culture," airing on May 18th at 9 p.m., digs deeper in outlining the origins and beliefs of American evangelism and how both are intertwined with the history of the United States. The foundation of American evangelism is a belief in the literal truth of the Bible and an expectation of the second coming of Christ. It further explores the separate sub-culture of evangelism, including the rock concerts, publishing houses and Bible camps. The third, "Coming of Age," airing May 25th at 9 p.m., examines the economic strength of American evangelists and how they have begun to emerge from their sub-culture to assume a more mainstream role in society. Televangelism has become a major and controversial part of the TV industry. Most importantly, evangelists have become an increasingly influential political force. The program also explores evangelism's appeal to new immigrants in America.

POLICE CALLS

The following incidents were listed in the official reports of the Oak Lawn Police Department. Readers are reminded that an arrest by police does not constitute a finding of guilt and only a court of law can make that determination.

On April 8th, Gerald Bertolini of Evergreen Park told police that while he was parked at 10432 Linus Lane where he was making repairs, someone took his cable cordless drill and pneumatic air drill for a loss of $56.

Calvin Talison of Chicago was charged with battery and disorderly conduct while at Chuck E. Cheese, 4031 W. 95th St. He had an argument with an employee, Dinall Morris. Talison allegedly asked if his pizza was ready and Morris shrugged his shoulders. Talison hit him in the left eye and was found hiding in the rear seat of his vehicle parked in the lot.

On the 9th at 1:39 a.m., Ann Marie Sharon of Oak Lawn told police she arrived home and parked her car in the driveway of the house. At about 11:20, she heard some noises, but did not investigate. Her father found that all of the windows, except the windshield, had been shot out by a BB gun. She said she had the same kind of damage done last fall. Estimated damage is $132.

Hawkinson Ford reported a 1993 Ford pickup truck valued at $22,500 was stolen from the lot.

Richard Loffredo of Burbank reported he was shopping at 87th & Cicero and found forced entry had been made to his van and $2,250 worth of tools were missing.

Cassandra Reed of Chicago said she had brought her car to Mancari's dealership on March 16th and it was parked outside in the park district lot until April 9th and she found her radio valued at $250 was missing. There was no forced entry.

At 10:26 p.m., a police officer on patrol stopped at 87th & Cicero when he saw Linda Claybrooks of Chicago stuff a large bag behind the seat of her car. The officer found the driver of the car, Daniel Newman of Chicago, was wanted by the Cook County Sheriff's Police. He was taken into custody. A search of the vehicle found the bag contained clothing with the hangers still attached. Claybrooks was charged with retail theft and the clothing was worth $1,156.94. Newman was charged with driving on a suspended license.

On April 10th, Mary M. Sass of Merrionette Park said she had parked in the Venture lot at 4101 W. 95th St. and as she was returning she saw two Latino men at the rear of her vehicle and when she approached, they put a tire in the trunk of another car and drove off. She found a tire was missing from her car. She can identify the men.

John Burdecik of Oak Lawn reported a neighbor had noticed two white men walking from his truck carrying a tool box. Burdecik said $4,419 worth were taken.

At 4:37 p.m., Lisa Dullard, a clerk at Crown Books at 8722 Cicero, said a male black came in and picked up a book and asked her questions about it. After answering she turned around and started back to the register and when she turned, the offender was standing there pointing a small snub-nosed silver handgun and told her to give him all the money from the register, about $100, and he left the store.

Employees of Beverly Lawn and Pavilion received a call that there was a bomb in the buildings. A search revealed it was a false alarm.

Mayor Ernie Kolb of Oak Lawn honored the Oak Lawn Firefighters Womens Organization by pulling the grand prize ticket of Walter Bujko of Chicago in their second annual drawing. Former Fire Chief Jack McCastland drew the second prize ticket of Harry Munch of Oak Lawn. The third prize winner was K. Armbruster of Oak Lawn. Proceeds from this drawing will be used to finance a number of projects to help needy members of the Oak Lawn community. Pictured with Mayor Kolb and McCastland is Kathy Radtke, womens organization president.

The officers for the new year are Ginger Morgan, president; Lucille Crocilla, vice-president; Sonja Wiley, secretary; and Darlen Fisher, treasurer. Touching The Top

The Lewis University men's tennis team pounded St. Joseph's in its Great Lakes Valley Conference opener on March 27th in Rensselaer, Ind. The Flyers got a tremendous performance from senior Kevin Ulanowski of Oak Lawn (St. Laurence). Ulanowski won at No. 2 singles and teamed with junior Rob Kozlowski of Palos Hills (St. Laurence) for a victory at No. 3 doubles to earn two points in the Flyers' 8-1 victory.

The stay at the top of the GLVC rankings was short-lived, however, as Lewis dropped its next two conference matches to Indiana/Purdue-Fort Wayne (7-2) and Northern Kentucky (5-4) on April 2nd and 3rd at Fort Wayne, Ind. Ulanowski earned his second GLVC win of the season, against one defeat, beating Northern Kentucky's Jeff Bluestein (7-6, 4-6, 6-4).

Clean Sweep For Kolb

At Tuesday night's regular Oak Lawn Board meeting, the official canvass of votes showed that Ernest F. Kolb received a total of 14,186 votes to 4,621 for Robert Streit for the office of village president (mayor). The village hall had standing room only and it was announced that anyone who wanted to sit down could use the police hall in the public safety building where they could watch it on television.

Donald Canning was appointed to serve as village manager pro-tem, replacing Mike Feeley who resigned this week. Outgoing trustees Harold Mozwez and Steven Rosenbaum joined Marjorie Joy, Ronald Stancik and Robert Streit to open the meeting and take care of the short consent agenda.

Randy J. Hall, was sworn in by Clerk Jayne Powers as police patrol officer.

Mozwez pointed out that very few persons go into politics, but he ran because he wanted to help the village to get businesses in town and felt for the four years he served he did help and they deserve credit. He thanked his wife, family and friends who worked in the election. He said old politicians fade away, and then turned to Kolb and said "keep the seat warm for him" since he plans to come back.

Trustee Joy said in knocking on doors she learned that one of the first things they should consider is doing something about the flooding in rear and front yards.

Trustee Rosenbaum said he did not have time to work on the things he wanted to do because of his short term, but he thanked everyone for their help and also thanked the village staff for their help. He said they were "top-notch people."

Stancik said the first order of business is to advertise nationwide for a village manager. Canning thanked the board for appointing him village manager pro-tem and said the first thing Wednesday, he would place an ad in ICMA, a magazine that searches for qualified persons for the position.

Powers and Kolb also thanked their families for their support and friends who helped.

Judge George Morrissey, of the 1st Municipal District, sitting in Branch 41, at 113 W. Chicago Ave., and a resident of Oak Lawn for 20 years, then swore-in the newly elected library board trustees, Shirley A. Barrett and Marian Sullivan. Joann Buschbach was out of town and will be sworn-in when she returns.

Judge Morrissey then swore-in trustees Ronald M. Stancik, District 2; Michael Walsh, District 4, and William C. Keane, District 6; A. Jayne Powers, village clerk and Ernest F. Kolb, village president.

The village hall was decorated with flowers, baskets with flowers and a bottle of champagne and lots of balloons.

All 5k runners receive a specially-designed event T-shirt. Free refreshments will be available for runners and walkers alike. A variety of activities, including a drawing, free face painting and awards ceremony, are planned following the run.

The 5k run entry fee is $11 before race day, May 30th. Members of TAC and CARA receive a $1 discount and will be charged $10 before race day. Chief Circuit Court Judge Harry G. Comerford "talks" on a TDD (Telecommunications Device for the Deaf) in the Daley Center, with the guidance of staffers Nadine Ozmina and Helen Barker. The devices are now in place throughout the Cook County Court system, enabling hearing-impaired persons to directly dial the court on matters such as jury duty, litigation and other questions they may have.

"We have installed these TDDs in courthouses in Chicago and the suburban districts," Comerford said. "enabling our hearing-impaired citizens to have, for the first time, direct access to their court system. This will be of immense benefit to persons with both speech and hearing disabilities who otherwise would be unable to get direct answers to any questions they may have."

The staff of the chief judge's office has undergone intensive training, administered by the Department of Rehabilitation Services of the State of Illinois, designed to make the TDD system functional.

The TDD was invented in 1964 by a hearing-impaired physicist who connected two teletypewriters (TTYs) by means of acoustic/inductive coupling to a standard telephone. The acoustic coupler translates electrical impulses into audible signals and vice versa. By placing the telephone handset in the coupler, two TDD's are joined and what is typed on one machine is reproduced on the other. Since neither speech nor hearing plays a role in the communication, the acoustic coupler enables speech-impaired persons as well as deaf and hearing-impaired persons to overcome any barriers. However, the device does require the ability to read and some typing skills.

The TDDs are in place in both Bridgeview and Markham.

Altar Scholarship Applications

The Augie J. Altar Scholarship was established on June 29th, 1990 in memory of Altar whose love of all forms of life, as well as life itself, was obvious to all who knew and loved him. This $500 scholarship is for the school year 1993-94. Applicants are encouraged to apply for this scholarship to further educate themselves in the various fields of medicine or agriculture. It is intended to provide financial aid toward tuition and/or books for the school year.

Awarding of this scholarship will be based on the applicant being a current resident of Illinois; of Lithuanian ancestry; a student whose major field will lead to a career as a pharmacist, physician, nurse, veterinarian, horticulturist, zoologist, agriculturalist, anesthesiologist, psychologist, surgeon and the like. Therefore, a major in any of the various fields of medicine or agriculture would help qualify an individual for this scholarship.

Also, the applicant should be in financial need—a financial statement (page one of Form 1040, 1040EZ or 1040A and W2 forms from the student as well as the parent(s) even if only one of the parents worked) is required. Any application without sufficient information will not be considered. The applicant should be in good standing with at least a 2.0 grade point average in a 4.0 grading system (a legible and official transcript must be attached) and no consideration will be given if the transcript is not attached; the student must be currently enrolled in, or accepted to, an accredited college or university or community college.

Special consideration will be given to the individual who had been awarded this scholarship the previous year and has maintained at least a 2.0 grade average in a 4.0 grading system as well as had remained in any of the fields of study listed. A former recipient who neither requests an application nor submits a completed application will not be considered for the Altar Scholarship during that school year.

Recently, the scholarship committee implemented a restriction that would limit the opportunity for the scholarship to those in, or soon to enter, undergraduate study.

Completed application forms and transcript(s) and other required information must be received by Augie J. Altar Scholarship, 7115 W. 91st St., Bridgeview, IL 60455, by May 31st. Decisions will be announced by June 29th. A copy of the decision will be available to those providing a stamped, self-addressed envelope with the request.

All decisions made by the scholarship committee will be final. This committee will reserve the right to deny and reject any and all applications it deems unqualified. If for any reason the individual awarded this scholarship drops out of school or fails to maintain a 2.0 grade average in a 4.0 grading system, all unused monies will be returned to the Augie J. Altar Scholarship, 7115 W. 91st St., Bridgeview, IL 60455.

Requests for applications are to be made by writing the Augie J. Altar Scholarship, 7115 W. 91st St., Bridgeview, IL 60455, and by enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Mailed requests and/or applications without the sufficient postage and/or enclosed stamped, self-addressed envelope will not be accepted or considered.

MWRD Calls For Completion Of TARP Project

The recent drinking water problem in Milwaukee gave dramatic testimony to the need for urgency in completing the Reclamation District Tunnel & Reservoir Project (TARP) in its entirety, according to Thomas S. Fuller, president of the District Board of Commissioners. A major component in the design of the project is to provide adequate storage of stormwater and combined sewer overflows through the use of three major reservoirs. "The importance of completing construction of these reservoirs cannot be over-emphasized. We need their storage capacity so that we never have to allow the rivers to be reversed into Lake Michigan creating, perhaps, the same scenario that was so devastating to Milwaukee," said Fuller.

According to the federal government, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers is responsible for designing and building the three reservoirs. The first of the three is the O'Hare Reservoir. To complete its construction, an additional $5 million appropriation from Congress is needed in fiscal year 1994. The McCook Reservoir, in order to be fully effective, must be completed to its total capacity of 27 billion gallons, rather than the partial capacity of 10 billion gallons identified by the Corps in their 1986 report. The District is presently pressing to get $13 million in appropriations so that the Corps can complete their design of McCook and begin construction in FY 1994.

The third reservoir in the series is Thornton Quarry. The District is in negotiation with the owners at present. This reservoir will have a holding capacity of 8 billion gallons, but is capable of expansion to 16 billion gallons by the addition of Stage III Thornton Reservoir. The schedule for this work will be entirely dependent on appropriations by Congress.

The TARP plan was adopted by all of the local governmental bodies and the State of Illinois in 1972. Since then, almost $1.9 billion has been spent on construction of tunnels, pumping stations, connecting structures and reservoirs. The portion of work completed and in operation on those projects has reduced the combined sewer overflow pollution to the rivers by approximately 70 percent. However, basement flooding will not be significantly reduced until the reservoirs are on line. In order to finish this project, $500 million is needed to complete the nearly 25 miles of tunnels. The completion of the three reservoirs will cost an estimated $480 million. "The necessity of obtaining the $980 million appropriation for full completion of TARP is paramount if we are to protect our drinking water supply and eliminate the pollution and flooding of nearly 357,000 local basements," said Commissioner Patricia Young, chairman of the flood control committee.

Asks Convenient Jury Duty For Citizens

The Illinois Senate has passed legislation sponsored by State Sen. Patrick O'Malley (R-18) to make jury duty more convenient for district citizens. Senate Bill 870 would amend the jury commission act to allow the Circuit Court of Cook County to assign citizens to jury service in a manner that won't unduly burden them or cause them unnecessary expense, but will be most favorable to an impartial trial.

"I have received a number of complaints about the existing requirements for jury duty in Cook County. Presently, a juror can be ordered to serve in any one of the six district courthouses," O'Malley said. "People do not mind serving jury duty, but they do mind being forced to drive from one end of the county to the other, which in many cases is not necessary." Senator O'Malley says he worked with the office of Chief Judge Harry Comerford of the Circuit Court of Cook County, to draft the legislation.

"We took into consideration a recent opinion from the Illinois Supreme Court that upheld jury pools drawn from an area less than the entire county," O'Malley said. "The intent of the legislation is to allow citizens to serve jury duty in the courthouse nearest their homes."

"Representatives from Judge Comerford's office have assured me the change we are proposing would allow them to assign 18th District citizens primarily to jury duty at the courthouses in Bridgeview and Markham," O'Malley said. "However, criminal cases heard at the courthouse at 26th and California, and civil cases exceeding $15,000 that are tried at the Daley Center will continue to draw jurors from across the county."

Senate Bill 870 now moves to the House of Representatives for further consideration.

Voters Say 'Yes' To Simpler Legal Contracts

Voters sent a plain, simple message to Springfield this week when they strongly endorsed the idea of plain language in consumer contracts in advisory referenda during the recent consolidated election. By a 93 percent margin statewide, voters voiced their support for legislation to cut the legal jargon and fine print in everyday contracts, such as insurance policies, leases, credit card agreements and automobile sales contracts.

The Illinois House got the message, approving House Bill 575, which sets plain language standards in such contracts, by a 69-22 vote. The bill, sponsored by Rep. Lou Lang (D-Skokie) and Rep. Pennie von Bergen Wessels (D-Sterling), now goes to the Senate.

Modeled on plain language legislation on the books in New York since 1978, HB 575 sets standards to shorten the number of words and syllables, provide clearly labeled sections and cut unneeded legal and technical jargon in consumer contracts.

Responding to opposition by insurance and banking industry lobbyists in Springfield, Illinois Treasurer Patrick Quinn said that those groups were actually working against their own best interests. "If a consumer knows exactly what is being agreed to, there is less chance of default."

Quinn compared a standard lease from New York, which has plain language standards, to one from Illinois. The section concerning repairs in the Illinois lease, for example, is a whopping 413-word sentence.

The 'statement of agreement' in the standard Illinois lease reads: "In consideration of the mutual covenants and herein stated, Lessor hereby leases to Lessee and Lessee hereby leases from Lessor for a private dwelling the apartment designated above (the 'premises') together with the appurtenances thereto for the above term."

New York's standard statement of agreement reads: "The Landlord and Tenant agree to lease the apartment at the rent and for the term stated on these terms."

The advisory referenda which voters in 16 townships and municipalities considered asked: "Should the State of Illinois enact legislation requiring that financial consumer contracts, such as mortgages, leases, insurance policies, automobile sales contracts and credit card agreements, be written in understandable plain language?"

Quinn noted that the support for plain language was widespread, coming from rural and suburban communities, as well as in Democratic and Republican areas.

"I urge all Illinois consumers to write their state senator and demand a 'YES' vote on House Bill 575," Quinn said. The address for state senators is State Capitol, Springfield, IL 62706.

The Senate is expected to vote on plain language in the next three weeks.

MWRD Bond Issue

Thomas S. Fuller, president of the Metropolitan Water Reclamation District (MWRD), recently announced that the district has sold $477.6 million in refunding and capital improvement bonds. This is the largest sale in the history of the MWRD. The negotiated sale included $253.2 million in capital improvement bonds sold at 5.4 percent net interest, which has not happened since 1977. These bonds, rated AA, will help fund such projects as the Deep Tunnel construction along the North Branch of the Chicago River in the northern suburbs and along the Little Calumet River in south Cook County. Besides the capital improvement bond sale, the district issued $224.4 million of refunding bonds to take advantage of the low rates and refund outstanding district bonds. That sale will save district taxpayers $8.9 million over the next 18 years.

Commissioner Nancy Drew Sheehan, chairman of the finance committee, stated that the success of the sales is due to the careful study of the bond market which enabled the district to be the first issuer in the market.

"For the first time ever, approximately $20 million of bonds were designated and sold retail to residents of Cook County and the Midwest region."

FOOD LOVERS DIET

To introduce a new approach to dieting, free diet pills were given to 50 people. With The Omicron Diet, one man lost 14 pounds in 5 days and one woman lost 18 pounds in 10 days. The average weight loss was over a pound a day for women and over 2 pounds a day for men. The Omicron Diet is a revolutionary new concept for unbelievably fast weight loss developed and clinically proven by National Dietary Research of Washington, D.C. This significant breakthrough in metabolic weight control was made possible by the utilization of biological information overlooked by other diet programs. With a formulation of natural enzymes along with real food, you shed unwanted pounds extremely rapidly and safely. Now available:

Hearing Loss And Loud Music

"Turn that music down! You'll hurt your ears!" May is Better Speech and Hearing Month and the Department of Rehabilitation Services (DORS) is reminding music lovers of all ages that, as much as they hate to lose that bass, Mom, Dad and Grandma are right when it comes to the effects loud music can have on the ear.

"About 10 percent of the American population has some hearing loss, including more than one million Illinoisans," said Audrey L. McCrimmon, director of DORS. "Estimates about how many of those people's hearing loss is directly related to noise exposure range up to 50 percent, meaning many of them could have prevented the impairment."

"It doesn't take long to damage one's hearing. Any sound that reaches the ear at 70 to 85 decibels or greater for 15 hours or more can have the immediate and serious consequence of sensorineural hearing loss or nerve loss," added McCrimmon. "In addition, frequent or one-time exposure to loud noises can also lessen one's ability to hear."

"This means at the same time parents are saying 'turn down the music' to the kids, the kids should be reminding them of the importance of ear plugs or other hearing protectors when working in the yard with the chipping machine or chain saw," said McCrimmon.

Among the other causes of hearing loss are excessive wax build-up in the ear, repeated middle-ear infections, injury to the eardrum and some strong antibiotics which can be "ototoxic" or poisonous to the ear.

Tinnitus, or "ringing in the ears," is one of the most common hearing impairments, affecting almost 40,000,000 adults in the United States. While tinnitus does not cause hearing loss, it often is the first sign of decreased hearing. Caused by an organic factor like earwax build-up or allergy, tinnitus can often be effectively treated. Tinnitus caused by severe or prolonged inner ear infection or injury may persist indefinitely.

Individuals who have persistent tinnitus or notice they have trouble understanding what others are saying, especially in a crowded room or other noisy environment, are urged to see their doctors or contact an audiologist for a hearing test.

Noises we hear include: rustling leaves, 20dB; whispering, 25dB; refrigerator running, 40dB; normal conversation, 60dB; car running, 70dB; alarm clock, 80dB; outboard motor, 80dB; screaming baby, 90dB; pneumatic drill, 100dB; jackhammer, 100dB; power mower, 105dB; live rock music, 90-130dB; car horn, 120dB; and gunshot, 140dB.

Civitan Projects

Oak Lawn Civitan Club had Alan Kromer from the Ronald McDonald House as guest speaker on April 28th. The club, in the process of rebuilding on its membership, meets at the Oak Lawn Public Library in the Rotary Room at 94th and Cook Ave. Meetings are open to the public.

Projects of the Oak Lawn Civitan Club include Elim Christian School, South Suburban Crisis Center, Park Lawn Residential Center, plus pet therapy and bingo at surrounding nursing homes.

Last year the Civitan Research Center at the UAB Campus in Birmingham was dedicated. The Center is very involved in the research of mental retardation and the developmentally disabled.

They are already making great strides. Special Olympics is very dear to the heart of Civitans across the country.

Money Saving

The Illinois Senate has passed legislation sponsored by State Sen. Patrick O'Malley (R-18) to help schools save money by using non-certified staff to supervise non-teaching situations.

Senate Bill 881 allows school districts to utilize non-certified personnel to supervise study halls, detention and discipline areas, and areas where students are interacting with televised or computerized educational programs.

"We are proposing a relatively simple change that will make better use of limited resources and benefit students, teachers and the citizens whose tax dollars support local schools," O'Malley said. "Local school district officials have estimated annual cost savings of $560,000 for Consolidated High School District 230 and nearly $400,000 for Community High School District 218. The impact is even more significant if you consider the cost savings for the 938 school districts in Illinois."

Sen. O'Malley says the school code currently requires certified staff members to supervise non-teaching situations.

"At a time when many school districts are having difficulty with their budgets, this is a costly and frankly unnecessary mandate. Using non-certified personnel in non-teaching positions will save money and make better use of educators' teaching skills," O'Malley said.

Senate Bill 881 now moves to the House of Representatives for further consideration.

Grants

Marking National Library Week, Secretary of State George H. Ryan, announced a $2 million grant program to help more libraries acquire access to computerized information systems.

The program, which will be funded over the next few years, will provide libraries with microcomputers giving them direct access to the statewide library information network, ILLINET Online.

Libraries also can use the equipment to connect with regional and national systems.

"More than 500 libraries in Illinois currently haven't had the opportunity to step into the computer age," said Ryan, who is also State Librarian.

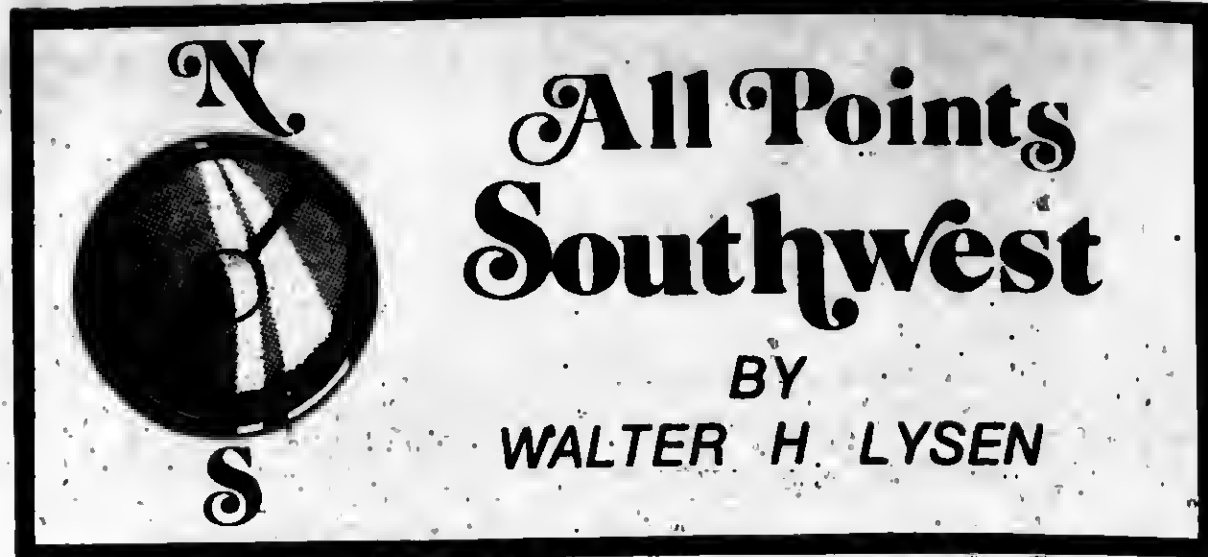

"Library patrons will be the big winners in this program. With these computers, they will have direct access to more than 60 million books and countless journals and documents held by Illinois' public and academic libraries."

Public, school, academic and special libraries that belong to the state's ILLINET network are eligible for the program. Applications for the grants will be accepted through Sept. 30.

Crafts Fair

There will be an Arts and Crafts Exhibit on Friday, May 7 at the Worth Township Center, 11601 S. Pulaski Ave., from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Exhibits will include examples of oil painting, ceramics and knitting items that were made in the Art Classes at the Center.

There was standing room only in the Oak Lawn Village Hall Tuesday night as supporters of the victorious Coalition for Integrity Party came to witness, and cheer the swearing-in for four more years of re-elected Mayor Ernie Kolb, Clerk Jayne Powers and Trustee Ron Stancik. Also sworn-in were two new trustees for four year terms. They are Michael Walsh in District 4 and William C. Keane in District 6.

The crowd overflowed to the safety building where the ceremony was seen on television. The village hall was decorated with flowers and balloons from well wishers.

"Never, in my 45 years of reporting village politics have I seen such an outpouring of public support for candidates," commented Oak Lawn Independent editor Ann Bennett.

"We have a lot of mess to clean up," said Mayor Kolb who was stripped of power the last year by the outgoing UVRP trustees.

His first action was to appoint Don Canning Acting Village Manager to replace Mike Feeley who resigned. Canning was formerly in charge of Public Works and Quality Control. He said he would hold the job only until a capable replacement could be found.

Kolb then eliminated the $54,000 a year PR job created for Dave Looby. Kolb returned the public relations work and handling of village legal notices to Clerk Jayne Powers... without any additional pay.

Next in line to be removed we are told are Ed Barron, Village Prosecutor, and Attorney Burt Odellson.

Some dyed-in-the-wool Republicans are pointing the finger at Bob Streit, who was swamped in his bid for Oak Lawn mayor, and Ed Barron who headed the township ticket for the virtual sweep by the Performance Party. One said, "That Streit has led us down the road to defeat in the last two township elections. He's a pseudo-Republican, but the public perception is that he's a part of the Worth Township GOP. The guy hasn't been to a meeting since he lost his bid for re-election as township committeeman three years ago. Now he's odd man out."

Another commented that Barron was closely associated with Streit and that was undoubtedly a factor in the voter perception of candidates in the township election. "Barron was a member of the 'Barstool Four' and never really disassociated himself from Streit, although he tried to." What happened was that one outsider (Streit) and one with a foot in both camps (Streit and the Regular GOP Organization) dragged the ticket down. It's a miracle two Republicans came through. With friends like these, the Republicans are at a double disadvantage; Democrats and inter-party spoilers.

"You make your bed, then you've got to lie in it," another commented. "It's about time Republicans realize, once and for all, that Bob Streit is a millstone and will continue to drag the GOP down to defeat if Republicans continue to play footsie with him. That's the bottom line."

Mayor Daley's Summer Job Registration is underway at 15 Neighborhood Intake Centers until this Saturday, May 1st. It all began last Saturday, April 24th for Chicagoans ages 14-21 who meet required income guidelines. Participants will work programs between June 1st to Aug. 30th in jobs that pay $4.25 an hour. Many will work as recreation aides, summer school tutors and day care helpers.

Others will learn office skills such as filing, computers and telephone communication.

Hats off to Palos Hills Mayor Jerry Bennett and members of his Community Resources Department for once again being named (for the fifth year in a row) Tree City USA.

The Tree City USA program is sponsored by the National Arbor Day Foundation in cooperation with the USDA Forest Service and National Association of State Foresters.

To become a Tree City USA, Palos Hills had to meet four standards: a tree board department; adopt a city tree ordinance; conduct a comprehensive community forestry program and hold an Arbor Day observance.

The Tree City USA award will be presented to City Community Resources Commissioner Bernie Surchik at the Palos Hills Arbor Day Tree Planting Ceremony on May 6th at 6:30 p.m. at the Municipal Golf Course, 7310 W. 105th St.

Fifth Ward Alderman Harriet Patras, who was defeated in the recent election, was chairman of the Community Resources Department. Other board members in addition to Mayor Bennett who should receive plaudits are Aldermen Darleen Meier and Sharon Rush.

As a welcoming gesture to passengers arriving at O'Hare's International Terminal free baggage carts are now being offered, according to an announcement made by Mayor Richard M. Daley.

"Often when international passengers arrive in this country they don't have US currency available," said the mayor. "This is another initiative in our efforts to make Chicago Airports more convenient and friendly for the air traveling public."

In domestic terminals passengers will continue to pay $1 for the use of each baggage cart.

Illinois has become the first state in the nation to offer deaf and hard of hearing travelers a statewide network of roadside Telecommunication. Devices for the Deaf/Teletypewriters (TDDs/TTYs). The devices allow hard of hearing to type messages to others over regular phone lines.

Ribbon cutting ceremonies will be held at 1 p.m. today (April 29) at Hinsdale Oasis (I-294) to celebrate the ceremonial first call from the 11-site project. Members of the Illinois deaf community and officials from cooperating state agencies will be present.

Other TDD/TTY sites are: I-90 Turtle Creek (both sides); Lincoln Oasis I-80 (both sides); I-57 Mainline Station (both sides); I-55 Railsplitter (both sides); I-57 Rand Lake (both sides).

Work will start soon on the Robbins Resource Recovery Company now that the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency (IEPA) has approved a 16 month environmental permit extension. The subsidiary of Philadelphia-based Reading Energy Company is one step closer to construction of the $300 million facility located at 133rd St. and Kedzie Ave. The extension is good until August 27, 1994 but "we expect to break ground long before then," said Reading President, Dr. Thomas Cassel. (See Page 8 for more details.)

Secretary of State George Ryan calls attention to the deadline of Monday, June 14, for entering the 1993 Ms. Senior Illinois America Pageant.

Adolescents Do More Drugs

An annual survey conducted by the University of Michigan on drug use among adolescents indicated 'significant increases' in use of cocaine, inhalants, LSD, marijuana and other controlled substances among eighth-graders. Most of those responding to increased use are 13 and 14 year-olds. The survey discovered that 11.2 percent of eighth-graders said they had tried marijuana in 1992, one full percentage point more than in the previous year.

Use of illegal drugs by high school seniors continued a downward trend, however the survey pointed out that senior students are increasingly less likely to see experimentation with or even occasional use of drugs as potentially dangerous.

The survey indicated a modest, but statistically significant, increase by eighth-graders of virtually every controlled substance. Experimentation with stimulants, including amphetamines, was up from 10.3 percent to 10.8 percent in 1991. Use of tranquilizers was up from 3.8 percent to 4.1 percent during the same period and 2.9 percent reported having used cocaine, up from 2.3 percent.

Surveyors anonymously sampled more than 50,000 eighth, 10th and 12th graders in private and public schools from all parts of the nation. It is considered one of the government's most reliable tools for measuring progress in the war on drugs.

The encouraging statistic was that the numbers of students reporting that they used marijuana or had tried cocaine, indicated an overall downturn in both categories. Use of LSD was statistically unchanged from 1991 to 1992.

Disclaims Health Risks Of Robbins Incinerator

A new health impact study completed by University of Illinois environmental and occupational health expert Dr. William Hallenbeck reaffirms that the proposed Robbins recycling and trash-to-energy facility will not generate any immediate or delayed health effects over its expected 45 years of operation. Information provided in the study, commissioned by the Village of Robbins, indicates that living near the Robbins facility for a lifetime is less risky than such things as living in a stone or brick house for two months, having one chest X-ray or traveling 10 miles by bicycle.

"From a public health standpoint, the proposed trash-to-energy facility should not be a source of concern for residents of the Village of Robbins and surrounding communities. The air pollution control measures outlined in the siting application meet and exceed standards set by the IEPA," said Dr. Hallenbeck, professor and director of environmental and occupational health sciences at the UIC School of Public Health.

Dr. Hallenbeck's study was conducted at the request of Robbins Mayor Dr. Irene Brodie, who asked him to review a completed siting application and other information provided for the public record by Reading Energy for construction of its trash-to-energy facility in Robbins. Dr. Hallenbeck prepared a detailed evaluation of the potential health effects of emissions from the site based on his review of the application and other relevant studies.

Dr. Hallenbeck has 20 years of teaching, research and consulting experience in the field of environmental health sciences. An expert in analyzing risk associated with environmental and occupational health exposure, he has served as a consultant to many private and public organizations, including the USEPA and the Illinois Department of Public Health, assessing risks involved with air emission regulations, drinking water, waste disposal regulations and environmental toxicology. This month, he will publish the second edition of his college textbook "Quantitative Assessment for Environmental and Occupational Health."

For the Robbins study, Dr. Hallenbeck analyzed potential air and ground concentration levels of various chemicals and chemical classes using risk analysis to determine the probability of short-term and long-term health effects from three possible routes of exposure, inhalation, ingestion and dermal (through the skin).

"I evaluated the trash-to-energy facility using extreme scenarios. To be as conservative as possible, I examined potential health effects of short-term and long-term maximum ground level air concentrations of emissions," Dr. Hallenbeck said.

The conclusions of the study are similar to those of occupational and environmental health expert Dr. Bertram Carnow, M.D., who completed a study of the proposed facility and the safety of modern trash-to-energy facilities in 1991. Though the two studies used different research approaches, both confirm that the Robbins facility would have no immediate or long-term health effects on neighboring residents.

"Although we've been certain of the safety of the Robbins trash-to-energy facility all along, Mayor Brodie, the Robbins Village Board and Reading Energy all feel it's important to go the extra step in retaining experts to reassure local citizens and municipal officials that any possible safety issue associated with the Robbins facility has been fully examined," said Dr. Thomas Cassel, president of Reading.

The Robbins facility is designed to operate for approximately 45 years, processing 1,600 tons of trash per day and producing more than 50 megawatts of electricity. As outlined in its permit, emissions from the facility will be continuously monitored and telecommunicated directly to the IEPA in Springfield. An automatic trash feed cut-off system in each of the plant's two combustors will shut off the trash supply to the combustor if any of 11 critical operating guidelines are not maintained within specified limits. Restart will not be possible until the conditions which caused the shutdown are corrected.

In addition to the safety measures outlined in the original siting application, Reading is also developing plans to carry out an unprecedented environmental monitoring package that will ensure that the Robbins plant will maintain the highest level of air quality controls of any such facility in the country. This package will include a long-term ambient air quality study conducted for Illinois Attorney General Roland Burris and the IEPA by Dr. Peter Scheff of the University of Illinois at Chicago, Occupational Health and Safety Center, School of Public Health. Monitoring stations will be designed and operated according to Dr. Scheff's receptor model, which measures actual air quality components from the plant and also identifies additional ground-level effects of trucks, cars, factories and other sources in the region.

"While our original plan meets or exceeds IEPA standards, we are taking significant extra steps to assure the public of the safety of this plant," said Cassel. "We have every confidence that Dr. Scheff's air quality monitoring model will confirm Dr. Hallenbeck's conclusions and show that trash-to-energy facilities, such as the proposed Robbins plant, have no adverse impact on air quality."

When complete, the facility will process much of the household trash from Chicago's south suburbs. After removing recyclable materials, the facility will cleanly combust the remaining trash to produce electricity. The facility will create an estimated 600 jobs during a two-year construction period, about 80 full-time permanent jobs on-site and many more jobs indirectly.

More than 140 trash-to-energy facilities are safely operating in the United States, including ones in such cities as Minneapolis, West Palm Beach, Indianapolis and Oahu, Hawaii. In Sweden, more than 50 percent of household trash is disposed of in such plants, similar to the proposed Robbins facility. Even greater percentages are realized in Switzerland, Denmark and Japan.

Honor Bernardin

The Board of Directors of the Big Shoulders Fund is honoring the fund's founder, Joseph Cardinal Bernardin, at a dinner to be held in his honor on May 25th at the Hyatt Regency Chicago. The board will present the Big Shoulders Humanitarian Award to the Cardinal for his efforts on behalf of children attending inner-city Catholic schools.

According to James J. O'Connor, chairman of the fund, "The time, energy and enthusiasm that Cardinal Bernardin has given to Big Shoulders' board has made our job so much easier. For many years now, the Cardinal personally has taken a "hands-on" role, visiting donors in their homes and offices and taking them on visits to Catholic schools to tell the story of the important role of inner-city Catholic schools in helping children."

Since the fund was created six years ago, 70 Chicago-area business leaders led by Chairman James J. O'Connor and Vice-Chairmen Andrew McKenna, Edmund Stephan, Thomas Reynolds and John Croghan, have raised more than $33 million to support inner-city Catholic schools. The fund has received the generous support of individuals, corporations and foundations.

Cardinal Bernardin is the seventh individual to be honored by the Big Shoulders Fund. Previous recipients of the Big Shoulders Humanitarian Award include Bob Hope, Lou Holtz, Renee & Lester Crown, and Jerome & Betty Van Gorkom.

"Problem Solvers"

"Most youth are not the problem but will be our future problem solvers," said Patrick McNulty, a sophomore at the University of Chicago. McNulty was addressing over 800 teens from throughout Cook County who had come together to learn more about the positive contributions young people make toward their communities and schools.

At the Youth In Action (YIA) conference held recently in Chicago, 24 teen groups presented information about their service projects to hopefully motivate others to join the community service movement. The workshops ranged from the Wheeling High School Peer Counseling Program to Morgan Park Academy's community environmental service project. The YIA conference, which is both interscholastic and intercultural, allows teens from throughout the area to learn just how necessary their public service is to our future. The conference is co-sponsored by Sheriff Michael F. Sheahan's youth services department, the Chicago Youth Centers and the Illinois Department of Alcoholism and Substance Abuse InTouch program. Mary Feerick, director of the youth services department, noted that the event "is also intended to help give recognition to some of the thousands of young volunteers in the county."

The keynote speaker was Lorenzo Clemons, director of intergovernmental and community affairs for the sheriff's department who enthusiastically told the YIA crowd that "Sometimes when you are young you don't think you can get to a better place-- but I am here to tell you, that you can... You always have to broaden your horizons."

Clemons used his childhood as an example to explain how anyone can achieve his or her goals because "Who'd have thought a kid from the west side of Chicago would go on to become a Big 10 football referee, a part-time actor and have the opportunity to work for the county sheriff?" He told the group that he is encouraged that so many young people were in attendance and that he was happy to meet so many "kids volunteering to make their communities a better place to live."

Brother Robert McNamara and John Kocher, guidance counselors at St. Laurence High School, congratulate Dan Hawrysz and Dan Kobel. The students recently learned that they have been named finalists in the National Merit Scholarship program. More than 1,000,000 students in over 19,000 U.S. high schools entered the 1993 program and the two scored in the upper one percent of all who entered. The students are both members of the National Honor Society. Hawrysz is also a member of the student newspaper staff, computer lab assistant staff, tennis team, math club and serves the student council as a homeroom representative. Kobel is student council president and was a member of the football team.

Redskins Key On Strong-Arm Hurlers

"You need four pitchers who have good arms if you want to be a contender," believes Redskin coach Don Kuehner when it comes to winning baseball games. He should know what he's talking about since his Redskin squad captured the East Suburban Catholic championship crown last season behind their 24-14 overall record.

It appears that indeed, Kuehner does have talented hurlers on this year's roster. Two returning all-conference pitchers, seniors Brian Falat and Chris Smith, have proven that they can get the job done on the mound. This is Falat's third year on the varsity team and last season his record was 9-4, with an E.R.A. of 2.18. Smith finished with a 5-1 record and an E.R.A. of 1.33, and when he's not pitching, he fills in at the shortstop position. He hit .409 in '92.

Also an all-conference choice is returning senior center fielder T. J. Barcelona. Kuehner is moving him to the middle from his left field slot of last season. Barcelona batted .361 last year with 39 hits and 30 runs scored.

Other Redskins slated for outfield play are senior Todd Rosko, who will also see action as a relief pitcher; senior Jason Dunneback will take a position in left field; and seniors Tony Chiuso, who has some varsity experience from last year, plus Brian Harmon.

The Redskin infield is composed of senior John Dunneback at first backed up by senior Pat Sullivan, juniors Brian Wagner along with Bob Bender, who will also contribute on the mound. Senior Mike Sommerfield is also going to do some pitching along with his infielding and rounding out the infield are juniors Mark Schodraf, John Widekiss, and John Zintak.

Behind the plate, Kuehner has senior catcher Justin Blachowski, juniors Mark Martynus and Bob Vahl, plus sophomore prospect Dan Grimm.

Other members of the Redskin bullpen include seniors Mike Connolly and Jim Peterocelli, who saw some action in the rotation last year, plus juniors Nick Dijkas, Jamie Siahulak, and Martin Murphy.

"If they do the things that they are capable of, we should be in every ballgame," commented Kuehner. "We need to keep the runs down and not have massive giveaways. That should give us a chance to play defense."

EVERGREEN PARK MUSTANGS

Evergreen Park's Mustangs will be taking to the field with all of the horsepower they can muster. With the appearance of new coach Tony Masco, the Mustangs are looking to a successful '93 season. The latest roster includes the talents of Kevin Burke, Andy Codiamat, Jeffrey Cozzolino, James DeMatteo, Michael Edgin,

Mustangs Want To Follow Road To Success

Success breeds success, at least Mustang coach Tony Masco is hoping that adage holds true where his team is concerned. Both the school's football and basketball squads met with impressive performances and Masco wants his baseball team to follow suit.

Masco is making his debut as Evergreen's varsity coach. Last season, he coached the sophomores and prior to that, he was at Luther South.

The '92 Mustangs finished their season with a record of 18-17 overall and Masco is setting his sights much higher than numbers like that. "We should break the record for wins, which stands at 20," Masco believes. "Overall, the team looks real good."

Leading the Mustang pack should be senior captain Brian Olenick, who plays in the catcher's slot and had a batting average in the .360 range last season. Junior shortstop/second baseman Jim DeMatteo is decent at running the double play, according to Masco. On the mound, sophomore Jeff Cozzolino is considered as one of the brightest prospects that the school has seen. Backing up Cozzolino in the rotation will be senior Tom O'Neil, junior Chris Kalafut, and spot starter, reliever junior Matt Zdano.

"This team is real strong defensively and up the middle," related Masco. "It's a good hitting team with solid pitching that won't walk a lot of people."

Infielders of note include junior shortstop Mike O'Reilly, senior first baseman Dan Rossi and Zdano who will double as a third baseman when he's not on the mound.

"We want to do just as good as the other teams have done," commented Masco. "We would like to win a regional championship."

Stritch Expected To Lead Crusader Attack

Senior outfielder Mike Strich could spell the key to the success of Brother Rice's varsity baseball squad this season. His bat was smokin' last year as he set a school record at the plate with an average of .495 coupled with a hitting streak that spanned 24 consecutive games.

"Strich should lead our offense," believes Crusader coach Cliff Petrak. "He is highly regarded by professional baseball scouts and we are keeping our fingers crossed that both he and Jim Schmidt, our senior shortstop, will be drafted this year."

On the pitching staff, Rice can boast about junior Jim Sexton, who was 7-1 last season; junior Tim Harrigan (5-2); Jim Fitzmaurice (5-2); senior Brian Dundee, who also fills in at first base and in the outfield, (2-0); senior Tom Tracy, who doubles as a first baseman and outfielder, (3-3); and senior Mike Schramm, who can be deemed as the Crusader's jack-of-all-trades with his talents at second and third base, shortstop, and in the outfield.

"This team has the right attitude," according to Petrak, who begins his fourth season as the varsity coach after serving as the sophomore coach for over 20 years. "The juniors from last year have blossomed into a good core of seniors. I can see them doing well."

Filling out the Crusader ranks are junior pitcher/outfielder Dave Barnes, senior second baseman Terry Casey, junior outfielder Mike Delany, senior outfielder Brandon Dumas, junior third baseman/catcher Jeff Dymore, junior catcher Mike Englebrecht, senior third baseman/outfielder Jim Ficaro, junior shortstop/second baseman Mike Notterica, junior first baseman Nate Kulleck, junior shortstop/third baseman Jeff Kwilose, junior second baseman Mike Moran, senior first baseman Tim Panfil, senior pitcher Mike Sauseda, and senior outfielder Jeff Venable.

“Last year, the team was very young,” stated Perrak. “This year, we have a line-up of experienced seniors and juniors. In the fall tournament, we beat some impressive teams like Mt. Carmel, Clemente, and Curie. We have been working hard and this team is ready to play ball.”

OAK LAWN SPARTANS

Oak Lawn's Spartans have the right stuff to do the job defensively, but they're going to need some pitching on the mound to make it a winning season in '93. Coach Arthur Borkowski's crew will have it tough, but they are ready to play ball. The Spartan roster features Brian Barnes, John Marrello, Bob Mackowiak, Robert Balke, D.J. Smith, Brian Fuss, Jason Draper, Keith Banasiak, Kevin Hense, Abad Lopez, Jason Benedict, Richard Arnold, Don Byron, Nick De Vivo, and Lance Lawler.

Spartans Take Aim On Improvement Over 1992 Performance

After finishing a tad over the .500 mark in '92, the Spartans are looking for improvement this time around. Even though they lost a trio of all-conference seniors, coach Art Borkowski foresees a successful outcome for '93.

"We have five guys with a lot of experience," Borkowski related. "There is strong potential for this year."

On the pitching staff, the Spartans have the hurling arms of all-conference honorable mention player, junior Bob Mackowiak, who averaged in the .350 range at the plate last year and fills in at third base, plus junior Richard Arnold, who also connected in the .350s in '92 and fills in at first base. Additional bullpen members include senior Robert Balke, lefthanded junior Brian Fuss who also plays first; junior Kevin Hense, who plays at first and third; junior Jason Benedict, who can play in the outfield as well as on third base, and junior Don Byron, who is also talented in the outfield as well as at third.

Rounding out the Spartan roster are junior outfielder Brian Barnes, who earned all-conference status last season, junior shortstop John Marrello, junior catcher D.J. Smith, senior second baseman Jason Draper, junior third/first baseman Keith Banasiak, who Borkowski feels is an all around baseball player, sophomore outfielder Nick De Vivo, and juniors Lance Lawler and Abad Lopez.

"This team can do the job defensively," commented Borkowski. "The hitting is adequate and we should be respectable. The question mark is pitching. That is the big thing."

Their toughest competition will probably come via the Sandburg Eagles, Slagg's Chargers and the Shepard Astros. "Our conference has some tough teams," noted Borkowski. "But we should be in every game. We have some good experienced players."

Mustangs Seek Repeat Of Catholic South Crown

Coach Jim Prunty's St. Rita Mustangs captured the crown in the Catholic League South last season with a 29-8 overall record but lost in the regional championship game. This time around, the Mustangs are hungry to reach the top.

"We are returning four of six pitchers from last year," Prunty pointed out. "Those four are all seniors this year." The bullpen features Jason Wallace, 8-2 last season; Brian Romanowski, 4-2; Tim Carrig, 2-1; and Bill Young, 2-1. Carrig and Young are the main relievers for the team. When Romanowski and Young aren't on the mound, they'll take up slots in the outfield. Mike Zabinski is another senior pitcher and also has talent as a catcher and an outfielder. Additional pitching help comes via senior Steve Batinih, and juniors Kevin Quinn, Jason Miller, and Steve Gliva. Miller will see some action at first base and Gliva will go into the outfield when he's not pitching. Junior Jim Connolly is also expected to contribute on the mound.

Senior captain John Nee will get the starting nod at first base. He was an All-Catholic League player in '92. Behind the plate, the Mustangs will have the catching talents of senior Marty Quinn. Backing up Quinn will be junior Mike Bubacz.

The infield has the skills of starting senior second baseman John Bayer. He'll have back up from senior Chris Imhof and junior Greg Zaber. On third base, the Mustangs have seniors Neal Nawrocki and Jason Stawczyk, plus junior Mike Banyas. In the shortstop slot, Prunty can utilize senior Pete Kelly or junior Jim Pfeiffer.

In the outfield, the Mustangs can play senior captain Bob Wagner, who was also recognized as an All-Catholic League stand-out in '92, senior Jerry Sisul, junior Mike Cunningham, who also doubles as a first baseman, and junior Kevin Campbell.

"The team has been working pretty hard," noted Prunty. "I am optimistic because they have the potential to be a good club. I like their attitude."

Spring seems to have sprung, at long last. And how about the election! This is what can be called a mandate!!

The Beverly South Christian Women's Club invites you and your friends to "Bridal Fashions Through the Years" luncheon to be held on Thursday May 20th at 12 noon in the Lexington House, 7717 W. 95th St. There will be a nursey for toddlers and older children at no charge. Call 422-0008 for information and reservations.

OOPS!! Somehow in listing the names of those on the "A" honor role of students at Queen of Peace High School, I overlooked the name of Karyn Horn. Sorry about that.

Had a note from a former resident, Doris Gregory McCarthy, now living in New Lenox. Her two-year-old granddaughter needs a lot of tests and surgery to get a name for her particular problem. Until the doctors can come up with a name for her disorder, they do not qualify for government assistance or other charities, the family's medical bills are overwhelming at this point. They continue to mount. To help with treatment and medical bills, a trust fund has been set up at Lemont National Bank, The Jamee Fiedler Benefit Fund. A fundraiser will be held on Saturday, May 15th at SS Cyril and Methodius gym in Lemont. At the fundraiser there will be a drawing and silent auction with great prizes including tickets to Sox, Cub, Bear and Bull games, as well as weekends and other gifts. A gift to either or both will be appreciated. Good luck on this project, "Ja'mmin' for Jamee"

The Garden School for the Handicapped, 8333 S. Austin, is sponsoring a rummage and bake sale on Friday, April 30th, from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. and Saturday, May 1st, 9 a.m. until 12 noon. Everyone is invited.

Mary Novinson, daughter of Lou and Claire Novison along with good friend and neighbor Carri McGrail, daughter of Tom and Maureen McGrail were among those confirmed in a ceremony at St. Gerald Church. Congratulations.

Bart Murphy returned home April 19th from a 16-day trip to Europe. He flew there, rented a car and toured France, Luxembourg, Holland, Germany and Austria and reports it was very nice.

Artie and Christin Cucci became parents of their second daughter, Sue Ellen, born at Palos Community Hospital, weighing seven pounds, seven ounces. She joins a sister Tina, eight. Congratulations.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schutt became parents of a daughter, Sara, born at Little Company of Mary Hospital, December 10th, weighing in at four pounds, four ounces. She joins a brother Christopher, seven. Congratulations.

Our sympathy to Clark Abrams Sr. whose 82-year-old mother, Helen Abrams, died April 6th in her home in Desert Hot Springs.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Kautz are expecting their daughter and son-in-law sometime in May and are looking forward to sitting with their newest grandchild, Tina Nanni, born March 4th, in Germany, and their grandson, Kevin, two years old. The parents will be traveling with his German band throughout the United States. Tina weighed in at seven and a half pounds.

The Oak Lawn Area Chapter No. 3558 of The American Association of Retired Persons (AARP) will meet on Monday, May 10th at Our Lady of Fatima K.C. Hall, 5839 W. 95th St., at 1 p.m. Bill Amato, a gang crime officer from the Oak Lawn Police Department will speak on gang problems in the area. For further information one may call 422-5065. Felix Waitches is president and Lois Harris is program chairperson.

One of the more vocal mothers for the families who have children in the Oak Lawn Wildcats has submitted the following:

"This is a letter of appreciation to our coach, Chet Mirus, who has been working very hard all season long for the Oak Lawn Park District Wrestling Wildcats; trying to keep young boys off the streets and into the gym. Coach has taken so much time away from his family and we just wanted to let you know you are the BEST! You make us feel important and we tried hard for you this year. You always gave us a pat on the back to make us feel good even when we took our losses. Thanks for having faith in us."

Somewhat belated, but happy birthday to Frank Hejl, who celebrated Saturday. His daughter Dottie took him to the VFW fish fry Friday where he was serenaded by the waitresses. Hope you have many more.

H.L. Richards High School recently recognized 120 honor roll students and their parents at a spring breakfast. The top 10 percent of honor roll students received awards and listened to speeches by the first and second students in the senior class, Laura Dudlcek and Jim Houlihan, both of Oak Lawn. Music was provided by the classical ensemble of students Cindy Nuel and Carly Nelson. CHSD 218 Superintendent Dr. Jerry Petersen greeted parents and students. Dr. Dan McAllister, principal, and Mrs. Arlene Knowski, gifted program coordinator, welcomed the 250 attendees. The number one students in each class also received flowers. Propose 'Truth-In-Budgeting' Law

State Sen. Patrick O'Malley (R-18) is one of five new Republican senators proposing changes in the way the state administers its budget and funds its pensions. The freshmen senators are sponsoring a "Truth-in-Budgeting" legislative package that would reform the way the state discloses its financial position and require it to recognize its unpaid bills. The legislation would also require the state to adequately fund the five pension funds it now administers.

The legislative package, Senate Bills 340, 341 and 342, is also being sponsored by State Sen. Peter Fitzgerald (R-Palatine), State Sen. Chris Lauzen (R-Aurora), State Sen. Steve Rauschenberger (R-Elgin) and State Sen. Dave Syverson (R-Rockford).

Senate Bill 340 would require the state to change from its current cash-basis system of accounting to a system based on Generally Accepted Accounting Principles (GAAP) as promulgated by the Governmental Accounting Standards Board. The fiscal impact of the change would be phased in over several years, beginning in fiscal year 1994. The change would ultimately eliminate the practice of paying last year's bills out of this year's appropriations, which is commonly known as "lapse-period" spending. Senate Bill 340 would require the state budget to be fully balanced under GAAP by FY 1998.

O'Malley says the current cash-basis accounting system used by the state presents an inaccurate picture of the state's finances.

"Using this system, the state does not recognize expenses until it actually pays them. GAAP accounting would require that the state recognize expenses as soon as it incurs them," O'Malley said. "The citizens of Illinois should have a full disclosure of the state's financial condition. The current system makes it virtually impossible to pull this information together. Government is not business, but government should be more like business."

Sen. O'Malley says the state's recent budgetary difficulties are the result of such budget practices, compounded by the national recession.

"The proposed reforms are not intended to criticize the current administration. Indeed, Gov. Jim Edgar has demonstrated heroic efforts in trying to fight back the bureaucracy," O'Malley said. "His budget is already calling for reductions in lapse-period spending of 16.8 percent. Senate Bill 340 puts teeth into what the governor is already trying to achieve."

O'Malley says one of the victims of lapse-period spending has been the state's pension systems. The unfunded liability for the state's five pension funds increased by $1.1 billion last year for a total unfunded liability of $12.9 billion. Senate Bill 341 and 342 will require the state to fully fund its pension systems.

Senate Bill 341 would require the payment of the unfunded liability of the state's pension system over 47 years, beginning in FY 1994.

"Unfunded pensions is a serious matter that can no longer be ignored," O'Malley said. "If these pension systems are not fully funded now, our children and grandchildren will face huge tax increases to meet the state's financial obligations."

Senate Bill 342 is a companion bill that would change the funding of state retirement systems to a continuing appropriation basis.

Senate Bill 340 has been passed by the Senate Executive Committee and now moves to the full Senate for further consideration on second reading. Senate Bills 341 and 342 are pending before the Senate Insurance, Pensions and Licensed Activities Committee.

Ryan Asks Lobby Law Reform

Secretary of State George H. Ryan is urging a Senate committee to approve lobby law reforms even if it adopts no other ethics measures in this session of the General Assembly.

"Passing Senate Bill 900 is a must if we are to address the serious shortcomings of this state's lobbying laws," Ryan said in testimony before the committee. "This is the only proposal that specifically requires disclosure of efforts to lobby all constitutional officers and their cabinets. It is also the only proposal requiring lobbyists to disclose all spending on large receptions."

Ryan, who administers the lobbyist registration act, said the need for the reforms was highlighted by last year's lobbying effort to secure land-based casinos for Chicago.

"People on both sides of the casino campaign claimed that they spent millions of dollars advancing their respective causes, but you wouldn't know it under our current disclosure laws," Ryan said. "In fact, had the casino interests reported even $1 million in expenditures, it would have been nearly 10 times as much as all lobbyists' reported spending, on all causes, for all of 1992."

Ryan's proposal to close loopholes and mandate full disclosure has won the support of Gov. Jim Edgar and major public interest groups.

"Illinois' lobbying law is vague and, as it stands now, almost impossible to enforce," Ryan said. "Not once since the law was passed in 1969 has its penalties been enforced."

Ryan's office registered 930 lobbyists last year. The key provisions of his proposal for change are broadening the definition of lobbyist to include anyone who, for pay, tries to influence a constitutional officer or an official in one of their cabinets; requiring reporting of all expenditures, whether made to influence legislation, rulemaking, contracts or purchasing; and creating a new array of penalties, including fines up to $10,000 and a three-year suspension for serious infractions.

Also proposed is a system of lesser fines, ranging up to $1,500, to encourage lobbyists to file reports on time including reducing lobbyist reporting periods from three to two each year and requiring lobbying expenditures to be categorized and itemized. The current law lists items that need not be reported, but is silent on what types of expenditures must be reported.

Math "Ad" Ventures

A total of 180 Illinois students have been invited to attend the Illinois Mathematics and Science Academy's 1993 Summer "Ad" Ventures in Mathematics, Science and Technology program. Students were randomly selected from eligible members of the applicant pool. Eligibility was determined by teacher recommendations, academic achievement, demonstrated use of locally available programs and evidence of interest in mathematics or science. Area students selected included: Nathaniel Lukanich of Evergreen Park; Claire St. Aubin of Oak Lawn; and Michael Perry of Orland Park.

The Oak Lawn Elks, at their recent district meeting in the Oak Lawn Lodge, honored their district 'Hoop Shoot' winners. The 'Hoop Shoot' is a national free throw contest open to all grammar school children in age brackets 8 & 9, 10 & 11, and 12 & 13, girl and boy categories. Local Elks from Oak Lawn, Chicago South (Aisip), Cicero-Berwyn, Downers Grove, Dolton and Blue Island make up the Northeast District. Pat Brennan, district 'Hoop Shoot' chairman, reported that the lodges and 43,993 youngsters participate in the district event. Local winners were treated to a dinner with their families at the lodge. They had recently participated in state competition.

Screening Results

District 126 recently held its preschool/kindergarten screening. Dr. Frank Tatum, District 126 special education coordinator, reported that 241 children were tested this year, 16 three year olds, 83 four year olds and 142 five year olds.

Conducted by the district student personnel services staff, the brief evaluation, approximately 30 minutes, included a vision and hearing screening and readiness screening. Results of the screening provide both parents and school personnel with a general profile of their children's relative abilities in readiness areas and indicate possible developmental areas which may need remediation or require further evaluation.

The age deadline for entrance into kindergarten for the 1993-94 school year is five years old by Sept. 1st.

ST. LAURENCE VIKINGS

Viking might is ready to prevail on the baseball diamonds this season. Under the leadership of Coach Tom Pallardy, they are looking to improve upon last year's 20-12 record. The Viking roster for '93 includes (front row, from left) Manager Mike Duleba, Nick Perak, Matt Daley, Joe Pickarz, Nick Togas, Mike Reilly, Isaac Valdez; (middle row, from left) Joe

Excellent Season Is Goal Of '93 Vikings

In assessing the Viking team for this season, Coach Tom Pallardy beamed, "We should be excellent. This team is committed to baseball and they are fine students."

If Pallardy's prediction comes true, the Vikings are a team to be reckoned with in '93. On the pitching staff, returning senior starters are Joe DiGangi, who also plays at third base, and Mark Gutkowski, who doubles as a shortstop. Others in the bullpen include senior Vince Escamilla, who transferred in last year and didn't see any action, but Pallardy feels that he's ready to play this year, junior Tony Lesniak, junior Scott Rampage, who also plays at first base, junior Mike Reilly who doubles as an outfielder and junior Keith Schuch, who is also an outfielder and according to Pallardy, is looking real good, and senior Jason Amato, ace reliever who fills in at third base when not on the mound.

Viking infielders feature seniors Wayne Druktenis and Frank Mateja at first base with backup from junior Ken Warzynski. Druktenis fills in at second, Mateja plays at second on occasion, and Warzynski can play at second or in the outfield. Senior Isaac Valdez, the returning shortstop, is also adept in the third base slot. Junior Nick Togas gives Valdez relief at shortstop and also sees action at second base. A third shortstop is junior Ken Benson, who can take over at second base if needed. In the catcher's position, Pallardy has the talents of senior Jon Birsa, who can also play at first, junior Matt Daley who fills in on the mound, and senior Nick Perak who doubles as an outfielder. At third base, the Vikes have junior Bill Malak.

In the hitting department, Pallardy has Valdez, who averaged .390 last season, Druktenis, who took professional lessons last year, Lotus, Daley, Mateja, Birsa, DiGangi and Konrath.

"I am very impressed with their work ethic," Pallardy pointed out. "This is a group that is used to winning and they want to continue winning. When you give them something to work on, they try to get it done right."

SANDBURG EAGLES

The Eagles are ready to soar high in the sky and be the best in SICA North this season. Coach Doug Sutor has talented players in the form of Joe Donnellon, Eric Losieczka, Chris Morris, Dick Conrad, Jim Wroblewski, Jeff Beryt, Dave Pavlovic, Tony O'Brien, Brian Breen, Jim Scholes, Jason Barone, Todd Mensik, Chris Prydzia, Eric Welsh, Doug Murray, Pat Fitzgerald, Jeff Borst, Brian Hertz, Blain Ruby, and Shawn Walsh.

Offense, Defense, Pitching Give Coach Doug Sutor Reasons For Optimism

Since the Sandburg Eagles have four all-conference players returning to the roster, coupled with their overall record of 28-7 in '92, they have cause to be optimistic.

"We have a good nucleus coming back and they can swing the bat," Sutor noted. "We also have one of the tougher schedules around as we play Andrew, Marist, Oak Forest, Brother Rice and Lockport. We need to be ready."

Pre-season high school All-American senior pitcher Todd Mensik will be called upon to deliver smoke from the mound. His record was 9-1 last year with an E.R.A. of 1.4 to his credit. He'll also fill in at first base and in right field.

Additional hurlers include seniors Blain Ruby, who is credited with some saves last season and a 5-0 record during the summer, and Tony O'Brien, who was 3-0, plus juniors Jeff Borst, Eric Welsh, who will also see action at first base and in the outfield, and Eric Losieczka, who is also expected to play in the infield.

The Eagle infield will feature senior Jason Barone who Sutor feels has good power, senior third baseman Brian Breen, who hit in the .300 range last season, and juniors Chris Morris, shortstop Joe Donnellon, Chris Prydzia, who will also do some pitching, Brian Hertz, who is also slated to do some work as a catcher, and Shawn Walsh. Senior Pat Fitzgerald is set to take the first base slot. Another catcher will be senior Doug Murray.

In the Sandburg outfield, the team has seniors Jim Wroblewski, who averaged in the .300 range with his bat last season, Jeff Beryt, and Dave Pavlovic plus junior Jim Scholes.

"This team will be able to score some runs," Sutor commented. "We can play defense as good as anybody and we've got some decent pitching. We want to be ready for the tournament and that's what we're shooting for."

SHEPARD ASTROS

The Astros are aiming for the stars this season as they prepare to make their presence known against all opposition. Under the coaching of John Harasen, they have a chance to do their share of winning. The Astro roster includes Scott Budds, Brian Chillmon, Jim Dallio, Dan Gast, Tony Hull, Brian Lucitt, Mike Melichar, John Pahr, Jim Paul, Mike Pritchard, Daren Protolipac, Todd Rusk, Brandon Strenge, Craig Tacz, Jeff Wilson, and Joe Wroble.

Astros Lack Veterans But Harasen Counts On Talented Players

According to Astro Coach John Harasen, the '93 team is, "very inexperienced, we are returning only two starters from last year." In spite of that, Harasen's group brings some talent to the diamond.

The two starters coming back to the Astro line-up are senior John Pahr, who plays all three outfield positions and earned all-conference honorable mention last season, and junior Jim Dallio, who is in the pitching rotation.

The jack-of-all-trades for Shepard is junior Daren Protolipac. "He is very versatile," Harasen noted. "He can play multiple positions that include shortstop, second base, third base, pitching, and in the outfield."

Although Harasen believes that the Astros are, "not real deep in pitching," they do have a trio of hurlers with potential for greatness. Senior Joe Wroble, sophomore lefthander Craig Tacz, who can also fill in at first base, and Jim Paul, a junior with a strong arm.

In the outfield, Harasen has the talented gloves of senior Tony Hull and junior Jeff Wilson.

The team includes senior Brian Lucitt and juniors Scott Budds, Brian Chillmon, Dan Gast, Mike Melichar, Mike Pritchard, Todd Rusk and Brandon Strenge.

"We have 16 players on the team and we'll be able to experiment," noted Harasen. "Everybody will play."

In the hitting department, Harasen is counting on the bats of Protolipac, Paul and Dallio.

"There are some good hitters on this team and we should be able to score runs," Harasen believes.

Property Tax Relief Plan Approved

Property taxes on Cook County homes may be cut 5% and more under a tax relief plan supported by State Representative David McAfee that won approval of the Illinois House Wednesday, April 21.

"House Bill 685 will increase homestead exemptions by up to $1,500 and raise the home improvement exemption by $15,000," McAfee said. "When looking at all the dozens of legislative proposals involving property taxes, this is one of the best. This one cuts our property tax bills," McAfee declared.

The legislation:

- * Raises Homestead Exemptions by $1,000 for all homes;
- * Raises Senior Citizen Homestead Exemptions another $500;
- * Raises the home improvement exemption to $45,000, a 50% increase.

McAfee said the home improvement exemption, "meets the real needs of people remodeling their homes in today's market." Improvement costs up to the $45,000 limit are exempt from new property taxes for four years.

McAfee was also chief sponsor of a property tax "cap" plan for Cook County and all of Illinois. "It limits tax hikes to 5% or the rate of inflation, whichever is less. This year, the inflation rate was 2.9%," McAfee explained.

McAfee proposed tax caps to give Cook County homeowners "the same protection as collar county residents. Two years ago the Governor won strict caps in neighboring counties. Caps are working. They're holding down property tax increases in DuPage and Lake. The families and businesses in Cook deserve the same tax break."

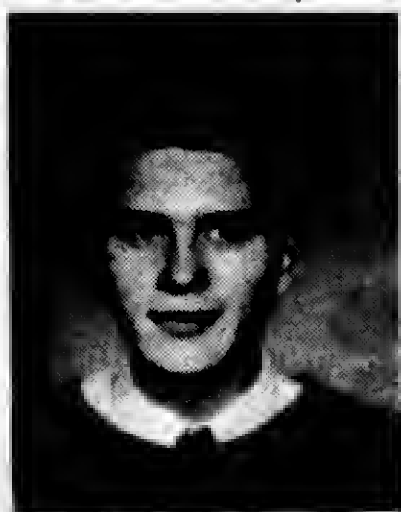

Unfortunately, other legislators failed to support the bill at this time, McAfee noted. "This issue is not dead. I plan to offer additional legislation that will provide true property tax reform and reduce the tax burden on homeowners," McAfee concluded.

McAfee's tax cap plan was supported by other suburban Cook legislators including Jack Kubik (R-Riverside) and Terry Steczo (D-Oak Forest).

Faculty advisor Jane Blew of Mother McAuley Liberal Arts High School conducts a final team drill before the seventh annual science bowl at Argonne National Laboratory. Fifty-nine teams from Illinois high schools and one from Wisconsin competed to answer questions on science and mathematics. Other team members are (from left) Lana Tadros of Oak Lawn, Meg Toleatino of Orland Park, Melissa Consins of Chicago, and Erin Barton of Beverly.

Chicago Gaelic Park, the Irish cultural and recreational center at 6119 W. 147th St., is planning its seventh annual Memorial Day weekend celebration. The four-day festival will use every part of the expanded 50-acre complex.

"Gaelic Park's Irish festival has already established itself as a traditional meeting place for many families," said Bradley. "We have continued to bring the finest Irish entertainment to our area and have added a second marquee tent to make our guests more comfortable."

Highlighting the event will be a wide variety of the best local and international Irish and American entertainment. Over 40 acts will appear on four stages over the course of the event which runs from Friday, May 28th to Monday, May 31st. Headlining the weekend will be the appearance of one of Ireland's most famous groups, The Duhlin City Ramblers and recording stars, Black 47. Joining them will be such well known entertainers as Paddy Reilly, Dave Coady's Irish Express, Matt Cunningham, Carmel Quinn, Johnny McEvoy, Leo McCafferty, Maurice Crum and Noel Henry's Irish Showhand. Local groups such as the Dooley Brothers, Irish Mist, Pat Daly and the Ramblers and the Irish Musicians Association will also appear.

New to the festival this year will be Sharon Shannon, a premier Irish accordion player and a presentation by the Gaelic Park Players. Local TV Anchorman, Joel Daly, will perform with his country and western band, the Sundowners. Popular heavyweight entertainer "Ed Zeppelin," managed by Kevin Matthews of WLUP radio, will make a return appearance. For dance fans, the Dancing Noodles will also perform. There will also be various bag pipe bands and step dancers.

Irish Festival '93 has activities for the entire family. The admission price of $8 includes unlimited rides on a wide variety of carnival attractions. Children can enjoy magic shows, face painting, clowns, puppet shows and pony rides.

For shoppers, 20 Irish import stores will be displaying their wares. When all of the activities make people hungry, 16 food vendors will be available. Each vendor will serve a different specialty such as ribs, pizza and, of course, corned beef sandwiches. Even though it's an Irish festival, there will be food from all nationalities including egg rolls, chicken, bratwurst, tacos, spaghetti and tropical drinks.

The festival begins in full on Friday, at 3 p.m. and runs to 11:30 p.m. Admission is one-half price Friday from 3 to 4:30 p.m. The activity continues Saturday and Sunday from 12 noon to 11:30 p.m. with a special mass on Sunday at 10:30 a.m. Festivities conclude Monday, Memorial Day from 12 noon to 8 p.m.

Admission is $8 per person; $5 for seniors and children under 3 are admitted free. The admission price includes all entertainment and unlimited carnival rides.

For further information, call Gaelic Park at (708) 687-9323.

There will be demonstrations of Japanese origami, Chinese fortune telling, and American Indian beadwork. Children and adults will enjoy trying their hand at 'papel picado,' a popular craft from Mexico, have their name written in Egyptian hieroglyphics, and participate in games of the South Pacific Islands. 'Ask A Lawyer'

Anyone in Illinois with a question about a legal matter can call and talk to a lawyer - at no cost - on Saturday, May 1st, 'Ask A Lawyer Day.' Volunteers will answer phones at five locations around the state from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Any Illinois resident can call either a local number or a toll-free number for a free consultation with a lawyer.

The 12th annual 'Ask A Lawyer Day,' part of Law Day activities in Illinois, is sponsored by the Illinois State Bar Association in cooperation with bar associations in Chicago and western suburbs, Will County, Winnebago County and Sangamon County.

Lawyer volunteers will be able to answer questions about consumer problems, family law, estate planning, personal injury, or any other legal situations affecting individuals.

Callers will be advised of steps they can take to resolve any legal problems. If they need legal services, they will be advised to see their attorney or will receive a free referral through the lawyer referral service in their area.

"Too often, people take for granted that the law will protect them, but there are some steps they must take to preserve their rights," according to State Bar President Peter H. Lousberg of Rock Island. "On May 1st, Illinois citizens will be able to talk directly to a lawyer and learn how to make the law work for them."

Each of the participating bar associations operates a lawyer referral service year-round for people who need legal services but do not have a lawyer. The services make referrals to lawyers who agree to provide an initial consultation at low cost to determine the client's legal needs.

'Ask A Lawyer Day' is a public service project that enables people with a legal question to call a lawyer to learn about their legal rights and responsibilities. "Sometimes, a small legal problem can become a large problem if a person delays seeking help," Lousberg said.

The phone number to talk to a lawyer on May 1st is The Chicago Bar Association, 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. only, (312) 554-2001.

Unveil New Girl Scout Uniforms

This spring new uniform components and updated resource materials for Girl Scouting's youngest members are being introduced by Girl Scouts of the USA. The new uniforms and materials are hitting the market after several years of research and surveys on the preferences and suggestions of girls, their parents and their leaders and will be available at local stores with Girl Scout equipment agencies.

Daisy Girl Scouts, who are 5 or 6 years old, will still have the blue tunic originated when this age level was introduced in 1985. Now these littlest Girl Scouts will also have blue or pink shorts, and long and short-sleeved T-shirts with daisy designs on the arms and front and their own Daisy Girl Scout membership pin.

There is also a new activity scrapbook and a storybook for the girls that tells about the Girl Scout promise and law, and the story of Girl Scouting's founder, Juliette Gordon Low's nickname was "Daisy," so that name was given to these youngest Girl Scouts. There will also be a new guide for Daisy Girl Scout leaders.

Brownie Girl Scouts have had brown uniforms, topped with beanies, for 66 years and the current uniform has been around since 1986. They can still have the beanies, but the new look will introduce blue for the Brownies, a color which has become a standard part of Girl Scout uniforms for all ages during the last few years.

There will be a jumper with a floral print top and brown split-skirt, a chambray shirt, a western-style belt, a gathered knit skirt, a pale yellow crew-neck knit top with flocked lettering, and a T-shirt with Brownie Girl Scout symbols on the front.

A new sash, vest, tie and cardigan sweater are also part of the new package of mix-and-match choices.

There's also a two-in-one handbook for the Brownies. The first part has activities and information about Girl Scouting, and the second part details Brownie Girl Scout Try-Its, which introduce the girls to proficiency badges and activities to introduce them to the bigger world of Junior Girl Scouts.

Brownie troop leaders also get a new book of their own, with tips on planning, group dynamics, activities, other leadership matters and much supplementary information about the girls' handbook.

Younger girls make up the largest Girl Scout member group, with Daisy and Brownie Girl Scouts comprising more than 60 percent of the girl members in the South Cook County Council. Overall, the council serves about 12,500 girls from 5 to 17 years of age each year, and reaches about 22 percent of the 5 to 14 year old age group in the south suburbs.

Governors State University President Paula Wolff welcomes Sen. Patrick O'Malley (R-18) to the GSU campus for a luncheon with legislators. The president and several professors shared their insights on higher education issues with the elected officials.

50 Years

Peace Memorial Convalescent Home, an affiliate of Peace Memorial Church, is celebrating its 50th anniversary on Sunday, May 16th. The home began at 78th and Laflin in what was originally the parsonage of the church, with 15 residents. The home has since grown to a facility that can care for 242 residents at its present location, 10124 S. Kedzie. The first unit of the present facility was dedicated on Feb. 7th, 1960.

The anniversary banquet is scheduled at 6 p.m. at the Palos Country Club, 131st and Southwest Highway. An outstanding program of special music has been planned. The main speaker will be Rev. Dr. Laverne Joseph, president and CEO of the retirement housing foundation, a United Church of Christ affiliated organization.

For more information, call the home at (708) 636-9200 or the church office at (708) 448-7833.

As always, the focus of Girl Scouting is to meet the needs and interests of girls from many different racial, ethnic, socioeconomic and religious backgrounds. Planning and the use of resources goes toward these needs, and results in a program which builds skills, encourages self-esteem, promotes individual, personal development and teaches ways to get along with and appreciate others who are different from themselves.

Consideration is even given to such things as comfortably low countertops in the kitchens and other accommodations appropriate for the girls at the council's Camp Palos and the Friendship Center.

For more information about Girl Scouting and local activities such as the council's 'Summer Wonders' day camp, call 957-8100.

The district takes Arbor Day very seriously because we know just how important trees are to the environment."

The Forest Preserve District estimates it will give away around 10,000 tree seedlings for Arbor Day.

"Arbor Day is a time to pause and reflect on our environment," Phelan said. "It is also a time to recommit ourselves to a greener planet by taking action with the planting of trees. At the district, the spirit of Arbor Day is carried out throughout the entire year."

At that time the State of Illinois/Village of Oak Lawn has authorized a full closure of Cicero Ave. through 6 a.m. Wednesday, May 12th, for the railroad to completely replace the Cicero Ave. road crossing.

The Village of Oak Lawn Public Works Department recommends, particularly during rush hour periods, motorists use alternate routes such as Southwest Highway, 111th St., 87th St., State Road, and Pulaski Road for the duration of the reconstruction, and avoid the intersection of 95th St. and Cicero Ave.

The cooperation of the motoring public would be appreciated during this period of inconvenience.

Com Ed Inspection

Commonwealth Edison is inspecting its entire 34-thousand volt overhead subtransmission system, more than 3,000 miles of lines, by helicopter, using infrared photography that identifies flaws or "hot spots." The aerial inspections, which will last approximately six more weeks, are intended to locate potential problems so Edison can make corrections before the start of the heavy-use summer season.

"Aerial photo surveys represent an excellent use of infrared technology for at least two reasons," according to Harry Jones, Edison's public affairs director for Crestwood. "First, they can help reduce the costs of maintenance and repairs by detecting potential problems before they can become trouble. Secondly, they can help reduce the frequency of service interruptions."

Normally flying at 300 feet, technicians will check overhead conductors, line splices, pole top switches, insulators and other equipment.

The inspections started in the western suburbs of Edison's 11,500-square-mile northern Illinois service territory, moving north, then south and concluded in the Rock River area.

"This is the most extensive use we've ever made of this inspection technology," Jones pointed out. "We want our customers to enjoy the most reliable electric service possible this summer and for months and years to come."

Safety Tips For Bicyclists

The longer days of spring bring out bicyclists of all ages. The National Safety Council advises everyone to wear helmets and follow these safety tips: passengers and riders should wear helmets that carry ANSI (American National Standards Institute) or Snell-approved stickers; be sure that the helmet is properly positioned and firmly secured on your head; and in the event of an accident, ask the manufacturer to check your helmet since the shell and liner may have collapsed.

For more information, veterans should call the Red Cross at (312) 440-2102 and ask for the Persian Gulf Family Support representative.

Veteran Benefits

The American Red Cross urges National Guard and Reserve veterans of the Persian Gulf War to apply now for financial benefits available through the Persian Gulf Family Support Project. Though hostilities in the Gulf ended Feb. 27th, 1991, many National Guard and Reserve veterans returned home to unique problems resulting from Operation Desert Shield/Storm.

To provide assistance to these veterans, the Department of Defense approved a $13.5 million grant to be administered by the Red Cross. To date, only about $1.2 million of that grant has been provided to eligible veterans. The grant expires in a few weeks and will not be extended or renewed.

OUTDOORS

YOU HAVE TO SEE IT, TO BELIEVE IT - The 47 lb. 10 oz., 51" long "Pure Musky" is on display at J.J.'s BAIT AND TACKLE, 7281 W. 87th St., Bridgeview. This fish hung for over an hour before weigh-in and is estimated to have lost at least two lbs. during that period of time. The fish set a world-class record for 25 lb. test line as certified by I.G.F.A. (International Game Fish Ass'n.).

The fish was taken last fall by STEVE WHITE of Chicago while fishing on Trout Lake in Vilas County, Wisconsin, using a black and gold GRAMA BAIT. During an interview at J.J.'s Bait and Tackle, STEVE told me he hooked and lost a larger Musky prior to catching the 47 lb. 10 oz. fish and if he ever catches a large Musky again, he intends to "release it."

INDIANA TO STOCK RAINBOW TROUT - Fisheries personnel with the Department of Natural Resources will release more than 50,000 trout in Indiana lakes and streams by late April, according to Bill James, DNR Fisheries Chief.

Biologists will release the 10-inch trout in 20 streams and 21 lakes in advance of stream trout fishing season which opened April 24. The season extends until Dec. 31. Trout fishing in lakes is open all year. The daily catch limit for trout is 10, and the minimum size is 7 inches.

Indiana residents ages 17 through 64 must have a valid Indiana fishing license and trout-salmon stamp to fish for trout. Non-residents ages 17 and older must have a valid Indiana non-resident license and stamp.

WISCONSIN RECORDS SAFEST BOATING SEASON IN STATE'S HISTORY - State boating safety instructors are gearing up for a major challenge in the months ahead: how to improve on the 1992 season, the safest in state history.

However, a summary of 1992 boating accidents statistics illustrates both significant progress and room for new initiatives, according to Bill Engfer, boating law administrator with the Department of Natural Resources.

Engfer said a 54-percent decline in accidents involving personal watercraft, commonly called jet-skis, account for just one percent of the watercraft registered in Wisconsin, yet they have been involved in 20 percent of the boating accidents reported over the last four years.

"Personal watercraft owners received a strong message last year when the legislature approved new laws covering personal watercraft use," Engfer said. "It's a good illustration of what you can do with well-crafted laws designed to address specific safety issues."

Engfer was also pleased to note a decline in the number of duck hunters who drowned as a result of falling from their boats. Through much of the duck season, the department aired a public service announcement encouraging duck hunters to wear life jackets.

"If we save a single life by talking about the importance of wearing a life jacket, we've done well," Engfer said. "It's a message more people need to hear, especially hunters and anglers who may not consider themselves boaters in a traditional sense."

Engfer explained 14 of the 23 boating fatalities recorded last year might have been avoided if the victims had been wearing life jackets.

Engfer pointed to other department sponsored announcements focusing on the degree of operating a boat without running lights after dark. A 33 percent reduction in night boating accidents last year helps illustrate the importance of creative informational approaches, he said.

Umpire Visits Vets

It happened more than 15 years ago while he was visiting veterans at a Veterans Administration (VA) Medical Center. He stopped to chat with a blinded veteran patient for a few moments. As he began to leave, the patient began to cry and asked him to stay just awhile longer. For American League umpire Larry Barnett, it was "one of the most moving experiences of my life." This experience and others like it are the reason Barnett has, since 1977, visited hospitalized veterans at VA hospitals across the country in a special project sponsored by the national headquarters of the Disabled American Veterans (DAV).

Barnett, who at 23 became the youngest major league umpire in baseball history when the American League bought his contract in 1968, is to visit local hospitalized veterans at the West Side VA Medical Center on Saturday, May 1st. Barnett's visit to the medical center coincides with his umpiring upcoming Chicago White Sox games.

"I feel warm inside when I leave a hospital," said Barnett, adding, "If I've made three veterans happy, I feel I've accomplished something important."

Barnett said he usually tries to keep the atmosphere of his visits "light and humorous." He gets a bang out of being booed, jokingly of course, by patients whom he then "thumbs out of the game." Sometimes they'll ask him if he brought his seeing-eye dog. One of his quick answers: "They don't let dogs up here; I had to leave him in the lobby."

Umpires are "stereotyped as brash old men who don't have a sense of humor," said Barnett, who entered umpire school in Florida after graduating from high school in 1963. "But there are a lot of funny incidents that happen on and off the field in the course of a season, and I really enjoy sharing them with these veterans."

During his visit, Barnett usually shows film highlights of the most recent World Series. Laughing, Barnett said he might have to swallow a few more boos since he umpired in the 1982 baseball classic.

Santa Fe Gears Up For Racing

This Friday and Saturday night, Santa Fe Speedway kicks off week two of the NASCAR/Winston Racing Series Six-Night Season Opening Shootout. Four divisions of stock cars are set to do battle on the quarter-mile action-clay oval on this night: Late Model, Sportsman, Lightning Rod and S.T.A.R. (Short Track American Racer) cars. Gates open at six, time trials are at seven, drop of the green flag is set for 8 p.m.

Saturday night is Goody's Night at the races. A perennial face in the NASCAR/Winston Racing Series "Winner's Circle," Goody's, the Official Pain Reliever of NASCAR, sponsors the Goody's Headache Award, contributes to the Brenners Children's Hospital, in addition to their involvement with NASCAR tracks across the country.

This weekend marks the second weekend of non-stop excitement at "Chicago's Only Home for Motorsports Excitement" for the 1993 NASCAR Stock Car Season Opening Shootout and the chase for the NASCAR/Winston Racing Series National Crown. In addition to prize monies for all four divisions each race night, Santa Fe will present a $1,000 bonus check to the Late Model point leader and a $300 bonus to the Sportsman point leader at the end of the Six-Night Shootout. Competitors must compete all six nights to be eligible for bonus awards. On Saturday, May 8th, the Shootout culminates with a $1,500-to-win 50-lap 1/4-mile Special Event.

Challenging defending Late Model Champion Frank Reaber of Bensenville will be an up-and-coming group of new faces in Santa Fe's premier division. Late Model rookies this year include Burbank native Rob Vrstil, making the jump all the way from the S.T.A.R. division. Chuck Kling of Lombard will make his Santa Fe debut in the Late Model ranks. Former Sportsman making the moves include Mark Johnson of Ingleside, John Nash of Villa Park, and Most Improved Sportsman Paul Sarussi of Brookfield.

Defending Sportsman Champion Joe Rossio, Sr. will be abandoning his Sportsman crown for a run at Late Model accolades. Sportsman newcomers include Gary Schalmo of Mokena, Andy Sarussi and Brian Pond of LaGrange, and Clarendon-Hills' Frank Razzino.

Santa Fe Speedway is located on the corner of 91st and Wolf Road in Hinsdale; 24-hour hotline (708) 839-1050.

Congratulations

Jim Angsten, athletic director at St. Rita High School, is congratulated by Joseph Bamberger, assistant principal, for his 15 years of service to the school.

BASEBALL ROUND-UP

There will be a full card of Gaelic football and hurling at Gaelic Park, 6119 W. 147th St., every Sunday afternoon beginning May 2nd. Four games are played with the first at 1 p.m., each Sunday until Labor Day. Admission is $4 with kids under 13 admitted free.

Gaelic football, the national pastime of Ireland, mixes elements of soccer, American football and basketball. This fast-paced game is played on a huge field with a ball similar to a soccer ball. Players score by kicking the ball between the uprights for one point or past the goalie, into the net for three points. Players can use their hands and run with the ball but must dribble it "toe to hand" every four steps.

Hurling, the world's fastest ground game, is played on the same field and has the same methods of scoring. The difference is that the ball is similar to an American baseball and the players use 42-inch sticks called hurleys.

The games are family affairs with a picnic atmosphere. There is playground equipment available for the children with food and refreshments available for purchase.

For further information, call Eamonn Kelly at (708) 825-6037 or Gaelic Park at (708) 687-9323.

St. Rita Soccer Camp

St. Rita High School, 7740 S. Western Ave., is sponsoring its second annual youth soccer camp from Monday, July 12th through July 16th. The camp will be open to seventh and eighth grade boys as well as incoming freshmen. Sessions run from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. The camp will cover skills, positioning and rules interpretation while offering hours of fun for all campers. Individualized instruction will aid participants in sharpening offensive skills such as dribbling, shooting, passing and ball control. Defensive skills such as shadowing, marking and trapping will be covered along with special goal-keeping instruction.

The camp is to be staffed by head coach Tim McCarthy, his staff and IHSA referee Kevin McAlinden. Coach McCarthy was a member of the 1982 regional championship team and is in his third year as head coach of the Mustangs. Kevin McAlinden is a referee certified with the IHSA, AYSO and USSF, has been a soccer coach and referee for over 13 years. Several team members of the varsity Kicking Mustangs will act as counselors.

While the camp's objective is to teach the basics of soccer, we also hope that everyone has a great time learning the game and its many rules.

The cost of the camp is $50 and includes camp instruction, a T-shirt and a camp ball. All participants should attend camp in proper attire, athletic shoes, shorts and shin guards.

For more information, please contact the school at (312) 925-5029.

Conference races are in full swing as the baseball season winds up its first month of games. Despite games postponed due to rain, snow and cold, high school teams manage to get the job done, just like postal service workers delivering the mail.

Wednesday Games (April 21st)

Stagg 6 - Argo 3

The Chargers' SICA North opening game spelled early success as they came away with a 6-3 victory over Argo's Argonauts in Palos Hills.

Chargers Lou Pinto and Pat Rush proved to be the dynamic duo on offense. Pinto went 2 for 3 with a pair of stolen bases and two RBI. Rush added three RBI.

Chris May won his third game of the season as he gave up only four hits in seven innings.

Reavis 4 - Shepard 2

Ram power overtook the Astros 4-2 during this SICA North contest.

Sparkling the Ram offense were Chuck Foltz and Matt Flood at the plate plus the pitching of Bob Madritsch. Foltz went 2 for 3 with a pair of RBI, Flood was also 2 for 3 and tallied two runs. Madritsch hurled a no-hit game into the sixth when he gave up two hits.

Bremen 9 - T.F. North 0

The Braves started their SICA Central conference schedule with a 9-0 shutout over the Meteors on the road. A no-hitter from pitcher Dennis Smith ignited the victory. Smith struck out 13 in seven innings.

Hot batters for Bremen included John Abramic with two hits including a double and a pair of RBI plus the two hits and two RBI of Joe Bressanelli.

Oak Forest 5 - Tinley Park 3

Bengal might prevailed as they took down the Titans 5-3 in their SICA Central opener on their home field.

Mike Stacy connected for two hits and an RBI while teammate Scott Byrdak added an RBI for the Bengals. The winning hurler was Dave Kinsella.

St. Laurence 1 - Loyola 0

A lone run proved to be the only offense the Vikings needed. Pete Lotus was 2 for 3 with a double and an RBI. Joe DiGangi picked up his fourth win.

St. Rita 11 - St. Ignatius 2

The Mustangs ran over the Wolfpack 11-2 at St. Ignatius, ignited by the offensive trio of Pete Kelly, Bob Wagner and John Nee.

Kelly tallied a trio of hits and a pair of RBI, Wagner added two hits and three RBI, and Nee had two hits including a round tripper and a pair of RBI.

On the mound, Brian Romanowski gave up only three hits.

Brother Rice 8 - St. Martin 6

The host Crusaders made their fans happy as they took down the Silver Eagles 8-6.

A grand slam off the bat of Jim Schmidt coupled with a perfect 4 for 4 at the plate by Mike Schramm sealed the Crusader victory. Mike Stritch saved the game for Rice with a diving catch in right field as the Silver Eagles had runners in scoring position.

Thursday Games (April 22nd)

St. Laurence 2 - St. Rita 1

It was a fight to the last out, but the Vikings held on to take a 2-1 victory over the Mustangs in Catholic League South action.

An RBI triple off the bat of Ken Warzynski that enabled him to romp home during what the Mustangs thought was a time out proved to be the fatal blow. Vike hurler Mark Gutkowski pitched a one-hitter. Jason Wallace also pitched a one-hitter.

The Braves continued on their winning ways with a 13-2 triumph over the Meteors during SICA Central action.

A trio of Brave hitters sparked the win. Chalking up a pair of RBI apiece were Joe Bressanelli, Rob Storako and John Abramic.

Mickey Oganovich fanned eight in five innings.

Tinley Park 4 - Oak Forest 2

The Bengals got the bite put on them this time around as the Titans got the win in SICA Central action.

Tallying a pair of hits apiece for the Bengals were Dan Gallivan and Mike Stacy.

Andrew 18 - Richards 8

The only good thing about the Bulldogs' 18-8 defeat at the hands of the Thunderbolts was that it was a nonconference game. All the T'Bolts needed was six innings to get the win.

Sandburg 4 - Oak Lawn 2

The Eagles emerged with a SICA North win in Orland Park as they swept down on the Spartans. A two-run single by Doug Murray was the fatal blow. Todd Mensik added a home run and Jim Wroblewski drove in a run with a single to add to the Eagle offense.

Tony O'Brien earned the win.

Brother Rice 4 - St. Ignatius 0

Brother Rice put offense and defense together and captured a 4-0 shutout over the Wolfpack in Catholic League North action.

Fanning nine and giving up only three hits was Tom Tracy. At the plate, Tim Panfil stroked a two-run homer, Mike Englebrecht added an RBI triple, and Jim Ficaro connected for an RBI single.

Marian Catholic 8-4 - Marist 7-3

Superintendent William Boucek reported that district enrollment (K-8) is up 11% over Sept. 30th, 1992's; 14% at Lane; 3% at Stony Creek; down 5% at Hazelgreen; and down 1% at Prairie Junior High. Total enrollment for the district is 1,628.

Elaine English, curriculum coordinator, reported on the positive Illinois State Board of Education program review of the district's Chapter I program.

Jerry Vrshek, Lane principal, reported on the finger painting project held at Lane on April 3rd: Vrshek also reported on the parent White Pines field trip survey results. 25% of the parents indicated that their child would not be participating in the fall 1993 field trip. The board directed the administration to re-survey parents on the subject, factoring in the added costs based on 75% participation. The board also directed K-6 principals to meet with 6th grade teachers and come up with outdoor education field trip options for the board to consider and action on this was tabled until the May board meeting.

In other reports, Adgie Labate, Lane preschool teacher, reported on the positive state board of education program review for the district's 'At Risk' preschool program.

Dr. Tatum gave a report on the district's 20th annual kindergarten/preschool screening. A total of 241 children were screened.

Don Luksetich, teacher's union negotiating chairman, addressed the board regarding Nego '93 and the union's desire to have board members take an active role in the negotiating process. George Lehman, board vice-president, indicated that the board had discussed the union's proposal and had decided to continue with the negotiation format that has been used in the past. The board negotiators include the district lawyer, principals and assistant principals.

The next regular board meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. on Wednesday, May 19th at the administrative center, 11900 S. Kostner.

"The public is always welcome to attend," said board member Carl Cereito.

Kathy Radtke (seated, center) has been elected president of the Oak Lawn Firefighters Women's Organization, Inc., an organization that participates in a number of projects to assist needy members of the community. Also elected at this time were Chris McGeever (left, seated), vice-president; Cathy Hojek (standing, right), treasurer; Debbie Brand (standing, left), secretary, and Sue Valentine (right, seated), sergeant at arms.

Tax Credit Plan

The Senate has passed legislation sponsored by State Sen. Patrick O'Malley (R-18) to give Illinois businesses a family-leave tax credit. Senate Bill 1036 directs the Department of Employment Security and Department of Revenue to develop a tax credit by Jan. 1st, 1994, to cover the increased cost of unemployment insurance for businesses that hire temporary help when their employees take up to eight weeks of family leave as allowed by the federal Family Responsibility and Medical Leave Act.

"This legislation addresses both the concerns of the businesses that must meet the federal mandate, as well as encourages other businesses to voluntarily offer their employees the benefit of family leave. I think this is an excellent example of what we as legislators can do to help businesses meet the needs of their employees. It is a bill that is good for both business and labor," O'Malley said.

Sen. O'Malley says Senate Bill 1036 will help all businesses in Illinois that are providing family leave, even if they are not required to comply with the federal mandate. "This legislation originally addressed only those larger businesses that are subject to the federal family-leave mandate. Then, representatives of smaller businesses suggested that we extend the tax credit to other businesses that voluntarily comply with the mandate. The moment we did that, Senate Bill 1036 became an initiative that is clearly pro-family leave."

Senate Bill 1036 now moves to the House of Representatives for further consideration.

Land Acquisition Study Planned

Dear Friends,

The Forest Preserve, according to its mission, has historically acquired land for open space, preservation, recreation and education for public benefit. More specifically, the mission of the Forest Preserve District is...

- To provide open space with top priority on land conservation.
- To provide vast tracts of natural lands and ecosystems for public benefit.
- To provide green linkages or greenways between holdings.
- To provide passive recreational and educational opportunities.
- To provide green buffers between rapidly urbanizing areas.

• To "act and the actions will educate."

To perpetuate this mission, the FPD has undertaken the Comprehensive Land Acquisition Study which will attempt to assess the district's needs. I am serving as a member of the working committee of this study which is intended to be a group of leaders knowledgeable about the FPD, the county and the region that can serve as a sounding board for ideas and options developed during the planning process.

Land acquired as a result of this study could, for example, be preserved forever in its natural state so that it can be inhabited by birds, animals and other wildlife, and enjoyed by all residents. The FPD also hopes to provide everyone with more land and consequently more opportunities to have picnics; to use trails for nature hikes, bicycling or horseback riding; or to visit additional nature education centers.

The FPD (working committee) will attempt to identify the plan's benefits to their geographical location by showing where the sites will be located and how the space will be used.

The cost to carry out this land acquisition plan will likely require a slight increase in the property tax assigned to the FPD. (Currently, a typical homeowner's contribution to the FPD is about 1 percent of their total property tax bill, or typically about $25 per year for a home with an assessed value of $100,000.)

Research and interviews that were conducted as a part of this study showed that although community leaders have concerns about taxes being raised to fund land acquisitions, residents do not share that concern. Residents generally felt that having more open space was worth paying for, especially when considering the promised end benefits. However, many community leaders remain reluctant to introduce a new or higher tax idea to the people served by their respective organizations.

Two of the biggest benefits of the land acquisition plan will be that unused, misused or contaminated land is converted into enjoyable open space sites and the additional sites permit more opportunities for students (and teachers) to augment classroom science or biology instruction with live interaction with nature.

The working committee has met twice and is scheduled to meet again in late May. The purpose of this meeting is to discuss issues and input received thus far from the focus groups, individual expert interviews and needs analysis. This input, plus the working committee views, will help shape the land acquisition plan evaluation criteria. The final committee meeting should take place sometime in June. I will report the outcome of this study to you upon its completion.

Hoping to make this one of the safest and most enjoyable picnic seasons, the Forest Preserve District has begun its summer safety program. The district's responsibility is to provide the many users with a safe and comfortable environment so that they can fully enjoy the recreational opportunities the Forest Preserve District offers.

Part of the plan is for the Forest Preserve Police to conduct roadside safety checks throughout the summer and to increase their visibility and general contact with the public.

Sincerely,

Robert P. Gooley
Cook County Commissioner

School Physicals

The three south suburban community health centers of Cook County will offer school physical examinations for children on Fridays during the summer. School physicals are now required by law and may include immunizations, lead screenings, anemia screenings, sickle cell screenings, dental examinations and health education. Children entering preschool, kindergarten, head-start, fifth grade and ninth grade programs are required to obtain physical examinations before the start of school in September. The complete cost of the physical examinations will be $3. Medicaid will be accepted in lieu of the $3 fee.

"Our community health centers recognize the importance of providing affordable physical examinations for area children," said County Board President Richard Phelan. "The school physicals are required by law and it is estimated that several thousand youngsters residing in south suburban Cook will need back-to-school physicals."

Parents interested in the school physical examination program should call the community health center nearest their home for an appointment. The three centers are located in Ford Heights, Robbins and Phoenix. For more information, call (708) 633-4280.

Kasch Fine Cars, Inc. of Burbank enjoyed a double celebration recently. Service runner Joe Ligon was honored for both his 25 year association with the Kasch Fine Car family and his 70th birthday. Ligon is a longtime southside resident and U.S. Navy veteran (W.W. II). He is married and has two grown children.

When asked to cite the reasons for success, Joe replied, "my success is the result of working hard for the owners. They respect me and appreciate my work habits. It doesn't seem possible that 25 years have passed. I enjoy it here."

When questioned about his fine health & attitude he smiled and said "I don't smoke, drink or stay out late...and I believe that if you take care of your own body, it will be kind to you."

According to Westlund "in my opinion, Joe is a great team member...and that's what life is all about!"

Stop in and meet Joe Ligon and the rest of the Kasch Fine Car family at 6800 W. 79th St., Burbank.

Homewood Nonfiler Day

On Saturday, May 22 the American Bar Association (ABA) and the Internal Revenue Service are sponsoring a second "Nonfiler Day" at Marie Irwin Community Center, 18120 Highland Ave., Homewood, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. CPAs, other tax practitioners and IRS trained community volunteers will also participate.

Nearly 350 nonfilers took advantage of the first ABA assistance day on Feb. 20th. Since the nonfiler initiative started in 1992, over 7,000 Illinois residents have contacted the IRS, including 116 nonfilers who visited an IRS office for help the week of April 15th.

The IRS started the nonfiler initiative to bring back into the tax system those who had dropped out for any reason. The IRS has found that most people failed to file their taxes because of a crisis such as illness, divorce, death in the family or loss of a job. Fear then took over and they were afraid they were going to jail. The IRS has announced that it will not bring criminal charges against anyone who comes forward voluntarily and makes a true disclosure.

Taxpayers will be offered "one stop service" on May 22nd when lawyers from the ABA will offer free legal advice to address the concerns of those who fear going to jail; tax preparers and IRS trained community volunteers will prepare prior year tax returns, free of charge; IRS revenue agents will see if any penalties can be abated due to reasonable cause, and IRS revenue officers will help nonfilers with payment arrangements if they owe additional taxes.

Those who cannot take advantage of the May 22nd nonfiler day can still call or visit the IRS for help. IRS assistance and office locations are available by calling (312) 435-1040.

Witness

The Psychology Department at Illinois Institute of Technology (IIT) is seeking people who are victims or witnesses of a violent crime to take part in a two-hour interview. Participants will be asked to talk about their experiences, explain who was the most helpful and least helpful in handling their traumatic ordeal, answer questions about their world view since the crime, and tell how they have coped since the incident. Volunteers will also be asked to fill out some questionnaires.

For more information, call IIT Assistant Psychology Professor M. Ellen Mitchell or graduate research assistants at (312) 567-7982.

Contracts

In an effort to increase minority and female participation, Cook County Board President Richard Phelan recently hosted a pre-bid business opportunity conference for a $30 million Juvenile Detention Center remodeling project. The conference gave minority and female-owned businesses an opportunity to network and team up with general contractors.

The county's goal is to have 30 percent minority participation and 5 percent female participation which amounts to $10.5 million in contracts.

At its 92nd spring luncheon, the Municipal Art League of Chicago adopted the year-long theme of the City, "Celebrating the Past—Creating the Future."

The Celebration is the observation of the 100th anniversary of the great World's Columbian Exposition of 1893, when Chicago showed the world, especially hypercritical New York, it could even surpass all previous expositions. Many of the Chicagoans who helped make the fair such a great success joined in the creation of Municipal Art League in 1902.

Beverly resident John H. Vanderpoel (1865-1922), memorialized by an outstanding collection in two galleries, was an early league member. Along with 12 other judges, he had the difficult task of selecting the best paintings from thousands submitted to be hung at the Fine Arts Palace. He also exhibited five of his own.

Vanderpoel was persuaded to move to Beverly shortly after the fair by William M. R. French, the director of the Art Institute. They lived within a block of each other, in what are now landmark houses. William's brother, Daniel Chester, famous for his sculpture of the seated Lincoln in Washington, D.C., sculpted the statue of The Republic which became the emblem of the Fair. The Lady Republic stood in classical draped gown, holding the world (topped by an eagle) in her right hand. In her left was a victory wreath with a staff and tablet of truth. One hand was large enough to hold four people. She was gilded and was a beautiful sight to behold, though not for long, for her plaster was impermanent. In 1918, a permanent (though half-sized) Republic was bronzed and placed in Jackson Park. In 1992, the lady was brightened with 25,000 gold leaves shipped from Florence, Italy. Her golden figure adorns the hundreds of dark blue banners which will fly over the city soon. One such banner, marked "Chica93, Celebrating the Past—Creating the Future" was prominent at the league luncheon.

Municipal Art League has championed many projects to improve the environment and beautify Chicago. Of current interest is the bronze statue of Christopher Columbus, sculpted by Moses Ezekiel, which graced the Italian building during the Fair. It is the only statue of Columbus from the 1893 Fair remaining on view. Presented to the league in 1959, it has been on a permanent pedestal in Arrigo Park on the West Side since 1965.

The granting of awards of excellence to young artists has been an important aspect of the League. This year, Clayton J. Beck III of Oak Lawn, was unanimously selected by the jury for his oil entitled "Christine." Beck, 29, was a student of American Academy of Fine Arts and of Palette and Chisel Academy. Palette and Chisel hosted an auction on May 2nd for its spring event, with Beck and other local artists creating art while an audience bid to own the finished work.

Another young artist demonstrated her talent, 12-year old pianist Elaine Kim, captivated her audience with her classical compositions.

Rev. Henry Vellinga, pastor of the Morgan Park Congregational Church and executive director of the Protestant Cluster of Beverly-Morgan Park Churches gave the invocation for the luncheon. League President Mohammed Drisi presented the speakers and the award. Attending from Beverly were Vanderpoel Board members Irene Testa, Grace Hamper, and Beverly Rehfeldt. Other South Siders were Mr. and Mrs. Verner Johnson of Evergreen Park, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Anhalt of Palos Hills, Sharon Cullnan of Lemont, Walter Wolczek, Kurt Beck and Sharon McKinney of Oak Lawn, Jennie Priekler of Orland Park, Dick and Billie Janecki, Dr. Huzinga, Mary Matrice, Mary Tresonsky, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Leyden.

Weight Loss Mystery Baffles Scientists

WASHINGTON -- Scientists are baffled by a natural food ingredient that caused people to lose weight even though they were instructed not to alter normal eating patterns.

Although other scientists and studies may not agree, a study published in The British Journal of Nutrition found that the ingredient, a natural plant colloid, can cause significant weight loss. Several explanations for the weight loss are suggested, but the most likely according to scientists in a Finnish study, is that colloids seem to decrease the intestinal absorption of calories. However, universal acceptance of this theory will depend on further study.

National Dietary Research, an organization committed to the research and development of nutritional solutions to worldwide health problems, has successfully designed a unique food tablet that utilizes colloids. Called Food Source One, this unique tablet provides a scientifically designed method for weight loss. When used as directed, Food Source One replaces high calorie fats with lower calorie nutrients, thereby providing optimum nutrition with a minimum number of fat calories. According to a study in the American Journal of Clinical Nutrition, you do not need to restrict the amount of food you eat to lose weight, just the fat.

Food Source One is being hailed by health care professionals as a significant breakthrough in nutritional weight control and provides a natural, drug free alternative for confronting the problem of obesity.

McPikes Merits IPA Service Award

The fifth annual Illinois Press Association Legislative Service Award will be presented May 13 to Illinois House Majority Leader Jim McPike (D-Alton). The presentation will be made at the IPA's Newspaper Management Forum in Chicago.

David L. Bennett, executive director of the IPA, said Rep. McPike has distinguished himself as a fair and open-minded leader which allowed the IPA to "reach positive resolutions" on three major pieces of legislation involving Illinois' 650 newspapers over the last three years.

The three issues were recycled newsprint use, telecommunications competition and independent contractor protection.

"I have no doubt that this would not have happened had it not been for the influence which Jim McPike exercised to keep the discussions open and fair on each issue," Bennett said.

All three of these issues could have been devastating for the newspaper industry if they had not been resolved positively, said Joe Ferstl of Lerner Newspapers in Morton Grove. Ferstl is co-chairman of the IPA's Legislative Committee.

"Rep. McPike used his position as House Democratic floor leader to keep the debates alive," Ferstl said. "Basically, he gave us our day in court, and it paid off for us."

"The newspapers in this state owe Jim McPike a serious thank you," Bennett added.

Beth Bennett, Government Affairs Manager for the IPA, explained that Rep. McPike "interjected reason into the recycling debate by acknowledging what was realistic for Illinois newspapers based on availability of recycled newsprint."

The independent contractor issue spanned seven years, she said. Rep. McPike "opened the door for negotiations between labor unions and newspapers" which led to an agreement.

Rep. McPike also mediated talks between the press association and telephone companies over the rewrite of the Illinois telecommunications law. As a result, the phone companies must now establish separate subsidiaries for competitive information services.

The Legislative Service Award is given only to those individuals who show outstanding contributions toward the legislative welfare of the IPA and its member newspapers.

The IPA is the largest state newspaper association in the U.S. with 600 weekly and daily newspaper members.

Getting Business

A special four-hour workshop for small-business owners and managers on the techniques for getting a share of the business available from federal, state and local governments, will be given on Wednesday, June 2nd, by SCORE (Service Corps of Retired Executives). The focus will be on helping small business get some of the multi-billions of dollars in procurement contracts let out by government at all levels, for goods and services which can be provided by small business.

Participants in the workshop will be interested in knowing specifically what the opportunities and requirements actually are; how to meet or avoid problems that may arise; how to assure government that they can fulfill their contractual obligations when their bid is low, and the contract is within their reach. These and other situations will be covered.

The workshop will be given at 500 W. Madison St. (Northwestern Atrium Center), Suite 1250, where SCORE is based in the business development offices of the U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA). Workshop leaders are principally SCORE retired business and professionals who volunteer their services to provide counseling to the small business community.

A maximum limit of 25 persons per workshop facilitates personal instruction. Advance registration is recommended. Send check or money order for $20 to SCORE, 500 W. Madison, Suite 1250, Chicago, IL 60661, or phone (312)353-7724 for details and an application. The workshop starts promptly at 9 a.m. and continue until 12 noon.

Take Care Of Your Eyes

People often take their vision for granted -- until they lose it.

During May, which is National Sight-Saving Month, the Illinois Department of Rehabilitation Services (DORS) is reminding people to take better care of their eyes.

"Experts say prevention could save the vision of half of the 50,000 Americans who lose their sight each year," noted DORS Director Audrey McCrimon. "The best ways to protect your eyes are to practice eye safety and see your eye doctor regularly."

According to the National Society to Prevent Blindness, the leading causes of blindness in the U.S. are age, diabetes, cataracts and glaucoma. More than 28,000 Illinoisans are legally blind.

Many eye problems are treatable if they are discovered early, which is why children should have their eyes examined before they enter school.

One of the most dangerous places for your eyes is your home. To protect against eye injury in the home, use approved safety eyewear when doing yard work, home remodeling, jump-starting your car or cleaning with harsh chemicals.

Recreation also causes many eye injuries. Wearing eye or face guards can prevent up to 90 percent of sports eye injuries, while improper use of pellet or BB guns and fireworks can be risky to bystanders as well as the person using them.

African-Americans are five times more likely to develop glaucoma, which often has no early symptoms. The only way to detect glaucoma is through a comprehensive eye exam, which includes dilating the pupils.

Glenn Crawford, Deputy Director of DORS' Bureau of Blind Services, said vision loss is a natural part of the aging process. "If you live long enough you will probably go blind," he said. "But it is far better to lose your vision naturally instead of prematurely."

For more information on eye care, contact the National Society to Prevent Blindness, 500 E. Remington Road, Schaumburg, Ill. 60173.

Summer Safety In Forest Preserves

Hoping to make this one of the safest and most enjoyable picnic seasons, the Forest Preserve District of Cook County has begun its summer safety program, announced Cook County Board President Richard Phelan.

"We want the public to know that the Forest Preserve District is here to serve them," Phelan said. "Our responsibility is to provide the many users with a safe and comfortable environment so that they can fully enjoy the recreational opportunities the Forest Preserve District offers."

The plan includes regular roadside safety checks conducted by Forest Preserve District Police throughout the summer at various Forest Preserve sites. The safety checks will be used to detect persons who are operating a motor vehicle with defective equipment, without a valid driver's license or permit, without proof of insurance, not in compliance with occupant protection laws or while driving under the influence of alcohol or other drugs.

Additionally, Forest Preserve Police will work to increase their visibility and general contact with the public, Phelan said. Officers will distribute to picnickers cards listing numbers people should call in case of an emergency. The officers will also spend more time on foot patrol, scooters and horses patrolling the bicycle and hiking paths.

Flood Claims

The Illinois Department of Insurance, in cooperation with the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA), is warning Illinois residents not to depend on their homeowners insurance policies to cover flood damage claims.

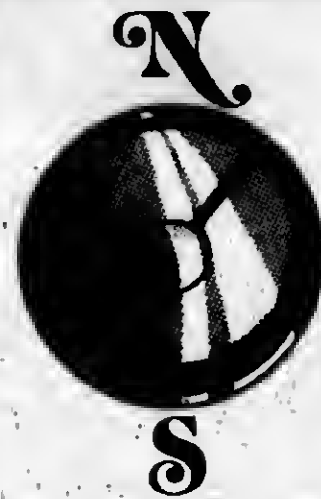

"Unfortunately, many individuals and businesses mistakenly rely on their property policies to insure them against flood losses and do not realize until it is too late that most types of water damage are not included," said Insurance Director Stephen F. Selcke.

Flood insurance is available in communities that participate in the federal government's National Flood Insurance Program and can be purchased through any licensed property/casualty insurance agent. Many private insurers also write flood insurance under arrangements with the Federal Insurance Administrator.

A flood insurance policy covers only the dwelling or building, although additional coverage can be purchased for contents as well. Each type of coverage carries a separate deductible even if the structure and contents are both damaged in the same flood. Premiums vary depending on the location and risk exposure of the property. According to FEMA, annual premiums for property in a special flood hazard area average about $300 for $85,000 worth of coverage.

Selcke said that although flood insurance is not cheap, anyone whose property is at risk for flood damage should carefully weigh the cost of the insurance against the potential financial loss. Noting that there is normally a five-day waiting period before the coverage takes effect, "it's a decision that shouldn't be postponed until the flood waters are at one's door," he said.

FEMA estimates that about 75 percent of buildings located in special flood hazard areas do not have flood insurance.

Don Canning, Oak Lawn's interim village manager named by Mayor Ernie Kolb last week, will be back from a Florida vacation today and is expected to begin naming department heads.

Expected to be replaced, we are told, is Ed Barron, Village Prosecutor, and the law firm of Odelson and Sterk remnants of the UVRP Party.

Meanwhile Mayor Ernie Kolb and Clerk Jayne Powers and a contingent of nearly 100 people representing School District 123 were in Springfield yesterday on "Lobby Day" to urge more aid for schools.

Cook County GOP Chairman Manny Hoffman has chosen Norm Corsi as Bremen Township Republican Committeeman. Norm, who succeeds retired State Senator William Mahar Sr., pledges to begin work immediately on getting Republicans elected and/or re-elected to state office in 1994. He promises to build a powerful organization in order to help the GOP locally, in the county, state and nation. Anyone who needs to register or who wants to be an election judge can contact Norm at 687-3690.

U.S. Senator Paul Simon will host a town meeting at Evergreen Park High School, 9901 S. Kedzie, at 1:45 p.m. on Saturday, May 22nd in the school's auditorium. The forum will be Simon's 541st since 1985 more than any other Illinois senator in history, a part of his state-wide series of meetings.

Earlier in the day (11:30 a.m.) he will conduct a similar forum on the campus of Governors State University, University Park.

Simon says town meetings are "an open channel to the people of Illinois" that help him keep in touch with the needs, concerns and ideas of his constituents.

The labor crews seen cleaning debris from streets in Chicago Ridge May 3rd & 4th were part of Cook County Sheriff Michael F. Sheahan's Work Alternative Program (SWAP). It's all free and is part of Sheahan's efforts to assist local towns with public works and community clean-up projects. Workers are sentenced DUI and other non-violent offenders put to work cleaning streets, parks and vacant lots in communities across Cook County. "Rather than have these non-violent offenders sit idle in the over-crowded Cook County Jail they are being utilized for important community work projects, enabling them to pay back their debt to society in a productive fashion that benefits taxpayers," Sheahan said.

The SWAP crews are transported and supervised at all times by trained, uniformed deputy sheriffs.

In 1992 the SWAP program provided over 350,000 hours of work to municipalities and not-for-profit agencies throughout the county, Sheahan said. For more information call (708) 865-4950.

The General Services Administration (GSA) will tell veteran owned businesses how to do business with the administration at a seminar on Friday, May 14th, at the Metcalfe Federal Building in the Morrison Conference (Room 331), 77 W. Jackson Blvd., Chicago.

In addition to the VBRC/MC, the seminar is also sponsored by Vietnam Veterans of America, state council; Paralyzed Veterans of America, Vaughn chapter; Disabled American Veterans; American Legion; Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Mayor's Office, City of Chicago.

Warning On Home Repair Con Men

Illinois Attorney General Roland W. Burris recently issued a warning to Illinois consumers to be on the lookout for home repair con men.

"The flooding that has occurred in several Illinois counties along the Des Plaines, Fox, Illinois, Rock and Mississippi Rivers will undoubtedly increase the need for home repairs due to flood damage," Burris said. "Although there are many reputable and competent home repair contractors doing business in Illinois, there are also hundreds of con artists looking to make a fast buck."

"Homeowners will need to be on the lookout for fraudulent home repair contractors who do little or no work for as much money as they can get."

Burris offered the following tips for homeowners:

- Conduct business only with licensed contractors and never with unsolicited callers or door-to-door salesmen.
- Obtain referrals from friends and family members who have had similar work performed. Ask contractors for references and call people to see how satisfied they are with the job. Be suspicious if a contractor cannot or will not give references.

- Always obtain a written contract and make sure the contract contains the contractor's name, business name, phone number and address. Verify the business address and telephone number. Some con artists are transients who stay in an area just long enough to take your money, but not to make promised repairs.

- Read the contract carefully before signing it and make sure it includes start and finish dates for the work.

- Do not pay the full amount until all the work has been completed, including the cleanup.

Last year, Attorney General Burris indicted 17 home repair con artists. Several of those indictments resulted in convictions for home repair fraud with jail sentences of up to four years in prison.

If you have concerns about a solicitation for home repair work or if you think you have been cheated by a home repair contractor, call or visit the Attorney General's Regional Office in your area or call the Consumer Fraud Hotline at 1(800)252-8666.

General Assembly Scholarship List

Eight high school students from the 18th District have been chosen as the recipients of General Assembly Scholarships offered by State Sen. Patrick O'Malley (R-18).

"As a state legislator, I am able to award up to eight one-year scholarships to pay tuition costs for the 1993-94 academic year at a state-supported university," O'Malley said. "I would like to congratulate the students who were chosen from the many fine applications that were received."

The scholarship recipients include Stacey Manthei of Evergreen Park (Evergreen Park Community High School), Kelly McNeela of Oak Lawn (Oak Lawn Community High School), Dawn Neibert of Blue Island (Eisenhower High School), Dawn Jackson of Oak Forest (Oak Forest High School), Thomas Dignan Jr. of Oak Lawn (Marist High School), Kevin Keller of Palos Heights (Marist High School), Wendy Jo Speiser of Worth (Alan B. Shepard High School, Moraine Valley Community College) and Thomas Costello of Palos Park (Sandburg High School).

"To make these scholarship opportunities available to all eligible students in the 18th District, I established a seven-member committee to oversee the application and selection process," O'Malley said. "I would like to thank the committee members for their hard work."

Committee members include Thomas Courtney of Palos Park, Ave Green of Oak Lawn, Edward Hickey of Midlothian, Steve Marzullo of Evergreen Park, James McKevitt of Oak Lawn, Martin Ozinga of Evergreen Park and Elaine Schuldt of Blue Island.

Asks Federal Funds For I&M Canal

Congressman Bill Lipinski (D-3) has introduced legislation which would authorize federal funds for capital improvement projects in the Illinois and Michigan Canal Heritage Corridor. Passage of this legislation will be the first step in the process of preservation of and improvement to the Corridor.

"Today we begin the fight to preserve the I&M Canal Heritage Corridor," said Lipinski. "I am optimistic that we will be able to secure funding which brings federal dollars home to Chicago and to the entire state of Illinois."

The I&M Corridor, which runs through the City of Chicago and extends to LaSalle/Peru, was designated by Congress in 1984. It was the first "partnership park" of its kind and is now a model for such parks throughout the nation. Following passage of this legislation, the federal government will contribute up to 50 percent of the costs of capital improvements to the Corridor.

"This corridor was designated as a partnership park to foster cooperation and intergovernmental involvement. Passage of this legislation will further the partnership as federal, state and local agencies work together to ensure the survival of this treasure."

In addition to authorizing funds for capital improvements, the legislation extends the boundaries of the corridor to include neighborhoods and communities near the waterway at the corridor's eastern end. It also allows the corridor commission to continue its important work for another 10 years.

Following years of continued effort by the congressional delegation, Lipinski has ensured that the necessary steps are being taken to preserve this treasure for future generations. This legislation follows Lipinski's successful effort in November 1992 to secure a funding mechanism for work on the corridor by the Army Corps of Engineers.

"The projects which this legislation authorizes are critical for the survival of the corridor. The I&M Canal has been included on the federal government's list of endangered landmarks. This legislation will solve a longstanding problem and make a tremendous contribution to Illinois. I hope that our work on these projects, extending from the Downtown Area Riverwalk in Chicago to Lock Number 14 at the end of the canal in LaSalle, will be a model for future arrangements for partnership parks throughout the country."

Marking Organ Donor Week in Illinois, Governor Edgar is presented with a specially designed sweatshirt by Sean McCallum, 16, who underwent a successful heart transplant in November of 1991 at Children's Memorial Hospital. The sweatshirt was designed by the Regional Organ Bank of Illinois (ROBI) to promote awareness of the on-going need for organ donors. While more and more people are donating organs, the list of people on waiting lists continues to grow. As of March there were 1,412 persons in Illinois awaiting an organ.

Salon Youth Month

South Suburban Salon No. 480 of the Eight and Forty held its regular meeting on April 22nd with Bessie Kaltsas of Crestwood presiding. The month of April was designated to particularly emphasize programs of children and youth. The Salon sponsors six children with respiratory diseases and a check of $5 will be sent to them. The Salon will also send a donation of $20 to the Department for the Children and Youth Day shower program.

Waneta Szalaj of Blue Island, who represented the Salon, gave her report on the spring board meeting (pouvoir) held April 16th to 18th. Nine partners (members): Bessie Kaltsas, Margaret Paszkowski, Adeline Ranieri, Joann Keenan, Evelyn Carter, Waneta Szalaj, Virginia Kates and Rose Marie Gorski were presented a scarf from the Lung Association for their donation of $20 each to the Camp Super Kids program, which benefited the respiratory disease children. Rose Marie Gorski also through her efforts collected $240 for a full campership. In total the Salon presented $423 to this most needed program. Other donations in benefit for the children were sent to the National Jewish Hospital, Children's Memorial Hospital, Wyler Hospital and National Cystic Fibrosis Research.

Florence Adams of Palos Heights, partnership (membership) chairman announced that Salon No. 480 has reached 100% plus one in membership this year.

Jean Stack of Palos Hills, constitution and by-laws chairman, reminded the partners that nominations for officers will be held at the May meeting. No one shall be nominated whose consent to serve has not been obtained. The election will be held at the June meeting.

Worth Trustees Bid Farewell

Outgoing Worth Township trustees bid their fond farewells during the April 29th board meeting. Donald Bettenhausen, John Hall Dorgan and Kathleen Spencer will be replaced by Dorothea Hoch, Jack O'Connor and Nancy Stack.

During the reading of the official vote canvass by Clerk Thomas "Bud" Gavin, who was re-elected to his second term, it was noted that there were 5,531 straight Republican votes cast, 6,969 for the Performance Party, with a total vote count of 37,357. "There was a tremendous number of new voters that came in from four years ago," according to Gavin.

"I would like to congratulate the new board and say that I was proud to serve here," commented Dorgan. "In my stay, I tried to develop a park behind the township building and worked with the fire department to help them out."

Bettenhausen related, "In the last eight years, I have enjoyed being a trustee and working with various elected officials. I wish the new board much luck and wisdom in their job. I hope you attack your responsibilities with diligence."

In a brief prepared speech, Spencer remarked, "Words are inadequate to express all the feelings that I have. I am grateful that I was allowed to serve the people in my community. I will always be active in any way that I can benefit the people. To those of you who have watched Joan and I each present our views, there should be respect. We differ in many ways, but at the same time, we have best represented the views of all of the people. That is what good government should be."

Emmett "Bud" Meyer, who was re-elected to the position of collector and also serves as the township's senior citizen and handicap coordinator, reported that 25,000 pounds of food will be coming in on May 12th and it is scheduled for distribution to less fortunate residents on May 13th.

Additionally, Meyer stated, "We had a meeting of the collectors of Cook County on April 20th and are still working on the issue in Springfield of bringing the collection process back to the collectors of the townships. We have a bill in the Senate committee at the moment and it's not on the floor yet."

"We have been trying to give the collection process back to the collectors of the townships for the last 15 years," according to re-elected Supervisor Joan Murphy. "It would save the county $20 million a year. We are pushing very diligently for that to happen and it would bring revenue into the townships."

During the township services report, Dorgan noted, "Through the graces of the Oak Lawn Fire Department, a siren was delivered to the Garden Homes Fire Department. This saves them thousands of dollars and will serve as a community warning system."

Under new business, Supervisor Murphy related, "We were doubly honored this week when Cook County Sheriff Michael Sheahan gave an award for service to senior citizens in the various communities around the county. Two of our own senior citizens were honored, Emmett "Bud" Meyer and LeRoy Erickson, a member and past board member of our senior citizens group."

"JUST TAKE ALL THE THINGS THAT MAKE HEALTH CARE NETWORKS A GOOD IDEA AND ADD BLUE CROSS."

RAYMOND E. MCCASKEY, PRESIDENT AND CHIEF OPERATING OFFICER

Employers join networks to gain buying power — the economies of scale. To offer their people quality health care, good service, and the best rates, wherever they may be located.

HMO Illinois is a Blue Cross HMO with more doctors in more places than any other plan. The Blue Cross PPO brings the largest statewide network of hospitals and doctors closer to home. And we've recently put a full scale Point of Service network into place in six major midwest cities.

So, if you honestly believe a health care network is a good idea, doesn't it follow that one from Blue Cross is an even better idea?"

Coalition On Cleanup Costs

A coalition of business groups, spearheaded by the Illinois State Chamber of Commerce and its affiliate, the Illinois Environmental Regulatory Group, has proposed legislation addressing the exorbitant costs of cleaning up Illinois' 18,000 leaking underground storage tanks. The measure, which has passed the House as H.B. 300, is projected to save more than $1.5 billion, cutting the cost of cleanup by more than 50 percent. It is sponsored by House Majority Leader Jim McPike, Reps. Tom Ryder, Phil Novak and Vincent Persico.

The coalition includes the Illinois Chamber, the Illinois Manufacturers' Association, the Illinois Petroleum Marketers Association, the Illinois Petroleum Council, the Illinois Bankers Association, The Consulting Engineers Council of Illinois and the Illinois Automobile Dealers Association.

Under federal and state law, property owners with underground storage tanks on their premises are required to remove them and pay to clean up any contamination that exists.

"To ease the cost incurred by tank owners, a trust fund was established within the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency that was expected to generate roughly $20 million a year to cover a portion of the cleanup costs. However, with the average cost of cleanup at $130,000 per site, that trust fund is now some $10 million in the red," said Sally A. Jackson, chamber president and CEO.

Meanwhile, an estimated 8,000 claims for reimbursement are expected to flood the IEPA. The current program requires massive and unnecessary cleanup for each of the 18,000 sites in Illinois, regardless of contamination risk, which is propelling the total cost of cleanup to approximately $2.3 billion. "At that level it will take the IEPA 117 years to fulfill its reimbursement obligation to tank owners who must clean up sites," emphasized Jackson.

The business coalition's proposal would allow the cost of cleanup to be reduced by more than 50 percent. This would be accomplished by establishing a risk-based system that would tag sites according to three categories: low, medium and high. The category would determine what level of corrective action is necessary when a leak is detected.

Low-risk areas, which comprise an estimated 40 percent of the locations designated for corrective action, would cost $15,000 to clean up. Medium-risk sites, which include 45 percent of the leaking underground tank areas, would cost $30,000. And the remaining 15 percent of the sites that have been tagged as high-risk areas would cost $150,000 to correct.

In addition, special action would be taken to monitor the ground water on a continuing basis and ensure that no additional degradation occurs.

Other highlights of the H.B. 300 include: establishment of specific responsibilities and obligations of tank owners and the IEPA when a leak occurs; requiring all owners of underground tanks to consistently fulfill their responsibilities regardless of whether they are eligible for reimbursement; allow for a pre-approved technical and financial proposal so that tank owners and operators are fully aware of the costs of cleanup; and allow tank owners to defer cleanup actions until the reimbursement fund is fiscally sound.

The coalition now will turn its attention to fair and equitable funding mechanism. "We are confident that the final proposal will ease the burden on the tank owners as well as the IEPA," said Jackson.

Rev. Danber Moving On

Rev. Bernard Danber, O.S.A., principal of St. Rita High School, is moving on after four years filled with exciting changes that have guaranteed the future of the school for years to come. Father Danber officially announced that next year he will be assigned to Bishop McNamara High School in Kankakee, but has not yet been informed of exactly what his new position will be.

"After five years at St. Rita High School it will be very hard to leave the St. Rita Family," said Danber, "I will still keep ties open as St. Rita is the type of place you cannot just forget about."

Father Danber has been involved in education for over 15 years. He came to St. Rita and served as disciplinarian for one year before being named principal. As principal he has been constantly challenged by the students, faculty and staff, and in 1990 was responsible for moving St. Rita from its old campus at 63rd and Claremont to the present site at 77th and Western.

"As Principal, Fr. Danber, has always looked after the interest of his students and staff as top priority," said Joseph Bamberger, assistant principal. "He always concerned himself with providing St. Rita with a loving, caring, and faith-filled Catholic community."

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Editor,

As parents of two children in Oak Lawn-Hometown Dist. 123, we want to sincerely thank all members of our community who supported the recently defeated referendum. With 6,100 'yes' votes, it was clear that more than just parents with kids in school were willing to pay a few extra dollars a month for the benefit of our children's education future. As our neighbors, there is nothing greater you could ever do than look after the welfare of our children. We sincerely thank you for the effort.

If you watch the news, you know that school districts all across the state are in trouble. We've come to learn the reason is that Illinois has consistently withdrawn funding from schools. Since 1977, state aid to Dist. 123 alone has dropped $1.6 million. At the same time, the cost of everything as quadrupled. Last year Dist. 123 got $483,188 from the state (including lottery). That's about $400 per student. If the community, through property taxes, won't fund education, we won't have good public education. It's a shame but it's true! It's us or nobody for our kids. There were many who looked for excuses to vote 'no.' Thanks to those who looked for the facts and supported our children with a 'yes' vote.

A special thanks to all seniors. Your support of schools is not being wasted. As parents, we talk with friends and family with children in schools throughout the area. I can confidently say that a Dist. 123 education is second to none. While other parents complain, we brag. The education mess you see on TV may exist elsewhere, but not here. We have great schools. Your continued support was most appreciated.

We believe that parents of children in private schools, who are frustrated by the expense of supporting a dual education system, realized that their frustrations cannot be remedied by holding back educational opportunities to the children in public schools. Every time you put an envelope in a collection box at church or participate in a church/school fundraiser, you realize that the cost of education to church-supported schools is not near the actual cost of tuition. And those programs do not include special education and other services found only in public schools. As a community, we all benefit from the presence of each other. Thank you to those who most generously voted yes.

Congratulations and hope you have many!

One of Oak Lawn's finest, Kenneth Dangman, Sr., and his lovely wife Florence celebrated their 36th wedding anniversary on April 29th. Congratulations and may you have many more!

Congratulations to Michael and Ann Collins who celebrated their 59th wedding anniversary on Monday, April 26th, and on Sunday, Ann celebrated her 85th birthday. Fifteen members of the Johnson-Phelps VFW Post and Ladies Auxiliary participated in the annual Loyalty Day parade held on May 1st and sponsored by the Third District Posts and Ladies Auxiliaries. Oak Lawn's Poppy Prince Kevin Micknius and Princess Meghan Finnegan, along with Gold Star Mother Esther Walls, were also in the parade.

Just a reminder. This Thursday, Friday and Saturday, May 6th, 7th and 8th, are the days for the Buddy Poppy sale sponsored by the Johnson-Phelps VFW Post and Ladies Auxiliary. It is with the monies raised through this project that they can continue to provide comfort items for hospitalized veterans and an occasional pizza party.

HAPPY MOTHER'S DAY

All fourth graders at Columbus Manor School participated in a career project for Mrs. Ellen Bell's social studies class. They did extensive research reports, interviewed people in their chosen professions, gave oral reports to the class and had a career 'dress up' day. The oral reports were videotaped so the boys and girls were able to enjoy watching their own public speaking debuts. As a culminating activity the boys and girls visited the Wonder Bread Factory. Not only did they learn about many different career choices, including doctors, lawyers, artists, research chemists, insurance underwriters, teachers, travel agents and waitresses, to name just a few.

PR Workshop

A two-session, "hands-on" workshop for representatives of clubs, organizations and all non-profit groups will be held at the Oak Lawn Public Library from 9:30 a.m. to 12 noon on Saturdays, May 15th and 22nd. This is the opportunity for those responsible for an organization's publicity and public relations to get a basic course in establishing and implementing a public relations program without putting pressure on the budget. The tricks of the trade, along with instructions for developing effective techniques, will be a part of the program.

The first session, "Putting Purr in PR," deals with media relations; press releases, public service announcements, press kits, press conferences, photos, news clippings, etc. A simple, basic program will be explained and participants will have an opportunity to work on plans for their groups. This is a working session in which participants are expected to do some writing and planning.

The second session, "Gimmicks, Grabbers & Gizmos," deals with designing and preparing quality, but economical, publications of all kinds such as flyers, brochures, posters, invitations, hand-outs and other types of advertising or promotional materials. Again, this is a working session with group participation expected. Basic group public relations programs which were started in the first session will be updated to include this session's work.

This is essentially the same basic course that was offered for several years in Moraine Valley Community College's continuing education program. The instructor is Mary Nelson and the sessions are open to the public without charge on a first-come, first-served basis.

The meetings are scheduled in the lower level meeting room of the library, 9427 Raymond Ave. (5300 W. 95th St.) Additional information is available from Mary Nelson, public relations and development officer, 422-4990.

Anti-Drug Bill

In her first bill, State Rep. Maureen Murphy (R-36) took on drug crack houses and drug operations of gangs by winning the House's overwhelming approval of House Bill 121 on April 13th. The measure, which now goes to the Senate for consideration, was drafted in response to a survey Rep. Murphy took last fall in her House district.

"The poll identified gangs and drug crime as the number one issue in the neighborhoods," said Murphy, lead sponsor of the bill. HB 121 makes a building or landowner liable for civil action if they have knowledge of illegal drug operation in their rental apartments or houses.

"This legislation addresses concerns residents in my district have against gangs and their drug operations," Rep. Murphy said. "It slices into the profits of drug dealers' pocketbooks. It also makes landlords more responsible for their property and its proper use. HB 121 gives society and law enforcement another tool to wage against this blight."

Her proposal is part of a package of anti-gang proposals introduced earlier this year by Rep. Murphy and other suburban legislators. The other measures seek to impose tougher prison sentences and create 'safe' school zones for public parks and public housing.

"It's time that we take a tough stand against gang activity and send a strong message that we no longer tolerate the ill-gotten gains of drug money by gangs," Rep. Murphy said.

Alps Travelog

The Washington and Jane Smith Home, 2340 W. 113th Pl., will present a slide travelogue entitled "The Romantic Alps" at the home's auditorium on Thursday, May 20th. Refreshments will be served after the 70-minute performance which will begin at 1:30 p.m. Seating is limited, so please call 779-8010 for reservations.

"The Romantic Alps" is produced and narrated by Paula and Stanley Sims, world travelers who reside in Oak Lawn. They will treat viewers to the splendors of Switzerland, Venice, Salzburg and Munich, dabbling in great paintings, folklore and palaces along the way.

Admission to the program is free.

Bill To End Incinerator Loans

State Sen. Patrick O'Malley (R-18) has salvaged his proposal to end state subsidies for garbage-burning incinerators despite opposition by several Democrat lawmakers. O'Malley successfully amended House Bill 979 to repeal a law that provides interest-free loans for the operators of garbage incinerators.

"At a time when the state's budget is difficult to balance, taxpayers should not be subsidizing an industry that is expensive, produces tons of hazardous ash waste and discourages recycling," O'Malley said. "House Bill 979, as amended, proposes that we repeal the state's retail rate law, which allows for these state subsidies. Many of my legislative colleagues agree. In fact, the House sponsor of the 1987 bill that created the Retail Rate Law was recently quoted as saying that times have changed and the need for these subsidies no longer exists."

The retail rate law currently requires electric utilities to buy energy from incinerators at inflated prices. Because the utilities take a tax credit for these excess payments, the net effect is an interest-free loan for incinerator operators, courtesy of Illinois taxpayers.

Senator O'Malley says lawmakers who oppose this legislation are allowing the continuation of a program that gives garbage incinerators an unfair competitive advantage over other waste management options such as recycling.

"With these subsidies, Illinois becomes a magnet for garbage incinerators and out-of-state garbage," O'Malley said. "Few other states provide these kind of interest-free loans. For Reading Energy, the Philadelphia developer pushing the garbage incinerator at Robbins, the present net value of these subsidies is $56.9 million. This is a considerable amount of money coming out of taxpayers' pockets. It would be better to redirect such state subsidies from garbage incinerators to meaningful and effective recycling programs conducted by in-state operators."

House Bill 979 was passed by the Senate Local Government Committee on Tuesday, May 4th, and now moves to the full Senate for consideration.

"The committee's action will allow this proposal to be heard by the full Senate. My proposal had been introduced in both chambers and subsequently passed the House of Representatives," O'Malley said. "However, Senate Minority Leader Emil Jones (D-14) and State Senator Denny Jacobs (D-36) attempted to thwart my efforts by taking control of that bill and trying to prevent a public hearing on the merits of the legislation. Now that House Bill 979 has been advanced to the full Senate, this proposal will have the opportunity to be discussed and become law."

History Finalists

St. Laurence High School announced the school's finalists in the annual Chicago Metro History Fair. Jack Collins, Tom Frankowicz, Don Weimar, Mike Falardeau, Alan Kuska and John Swain all received recognition for their research papers and Ken Warzynski gained an honorable mention. The students, all juniors, are awaiting word from the fair's commission on whether their essays will place among the best, citywide.

Collins' "Federal Intervention in the Pullman Strike" and Kuska's "The Packing Town Community" focused on community issues that define historic Chicago.

Frankowicz' "The Chicago Tribune Tower Design Competition" and Weimar's "The Development of Skyscrapers in Chicago" wrote of important developments in the city's architectural life. Finally, Falardeau's "The New Comiskey Park," Swain's "Joe Jackson: 1919 World Series" and Warzynski's "The Black Sox Scandal" concentrated their essays on topics that relate to the sports scene.

The research papers, completed for John Kroc's junior honors classes, were submitted to the history fair by Tom Rezek, St. Laurence's history department chairman.

"The students wrote on various newsworthy topics and events that have helped shape Chicago's history," said Rezek, who teaches a History of Chicago class at the school. "My compliments and congratulations go to these fine students. I would also like to congratulate Kroc for outstanding daily direction in his English classes. These research papers were written in the natural course of his class, and all were received very well by the fair's commission."

Suspect Sought

Oak Lawn police are seeking at least one man for the attempted holdup of the Beverly Bank branch at 10312 S. Cicero Ave., early Monday afternoon. The suspect approached a teller just before 2 p.m. and gave her a note ordering her to open her cash reserve drawer and give him all the bills. According to the note, the man had an accomplice armed with a pistol who was watching the teller and if she failed to comply, he would begin shooting.

The teller told the suspect she had no key to open the reserve cash drawer and when another teller asked if there was some problem, the man turned and left the bank.

Oak Lawn Police Chief Frank Gilbert said that the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) is involved in the investigation but that there was nothing new to report. According to police, it is not known whether or not another man was involved in the aborted robbery attempt.

A bank official declined to make a statement concerning the robbery attempt.

Helping Youth

Cook County Board President Richard Phelan recently introduced a dynamic new intervention program at the Cook County Juvenile Temporary Detention Center (CCJTDC) designed to reduce the rate at which juveniles re-enter the system. Over half of all juveniles detained for the first time return to the CCJTDC within six months. The county has committed $100,000 to B.U.I.L.D., Broader Urban Involvement and Leadership Development, a non-profit organization with 25 years of experience in assisting youth.

"It is a very high priority of the County Board of Commissioners to do everything it can to reduce the pattern of escalating crime and violence in Cook County," Phelan said. "We believe the intervention program we have developed in partnership with B.U.I.L.D. will make a significant long-term impact on individuals who might otherwise become repeat offenders."

Robbers Caught

Two men were arrested and charged with armed robbery due to the quick actions of a couple who stopped to buy cigarettes. The Oak Forest husband and wife, who asked that their names not be used, stopped at the Clark Gas Station at 151st and Cicero Ave. at 9 a.m. on Sunday, May 2nd.

The couple was told by a man standing at the door of the gas station that the place was closed, after the wife got out of the car. The husband noticed another man behind the counter putting something into a box or some kind of container. The husband also noticed that a car parked at the gas pumps did not have license plates. The couple suspected that something was wrong and surmised that the place was being robbed.

The couple drove across the street to a White Hen Panty and told the clerk there to dial '911.' Minutes later, police arrived on the scene and arrested the two suspects.

Arrested and charged were Daniel Leon Wood, 23, of Hazelcrest, and Eli D. Wood, 22, of Chicago. A .32 caliber handgun was confiscated from Daniel Wood during a search, according to police. Both men were scheduled to appear in bond court on Tuesday, May 4th. They are being held on a $150,000 bond.

The gas station attendant, who was found bound with a telephone wire to a chair in a back room, was shaken, but uninjured.

FISHING THE "BIG POND" - The south end of LAKE MICHIGAN has been producing limits of coho, steelhead, browns, chinook and lake trout. On four occasions in the last two weeks, we never failed to catch a mixed bag of 2-4 lb. (good eating size) coho and steelheads, using flat lines straight out the stern and yellow birds off to the side. We found spoons and stick baits to work well on light tackle (6-8 lb. line).

We observed shoreline fishermen catching fish as well as boats of all sizes. We only fish the "BIG POND" during south, southwest, west or northwest winds. This end of the lake can get nasty with north, northeast or east winds.

It is very easy to wander into Illinois and Indiana waters when fishing this end of Lake Michigan - be advised both states require fishing licenses and trout salmon stamps. Read the regulations carefully as creel limits and sizes vary from state to state. This fishing bonanza close to home will only get better as the weather and water clarity improves and water temperatures rise.

DUCKS UNLIMITED - The Palos chapter of Ducks Unlimited is holding its annual fundraiser on Tuesday, May 18 at the Lexington House Restaurant - 7715 W. 95th St., Hickory Hills. Cocktails, open bar, from 6 p.m. to 11:30 p.m., dinner, 7:30 p.m. Donations $50. For tickets, contact any Palos D.U. member or call: Ted at (708) 388-0623.

MUSKY FISHERMEN (AND WOMEN) - The Midwest Musky Club is looking for new members. The club meets tonight May 6th at 7:30 p.m. at TR's PUB, 3908 W. 111th St. They meet the first Thursday of every month same time, same place.

ARCHERY-THE TRADITIONAL WAY - Archery has come a long way with the introduction of sophisticated Compound Bows loaded with pulleys, sights and yardage/windage compensators, however, JERRY ROBERTS, owner of SAULK TRAIL ARCHERY gave me a tour of his shop that custom builds "traditional" long bows, recurve and take-down bows. The bows are a thing of beauty, all made of selected woods in custom finishes. Jerry would rather educate a shooter than sell an unsuitable bow. He preaches that "a properly placed shot results in clean kills, not the pounds of pull on the bow." Without releasing too much detail he told me of an idea for an archery target range similar to shotgunning's sporting clays. Pop-up and moving targets of birds and animals would present a challenge to both novice and expert archer, hunter and non-hunter.

Visitors are always welcome at SAULK TRAIL ARCHERY, "Chicagoland's only All-Traditional Archery Shop," 13960 S. Kildare, Crestwood, (708)489-9780.

BARGAIN TROPHY BEAR HUNT - Last minute cancellations have caused several hunters to lose their deposit on a spring bear hunt in the Whispering Hills District, 150 miles north of Edmonton, Alberta. I'm told the hunts normally costs $1750 but because of the last minute cancellations, can be booked for $1250 including license. Air fare and 2nd bear tag, extra. The departure date is May 23rd, return May 30th. Bears may be taken with rifle, black powder or archery. For details, contact AL SORENSON at (708)597-4322 between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. weekdays. AL had a successful hunt last year and will be on this year's hunt.

THE NEXT MEETING OF THE SOUTHSIDE MUSKIE HAWKS will be May 19th. The feature speaker will be a service expert from CREST MARINE who will talk on before the season boat, motor and trailer preparation. The SOUTHSIDE MUSKIE HAWKS is a multi-specie, family orientated club that meets the third Wednesday of every month at 7:30 p.m. at The Delphian House Restaurant, 7824 W. 95th Street, Hickory Hills. Guest and prospective members are always invited.

BASEBALL ROUND-UP

As spring weather finally came to fruition last week, local high school teams were able to play their games. They could finally battle each other instead of snow or cold temperatures:

Tuesday Games (April 27th)

Bremen 7 - Oak Forest 6

The bat and throwing arm of Brave Scott Evans spelled a 7-6 SICA Central victory for Bremen over Oak Forest.

Evans came through with the game-winning RBI in the sixth inning, clouted a two-run round tripper and earned the win, fanning seven Bengal hitters.

"It was the Scott Evans show today," admitted Brave coach Tom Johnson. "He really came alive and this was no doubt his best game of the season."

For the Bengals, Dan Walsh tallied a pair of hits and three RBI while Mike Stacy added two hits.

"This win was a team effort," Johnson pointed out. "We really pulled together today. They have that 'no-quit' attitude that is going to win some ballgames."

Stagg 10 - Joliet Central 7

Stagg's sluggers took charge over the Steelmen and tallied a 10-7 nonconference victory in Palos Hills.

This marked the 11th win for the Chargers as they were ignited by Jim Graney (2 for 3 with a two-run triple), Ryan Darrah (2 for 3 with a pair of RBI) and Lou Pinto, 3 for 3 at the plate with an RBI.

Evergreen Park 14 - Peotone 0

Mustang power was in full swing as they blanked the Blue Devils 14-0 during a nonconference contest.

The Mustangs were pounding the Blue Devil pitching as Mike O'Reilly connected for a pair of hits and four RBI, Jim Knipper added a triple, two hits and two RBI, Tim McKenna tallied two RBI and Neil Vanderlee hit a pair of doubles, three hits and an RBI.

Wednesday Games (April 28th)

St. Rita 2 - Loyola 1

The arm of Jason Wallace paced the Mustangs to a 2-1 win over the Ramblers in Catholic League action.

Wallace pitched a three-hitter that saw him fan nine Ramblers. A round tripper off the bat of Mustang John Nee in the first inning got his team off to a 1-0 lead. The game winner came home after Pete Kelly doubled in John Bayer, who had singled and stolen second base.

Sandburg 15 - Richards 0

The Eagles did a monster swoop on the Bulldogs as they pounded out a 15-0 shutout in this SICA North matchup in Orland Park.

Todd Mensik pitched a five-inning one-hitter. He also connected for three hits that included a round tripper and a trio of RBI.

Brother Rice 5 - Leo 0

The Crusaders crew took care of business against the Lions with a 5-0 win in Catholic League action.

Crusader Tom Tracy hurled a one-hitter with nine strikeouts and Tim Panfil clouted a double and scored a pair of runs.

Joliet Catholic 14 - Marist 8

The Hilltoppers did a number on the Redskins with a 14-8 victory in this East Suburban Catholic contest.

Stagg 7 - Bloom Trail 5

The Chargers emerged victorious over the Trojans. A two-run round tripper off the bat of Pat Rush in the bottom of the seventh sealed the win.

Friday Games (April 30th)

Argo 9 - Oak Lawn 6

Argonaut offense came alive as they pounded the Spartans 9-6 in this SICA North contest.

A three-run round tripper, part of a 3 for 4 performance at the plate by Jason Michalowicz sparked a 9-0 lead for his team after a mere two innings of play. He also got the win in relief.

Other hot bats belonged to Tony Novak (2 for 3 with a pair of RBI and two runs scored) and Kujtim Sadiku (2 for 4 with two RBI and two runs scored).

Shepard 4 - Stagg 3

It took a dozen innings but the Astros captured a 4-3 victory over the Chargers during this SICA North battle. Darin Protolipac brought home the game-winning RBI with a double in the 12th to bring in Jim Paul, who was 3 for 4 with an RBI. Protolipac also pitched five innings of relief to get the win.

Charger Chris Vandertunk went four for six with a double and an RBI. He also took the loss on the mound.

Richards 2 - Reavis 0

The Bulldogs blanked Reavis during SICA North action. A solo homer off the bat of Bulldog Kevin Wujcik in the fourth inning made the difference. The pitching of Doug Kirar shut down the Ram offense.

The losing hurler was Tim Bednarz.

Bremen 2 - Oak Forest 0

The Braves kept their winning streak going as they blanked the Bengals during SICA Central action in Oak Forest. Brave Mickey Oganovich did it all as he scored a run on a double by Rob Storako and hurled a four-hitter, fanning six.

Thorwood 3 - Sandburg 1

The Thunderbirds got the better of the Eagles 3-1 during a nonconference contest. Eagle Eric Welsh socked a solo round tripper and Blain Ruby took the loss.

Saturday Games (May 1st)

Thorwood 5-8 - Oak Forest 3-0

The Bengals dropped a double header to the Thunderbirds 5-3 and 8-0 during nonconference action in Oak Forest. Bengal hitting was stifled as Thunderbird pitchers were throwing smoke.

Andrew 12-7 - Bremen 3-1

The Brave winning streak came to a halt as the Thunderbolts struck twice. Thunderbolt batters were getting the hits and the RBI off of Brave pitching in both games.

St. Rita 4 - St. Francis de Sales 2

A three-run round tripper off the bat of Tim Panfil sealed a Crusader victory over the Rams 7-1 in Catholic League play. Brian Dundee allowed only three Ram hits.

Marist 4-3 - Carmel 1-13

The Redskins split a double header with the Caravan, winning game one 4-1 but letting the nightcap get away 13-3. In the opener, Redskin Jim Peterocelli gave up only two hits.

St. Laurence 8 - Weber 1

The Vikings emerged with an 8-1 victory over the Red Horde during Catholic League action. Vike hurler Joe DiGangi struck out 10 and gave up only a pair of hits. At the plate, Vike Wayne Druktenis connected for a trio of hits and an RBI.

Letter Of Intent

Chris Schultz, a member of St. Rita High School Fighting Mustang football team, recently signed a letter of intent to play football at St. Xavier University. The announcement was made by Todd Wernet, head coach. Schultz, a senior, played tight end. He was named honorable mention to the All-Catholic Team for his outstanding play during his senior year. He has been on the football team all four years at St. Rita.

"I look forward to playing for St. Xavier University," said Schultz. "It was exciting to be a part of championship teams while at St. Rita. Now it's time to be a part of a new football program."

Schultz caught the winning pass in Rita's victory over Loyola last fall and was a member of the league championship baseball and football team. Besides football he is also a member of the school's Student Council Advisory Board, intramurals and was a member of the baseball team as a freshman and a sophomore.

All-Time Pitching Leader

Senior righthanded pitcher Donna Panatera of Illinois Wesleyan University has been chosen "Player of the Week" in College Conference of Illinois and Wisconsin (CCIW) softball. Panatera, an Evergreen Park High School product, won three games and allowed only two runs for the Titans last week. She scattered nine hits in downing Millikin, 2-1 and pitched a one-hitter in a 2-0 victory at Carthage. Her non-league win was a 2-1, eight-hit decision against nationally-ranked Aurora.

Panatera's next win will make her Wesleyan's all-time leader in pitching victories. With a career mark of 29-18, she shares the record with Dee Wagner, who was 29-28 from 1987 to 1990. This season she is 4-6 overall with a team-low earned run average of 2.60.

HE'S BACK.... A little over two months ago one of our 34 year-old twin sons, Kevin, collapsed in his Blue Island apartment for no apparent reason. He was rushed by paramedics to a local hospital, however after five days his condition deteriorated and he slipped into a deep coma. As his life hung in the balance, we had Kevin transferred to the University of Chicago and Bernard Mitchell Hospital where he remained in a comatose state for six weeks while teams of doctors from the medical and intensive care critical care units searched for the cause and treatment of his condition. The search for the exact nature of Kevin's illness was diagnosed with state-of-the-art equipment and teams of brilliant young doctors and attending physicians from virtually every department at the U of C Hospitals who methodically ran work-up after work-up on Kevin, ruling out possibilities, while at the same time the best and most brilliant minds in medical science, doctors who are considered the leading world authorities in their specialty, painstakingly rose to the challenge on a 24-hour, round-the-clock basis.

THE ZEBRA.... The teams of medical academicians and scientists, who helped catapult the U of C and Bernard Mitchell Hospital into being ranked as among the best in the world, dedicated their combined medical expertise into trying to unravel what had happened to Kevin, and because his condition had so many overlapping symptoms, Kevin was referred to as a "zebra," a term for a patient whose condition does not fit any one criterion but has many stripes, and students in teaching university hospitals, like the U of C, learn that on rare occasions they will run across a patient whose illness does not fit neatly into one or two single medical terms. Our son Kevin, as he lay for six weeks in a coma in two different intensive care units at Bernard Mitchell Hospital, being supported by the most modern medical technology and the very best young doctors and attending physicians and dedicated nurses who were at his bedside 24-hours a day, seven days a week, presented one of the biggest challenges these extremely bright medical minds had ever encountered.

KEVIN had arrived at the Bernard Mitchell Hospital after five days in a local hospital where his deteriorating medical condition has been exacerbated by a 'staph' infection and as he slipped into sepsis shock, an infection many times caused by improper insertion of an IV needle, one of the many excellent critical care doctors at the U of C intensive care unit sat with him throughout the night administering the newest antibiotics in a desperate effort to save his life. Kevin responded to the treatment and within minutes, in the middle of the night, teams of doctors from the infectious disease department at the U of C began to isolate the infection and treat it or his left arm might have had to be amputated.

THREE WEEKS AGO KEVIN opened his eyes, moved his right hand ever so slightly, but could not speak because a temporary trach tube had been inserted in his neck and he was breathing off a ventilator. A G-tube had also been inserted into his stomach so he could be fed high nutrition liquids. The critical care and intensive care team of doctors became more optimistic and the dedicated nurses in both intensive care units at the U of C worked 12-hour shifts in a full support mode. At one point, 60 doctors from all the departments assigned to Kevin's case met for two hours to discuss the "zebra" (our son Kevin) and the many overlapping medical 'challenges' they had met and either controlled or eliminated, always using as the centerpiece of their treatment the Hippocratic Oath, "First, do no harm." Between six weeks in two ICUs and one week on a medical floor at Bernard Mitchell Hospital, Kevin had been afforded the compassionate and professional care of over 100 nurses who were also an extension of the Hippocratic Oath, and who always went that extra mile in "First, do no harm" melded with love, understanding and dedication.

KEVIN left Bernard Mitchell Hospital two weeks ago for physical rehabilitation at the Rehabilitation Institute of Chicago, but not before one of his doctors wheeled him around the ICUs in a wheelchair, smiling between tears of joy, just so all the dedicated nurses and other critical care doctors and staff could see 'the success' of their hard work and tireless devotion. Kevin's mind is functioning perfectly and he talks and smiles at everyone, although he is still hooked up to a 'talky trach.' He is beginning to eat real food, however he still gets the bulk of his nutrition through the G-tube, and now the dedicated staff at the RIC, rated the number one rehabilitation hospital in the United States for the past three years, are using the latest state-of-the-art equipment and best rehab doctors, nurses and therapists in the country, to slowly work his arms and legs in the painful process of recovery.

THIS SUNDAY marks Mother's Day and the best "Mother's Day" present Kevin could give his "Mom" is, his twin brother, Brian, and me, was when he first opened his beautiful brown eyes after six weeks in a coma, looked at Mom and mouthed the words: "Mom, my butt hurts!"

The 'zebra' had met "the challenge" with God's help, along with Kevin's determination not to give up, and those incredible doctors, nurses and staff at the U of C, Bernard Mitchell Hospital whose extraordinary medical professionalism was always the epitome of compassion and optimism.

Now Kevin's fighting will and spirit to live, in concert with God's help, and the dedicated and talented doctors, nurses and physical therapists at the RIC will probably have him repeating over and over again the four most beautiful words we have ever heard Kevin say: "Mom, my butt hurts!" He's back!

Kankakee Hosts Air Festival

The sixth annual Kankakee Air Festival will be held at the Greater Kankakee Airport on June 26th and 27th. Although most of this year's lineup is not yet confirmed, airshow fans won't be disappointed. Definitely on board are the 'Pepsi Skydancers.' In highly modified DeHavilland Chipmunks, the Skydancers perform low-level aerobatics.

Negotiations are up in the air on a wing walker, a parachute team, other aerobatic acts and a flight team that reenacts the excitement of a World War II dog fight.

The highest honor yet is attracting the Blue Angels, a team that will only fly 36 shows this year, including Kankakee. The six F-18s will fly at speeds from 100 to 600 mph while the pilots withstand up to 7.5 times the force of gravity. The Blue Angels crew numbers about 50, and comes in eight aircraft.

Then there's the C-130 that carries everything in its cargo bay that the team might need, except an engine.

The C-130 Hercules is powered by four turbo-prop engines, and is to be a part of the military display on the airport's apron during the two-day show.

There will be tours of the C-130, as well as a fine array of warbirds that fans have come to expect in the local static display. This airshow is produced by the Kankakee Valley Pilots Association and the Kankakee Area Jaycees in cooperation with the Transervice Corp.

Military Display

In honor of Armed Forces Week, the United States Military is proud to present the 1993 Chicago Military Showcase featuring equipment from all five branches of the military at the O'Hare Air Reserve Station at O'Hare International Airport on Saturday & Sunday, May 15th & 16th from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. both days.

Over 200,000 people are expected to attend this free two-day spectator event to view equipment on display including air and ground support weapons from Operation Desert Storm, giant tanks, sleek military planes, attack helicopters, rescue vehicles, Patriot Missile launchers and a large-scale recreation of American and German WW II Camps with authentic wartime vehicles and artillery.

In addition to the considerable display of military equipment, a hangar at the showcase will be devoted to models of armed forces apparatus, the latest in military technology and actual footage of Desert Storm.

The event's festive atmosphere will fascinate young and old with military products made famous in the past and technology geared for the future. Air Force pilots who flew raids in the Persian Gulf will be on site to greet spectators and explain the features of Air Force equipment on display.

WBBM-AM Radio will be broadcasting live from the event. Amusement park rides will be present for children and food and refreshments will be available. Parking will be available on the base. Admission is free.

The 1993 U.S. Military Showcase promises to be the largest military showcase presented in the Chicago area in past years and provides spectators with a unique, up-close look at military equipment and operations.

Kolb Takes Firm Control Of Board

Cyrus Holesha was unanimously approved as trustee for District 1 at the regular meeting of the Oak Lawn Board of Trustees on Tuesday evening. Trustee Robert Streit asked what had happened to the proposed meeting at which the resumes of those wishing to fill the seat vacated by William Hefka would be reviewed and was told Mayor Ernest Kolb, who makes the appointment, had examined the other resumes and that Holesha had been associated with the village by serving on various commissions.

Clerk A. Jayne Powers administered the oath to new firefighters Theodore J. Moran and Timothy J. Radtke.

Police Department commendations of honorable mention and presentations were made to Tactical Officer Daniel Foley for apprehension of an armed and dangerous robbery suspect and an honorable mention to Wendy Adams and Timothy Otto for their assistance in the apprehension of an armed and dangerous robbery suspect.

Kolb made a special presentation to the family of Norma J. Vogelsanger, for the 27 years she worked as the secretary for the police department. Her daughter and two sons were there to receive the plaque.

Attorney Gerhardt Gliedge asked for an extension of a year granting variations for the property of 9516 S. Melvina Ave. and 6201 W. 95th St. where Walgreen Drugs plan to build a store; and for another petitioner, George Vlasits for granting parking setback at 5319-23 W. 95th St.

The board approved the request of Mitrick Construction for two lots at 9810 McVicker; an ordinance approving certain garage size variations at 5128 Oak Center Drive, and authorization to execute dispatch agreement between the Village's of Oak Lawn and Bridgeview.

Extension of the contract for L&S Construction Co. and to Davis Co. for the sidewalk program was approved with the stipulation that these programs be rebid in the fall, over the objections of Trustee Streit who felt there would be time to complete the work because there is a 60-day lapse after the bids are let which would give sufficient time to get the work done before fall, but Village Manager Don Canning said it would put us last on the contractors list, and we are ready to go when this is approved. It was passed by a 4 to 1 vote with Holesha abstaining.

A.T. Maras developer and contractor who purchased the property formerly occupied by T.C. Mulligan, 4545 W. 95th St., came with revised plans to build a four-story unit with elevators, with 49 units. Also part of the east parking lot is to have two single homes built on the rear section of the piece and the front will remain a C-1 zoning. He is asking for rezoning to R-1, partial C-1 and parking to R-3. He said that everything covered by the ordinance has been met. The plans call for a basement for parking, one at ground level and one below, to comply with two parking spaces for each unit. There will also be a community room. It passed by a 4-1 vote with Holesha abstaining and Streit voting no.

An ordinance reestablishing the planning & development commission and the appeals board was passed by a 5-1 vote. Streit objected to this and pointed out when the previous board had instituted this it saved the Village $5,000. He pointed out that those being appointed were members of the Coalition Party and said they should be volunteers.

An ordinance deleting the position of public information officer was met with clapping from the audience and again Streit pointed out that the village will probably go back to consultants as was done before. It was passed by a 5-1 vote.

Trustee Ron Stancik brought up the ordinance about hours worked by the Village President and said previous members of the board, saying this was a part-time job, stripped Kolb of more than half of the salary he had been paid and he asked the village attorney if the board could restore Kolb's salary. He was told they could not do anything until the next election.

Former manager Michael Feeley and two other employees went to Florida to attend a seminar on worker negotiations. The matter came up when Trustee William Keane questioned an entry in the monthly disbursements which amounted to $4,320 for a six-day stay. It was found that the conference lasted two days. Trustee Marjorie Ann Joy felt that they should return the monies not used for this purpose. Canning said one of the two men had offered to return part of his and the other was not available at the time. The disbursements were approved except for this item.

Tax Sale Successful

The county's more than 1,110 taxing bodies have received $76,429,097 in revenue from the recent annual sale of delinquent real estate taxes, Cook County Treasurer Edward J. Rosewell announced.

Rosewell said that bids were made on a total of 27,442 parcels of tax delinquent property during the sale which ran from Jan. 27 through March 31.

This compares to the previous year's tax sale which generated $79,197,614 on the sale of 22,549 parcels, Rosewell said.

The recent sale involved real estate tax delinquencies for the tax year 1991, which taxes were payable during 1992. There were more than 100,000 tax delinquent properties for the 1991 tax year. However, property owners were allowed to pay their real estate taxes up to the date of the sale; and these parcels were pulled from the auction, Rosewell said.

The delinquent taxes were sold on a bid basis, the bid being the amount of interest a purchaser will receive when and if the property owner redeems the taxes. The bidding begins at 18 percent and continues downward, with the lowest bidder winning the tax purchase. The full amount of delinquent taxes and interest is required by the tax purchaser.

The owner of the property has a minimum of two years to redeem or buy back the taxes. If an owner fails to redeem the taxes, the purchaser can file suit in the circuit court to seek title to the property.

Rosewell said that his office has distributed the 76 million dollars in tax sales to the appropriate taxing agencies where the properties were located.

Propose Tuition Hike At MVCC

A proposal to raise tuition at Moraine Valley Community College is expected to be voted on at the college board's next meeting, on Tuesday, May 18th. The proposal would increase tuition from $37 to $40 a semester hour for the fall semester and would mean a $42 per hour cost, including fees. An additional $2 an hour increase would go into effect for the 1994 fall semester, raising the total cost to $44 per semester hour.

The first hike would generate approximately $600,000 in revenue and the second, an additional $400,000. According to MVCC President Vernon Crawley the increase is necessary in order to avert additional program and staff cuts.

"There is an absolute need for this increase," Crawley stated, "we've cut and cut the budget but can no longer take the cuts if we plan to maintain the quality of education."

Over the past two years, nine full-time and a number of part-time positions were eliminated. In addition to the staff cuts, the college's golf and tennis programs have been dropped and health services, supply inventories and travel expenses have been reduced. Also, classes at extension campuses have been cut back, according to Crawley.

The college's annual operational budget is $31 million, mostly from state aid, grants and property taxes from MVCC District 524. Tuition and fees account for approximately $12 million of the total budget.

Crawley reported that MVCC officials have been discussing the increase for sometime and that organizations representing faculty, staff and students have indicated support. At a committee meeting on Tuesday, trustees indicated unanimous support for the proposal.

Despite the tuition increase, the college board is expected to have to cut at least $115,000 in order to work within a balanced budget.

Mayor, Board Sworn-In

Taking the oath of office as the new mayor of the City of Hometown during the April 27th board meeting was Donald Robertson. Also being sworn-in were the city clerk and treasurer along with five aldermen.

Those holding office for the city are Joan Dobrowits, clerk; Raymond Czajka, treasurer; and Aldermen Judith Spirakes (Ward 1), Ronald Masino (Ward 2), Michael Lynch (Ward 3), Nancy Martin (Ward 4) and Joyce Tyler (Ward 5).

Robertson thanked everyone for their cooperation and hopes that the next four years will be good for the city. He also stated that he will have an open door policy and he has requested that residents and officials make suggestions and comments about city issues and how the government is functioning.

Officers Honored

The Oak Lawn Lions Club held its 21st annual Law and Order night at the Oak Lawn Hilton on May 4th. The evening was set aside to honor a fireman and police officer of the year from the village. This year's recipients of the awards were Lt. Thomas Shervino from the Oak Lawn Fire Department and Patrolman Brian Duffy from the Oak Lawn Police Department. The awards were presented by Law and Order chairman, George L. "Skip" Pearson. The guest speaker for the evening was Cook County Sheriff Michael Sheahan. Pictured are Oak Lawn Fire Chief Jack Wesselhoff, Lt. Shervino, Patrolman Duffy and Oak Lawn Police Chief Frank Gilbert.

Brother Rice High School students listen to a presentation from Ford Credit representatives Jackie Shinault and Tom Evans during an accounting class at the school. Shinault and Evans explained credit and retail contracts as well as the steps necessary to finance an automobile. The students found out what they can expect when they go through the process of buying a new car for the first time.

"Many young people don't really know how to establish a credit history or the steps involved in buying a new car," Evans said. They explained to the class the laws involved in deciding who qualifies for loans and why. "We can't turn down your loan request because we don't like you personally. That would be against the law," he said.

Evans and Shinault were at Brother Rice as part of a series of lectures in business department classes designed to help students become more aware of real life situations and career choices. Business teacher Rich Marfise is seated in the background.

MWRD 'Waterfall' Parks To Open

The Metropolitan Water Reclamation District (MWRD) Blue Island and Worth urban waterfalls begin their second season of operation in mid-May. The Blue Island waterfall on the north bank of the canal immediately east of Western Ave. is the first of five built along the Calumet River System and Calumet-Sag Canal to add oxygen to the river to meet EPA standards for water quality. The Worth waterfall is at 116th and Harlem Ave. Both sites include beautifully landscaped parks and walkways for the public to enjoy.

This innovative environmental project, termed 'sidestream elevated pool aeration stations,' imitates natural water purification by aerating the canal. Oxygen is added to the water as it is drawn from the bottom of the canal, pumped up 12 to 15 feet and cascaded back into the canal. Up to 13,000 lbs. of oxygen per day is added to the water during its journey. The SEPA stations have eliminated the need to build costly expansions to the district's existing treatment facilities to meet water quality standards established by the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency (IEPA).

Three more sites are now under construction: Torrence Ave. and the Calumet River; 127 W. 127th St.; and at the confluence of the Cal-Sag Canal and the Sanitary and Ship Canal. Once completed, the five urban waterfall parks will limit the need for expansion at the district's Calumet water reclamation plant which would have cost district taxpayers $270 million more than the five aeration stations combined.

All five stations will add up to 25 tons of oxygen to the canal each day. In 1989, the district received the grand prize for environmental planning from the American Academy of Environmental Engineers for this project. District personnel conducted all planning and research, as well as development of the experimental pilot station for the project.

Swedish Exhibit

The Swedish American Museum Center of Chicago, 5211 N. Clark, has announced an exhibit of textile weavings by well-known Swedish artist Gun Johansson. The exhibit opens with a reception from 6 to 9 p.m. on Thursday, May 13th.

Swedish critics have likened viewing Johansson's weavings to a mystical walk in the northern Swedish mountains. In black, white, gray and many other hues, her pieces, often quite large, are reflections of the glaciers and peaks of her native landscape. Dark surfaces give way under examination to reveal intricate patterns and textures, like stone itself.

Using wool, linen, horsehair and other media, Johansson lets the mountains tell their stories. A number of her works incorporate themes from nature-inspired Lapp (Sami) mythology.

Social Security 1993 Brochure

To assist those needing a concise explanation of the federal old-age, survivors and disability insurance program, generally termed "Social Security," tax and business law publisher Commerce Clearing House has published "1993 Social Security Explained." CCH noted that for 1993, the earnings base for the old-age, survivors and disability portion of the Social Security tax will be $57,600, and the earnings base for the Medicare portion of the tax will be $135,000. For 1992, the comparable figures were $55,500 and $130,200 respectively.

Another change effective in 1993 is a hike in the annual earnings or "retirement" test. The amount a person in the age 65 through age 69 bracket can earn in 1993 without suffering deductions in benefits is $10,560 or $880 per month. For 1992, the test was $10,200 per year ($850 per month). Note that in the first year of retirement, the test is applied on a monthly basis, so that (for example) a person who works for half the year and then ceases to have earnings can still draw benefits for the remainder of the year, without regard to the amount he or she may have earned in the first part of the year.

There is also a 3 percent cost-of-living increase in benefits, applicable in general beginning with checks received in January 1993.

Other features of the Social Security program have also been subject to automatic change since the last edition of this book in April 1992, CCH said. One of the more important of these occurred with respect to the formula for the calculation of the benefit itself and for the calculation of the maximum total amount a family can receive.

While detailed coverage of all this material would occupy thousands of pages (as is in fact the case in CCH's loose-leaf publication on the subject, "Unemployment Insurance with Social Security"), the 254-page "1993 Social Security Explained" undertakes to present the salient features of the old-age, survivors and disability insurance part of the Social Security program. (Medicare, another important part of American Social Security, is treated in a separate CCH book entitled "Medicare Explained," and in the five-volume loose-leaf "CCH Medicare and Medicaid Guide.")

CCH said single copies of "1993 Social Security Explained" are available from its cash item department, 4025 W. Peterson Ave., Chicago, IL 60646, or by ordering toll-free at 1(800)248-3248. Quotations on bulk orders are also available, the publisher said.

The U.S. Military has announced the addition of the F-117 Stealth fighter to the military equipment on display at the 1993 U.S. Military Showcase on May 15th and 16th from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the O'Hare Air Reserve Station, Mannheim and Higgins Rds. The F-117, rarely seen by civilians, will be on display with equipment from all five branches of the military including fighter planes such as the F-14 Tomcat, F-15 Eagle, F-18 Hornet, rescue and attack helicopters, tanks, ground support vehicles, a Patriot missile launcher and the U-2 spy plane which has an operational ceiling of 70,000 feet.

The F-117 is the world's first operational aircraft designed to be "invisible" to enemy radar. The subject of world speculation for years, the single-seat F-117 A "Stealth" made its maiden flight in June, 1981, and became operational in 1983.

The F-117 was to be optimized to covertly penetrate defense threat environments and attack high value targets with pinpoint weapon accuracy. Heavy emphasis was placed on making the aircraft totally autonomous, totally passive and as elusive a target as technologically possible. The F-117 A is not dependent upon external communications of any kind to accomplish its mission.

Among the design features are the short, angular central body mounted on swept wings with a sharply mounted, canted vee tail. It also incorporates low noise characteristics and minimal engine infrared and smoke emissions.

The unique design of the air refuelable F-117 A provides exceptional combat capabilities. It can employ a variety of weapons and is equipped with sophisticated navigation and attack systems integrated into a state-of-the-art digital avionics system thereby increasing mission effectiveness.

Stealth fighters flew more than 1,250 sorties, dropped more than 2,000 tons of bombs, and flew more than 6,900 hours during Operation Desert Storm.

The famous fighter will be on display to the public both days of the Showcase. Admission is free.

Ethics Seminar To Be Held

The State Board of Ethics will hold its spring ethics seminar on Friday, May 21st, in Conference Room 025, 2nd Floor, State of Illinois Center, 100 W. Randolph St., Chicago, from 8:30 a.m. until 12 noon. Dr. Paul Green of Governors State University will lead off the seminar by addressing the question, "What Constitutes Sound Ethical Decision-Making by Public Administrators?" Following Green's address, there will be a workshop entitled "Deciding Conflict of Interest Cases" in which participants discuss a series of conflict of interest cases with members of the board. The seminar concludes with a panel of knowledgeable observers who will provide their perspective as to the components of a sound ethical decision. Members of this panel include Wes Bleed of WGN Radio; Terry Brunner, executive director, Better Government Association; Dorothy Eng, executive director, Chicago Board of Ethics, and Patrick Patt, chairman, Illinois Common Cause.

The seminar is free and open to the public and representatives from agencies subject to the board's jurisdiction have been invited to attend.

Census Survey

Employees of the U.S. Census Bureau will visit a sample of area residents from May 16th to 22nd to collect data on employment and tobacco use for the current population survey, according to Stanley D. Moore, director of the bureau's Chicago regional office. The local labor force data will contribute to the national employment and unemployment picture to be released on June 4th by the Bureau of Labor Statistics. The additional data on tobacco use will be used by the public health service to measure people's knowledge of and opinions towards smoking and tobacco use, as well as mark changes in tobacco use over time.

Information supplied by individuals to the Census Bureau is kept confidential by law. Only statistical totals are published.

Handicap Parking Problems

Many times physically disabled or handicapped individuals find locations that do have the proper number of handicapped parking spaces with the correct signage, but many times the locations will have no spaces or signs. Such is the case with over 200,000 locations in the state that do not have the handicapped signs and spaces. Though the Facilities for the Handicapped Act, passed in 1968, did require handicapped parking, many of the 200,000 locations have effectively ignored this handicapped parking requirement for more than 25 years.

For those handicapped individuals who have been waiting for a favorite location to come into compliance, their wait may soon be over and they may finally see the location in full compliance with the law.

Senate Bill 1048 states in part "Public and Commercial Facilities Handicapped Enforcement Act" and would establish a $1,000 fine, or a possible fine of $5,000. It now appears that these 200,000 non-complying locations will still have at least one year to come into compliance with the handicapped parking law before being subject to a $1,000 fine.

For those who would like more information on this bill and what they can do, write to IHAP, P.O. Box 236, Dept. CR, South Elgin, IL 60177.

Asks Insurance Law Extension

Secretary of State George H. Ryan's plan to provide unprecedented state support for libraries and organ donation was sent to the full Senate recently with no opposition. Also, Ryan's proposal to make Illinois' mandatory insurance law permanent moved closer to passage with unanimous approval from the Senate Insurance Committee. The measure, House Bill 1798, passed the House recently.

In testimony before the Senate Executive Committee, Ryan said his 'Live & Learn' proposal would raise $33 million annually, including nearly $19 million to help rescue libraries across the state from a serious funding crunch.

"Libraries are being squeezed from two sides, spiraling cost increases on the one hand and the loss of state and local revenues on the other," he said.

"As people who set public policy in this state, we cannot continue to stand by and watch as libraries continue slashing their book budgets, cutting back their hours and laying off vital staff."

His plan also would provide about $12 million for essential office operations and $2 million for efforts to increase organ donor awareness.

Ryan noted that the funding he is requesting for office operations was already reflected in the budget request approved recently by the House.

"What I am now proposing is that the increase for my office be offset by these new revenues, rather than from existing general revenue or the Road Fund," he pointed out.

The money earmarked for organ donation would be used to educate Illinoisans about the critical need for additional donor organs. About 1,420 people are marking time on waiting lists for life-saving transplants in Illinois, a 21 percent increase over last year. About a third of them will die waiting because of the shortage of donor organs, according to Ryan.

The measure, House Bill 2123, would raise two fees most Illinois residents pay only when buying a new or used car or truck. The fee for generating a vehicle title would go from $5 to $13, while the charge for transferring license plates from one car to another would rise from $2 to $12.

Ryan's mandatory insurance proposal would extend the law beyond Dec. 31st when current provisions are scheduled to sunset. His proposal includes changes to streamline enforcement and to ensure that previous violators maintain liability insurance.

Layoffs At Edison Deemed Inevitable

Commonwealth Edison has been notified by System Council U-25 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (IBEW) that its membership has not ratified an agreement on work rule changes intended to make operations more efficient. As a result, and due to ongoing financial uncertainties, Edison has notified the council that it can no longer avoid the layoff of 625 bargaining unit employees, planned to begin in 30 days. Approximately 12,000 of the company's more than 19,000 employees are bargaining unit members.

Edison originally notified the IBEW locals on Jan. 26th that it planned to implement the layoffs. Subsequently, Edison and the union began intensified discussions about productivity improvements. Union leaders agreed to submit the proposed agreement to the membership for a vote. The company had offered, among other things, a moratorium on layoffs and a voluntary early retirement program, and proposed work rule changes which would result in productivity improvements to enable the company to better serve its customers and preserve financial integrity.

Edison already has eliminated 1,500 management and contractor positions as part of an ongoing program to reduce costs. In January, the Illinois Commerce Commission (ICC) ordered Edison's rates reduced by $339 million annually and ordered refunds to customers totaling more than $600 million. The company is appealing the commission order.

In addition to reducing the management and contractor workforce, Edison since mid-1992 has reduced its annual operating budget by $153 million; reduced the common stock dividend by 47 percent; renegotiated coal and transportation contracts to reduce customer bills; submitted a clean air compliance plan that will result in savings to customers and has reorganized operations to streamline personnel and improve service to customers.

Edgar Gets Award

Jim Tobin, chairman of Tax Accountability '93 (TAC '93) presented an award to Governor Jim Edgar for honoring his commitment to abide by the provisions of the Tax Accountability Amendment.

"One day after the Illinois Supreme Court reversed a lower court decision and removed the Tax Accountability Amendment from the Nov. 6, 1990 ballot, Jim Edgar pledged to the more than half a million taxpayers who signed the petitions for the amendment that he would abide by the amendment's provisions," said Tobin. "As Governor, Edgar has kept his pledge to veto any state tax increase that did not have a two week public notice before committee hearings, and a 60 percent 'supermajority' vote in the House and Senate. This pledge applies to the $450 million income tax surcharge expiring on June 30th. This award, celebrating the amendment's third anniversary, is the Illinois taxpayers' way of thanking Edgar for his commitment to fiscal accountability and responsibility."

The Tax Accountability Amendment mandates that any bill to increase state taxes and user fees receive a supermajority of 3/5 (60%) vote in both houses of the state legislature; requires a two week prior notice and public hearings before tax increases are proposed in new Springfield revenue committees and requires no member may serve more than four consecutive years on revenue committees in the state house and senate.

Lipinski Cited As Outstanding

The Association for Retarded Citizens/Illinois (ARC/Illinois) has announced that Congressman William O. Lipinski (D-3) has been nominated for their annual Outstanding Legislator Award.

Congressman Lipinski was nominated for the award by Lynn O'Shea, the executive director of Seguin Services Incorporated in Cicero. "We have found Congressman Lipinski's efforts on behalf of persons with mental retardation and physical disabilities to be of strong and lasting value to the quality of their lives," O'Shea stated. "Congressman Lipinski has been supportive at a national level, such as in the backing of the American with Disabilities Act, but he has also demonstrated support at the local level with his successful backing of Seguin Services' efforts to secure increased accessible public transit for persons served."

Last July, due to the efforts of Congressman Lipinski, the suburban mass transit carrier PACE instituted expanded availability of accessible buses for use by Seguin program participants.

"I am honored to receive this nomination," Lipinski stated. "I have always believed that as a legislator, I have a responsibility to do all that I can to assist persons with mental retardation and physical disabilities. It is critical that these individuals are treated with the same amount of respect and dignity as other members of society, and I will continue to work in Congress to ensure that this is the case."

The Outstanding Legislator Award will be presented at the ARC/Illinois convention in early May.

Plans To Conduct A National Survey

The Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) has announced a national survey of veterans to obtain data on characteristics of the veteran population and their use of VA benefits. The information will assist the department in planning for veterans health care needs and changes in VA's medical system. In-depth telephone surveys will be conducted from June through October by Klemm Analysis Group and Westat under a $2.3 million contract. The survey will involve a sample of 10,600 veterans. Some 5,000 will be selected by a random digit telephone dialing procedure. Selection of the remaining 5,600 will be obtained from three sets of VA files: the compensation and pension file, the patient treatment file and the outpatient clinic file. The sample of 5,600 has been designed to address health care reform issues that VA is reviewing and will reflect use of VA and non-VA medical care by service-connected and nonservice-connected veterans. Veteran participation is voluntary, and the confidentiality of all responses will be strictly maintained by the contractor.

The data will allow VA to follow changing trends in the veteran population, make comparisons of characteristics of veterans who use VA programs with those who do not and provide a current resource of data for continuing analysis.

The study is the fourth in a series of national surveys of veterans. VA also has conducted a survey of medical system users and a survey of disabled veterans. A report on the results of this year's survey is expected in 1994.

Gas Prices Take A Hike

For the second month in a row, average self-serve gas prices in Illinois and Northern Indiana jumped by nearly 3 cents per gallon, according to the AAA-Chicago Motor Club's latest fuel gauge survey. In Chicago and Cook County, self-serve pump prices were up by an average of 1.6 cents per gallon. A gallon of self-serve unleaded regular currently averages $1.234 per gallon.

Since April, wholesale gas prices rose by about 3 cents per gallon, a total of 13 cents since January.

Expect more increases in the retail market due to wholesale increase and the upcoming summer driving season, according to Computer Petroleum Corporation (CPC), which surveys local gas prices for AAA-CMC.

Compared to a year ago, average self-serve prices are currently 4.7 cents higher in Chicago and Cook County.

Budget Cuts?

By Dr. Richard L. Leshner, President
U.S. Chamber of Commerce

The frantic rush of Congress to identify even more budget cuts than those recommended by President Clinton has a surreal quality, like a Salvador Dali painting, that somehow does not comport with what we know of the real world.

This is not to suggest that our elected representatives have imbibed to excess, or suddenly been caught up in a frenzy of mass hysteria. To the contrary, the various members of Congress project the appearance of reasonable legislators going about the people's business in full control of their wits. They are not foaming at the mouth or bouncing off the walls.

Even so, this sudden lust to reduce federal spending doesn't quite ring true. I seem to recall a pronounced indifference to red ink that has been the most conspicuous characteristic of Congress for more than a generation. If memory serves President Reagan cut a deal with Congress in 1982 to swap tax increases immediately for a package of spending cuts to be named later. The tax increases sailed right through to the president's desk; we are still waiting for the spending cuts.

President Bush signed off on a similar deal, agreeing to tax increases in exchange for spending reductions. It was "deja vu all over again." The tax increases were enacted with immodest haste; the spending cuts never say the light of day. The red ink continued to flow, adding more billions to the sea of public debt.

Now all of a sudden Congress just can't chop enough, as key committee chairmen seek to outdo each other in slashing spending programs. Yesterday's spendthrifts are today's Uncle Scooges.

I suspect there is less here than meets the eye. There is a new administration in town pledged to cut the deficit. The media are filled with righteous demands for fiscal sanity, and the American people have expressed a mandate for change. The new members of Congress, some 124 strong, are adamant about the need for financial reform, at least for now. Cutting spending is the political 'hula-hoop' of the moment.

What remains to be seen is whether this fad will still be in evidence when the actual spending decisions are made. The Budget resolution embraced by Congress imposes overall spending limits, but doesn't address the particulars. To chop real programs that benefit one's constituents is something else entirely. The real test of this newfound fondness for spending restraint will come later this year when Congress gets around to the actual appropriations bills that govern spending.

In the final analysis, Congress responds to the will of the citizens. Our elected representatives are not necessarily being hypocritical. The rubber will meet the road later this year when the same citizens who today demand fiscal responsibility see their own pet programs come under the axe. In a democracy, one cannot expect a government more mature and responsible than the people who elect it.

Service Office

Congressman William O. Lipinski (D-3) announced that he has opened a new constituent service office at 6215 W. 79th St. Lipinski explained that the office will be open Monday through Friday, between the hours of 9 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. The phone number is (708) 430-0104.

"I am pleased to open this new office," Lipinski stated. "I would encourage all of my constituents who live in and around the Burbank area to stop by or call the office at any time."

Senate Hearings

The Illinois Senate began committee hearings last week on bills that originated in the House of Representatives, passing a measure that would establish a program to fight auto theft, and a proposal that would require students wanting to take driver's education to have a solid scholastic record, according to State Sen. William Mahar (R-19).

House Bill 1359 establishes the Motor Vehicle Theft Prevention Program. Participants sign an informed consent stating that their vehicle is not normally operated between 1 a.m. and 5 a.m. An identification sticker on the car indicates that the owner is participating in the program and allows police to stop the vehicle if it is spotted on the road between those early-morning hours.

Mahar says House Bill 418 gives students a strong incentive for maintaining good grades. The legislation would require that public and non-public high school students pass at least eight courses during the two semesters prior to enrolling in a driver's education course.

Also passed by committee was a proposal to allow counties to set up special funds to deal with natural disasters such as floods, tornados, or earthquakes. House Bill 554 would allow a county to establish Emergency Disaster Funds to pay expenses when an emergency is declared by the governor or the county board. The county would be allowed to put aside two-tenths of one percent of the total assessed valuation of all taxable property in the county.

In other action, the Senate adopted a resolution asking the federal government to fund research that will increase the production and use of ethanol. Senate Joint Resolution 13 encourages the United States Department of Energy, Department of Agriculture and Environmental Protection Agency to fund ethanol research, and asks the President to continue the previous administration's policy of supporting Illinois' $200 million ethanol industry.

The Senate also adopted a resolution that calls for a study of methods used to train police and correctional officers in Illinois. Senate Resolution 143 directs the Illinois Local Governmental Law Enforcement Officers Training Board to evaluate all available use-of-force methods and recommend a standardized model for training all police and correctional officers in Illinois.

Also passed by Senate committees were:

EPA fines (HB 1719) -- Allows the Pollution Control Board or a court to abate up to 80 percent of a fine assessed under the Environmental Protection Act if the money is used exclusively for correcting the violation.

Alternative fuels (HB 771) -- Requires the state to gradually convert to vehicles that are powered by ethanol, other alcohols, electricity, or natural gas so that by the year 2000, at least 75 percent of the vehicles purchased would be powered by such fuels.

All Points Southwest

Guest Editorial
By Congressman Harris W. Fawell
13th District

An overwhelming majority of Americans support the line-item veto. President Clinton campaigned for it, and had such power as governor. Ninety-two percent of current and former governors support a true line-item veto for the President, and all 10 former governors serving in Congress back it. Virginia Governor Wilder says, "It makes the difference between talking about cutting spending and making it a reality."

The majority in the House, cornered by public demand for the line-item veto, labored mightily on the issue and produced a mouse. What they passed and proclaimed as a "modified line-item veto" has only the timid squeak of another Presidential 'rescission (cuts) authority.' The President already has 'rescission authority,' no more than a popgun when it comes to shooting down Congressional pork spending. Congress is trying to fool the American people into thinking a "modified line-item veto" passed. At best, it is no better than the useless Presidential 'rescission authority' that exists under current law. At worst, the bill is even weaker than current law.

A true line-item veto would allow the president to strike wasteful spending programs from appropriation bills when they reach his desk. Funding for these items would be cancelled unless two-thirds of both the House and Senate reinstated the projects. Out on their lonesome projects such as the now-famous $500,000 to renovate Lawrence Welk's boyhood home would be history.

What's wrong with the new Presidential rescission bill passed by the House? First, it has a loophole that you could drive Lawrence Welk's home through. The bill is nothing more than "an exercise of the rulemaking power of the House" and of the Senate (if it should get that far). Those words are incorporated into the bill by reference to the Congressional Budget Act of 1974. Of course, you won't find the words in the bill itself. Some fine print incorporates them into the bill by 'reference.' Few notice it. But they are the very same words which have made a wet noodle of the President's existing rescission authority. The authority to rescind is nothing more than a part of the House rules which can be waived, altered and killed anytime the majority, via its rules committee, cares to do so.

Take it from someone who tried to use the current presidential rescission authority, it doesn't work. A year ago, President Bush asked our Porkbusters group to sponsor a list of 96 "rescissions" for Congress' approval. The Congressional Budget Act says that if just one-fifth of the members of the House demand it, a vote must be taken on each of these rescissions. We soon found that the President's rescission powers were nothing but rules of the House. And the rules committee soon made it clear that the President would never get his line-item rescissions on the floor for a vote.

In addition, rather than providing that two-thirds of both the House and Senate would be required to kill Presidential rescissions, the bill would allow a simple majority to kill the rescissions. And remember, the rescissions might not make it that far if the rules committee simply waives the president's right to get a vote first.

The new 'enhanced' rescission bill is actually weaker than the current law in one important respect. It requires the president to 'bundle' into one package all of the projects he wants to rescind. The current presidential rescission power at least allows the president to 'line-item' each project for a separate rescission vote. Isolating each project for a vote is very important.

The true line-item veto does not have any of these loopholes. It puts all of the burden on Congress to justify the expenditure. It clearly gives the president the authority to not spend money on projects he strikes (not subject to 'rules of the House'), and the Congress must override this action with a two-third majority. If Congress fails to act, the project is killed.

Alas, such a true line-item veto bill was presented to the House on the very same day the rescission bill was passed. Congress turned the real line-item veto down, on a pure party line vote.

It is ironic that Congress always points to the White House to explain why it has racked up a $4.1 trillion debt and hasn't balanced a budget for 23 years in a row. Yet, Congress will not share the appropriations process with the Chief Executive even to the extent of giving the president a true line-item veto power. Not one dime can be spent without Congress' approval. In my view, Congress should be aware that any assistance it can get from almost any source to help it control spending should be welcomed, including from the president who usually ends up being blamed for Congress' overspending. The 'enhanced' rescission bill is not the answer.

Student Election

Local elections were taking place all over the state on April 20th and the student association election at Trinity Christian College in Palos Heights was no exception. Student association officers for 1993-94 are Peter Vander Werff of Markesan, Wis., president; Amy Ostendahl of Palos Heights, vice-president; Chris Langkamp of Lombard, treasurer; and Natalie Wagner of Mishawaka, Ind., secretary.

Tinley Park resident Robin Veenstra was selected as editor for the college yearbook, the "Allelu," and Josh Larsen of Crestwood will serve as editor of the college newspaper, the "Courier."

Consumer Alert

By Attorney General Roland W. Burris

Q. I frequently receive postcard solicitations which offer vacation packages to exotic locations such as Hawaii and the Bahamas at what appear to be temptingly low prices. How can one tell if these are legitimate travel offers?

A. Travel scams have become an increasingly serious problem in Illinois and across the country. Last year, 11 percent of all consumer complaints in my office were regarding travel and leisure scams.

Consumers should be extremely wary of any offers for low-priced vacation packages that come in the form of unsolicited postcards and telephone calls. To avoid being defrauded:

1. Be suspicious of vacation package offers that have price tags far below those charged by travel agencies. Compare prices with several agents for the same trip.

2. Get all details in writing before paying for a travel package and ask for references from the travel promoter. If any uncertainty remains, ask a reputable travel agent for advice.

3. Do not buy a vacation package from a high-pressure telephone salesperson and never give out your credit card number or bank account number over the telephone to anyone who has called you with a travel offer. Never send money or a check by messenger or overnight mail.

Nazareth Hospital Celebrates 100 Years Of Service

Can you imagine a hospital staff being able to treat three patients for just 25 cents? That's how it all added up nearly 100 years ago when the Sisters of the Holy Family of Nazareth opened the 24-bed St. Mary of Nazareth Hospital at Division and Paulina Sts. in Chicago. A lot has changed since 1894, but one thing that remains the same is the commitment of St. Mary of Nazareth Hospital Center to provide free health care for those residents in need.

That's the commitment and cause for celebration on Friday, May 21st when the inaugural centennial celebration and annual recognition benefit is held in the Grand Ballroom of the Chicago Hilton & Towers, 720 S. Michigan Ave., an event 100 years in the making. The fundraising dinner will also honor Edward G. Dykla, national president of the Polish Roman Catholic Union of America, as 1993 "Man of the Year."

Joining in the celebration will be Mayor Richard M. Daley, 1989 "Man of the Year" for St. Mary of Nazareth Hospital Center, and Mary Ann McMorrow, Illinois Supreme Court Justice, who will serve as master of ceremonies. More than 600 guests are expected to attend the spectacular gala which will raise money for the hospital center's social accountability fund.

"Each year, our annual recognition benefit marks an important milestone in our efforts to provide quality health care for all those who come to us in need and to honor an individual who has assisted in our mission of health care," comments Sr. Stella Louise, CSFN, FACHE, CEO and president of St. Mary of Nazareth Hospital Center. "Yet the 1993 benefit gives us much more, a chance to turn the pages of the hospital center's important history of healing and celebrate a future of care."

The 19th annual recognition benefit features the internationally-recognized Polish Dance Ensemble, Wesoly Lud ("Happy People"), along with Anthony Kawalkowski and his Mark Anthony Orchestra. In addition, a drawing will include incredible prizes such as two round-trip tickets on American Airlines to anywhere in the continental United States, two round-trip tickets on Swiss Air to Zurich, Switzerland, a trip to Poland on Lot Airlines, tickets to Cub and White Sox baseball games, weekend stays at more than 20 area hotels, elaborate dinners at acclaimed restaurants and Polish crystal.

The event, which is black-tie optional, begins at 7 p.m. with cocktails in the grand ballroom, followed by a four-course dinner at 8:15 and the "Man of the Year" presentation to Dykla at 9:15.

As this year's honoree, Dykla is well-known in the Chicago-area community for his time and devotion to civic, cultural, political and religious organizations. He has been president of the Polish Roman Catholic Union of America since 1986 and a member of the St. Mary of Nazareth advisory board for the past six years. In addition, Dykla has worked with groups such as the Polish American Congress, the Illinois Fraternal Congress, the Polish Museum of America, the Chicago Archdiocesan School Board Nominating Committee, Montay College, European-

American Advisory Committee of the Archdiocese of Chicago, Illinois State Toll Highway Advisory Committee, CHSA Agency Management Committee, Ethnic Ministries and St. Joseph Home of Chicago.

The Honorary Committee for this special Inaugural Centennial Celebration includes: Mayor Richard M. Daley; Gov. James Edgar; Sen. When it comes to good service, I take things down to a personal level. If it would make sense to me, as a consumer, chances are it will make good sense to my customers too.

Do I understand our manuals? Would I be comforted by the people who answer our phones? Are they explaining things clearly? Is this a caring organization? Bottom line, if I didn't work here, would I choose Blue Cross? The answer isn't always an automatic yes. When it isn't, I'm the first one to say we've got work to do."

Students over age 17, faculty and staff donated 118 pints of blood to help offset a major blood shortage in the area. The drive, an all-day event sponsored by the Brother Rice Key (Kiwanis Educates Youth) Club, had students waiting in lines to give. 12th Annual "Run For Darlene"

Film and television stars as well as names in sports will join participants in the 12th annual Tom Dreesen MS "Run for Darlene" at 6:45 p.m. on Friday, June 11th in Grant Park. The Columbia Yacht Club, 111 N. Lake Shore Drive, is the start/finish point for the fundraiser sponsored by the Chicago Jaycees for the benefit of research and client services of the Chicago-Greater Illinois Chapter of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society. The runs are major events in a series of "Day for Darlene" activities.

Television star Brian Patrick Clarke of "General Hospital" and gymnast Kathy Johnson, 1984 silver and bronze U.S. Olympic medalist, both avid runners, will be among celebrity participants.

Two Jaycees lead the run committee, Eric Dustman, chairman, and Ellen Davis, assistant chairman. Prizes will be awarded to the top finishers in each age/sex category. Prizes also go to the top overall male and female finishers in each race.

Following the run, participants will be welcomed at the Baja Beach Club and an awards ceremony will be held on the Promenade Balcony of North Pier.

Runners pay a $10 registration fee in advance or $15 on the day of the run. Participants who obtain pledges for MS from sponsors also qualify for prizes awarded at various fundraising levels. "Super achiever" prizes include a Caribbean cruise for two and a weekend for two in Las Vegas including air fare and hotel accommodations.

The "Run for Darlene" was originated by Tom Dreesen and Jaycee friends in 1982 in honor of the comedian's sister, the late Darlene Bethman, who had MS, the mysterious disease of the central nervous system most often diagnosed in young adults between 20 and 50.

Other events associated with the "Day for Darlene" which contribute to an overall fundraising goal of $156,000, include the "Bowl for Darlene" sponsored by the Des Plaines Area Jaycees at 8 p.m. on Saturday, June 12th at Elk Grove Bowl, Arlington Heights and Higgins Rds.

A committee of south suburban volunteers, chaired by Sam J. DiGiovanni, is in charge of the final event, the Tom Dreesen MS "Classic for Darlene" golf outing on Monday, June 28th at Ravisloe Country Club, Homewood.

Advance registration forms for the runs as well as information on all events are available by calling the MS office at (312) 922-8000.

Meeting Of EAA Warbirds

Members of the EAA Warbirds of America Chapter 4 are holding a meeting on Sunday, June 20th at Joliet Airport. The meeting, open to chapter members and their guests, to be held in the main hangar on the field, begins at 5 p.m. It immediately follows the Joliet Park District open house at the airport from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m.

The evening will showcase several P-51 aircraft, being flown in from various Midwest locations specifically for this Chapter 4 meeting. Several WW II veterans will share experiences flying this type of aircraft. In addition, the pilots/owners will be available to answer any questions about their planes.

The highlight will be a drawing of all members and their guests for a ride in a P-51, which will be given on the spot by Vlado Lench, owner and pilot of "Moonbeam McSwine," a beautifully restored P-51-D (weather permitting).

The cost to attend the meeting is $10 for members and $15 for member's guests, which will cover food and soft drinks. For those individuals who will be flying in, the airport will be closed from 1 to 1:30 p.m. and 3 to 3:30 p.m. for flying demonstrations. Any Warbird aircraft will receive fuel at the discounted price of $1.50 a gallon. Reservations are mandatory and interested EAA/Warbird members should contact Ken Pacholski at (815) 741-4944 to register for this event.

Chapter 4 President Will Martin noted that "although many aviators' interests overlap into other facets of aviation, we welcome those who want to concentrate or have a closer association with Warbirds. During the year, we will meet at various hangars or other facilities in the Chicago area (and Midwest) to spotlight a particular aircraft or participate in Warbird functions. There is no question that Warbirds bring a special excitement all their own, and you don't need to own or fly one to enjoy their camaraderie. We all know someone in whose life Warbirds played a significant part. This organization can be a vehicle to reacquaint them with the planes that played such a significant role in our country's history. The old gladiators are getting long in the tooth and it would be a shame if we didn't create the opportunity for them to tell us what it really was like. Bring them along."

An individual must be both a member of the Experimental Aircraft Association (EAA) and EAA Warbirds of America, Inc. (a division of the EAA) to be eligible for membership in the Warbirds Chapter 4. Membership applications for EAA, EAA Warbirds of America, Inc. and EAA Warbirds Chapter 4 will be available at the June 20th meeting. For further membership information, contact Will Martin, president, EAA Warbirds Chapter 4, BAC, Inc., One Lincoln Centre, Suite 1090, Oak Brook Terrace, IL 60181, (708) 916-2855.

Care Centers For Children And Elderly

Perhaps two of the most difficult and meaningful decisions people have to make in their lives are choosing the proper elder care centers for their parents and selecting a quality day care center for their children. Until now, those decisions have been difficult and time-consuming to reach. But a new organization, Children and Aged Resource Exchange (C.A.R.E.) has been formed to ease the burden. C.A.R.E. is a professional organization dedicated to bringing care facilities and the public together in a new and effective way.

"The child and elder care industries have exploded and continue to expand, yet there has been no way for people to get pertinent information, and they wind up making hasty, ill-informed decisions," says Jeffrey Hensel, president of C.A.R.E. "There has been no concerted effort to empower the public with information."

C.A.R.E. is establishing a comprehensive network of child care and elder care facilities. The network will include centers encompassing all 192 suburbs that comprise the Chicagoland area. C.A.R.E. will also be providing hundreds of doctors, real estate agencies, and human resource departments with access to the network. This will allow the public the ability to access information where and when it is considering care options.

A toll-free, 24-hour C.A.R.E. line will provide the information for prospective customers. Once the caller has identified a particular area, near home, work, or commuter point, and range of services he or she is interested in, specific information is mailed or faxed to the caller. C.A.R.E. understands the competitive nature of the marketplace and has studied the issues involved from both the public and the care facility perspective. C.A.R.E. has taken the time to understand what sets each center apart, learning its philosophy of care and the special services it may offer.

"We feel this service provides a win-win situation," says Hensel. "There is a definite need to help the centers get their message to consumers, and a need to provide the public with the speed and convenience they demand but do not receive through traditional sources."

Donut Day Volunteers Needed For "Tagging"

The Salvation Army is conducting its annual 'Donut Day' on Friday and Saturday, June 4th and 5th. More than 2,000,000 people are helped through Salvation Army ministries each year, and a portion of this is funded through 'Donut Day.' The idea for 'Donut Day' originated on the battlefields of WWI when Salvation Army lassies served coffee and doughnuts to American doughboys. Soldiers, bogged down by 36 consecutive days of rain were restless. Rations were so poor that the doughnut idea was conceived as a means of bringing cheer to the men.

Soon the idea spread to other areas and before long, Salvation Army workers were frying doughnuts for soldiers from one end of the trenches to the other. These famous doughnuts were products of necessity, occasioned by a shortage of materials. The Salvation Army lassies originally intended to bake bread, cakes and pies to give the doughboys home-cooked treats, but at the front lines no stoves or ovens were available. Supplies were scarce and the first Salvation Army doughnuts were cooked in a kettle of lard over a wood fire. The dough was patted out by hand.

Doughnuts were not the primary reason for the Salvation Army presence at the front lines, however. Men and women of the Salvation Army were there, in the main, to give comfort and spiritual aid to American soldiers and their allies, to cheer the men up as best they could and to provide a link with home and family.

Since WWI, millions of doughnuts have been served by Salvation Army to soldiers, firemen, police, disaster victims and others. Chicago and is, however, the only area in the U.S. with an official 'Donut Day.'

The Salvation Army's goal is to collect $200,000 during the 'Donut Day' when volunteers sell 'donuts' at intersections throughout Chicago and suburbs. The Salvation Army asks you to be generous. In 1992, the Army responded to 261 disasters and more than 107,952 persons were assisted.

Donald L. Eley, special efforts director for the Salvation Army, is looking for volunteers to contribute an hour or two selling 'Donuts' on June 4th and 5th. This is the 55th year Salvation Army 'Donut Day' has been held in Chicago and the Army is on hand promptly at the scene of any disaster, offering practical assistance... as well as doughnuts.

Call Eley at (312) 725-1100, extension 572, for more information.

NCA Approval

Brother Rice High School has been named an accredited educational institution by the North Central Association (NCA) through the 1992-93 school year following a review and approval of its annual report at the association's annual meeting. Rice principal Br. Michael S. Segvich announced that the accreditation, which must be renewed annually, means Rice is meeting or surpassing expectations for educational effectiveness. It also means the school is fulfilling not only local educational standards, but those more widely accepted throughout the region and the nation.

The NCA, founded in 1895, is the largest of the country's regional accrediting agencies and is a voluntary organization of over 7,200 schools and 900 colleges and universities in 19 states, plus the Department of Defense Dependent Schools throughout the world.

By setting standards for basic operations of the school and by requiring a comprehensive evaluation once every seven years, the NCA stimulates each school toward continuous improvement. Rice has been accredited by the NCA every year since 1959.

IHSA Drama Contest Winners

"Eleemosynary," Harold L. Richards High School's entry in the Illinois High School Association (IHSA) drama contest, won 4th place in the state finals in Decatur at Millikin University. A short time ago there were 57 entries throughout the state with 12 considered for the state finals. Eighty-two actors and actresses performed at Millikin University and only seven were selected to the all-state drama cast. Tricia Wertheim was one of them having been selected by four of the five judges. Also receiving nominations were cast members Chris Vorberg with three and Jamie Cooper with two.

"Eleemosynary" probes into the delicate relationship of three singular women; the grandmother, Dorothea (Tricia Wertheim), who sought to assert her independence through strong-willed eccentricity; her brilliant daughter, Artie (Jamie Cooper), who fled the stifling domination of her mother; and Artie's daughter, Echo (Chris Vorberg), a child of exceptional intellect and sensitivity, whom Artie has abandoned to an upbringing by Dorothea. Fifteen years later, Artie returns to try, at last, to build a life with her daughter, despite the risks and terrors which this holds for both of them after so many years of alienation and estrangement.

All judges commented on the professional look of the production and commended the cast on acting ability. One judge, who gave the play his first vote, commented that the production was one of the most wonderful works of theatre he had seen in a long time. "It was absolutely lovely. Thank you for such a wonderful performance!"

Prior to the state tournament, the three won the SICA Conference and a superior performance plaque and won the IHSA Sectional Drama Contest and 1st place plaque at Downers Grove South High School. This is the third year in a row that HLR drama has made it to state having previously placed 7th with "Going To See The Elephant" and 3rd place with "Quilters." Charles C. Palia, Jr. directed the productions and was assisted by faculty members Jean Frederick and Laura Leonardo.

The drama club was treated to a send-off breakfast by HLR Principal Dr. Dan McAllister who, along with the rest of the administrative staff, gave outstanding support to the play on its road to state. District 218 has always been a strong supporter of the arts and their commitment has made

Accreditation Approved

Dr. Dan McAllister, principal of Harold L. Richards High School, has announced that the school's North Central Association accreditation has been extended through the 1992-93 school year following review and approval of its annual report at the association's annual meeting. Accreditation must be renewed annually.

The NCA, founded in 1895, is the largest of the country's regional accrediting agencies. It is a voluntary organization of over 7,200 schools and 900 colleges and universities in 19 states, plus Department of Defense dependent schools throughout the world.

Accreditation ensures that the school is meeting minimal conditions for effectiveness. By setting standards for basic operations of the school and by requiring a comprehensive evaluation once every seven years, the NCA stimulates the school towards continuous improvement.

NCA accreditation helps build public confidence by providing evidence to the public as well as to other schools and educational institutions that the school is meeting expectations and fulfilling not only local standards but also those more widely accepted throughout the region and the nation.

"We are slated to receive funding for a number of new and ongoing road and bridge improvements," O'Malley said. "The five-year plan proposes projects for the 18th District that top $40 million."

Fiscal year 1994 road projects for the 18th District include $5,616,000 for signal installation, signal timing/progression and channelization on Illinois 43 (Harlem Ave.) from 151st St. to 175th St.; $5,169,000 to resurface 4.82 miles on US 12/US 20 (95th St. from Melvina Ave. to Western Ave., including signal timing/progression and channelization; $927,000

P.S. WASHINGTON

by
U.S. Senator Paul Simon of Illinois

At a recent gathering of prison officials, judges and policymakers from around the nation at Dana College in Nebraska, the discussion centered on these questions: Are we dealing with crime effectively? How can we do better?

Among those at the meeting were directors of state departments of corrections; several people who have spent time in prison; Professor Norval Morris of the University of Chicago — who is probably the nation's top expert in this field; Gov. Benjamin Nelson of Nebraska; Tom Wicker of the New York Times, who has written extensively in this field, and others.

You would probably not find agreement among them on some things, but this came through clearly: We are failing in our attempts to reduce crime — and we are failing at a huge economic and social cost.

In 1970, the U.S. had 134 people in prison for each 100,000 population. Now we have 455 for each 100,000 — far more than any other nation that records such numbers. South Africa is second with 311 and Canada has 109.

On the theory it would reduce crime we started spending billions on building more prisons, and the violent crime rate has gone up. The evidence is strong that most of our prisons are schools of crime, rather than places to prepare people for life after prison.

It costs an average of $14,000 to $20,000 a year to take care of a prisoner, not counting the cost of prison construction.

There is no question that people who have been involved in crimes of violence, who represent a possible threat to society, should be locked up.

But in the federal system for example, a majority of the prisoners have committed non-violent crimes like embezzlement, forging checks or minor drug offenses.

They should be punished, but I tend to think they should serve a short time in prison, to understand what that's like, and then be forced to spend the rest of their time doing some type of community service: Helping in a mental hospital, planting trees in a national forest, or other constructive work. They could be paid minimum wage, but most of what they earn should go to pay their room and board and in some cases to compensate their victims. It would save the nation billions, and the evidence suggests that it would be more effective in reducing crime.

And our prisons do painfully little to prepare people for life on the outside, as former Chief Justice Warren Burger has pointed out again and again. The Dana College conference found judges, prosecutors and everyone in agreement that mandatory sentences in the law sound tough, but sometimes lead to great injustices. Judges should have guidelines, but if they want to sentence someone for more than the guideline or less than the guideline, they should be able to do that. But if they go outside of the guidelines, they have to explain in writing why they do it, and that sentence must then be reviewed by a higher court or a sentencing commission.

If the billions we have spent to build more prisons and house more people were partially spent on creating jobs, better schools and constructive opportunities for the poor — and most people in prison are poor — my instinct is that we would do much more to reduce crime than we now do.

Building more prisons has been an expensive and ineffective way to halt crime. It has been a flop.

Other countries have found better answers, and we can too.

Tobacco Tax Urged

American Cancer Society volunteers from all across the State of Illinois are converging on Springfield this week to deliver their message of support for legislation designed to increase tobacco taxes in Illinois.

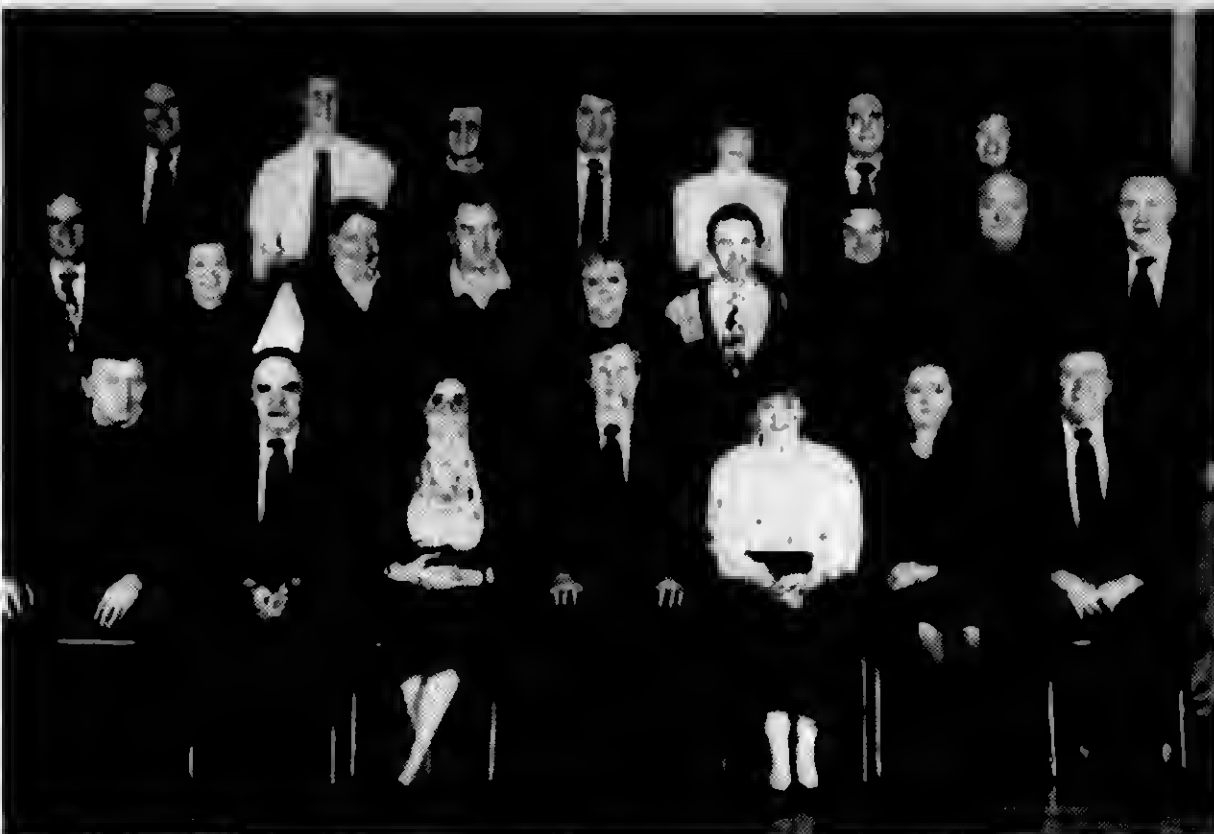

The volunteers are traveling to Springfield on Wednesday, May 12th to voice their approval for Senate Bill 804 and House Bill 1793, each of which calls for a $1 tax increase on each pack of cigarettes sold. A third bill, House Bill 1270, calls for a tax on the manufacturer's list price of snuff, cigar and pipe chewing tobacco.

By supporting this legislation, American Cancer Society volunteers believe lawmakers have the chance to reduce the number of underage smokers in Illinois by almost one-half.

Research shows that the best way to prevent teens from starting to smoke is to increase the price of cigarettes. Every 10 percent increase in the price of cigarettes leads to a corresponding 10 percent decrease in cigarette consumption among those 17 and younger. A $1 cigarette tax hike in Illinois could prevent 15,000 premature deaths through a 43 percent drop in teen-smokers. At the same time, $730 million in much-needed revenues for communities across the state could be generated from the tax hike.

Statistics speak for themselves: cigarettes are responsible for one in every six deaths and kill more than 434,000 Americans each year, according to the Federal Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, more than alcohol, heroin, crack, cocaine, automobile and plane accidents, murders, suicides and AIDS combined; cigarettes cost the American public more than $65 billion each year in tobacco-related health care costs and lost productivity; Illinois taxes on tobacco have been increased just twice in the last 25 years; taxes on tobacco are substantially lower in the United States than in virtually all other industrialized western nations; higher tobacco taxes in California have led to a drop in cigarette smoking equal to three times the national average, and higher taxes have led to a reduction in teen smoking in Canada of almost two-thirds since 1980.

Gaelic Park, the Irish cultural and athletic center at 6119 W. 147th St., recently held its election for the board of directors. Ten of the 30-member volunteer board are elected each year for three-year terms.

Re-elected for another term were Frank Bradley, (Donegal) of Burr Ridge, Mike Giblin (Roscommon) of Crestwood, John Griffin of Palos Heights, Tom McGinty (Mayo) of Chicago Ridge, John Murphy (Mayo) of Oak Lawn, Mary O'Connor (Cork) of Justice, Steve Quinn of Chicago and Mary Riordan (Clare) of Oak Lawn. Newly-elected to the board were Mike Keane (Clare) of Chicago and Brendan Slattery (Kerry) of Tinley Park.

Keane is former owner of one of the south suburbs' most popular banquet facilities, the Glendora House. He has been active in the Irish Musician's Association and other activities over the years. Slattery is retired from the gas company. He is an active member of the Kerry Social and Benevolent Association and a tireless volunteer at Gaelic Park. He presently operates a lawn maintenance service.

"Both men bring great experience and enthusiasm to the board," said election chair Pat Daly. "Their election, along with the re-election of our other directors, continues the tradition of hard work and fellowship which have been the hallmark of Gaelic Park."

The Gaelic Park board, which meets at least monthly, oversees the 50-acre complex which is home for the local Gaelic Athletic Association which sponsors hurling and Gaelic football games every Sunday from Mother's Day to Labor Day. Gaelic Park also has an active ladies auxiliary, choir, drama group, cello dancing, stepdancing and radio show (Sunday nights from 7:05 to 9 p.m. on WCEV 1450 AM). It hosts numerous concerts and its annual Irish Festival on Memorial Day weekend. Gaelic Park's four banquet or meeting rooms are available to Irish organizations and community groups and can accommodate groups from 25 to 550. Its lounge is open to the public seven days a week and has live entertainment every Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Part-Time College Scholarships Available

Full-time college students traditionally have had more opportunities to obtain scholarship funds than their part-time counterparts. However, at Loyola University Chicago, part-time students can avail themselves of several scholarships created just for them.

The Otto W. Lehmann Foundation, the James and Marie Cowhey Scholarship Fund, and the Celia Berta Gellert Foundation together provide about 17 scholarships per semester to part-time undergraduate students enrolled in Mundelein College, Loyola's part-time division. Each scholarship covers full tuition for three semester hours of coursework.

"Usually, a student receiving one of these scholarships has at least a 3.5 GPA, so the awards are based primarily on merit," explained Sandra A. Cook, Ph.D., associate dean for Mundelein College. "However, the level of the student's financial need also may be considered."

Lehmann Foundation scholarships are designated for students taking evening classes, so the funds usually go to non-traditional students.

Mundelein was founded in 1930 as a women's college. In 1991, it became part of Loyola, the academic division for part-time students, formerly called University College, and renamed Mundelein College.

An endowed scholarship fund born of the 75th anniversary of the university's part-time division is also currently being established for part-time students.

"We need to reach $60,000 before scholarships can be awarded," said Cook, explaining that the current fund balance of about $41,000 is the result of anniversary donations and gifts from alumni.

"Many scholarships are set aside for full-time students, but a number of part-time students also are in need of financial assistance," Cook said. "These grants help give Loyola's part-time students similar opportunities to those available to students attending the university full-time."

Weight Loss Mystery Baffles Scientists

WASHINGTON — Scientists are baffled by a natural food ingredient that caused people to lose weight even though they were instructed not to alter normal eating patterns.

Although other scientists and studies may not agree, a study published in The British Journal of Nutrition found that the ingredient, a natural plant colloid, can cause significant weight loss. Several explanations for the weight loss are suggested, but the most likely according to scientists in a Finnish study, is that colloids seem to decrease the intestinal absorption of calories. However, universal acceptance of this theory will depend on further study.

National Dietary Research, an organization committed to the research and development of nutritional solutions to worldwide health problems, has successfully designed a unique food tablet that utilizes colloids. Called Food Source One, this unique tablet provides a scientifically designed method for weight loss. When used as directed, Food Source One replaces high calorie fats with lower calorie nutrients, thereby providing optimum nutrition with a minimum number of fat calories. According to a study in the American Journal of Clinical Nutrition, you do not need to restrict the amount of food you eat to lose weight, just the fat.

Food Source One is being hailed by health care professionals as a significant breakthrough in nutritional weight control and provides a natural, drug free alternative for confronting the problem of obesity.

State Sen. Patrick O'Malley (R-18) is continuing his push to help schools save money by using non-certified staff to supervise non-teaching situations. O'Malley has amended House Bill 1218 to include his proposal to allow school districts to use non-certified personnel to supervise study halls, detention and discipline areas, and areas where students are interacting with televised or computerized educational programs.

"The school code requires certified staff members to supervise non-teaching situations, which is both costly to local districts and is an ineffective use of their skills as educators," O'Malley said.

"using non-certified personnel in these positions will help schools save money and perhaps avoid reductions in scholastic or extracurricular programs. The certified teaching staff could also concentrate more of their efforts on teaching and helping students."

have estimated annual cost savings of $560,000 for Consolidated High School District 230 in Palos and Orland Townships, and nearly $400,000 for Community High School District 218 in Worth Township.

"In just two districts alone, the annual cost savings is nearly $1 million.

and the state has 936 other school districts," O'Malley said. "A relatively simple change will make better use of limited resources and benefit students, teachers and the citizens whose tax dollars support local schools."

O'Malley's proposal was passed by the Senate in April.

House, Bill 1218 also contains a provision that establishes a school district loan program administered by the Illinois Development Finance Authority. The loans are to be used for education purposes only. It now moves to the full Senate for further consideration.

•Sr. Corinnie Raven, RSM, principal of Mother McAuley High School, has announced that the school's North Central Association (NCA) accreditation has been extended through the 1992-93 school year following review and approval of its annual report at the association's annual meeting. BASEBALL ROUND-UP

Spring has finally sprung and local teams can finally enjoy playing the great American pastime outside.

Wednesday Games (May 5th)

St. Rita 14 - Leo 0

It only took five innings for the Mustangs to whitewash Leo's Lions in Catholic League play.

Mustang ace hurler Jason Wallace threw a one-hitter and struck out nine.

St. Rita amassed a dozen hits thanks to the mighty bats of John Nee (a perfect 3 for 3 at the plate with a round tripper and a trio of RBI) and Jerry Sisul (2 for 3 with a double, triple and a pair of RBI).

Brother Rice 8 - Mount Carmel 6

Crusader pitchers Jim Sexton and Brian Dundee paired to tally a 8-6 victory over Mount Carmel's Caravan during Catholic League action in Mt. Greenwood. Sexton was credited with the win and Dundee came in for the save.

Rice got hot in the seventh inning as Tim Panfil, Mike Englebrecht and Terry Casey connected for RBI. Mike Strich was 2 for 4 with a triple, two runs scored and an RBI.

Richards 4 - Argo 2

The Bulldogs put the bite on the Argonauts 4-2 during SICA North play.

Bob Morris belted a two-run single and Steve Kawa pounded a solo homer to pace the offense. Doug Kirar earned the win as he allowed only six hits.

For the Argonauts, a two-run round tripper off the bat of Gani Memishi was essentially the offense.

Hillcrest 3 - Oak Forest 1

The Bengals traveled to Country Club Hills and met with defeat. This SICA Central matchup gave the Bengals their 12th loss of the season, fourth in the conference.

T.F. South 3 - Bremen 1

The Rebels invaded Midlothian and took down the Braves 3-1 in SICA Central action. Brave Dennis Smith allowed only four hits to Rebel batters and fanned seven as he took the loss.

Shepard 10 - Thornridge 0

The offense was in high gear as Shepard's Astros blew past the Thornridge Falcons 10-0 during nonconference play at Thornridge. A trio of Astro bats were pounding Falcon pitching in the forms of Craig Taczay (2 for 4 with a trio of RBI), John Pahr (3 for 4 with an RBI) and Jeff Wilson (2 for 4 with three RBI).

Astro hurler Jeff Wroble earned his third victory of the season by allowing only three hits to Falcon batters and striking out 11.

Thursday Games (May 6th)

Oak Forest 4 - Hillcrest 1

The Bengals got revenge for their loss over the Hillcrest Hawks the day before as they took a 4-1 decision during SICA Central action in Oak Forest. Leading the offensive attack for the Bengals were Mike Stacey (2 for 3 with a pair of RBI) and Dan Gallivan (2 for 3 with two runs scored). On the mound, Bengal hurler Jason Kastner fanned seven Hawk batters and gave up a mere two hits.

Bremen 8 - T.F. South 1

Brave offense was on the mark as well as their defense when they tallied an 8-1 win over T.F. South's Rebels during SICA Central play in Lansing.

Brave Mickey Oganovich was a one-man show with a bat in his hand and a pitcher's mitt on the mound. He fanned seven and gave up only a pair of hits. At the plate, he went 2 for 3 with a double and three runs scored.

St. Rita 11 - Hubbard 1

Mustang pitcher Steve Batinih allowed a meager one hit to Greyhound batters as St. Rita trounced Hubbard 11-1 in six innings during nonconference action. A two-run round tripper off the bat of Mustang John Nee sparked the offense along with a two-run single shot from Marty Quinn. Jerry Sisul and John Bayer tallied a pair of hits apiece.

Evergreen Park 8 - Illiana Christian 2

The Mustangs had little trouble against the Vikings as they eased to a 8-2 win during nonconference action in Evergreen Park.

Evergreen put four runs on the board in the first inning and never looked back. Matt Zdano pounded a triple shot and drove in a pair of RBI while Brian Olenick tallied a trio of RBI to pace the offense.

On the mound, T.J. O'Neil fanned seven Vikings and tallied his third win of the season.

Richards 3 - Reavis 2

Lady Luck was on the side of the Bulldogs as they captured a 3-2 win over the Reavis Rams in Oak Lawn during SICA North play.

The Rams did a boo-boo on a pickoff attempt that enabled the Bulldogs to tie the score and then Steve Kawa drove in the game-winning run with a single shot. Roger Belt went the distance to earn his third victory of the year.

Brother Rice 3 - St. Laurence 1

A trio of mighty bats paced the Crusaders to a win over the St. Laurence Vikes 3-1 during Catholic League action in Mt. Greenwood. Crusaders Tim Panfil, Mike Schramm and Jerry Casey each clouted RBI singles to lead the offense. Tom Tracy got his fifth win of the year as he struck out six Vike hitters.

Stagg 5 - Shepard 1

Two runs each from the bats of Chargers Mike Darrah and Chris Vandertuuk ignited the Stagg offense as they took this SICA North contest 5-1 over Shepard in Palos Heights. Chris May went the distance as he earned his fifth win of the season.

Providence 10-9 - Marist 5-3

The Knights of Providence stormed into Mt. Greenwood and swept a doubleheader from Marist's Redskins 10-5 and 9-3. On the mound in the opener for the Redskins, John Zintak gave up five earned runs on seven hits. In the nightcap, Jaime Stahwak also gave up five earned runs and allowed six hits.

Redskins Mark Schardaf and Brian Harmon each pounded two-run homers.

Friday Games (May 7th)

St. Rita 1 - Shepard 0

Only one run came across home plate for the Mustangs but it proved to be all that they needed to take a 1-0 victory over the Shepard Astros during nonconference action in Chicago. Tim Carrig did his stuff on the mound as he racked up his fifth victory of the year. This senior left-hander gave up only one hit and fanned 14 while walking two.

The lone run of this contest came in the second inning as Mustang Marty Quinn connected for a single shot to bring home Neal Nawrocki, who had singled and gone to second base on an error.

Taking the loss for the Astros was Craig Taczay, who gave up six hits.

Richards 7 - Argo 4

The Bulldog offense was paced by the hitting of Brian Robinson (2 for 4 with three runs scored and an RBI) and Doug Kirar, a two-run round tripper. Jason Gillen got his second victory of the year as he went six innings.

For the Argonauts, George Spatharakis and Jason Michalowicz tallied a pair of hits and an RBI apiece.

Stagg 5 - Oak Lawn 4

Chuck Olson clouted a two-run round tripper to win it for Stagg which took the decision over the Spartans during SICA North action. Olson added a bases-loaded double that knotted the score at 3-3. Pat Rush threw a five-hitter to get the victory.

Sandburg 10 - Reavis 0

It only took the Eagles five innings of work to down the Reavis Rams 10-0 in the SICA North matchup. The Eagle hero was Todd Mensik who hurled a three-hitter while fanning six and walking none. He also was hot with the bat as he pounded a home run, a double and drove in four.

Other hot Eagle hitters were Doug Murray, 2 for 3 with a pair of RBI, and Jason Barone, a three-run round tripper.

Saturday Games (May 8th)

St. Rita 9-10 - St. Martin de Porres 2-1

The Mustang swept a double header during Catholic League action.

Pete Kelly had a red letter day on the field as he totaled four hits, six RBI and a trio of doubles.

Elmwood Park 12-8 - Evergreen Park 2-4

The Tigers came into Evergreen Park and swept the Mustangs in a double header.

Marist 3-9 - St. Viator 2-11

The Redskins split with St. Viator as they won in Mt. Greenwood during East Suburban Catholic League play. Marist captured the opener with Brian Harmon's single that brought home Brian Falat with two out in the bottom of the seventh.

Oak Lawn 11 - Stagg 6

The Spartans got their act together against the Chargers 11-6. Spartans John Marrello and Jason Draper tallied a trio of hits apiece and Draper added two RBI.

Richards 10-7 - Thornridge 9-6

Bulldog bats were swinging and connecting as they swept a double header over the Falcons. A three-run round tripper by Randy Balsan in the sixth knotted the score and Richards rallied in the eighth to take the win in the opener. In the nightcap, five Bulldogs came away with two hits each to spark the victory.

Softball Standouts

The Titans of Illinois Wesleyan University finished their season impressively with a double-header win of the University of Chicago, 8-1 and 5-3. Two Evergreen Park girls contributed to the fortunes of the Titans this year, senior right-handed pitcher Donna Panatera and junior Sue Lammel. Panatera pitched the Titans to victory in the opening game and Lammel launched a home run to spark her team.

Panatera finished her career at Wesleyan as the pitcher with the most wins in the school's history. The double-header win capped a 15-game consecutive winning streak, the longest in Titan history.

Coach Quits

Tinley Park High School Basketball Coach, David Braden, recently resigned his varsity coaching position because of family and educational responsibilities.

Santa Fe Hosts "Ride For Life"

On Saturday, May 15th, Santa Fe Speedway hosts the 7th annual "Ride for Life," a Muscular Dystrophy Charity Event. Riders will take off from Illinois Harley Davidson starting at 10 a.m. The auction and picnic will kick off at Santa Fe Speedway at 3 p.m. with all proceeds, a projected $10,000, going to MDA. Also on tap on this night, four divisions of NASCAR Stock Cars on the quarter-mile action-clay oval: Late Model, Sportsman, Lightning Rod and S.T.A.R. (Short Track American Racer) divisions. Gates open at six, time trials begin at seven, with the drop of the green flag set for 8 p.m.

The "Ride for Life," also known as a "Poker Run," consists of over 100 miles of recreational motorcycle riding, with participants drawing poker cards at each of five checkpoints throughout the Chicagoland area.

This year's event will also include a silent benefit auction, a final checkpoint picnic and a "Night at the Races" at Santa Fe Speedway. Also on hand, during the event, will be the MDA poster child to aid in the awards presentation along with several MDA representatives.

Owners of all makes, models and brands of motorcycles, as well as non-motorcyclists alike, are expected to be in attendance on this date. Pre-registration packets are available at Illinois Harley Davidson, 1301 S. Harlem in Berwyn. To be a part of this event or to make a charitable donation to the MDA, contact Tim Farrell at (708) 788-1300.

WORM PROBE CAN BE FATAL - The Great Lakes Fishing Council News Letter issued the following warning: "A 'worm probe,' a product that uses electrical current to shock earthworms to soil surface, could be fatal to user and passers-by. The U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC) says that 'WORM GETT'RS' by P&M Enterprises, Caldwell, ID, use full line voltage, 110 to 120 volts, and pose an electrocution hazard to those who use them or stand nearby. The CPSC urges owners of the probes to discontinue use immediately and destroy the products. The commission is aware of at least 28 deaths involving functionally identical worm probes. Most of the fatalities were children.

About 30,000 P&M 'WORM GETT'RS' have been sold by catalog and in retail stores nationwide since 1983. The probes consist of thin steel shafts that are inserted into unfinished wooden handles. 'WORM GETT'RS' were sold as two-probe, six-probe and 12-probe models. Most 'WORM GETT'RS' have no identifying marks."

SEVEN PROJECTS RECEIVED APPROVAL FROM STATE DUCK STAMP COMMITTEE - Conservation Director Brent Manning said five new waterfowl habitat projects and two continuing projects have been approved for funding from money generated from the sale of state duck stamps.

"Between 1976 when the Illinois Migratory Waterfowl Stamp program was instituted and last year, more than two dozen Illinois projects and 10 Canadian projects have benefited from $8 million in duck stamp funds," Manning said.

The $10 stamps, affixed to state hunting licenses, are required of all hunters age 16-64 who take or attempt to take waterfowl in Illinois. Funds collected must be used exclusively for acquisition and development of waterfowl habitat.

The six-member Illinois Duck Stamp Committee reviewed project proposals earlier this year and made funding recommendations to Manning. Groups or individuals interested in being considered for future state duck stamp projects may obtain applications from the Department of Conservation, Division of Wildlife Resources, Attention: Duck Stamp Committee, 524 S. Second St., Springfield, Illinois, 62701-1787, (217) 782-6384. Applications are due by Oct. 31 each year. They must be returned to the Duck Stamp Committee along with maps or aerial photos, projected costs and other requested information.

LAKE MICHIGAN ANGLERS - Anglers fishing in Michigan's Great Lakes and connecting waters are asked to be "on the lookout" for adipose fin-clipped trout and salmon stocked by the Department of Natural Resources Fisheries Division and U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service in an effort to study the Great Lakes fishery.

The adipose fin is the small, fleshy fin just ahead of the tail on the salmon and trout's back. Fish with clipped adipose fins have microscopic wire tags implanted in their snouts that identify the planting site of the fish, the date the fish were planted and the hatchery of origin. The tags, along with a creel survey which is being conducted on the sport fishery will give the researchers the data they need to complete its project.

Anglers are asked to: *Remove and freeze the entire head of the fish in a plastic bag (fish with only adipose fins clipped). *Include the following information on a slip of paper, written in pencil: location and date fish was caught (required), and length and sex of the fish (optional). *List your name, address and phone number. Bring the fish head(s) and information to any DNR District or regional office or call for a list of additional drop-off sites at participating bait and tackle shops.

Cooperating anglers will be rewarded for their participation by receiving the information contained on the tags they turn in, as well as information on how the data will be incorporated into the study.

The hospital is sponsoring the festive event for older adults in celebration of Older Americans Month....What is an "Older American?" Could it be when you turn 50 and you start getting all that membership drive mail from the American Association of Retired People (AARP) or do you qualify as an "Older American" when you go into a store and some "young" sales clerk asks you: "Are you a senior citizen?" I once told a brash young clerk that "yes, indeed, I'm a senior citizen, but I'd rather pay the full amount because I'm trying to re-capture my lost youth." And who got the bright idea we should have a full month devoted to "Older Americans?" Most "Older Americans" live a day at a time...sometimes even an hour at a time. Why I know a lot of "Older Americans" who might start celebrating the "Older Americans Month" on the first day of the month, get carried away with the celebration, and not make it until the middle of the month. How about re-thinking this "Older Americans Month" and next year call it "Older Americans Seconds?" It also has a double meaning, doesn't it?

Gaelic Park Irish Fest '93 Nears

It will be the finest gathering of Irish entertainment in America at Gaelic Park's Irish Fest '93 on Memorial Day weekend, May 28th to 31st, with 18 acres of music, dancing, carnival rides, food and fun for the entire family. Gaelic Park is at 6119 W. 147th St.

"Buckle Up Week"

In recognition of "Buckle Up Americal Week," the Cook County Department of Public Health (CCDPH) strongly encourages all motorists to use safety belts and child safety seats on every trip in a motor vehicle. "Buckle Up Americal Week" begins a nationwide publicity effort highlighting the lifesaving potential of safety belts, child safety seats and air bags.

"Many people just don't realize how your chances of serious injury or death are significantly reduced if you wear safety belts," said Cook County Board President Richard J. Phelan.

An estimated 29,568 lives were saved by safety belts from 1983 to 1991. In 1982, before any state had a belt use law, Americans buckled up at an 11 percent rate. Use of safety belts has more than quadrupled since then in response to increased law enforcement efforts and public information campaigns.

Numerous research studies indicate lap and shoulder safety belts reduce the risk of fatal or serious occupant injury by 45 to 55 percent. It is estimated that safety belt use saved Americans nearly $10 billion last year alone by preventing deaths and injuries. Currently, 42 states, the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico have enacted safety belt use laws, and 50 states, the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico have enacted laws requiring the use of child passenger restraint systems.

In addition to increasing the safety belt use rate by non-users, the highway safety community is also focusing on 'part-time users'; drivers who tend to wear their belts when they believe they are at risk, on the highway, in bad weather or traveling long distances. "Part-time belt users often mistakenly consider themselves full-time users, because they think that they're only supposed to wear their belts in certain situations. They don't realize that a large majority of fatal crashes occur during routine trips; to or from work, the grocery store or dropping the children off at school," Phelan added. "These drivers often think that because they are familiar with their regular routes and generally travel at low speeds, they are unlikely to have a serious crash and don't need to wear their belt. They need to realize they are at serious risk and should wear their belts every time, on every trip."

"Buckle Up Americal Week" coincides with the Memorial Day weekend, the holiday that traditionally signals the beginning of the summer travel season. During this week, law enforcement agencies will be paying extra attention to the enforcement of occupant protection laws across the country. Highway safety advocates throughout the nation will be encouraging everyone, with a special emphasis on part-time users, to use safety belts in their vehicles, and to buckle children into child safety seats correctly.

Foundation Asks Park Support

A group of citizens has organized a non-profit foundation to support Oak Lawn parks and programs of the O.L. park district. Formed as a charitable non-profit organization in Illinois, the group known as the "Oak Lawn Parks Foundation" is seeking donations from individuals and asks the business community for organizational support. This support provides enhancement of recreation services, parklands, historic properties and avails input for development of sound environmental policies and practices for the community.

The foundation seeks and welcomes all types of gifts from cash to securities to real property which it can hold and administer.

Projects underway by foundation trustees include the greening of 95th St., historic preservation projects, Stony Creek Environmental Center, Chicago Ridge Prairie restoration and fundraising for special recreation programs.

The foundation is to administer the tree memorial program and kick off its first fundraiser for disabled recreation programs with a volleyball & basketball all-night marathon on Saturday, May 22nd at the pavilion. Youth groups from Oak Lawn and surrounding communities will be participating.

If you would like to support the foundation with your time or talent on one of the many project committees, or for more information, call Lynn Parfitt at (708) 857-2200.

Tax Reform Plan

The Senate Executive Committee has advanced a resolution sponsored by State Sen. Patrick O'Malley (R-18) calling for a comprehensive study of the tax system in Illinois. Senate Resolution 232 directs the Senate Revenue Committee to work with public and private groups to study the state's tax system and submit recommendations for change to the General Assembly no later than Dec. 1st.

"Since I have been in Springfield as a legislator, I have found what I have long suspected as a private citizen," O'Malley said. "Illinois has a tax system that is unnecessarily complicated and very reactive, with revenues driven by expenses rather than the more appropriate practice of expending from available revenues."

"We need to change the state's approach to taxation to establish a favorable climate for business and encourage economic development. In the past five years, a significant number of businesses have relocated outside Illinois, taking with them income-producing jobs," O'Malley said. "An objective and comprehensive study will provide the information we need to simplify the tax system and make it more reliable and responsive to the needs of Illinois' citizens."

Senate Resolution 232 now moves to the full Senate for further consideration.

Science Careers

On April 16th Denna Shaar, Marianne Stanis (pictured), both of Oak Lawn, and Miss Barbara Romani, science teacher at H.L. Richards High School, attended a conference at Argonne National Laboratory entitled "Science Careers In Search of Women." The agenda which was covered on that day included speakers, panel discussions, lunch with women scientists and tours of laboratories and career booths.

Gang Member Database

Gov. Jim Edgar has unveiled a new computer network to help police officers quickly identify gang members so they can better protect themselves and fight crime.

"We are putting computers into the front lines in the war on gangs. This high-tech law enforcement tool will warn police officers of potential danger to themselves and help stop the spread of violent street gang activity," the governor said.

"It not only will provide information that can save lives immediately but also will be a major asset in charting the movement of gang activity into new areas," Edgar added. "This reflects the commitment of our administration, the General Assembly and the state's law enforcement community to do all we can to crack down on gangs."

Police officers throughout the state will now be able to tap into a new database, known as the Gang Member File, to identify gang members. The database, part of the Law Enforcement Agencies Data System (LEADS), will contain information on gang membership or affiliation.

"A police officer, whether making a traffic stop or an arrest for a more serious crime, immediately can gain access to information that could tell the officer whether he or she is in danger and may be dealing with possible gang-related activity," said Terrance W. Gainer, director of the Illinois State Police.

"This is another example of how law enforcement agencies can work together and use new technology to safeguard police officers and the communities they serve," Gainer added.

Police officers will be able to tap into the system either through mobile terminals in their squad cars or by radio.

The gang file, containing about 18,000 records, was established by State Police with the assistance of the Chicago Police Department, Cook County Sheriff's Office and the Department of Corrections, all of which shared their databases. In addition, the Criminal Justice Information Authority helped coordinate the effort and provided technical assistance.

The gang file stemmed from an anti-gang legislative package enacted by Edgar.

Other key components of the package were an Edgar administration initiative, patterned after federal RICO statutes, to authorize public bodies, such as public housing authorities and schools, to sue street gangs for compensatory and punitive damages.

School Board Nominating Petitions

Races for 103 seats on local, public, community college boards begin on May 25th when Illinois law permits candidates to begin circulating nomination petitions for the Nov. 2nd election. According to Illinois Community College Board Chair Harry L. Crisp II, petition forms may be obtained from the president's office at any of the 38 community college districts where trustees are elected for six-year terms. This does not include City College of Chicago and State Community College in East St. Louis where trustees are appointed.

In order to be elected as a community college trustee, candidates must be 18 years old and residents of the district. The seven elected board members and a student non-voting trustee control budgets that total nearly $1 billion statewide. Together the community colleges serve nearly 1,000,000 students per year, more than half of all college students in Illinois.

Community college trustees hire the college president and set policies that determine the future development of the college. Board members serve without compensation although they are reimbursed for expenses they incur as trustees. Community college board members receive training and support from the statewide Illinois Community College Trustees Association. For more information, call the Trustees Association in Springfield at (217) 528-2858 or by contacting the local community college president's office.

Man Shot

Bryant Jones, a 26-year-old Robbins man, was shot and killed last Wednesday night by a Northeastern Metropolitan Drug Enforcement Group (MEG) agent in the McDonald's parking lot at 14601 S. Pulaski.

Jones and an alleged accomplice, 21-year-old Enrico Mayberry, also of Robbins, had sold the agent one-eighth of an ounce of cocaine for $200 and then came back a second time to sell 2.2 pounds of the drug for $26,500.

As the agents approached Jones' car, he pulled out a gun and pointed it at one of the agents. At that time, Jones was shot by another agent.

Police recovered the cocaine along with a cocked and fully loaded .38-caliber semi-automatic gun from Jones.

Mayberry was charged with two felony counts of delivery of a controlled substance. His bond was set at $750,000.

Agents had been investigating the suspects for a month. Jones was described as a substantial drug dealer and had been convicted of aggravated battery and possession of a controlled substance in 1990.

Lobby Reforms

Secretary of State George H. Ryan's proposal to close loopholes in Illinois' lobbying law and make it enforceable was sent to the governor recently by a unanimous vote in the House. The legislation, Senate Bill 900, won unanimous approval in the Senate last month.

"This bill will fundamentally change the way our state oversees the business of influencing the people's business," Ryan said. "Illinois has had one of the weakest lobbying laws in the nation because our law was literally impossible to enforce. The legislation sent to the governor recently will, for the first time, require the reporting of virtually all lobbying expenditures in Illinois."

Ryan called for groundbreaking reforms in state lobbying laws last February in response to concerns raised over alleged abuses by out-of-state casino gambling interests. His proposals were based on several months of research and consultation with legislators, lobbyists and public interest groups.

Senate sponsors were Sens. Thomas J. McCracken, Jr. (R-Downers Grove), Doris C. Karpel (R-Carol Stream), Carl E. Hawkinson (R-Galesburg), Judy Barr Topinka (R-Riverside), Walter Dudyzy (R-Chicago), Dave Syverson (R-Rockford), Patrick J. O'Malley (R-Palos Park), Dick Klemm (R-Crystal Lake), Adeline Geo-Karis (R-Zion), Penny Severns (D-Decatur) and Beverly J. Fawell (R-Glen Ellyn).

House sponsors were Speaker Michael J. Madigan (D-Chicago) and Minority Leader Lee Daniels (R-Elmhurst).

Affordable Housing

The Illinois Chapters of the Older Women's League (OWL) called for reforms to increase housing supply and quality at a recent press conference as they joined women across the nation supporting the 1993 Mother's Day Report of OWL.

"Costs and lack of services deny many mid-life and older women access to decent and affordable housing," said Pat Polos, member of OWL of Illinois and president of OWL's Loop Chapter.

The older women get, the poorer they become as an increasing percentage of their income is needed to meet housing costs. This is in the findings of "Room For Improvement: The Lack of Affordable, Adaptable and Accessible Housing for Midlife and Older Women," the report OWL released recently.

"Women can look forward to spending more of their income, money, health and time just keeping a roof over their heads," Polos said. "We need more than candy and flowers in honor of Mother's Day. We need new policies which will unlock the door to better housing locally, in Illinois and nationally."

OWL's new report shows how costs, lack of needed services and inflexible housing regulations can prevent women from aging in their communities with dignity and independence.

Citing expected growth in the number of single-person and single-parent households among Americans aged 45 to 54, and a projected increase in the number of older persons living alone, Polos said, housing problems will worsen unless we act now to improve the housing conditions of mid-life and older women.

The Older Women's League (OWL) of Illinois supports increased funding for assisted housing programs and supportive services; creation of incentives for the development of more rental housing and home ownership opportunities; expansion of reverse mortgage arrangements on fair terms for individual homeowners; and changes in zoning laws and building codes to encourage housing alternatives.

Beth Brown of the Chicago Department of Housing gave a status report on senior housing in the community. Meredith Mack, deputy commissioner of the Chicago Department on Aging, gave the results of the kind of facilities seniors have requested in their housing. Carol Jones of the Illinois Department on Aging enumerated the services that will be required to keep seniors living independently and out of nursing homes.

Copies of OWL's 1993 Mother's Day Report may be obtained from OWL, call 1(800)825-3695, or write OWL, 666 11th St. NW, Suite 700, Washington, DC 20001.

Groebe Honored For 30 Years Of Service

Heritage Bank recently hosted a reception honoring long-time employee, Ronald P. Groebe of Mt. Greenwood for 30 years of service. Groebe is a senior executive vice-president and corporate secretary for the $825 million bank. Groebe was employed at Continental Bank in Chicago and Marquette National Bank for a short time before joining Heritage in 1963. He joined the Heritage Banking Group as a teller. He served as a teller, head teller, supervisor, pro cashier and cashier. He also managed the data processing operation for all the Heritage locations. In 1978 Groebe joined Heritage County Bank as a vice-president in charge of operations. He has served as cashier since 1978 and is currently one of the senior officers of the institution.

RONALD P. GROEBE

Groebe has been instrumental at Heritage in the implementation of new technology to support the banks growth. He oversaw the centralization and standardization of all banking operations of the 11 Heritage locations into one off-premises, innovative, state of the art service center.

Groebe states "I have seen many changes in banking over the years but we are still in the same business we have always been in, providing good service to our customers. I have always made it my goal to find better, more efficient ways to do just that."

Groebe remembers Heritage County Bank when it was $100 million in size. "I have thoroughly enjoyed being part of our growth and expansion. It is hard to believe we are a $825 million bank with 11 locations. That growth has given me many great challenges, the opportunities to meet and work with so many more people and the satisfaction of being a part of one of the largest best-known banks south of the Loop."

Salvation Army Donut Day Fundraiser

The Salvation Army's 56th annual Donut Day is Friday and Saturday, June 4-5. The tag day is held in the Chicago area, as well as throughout northern Illinois and northern Indiana.

Mayor Richard Daley has again proclaimed Donut Day an official day in the city.

"Give your dollars to donuts" is the theme of this year's campaign. In the Chicago area, The Salvation Army conducts 35 major programs in its continuing efforts to help others. The goal for Donut Day is to raise $375,000 to help support these programs.

Lt. Colonel Gary L. Herndon, Divisional Commander for The Salvation Army in Chicago, says two of the programs in which your donations help others are:

- Frontline Feeding Programs... daily serves people at immediate risk of hunger at 11 Chicagoland sites. Eighty cents buys a meal for a child or adult; when combined with other dollars, $33.10 provides a day's shelter care, three meals and support services for a child or adult.

- Tom Seay Center, 1025 W. Sunnyside. Five hundred to eight hundred meals served daily... thirty-five cents buys one meal there, two times a day, seven days a week.

Colonel Herndon says that in 1992, throughout the Chicago area, the Army provided assistance to more than 80,000 emergency workers and individual family members in disaster situations. In the suburbs, it provided emergency lodging, food, clothing, utility and rental assistance, medical and/or health care for some 35,000 individuals. Average daily cost: $75 per family, $25 per individual.

Last year, The Salvation Army sent more than 150 youngsters to a seven-day camp at a daily per-child cost of $36 or $252 per camping session. Several hundred children are expected to attend this season.

Most of the people helped by The Salvation Army never expect that they will need such help. Disaster emergencies can happen to anyone at any time. The next time it could be you or a loved one. One thing is for certain: The Salvation Army will be there... as it always is... providing assistance.

Firefighters To Compete

Orland firefighters will attempt to defend last year's first place finish in the North Central regionals of the DuPont/ARA Firefit Combat Challenge. Due to increased interest, this year's competition will be held on two days, May 22nd and 23rd. Over 50 teams of five firefighters are scheduled to compete. The number of entrants makes this the largest staging of the event held to date.

The challenge will be held at Orland Fire's Regional Training Center, 163rd St. and 108th Ave. Competition on Saturday, May 22nd will run from 12 noon to 4 p.m. and on Sunday, May 23rd from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The Challenge is an outgrowth of firefighter fitness testing. Five job-related tasks comprise the event. The tasks are put together into an obstacle course to test the strength, stamina and aerobic capacity of firefighters. The five tasks are: stair climb, hose hoist, forcible entry, hose advance and victim rescue drag or carry. Firefighters compete in full turnout gear and wear breathing apparatus.

Seven minutes is the maximum time allowed for completing the event. Times under five minutes are considered excellent. Top competitors will run the course in as little as 2:18 minutes.

Last year, Palatine firefighters finished second and Tinley Park firefighters finished third in the regionals. The '92 Orland team earned a trip to Anaheim, CA and placed 13th out of 24 teams in the national finals.

The public is invited to watch the competition and see the skills involved in firefighting, as well as cheer on their local firefighters.

Ondrla Named Acting Principal

Upon Brother Arthur M. Arndt's recent appointment to his third term as principal of St. Laurence High School, Thomas Ondrla, administrative assistant, finds himself accepting a new challenge. Subsequent to his new appointment, Brother Arndt has also been awarded a semester of sabbatical to begin in the fall. He will join a program at the University of Notre Dame that addresses the personal and professional needs of administrators who have successfully reached the half-way point of their tenures in office. Additionally, Ondrla, a 19-year veteran, has been named acting principal of St. Laurence. His term of office runs from June 1st through the end of the next semester in January.

"I'm very excited about this opportunity. My main function as acting principal will be to set the table for Brother Arndt's third term which actually begins in January. Beyond that, my role stays the same and Brother Arndt is the principal," said Ondrla recently.

"Before Brother leaves in June we will have a chance to talk about the challenges awaiting us, and discuss the implementation of Brother's policies effective in August along with some goals that I have in mind for the direction and well-being of our school," Ondrla continued.

Ondrla's three-year stint as administrative assistant has not been one without constant implementation and monitoring of school policies. One of his main objectives upon taking over as administrative assistant was the reconstruction of the curriculum committee. Ondrla structured the committee in 1991 in a somewhat non-traditional manner and acts as its facilitator, not as chairman.

The goal of the group is to work toward consensus through techniques like dialogue, brainstorming, and active listening. Votes are never taken and motions are discouraged. The process is designed to lead to collaborative decision-making not to the formation of winning coalitions. Members are selected by the administration for two-year terms, based on willingness to work within the process and the content of their ideas. No ranks or positions of authority within the school are recognized on the committee.

"The committee is advisory to the principal, and in the first two years of operation has submitted eleven recommendations to the principal without having a single one rejected," says Ondrla. Among some of the advancements the committee has made over the last three years include: restructuring the school's program for students who are "at risk" academically, reorganization of some of the school's disciplinary policies, the inception of a survey of graduate honor students for a review of the honors program and altering the method used for issuing progress reports midway through the four quarters of the school year.

"We are now looking to review the school's mission statement, write a curriculum guide and review the way in which we track our students academically," said Ondrla.

From the day the committee began operating, the members promised each other that in addition to sound decisions, what the group especially wanted to demonstrate to the St. Laurence community was a new way of making decisions.

"The group has much to be proud of and much to look forward to as it begins its third year," said Ondrla. "It has proven to be a very active and effective vehicle for the wide range of professional, educational, and managerial issues which a school needs to face for its on-going improvement and developmental growth," he says.

Ondrla also monitors the evaluation of the school's teaching faculty, acts as a liaison between the principal and school community, and deals with the needs of students, parents and faculty on a daily basis, all duties he will keep as acting principal.

"In essence, my job will not change that much while Brother Arndt is away. The hierarchy of the school is intact. The day to day operation of the institution will go along and exist as smoothly as ever," he concluded.

Ondrla is currently pursuing his M.A. in school administration at Rosary College.

Ignition Lockout

Secretary of State George H. Ryan's plan to test the use of ignition interlock devices in cases involving repeat DUI offenders went to the governor with a unanimous vote in the Senate. The proposal, written as an amendment replacing previous language in House Bill 1362, authorizes the Secretary of State's office to pilot test use of the devices.

"Interlock devices have been used with great success in other states to keep hardcore drunk drivers off the road," Ryan said. "They may not be the perfect answer to a difficult problem, but they do offer us another enforcement option and an opportunity to make our highways safer."

Drivers need alcohol-free breath to start a vehicle equipped with the device.

House sponsors were Reps. John R. Sheehy (D-Tinley Park) and Clem Balanoff (D-Chicago). Senate sponsors were Sens. Dick Klemm (R-Crystal Lake), William F. Mahan (R-Orland Park), John J. Cullerton (D-Chicago) and William Shaw (D-Chicago).

No final decisions have been made about how to conduct the pilot project, but the program probably will involve volunteers.

The measure would allow hearing officers in Ryan's administrative hearings division to require use of the devices as a condition for granting a restricted driving permit to a repeat DUI offender.

Good Nutrition

Vitamin supplements alone won't provide a pregnant woman with the additional nutrients needed for an adequate diet, according to Blue Cross-Blue Shield. Even if you're taking a multi-vitamin every day, you'll need to add another 300 calories to your diet as well as higher levels of protein, found in meat, poultry, fish, beans and eggs.

Calcium and vitamin C are two nutrients most pregnant women fall far short on taking each day, and are vital for healthy moms and healthy babies. Orange juice, broccoli and strawberries are good sources of vitamin C. These two nutrients can also be found in traditional dairy products as well as salmon, pinto beans and shrimp.

Also, six to 11 servings per day of grains such as bread, cereal and rice are an important part of a well-rounded diet. The best way to fill your daily nutrient needs is by adhering to a healthful diet. Consult with your doctor about the new special dietary needs for you and your child. Supplements will help, but they're no substitute for good meals.

Price Controls

Reforming the nation's health care system will require change and some new approaches. Unfortunately, those in Washington involved in the effort are proposing an old tactic which has historically failed. In the 100 day dash to find a solution to the long festering problem of soaring health care costs, the idea of price controls is again gaining favor. American political leaders have such short memories. Price controls have been tried innumerable times since before the ancient Babylonians. They have seldom produced the desired effect.

The Roman Empire had terrible food shortages which were blamed on price controls. During the French revolution a black market flourished despite the death penalty for violators of the maximum price law. And price controls were at the heart of the Soviet command economy. Remember the Soviet Union?

In our free market economy, price controls have also had disastrous results. While World War II regulations temporarily checked inflation, they also aggravated shortages and created a huge enforcement bureaucracy of 60,000 federal workers.

Baby Boomers should recall the price controls ordered by Richard Nixon under the economic stabilization act in the early 1970s. Inflation was artificially slowed for only a very brief period. As soon as controls were eased, prices shot up. They always do. It's an inevitable response in a free market.

Now, government may again impose price controls, this time on the third largest segment of the American economy, the health care industry.

Although this quick-fix idea may sound appealing to some, there is no evidence that it will work, even on the short term. Worse, price controls would stifle what little competition there is in health care, create shortages of high quality medical care leading to rationing and destroy the motivation for innovative research.

Other troubling issues exist, such as the possible need to extend price controls to health care industry suppliers and the potential hardships on the millions of health care workers who would have their livelihoods affected by controls on their employers.

There are alternatives, such as the many thoughtful cost control ideas being proposed to increase the influence of free market forces on the health care industry. They would mean more competition, not less.

One concept that has gained considerable support lately is managed competition. In general, it would limit government intervention to tax incentives which would encourage the development of what are called accountable health plans. These insurance plans would compete, on a level playing field, for business from large purchasing cooperatives made up of individuals and small businesses. Because of their buying power, these cooperatives could shop for the highest quality medical care for the lowest possible price.

Malpractice reform, paperwork reduction, preventive health programs and greater consumer awareness of health care costs are some of the ways that managed competition could be enhanced.

Managed competition must be tested, perhaps in one or two states, before it becomes the system for the rest of the nation. In the meantime, Hillary Rodham Clinton and her health care task force will be tempted to create the appearance of fulfilling the president's campaign pledge with temporary price controls.

Instead, the members of the task force should listen again to President Clinton's inaugural address and concentrate on using what's right with America to fix what's wrong with America. They should not be allowed to condemn the country to repeat the mistakes of the past.

Council Support

Betty Williams, chair of the Children and Family Services Advisory Council (CFSAC), expressed the council's support for Gov. Edgar's appointment of Denise Kane as the first inspector general for the Illinois Department of Children and Family Services (DCFS). On behalf of the council, Ms. Williams announced full support for the governor's initiative for legislation that would assure that a child's best interests supersede all other considerations, in determining whether he or she should be removed from or returned to a home where abuse and neglect has occurred.

Ms. Williams said, "The Children and Family Services Advisory Council applauds the governor's commitment to hold DCFS accountable and assure the protection of children." She also observed that "Kane is an ideal choice for DCFS inspector general. She is an aggressive and outspoken advocate for children. Her record indicates a strong support for improving the child welfare system and protecting children."

Ms. Williams reported that the CFSAC had expressed concern regarding the effects of the layoffs of staff during the current fiscal year and the high caseload, especially for caseworkers in Chicago. She predicted that implementation of increased staffing and improved accountability will result in significant improvements in the Illinois child welfare system.

LST To Visit

The U.S. Navy tank landing ship USS Boulder (LST 1190) will visit Chicago's Navy Pier July 8th to 12th, during the 1993 Great Lakes Cruise. The ship, commanded by Commander R. P. Tjepkema, is a unit of the Surface Force U.S. Fleet and its homeport is Little Creek, Va. The public is invited to the official welcoming ceremony at Navy Pier at 2:30 p.m. on July 8. Boulder will be open for tours from 1 to 7 p.m. July 9th, 10th and 11th. There is no cost.

Tech 2000 For Resource Education

Illinois' economic future rests in young hands; the hands of children now in school. In a few short years, those hands will be on the wheels of the businesses and organizations that will determine our state role in the national and international economy. That's why those young hands need to be on the keyboards of computers right now, says Sharon Roberts, 1993 chairperson of TECH 2000: Students for the Information Age.

TECH 2000 is a statewide initiative designed to educate lawmakers, business leaders and citizens about the need to have up-to-date technology resources in every Illinois classroom. The TECH 2000 steering committee also wants to develop a statewide network of human and electronic resources that schools can call upon for help in starting or expanding their use of classroom technology.

On Wednesday, May 12th, TECH 2000 is staging its second annual demonstration in the Illinois State Capitol Building in Springfield to show how students and teachers are using technology now to more effectively prepare the citizens and workers of the future. More than a hundred teams of students and teachers from schools all over Illinois will set up work stations in the hallways of the capitol. They will demonstrate how technology is used to help students learn language arts, science, mathematics, current history, art and other subjects. Some will show how assistive technology helps students with disabilities work alongside their peers. The teams will represent all parts of the state, as well as a wide range of age levels and subject matter.

At a time when school funding is severely restricted, effort and creativity will be needed to get technology resources into every school, said Bob Stevens, chairman of the 1992 TECH 2000 demonstration. "But it can be done. Partnerships with business and grant money are potential sources of funding.

 Secretary of State

Why help libraries?

This is a question I've been asked dozens of times in recent weeks since I began putting together a proposal for an innovative program called Live & Learn.

With state finances in crisis, this program would provide $33 million to provide a major new source of funding for libraries and to promote public awareness about the critical need for organ donation.

This effort would let my office permanently earmark about $19 million in new funding for libraries each year. By way of comparison, that's an increase of nearly 60 percent over the $32.2 million my office gave to libraries last year.

And it comes at a time when many of our libraries are being squeezed between cost increases and cuts in local funding.

Unfortunately, in laying the groundwork for this new revenue stream, I keep hearing that nobody cares about libraries.

I personally don't think this is true, and a recent study bears me out. It says that 66 percent of all Americans 18 and over -- more than 122 million Americans -- reported using a public library last year.

On top of that, it found that 700,000 children were enrolled in a summer reading program offered through a public library last year. That's more than played Little League baseball.

Unfortunately, it seems that too many people take the incredible resources our libraries offer for granted.

As state librarian, I've got news for them. These resources are in danger of being eroded.

Libraries across the state are trimming their book budgets, cutting back their hours and laying off staff. And this is happening at a time when the cost of materials and staff is rising and the demand for library services and materials has never been higher.

There's a saying in the library community: "Save money. Fund libraries."

It makes sense because libraries are one of the best buys around -- for businesses that need marketing information, for anyone who enjoys reading or loves to share books with a child or a grandchild, for students and for anyone who knows and appreciates the value of information.

If you do care about your libraries, tell your legislators and local officials. Our libraries can't afford to wait.

There's one other issue none of us can afford to be apathetic about -- organ and tissue donation.

It's an issue that's literally a matter of life and death for the families of nearly 1,400 people, many of them children, who are waiting for life-saving organ transplants in Illinois.

About one-third of them will die waiting. The real tragedy is that many of them could be saved, if only more people would take time to discuss the issue of donating their organs.

An estimated 12,000 to 15,000 Americans die under circumstances that would let them be organ donors, but only about 4,500 a year actually become donors.

Each of those donors can provide life-saving transplants for as many as six people. Families who have made the decision to donate often take great comfort in that fact.

A recent Gallup poll shows that 69 percent of Americans feel they are at least somewhat likely to want to have their organs donated.

Yet, since my office began using driver's license records last October to keep track of potential organ donors, only about 22 percent of people renewing their licenses have said they were willing to sign up.

That tells me that our state needs to work harder at getting out the message about the critical need for more donor organs. Live & Learn would generate $2 million a year specifically for this purpose.

Until now, my office has been trying to get that job done on a shoestring budget. The organ procurement groups generously help us offset some costs, and we've enlisted many volunteers and service organizations as our partners.

A dedicated source of money would make a big difference in these efforts -- and a big difference in the way too many people are living as they wait for a chance at a better, longer life.

The first step is to make it possible for schools to tap into the resources and know-how that are available now. To help them do that is one of the goals of TECH 2000."

The public is invited to attend the TECH 2000 demonstration on May 12th. "It's quite a free show," Stevens said. "Many of us who did not grow up with technology are still intimidated by our VCRs. To see second graders maneuvering easily through a complex science or mathematics program is an eye-opening experience. Their excitement and interest show clearly how technology has enhanced their natural love of learning."

For more information about TECH 2000, call Sharon Roberts at (618) 242-1676 or Jessica Billings, public relations chairperson, at (217) 528-9688.

Tour Of St. Ignatius High

St. Ignatius College Prep is offering a one-hour tour of its landmark building constructed in 1869, one of five public buildings to survive the Chicago fire. The school has been undergoing restoration since 1983.

St. Ignatius is listed on the National Register of Historic Places, was designated a Chicago landmark, and in 1988 earned the National Honor Award.

The tour begins from the school's rear entrance at 10 a.m. on Saturday, May 22nd. Parking is available at the school. The tour is $5 for adults, $10 for families, $3 for seniors. For tour information, call Eunice Chomicz at St. Ignatius College Prep, (312) 421-5900.

Fight For Evergreen Park ZIP Still On

Evergreen Park Mayor Tony Vacco's concerted effort to get a suburban ZIP Code for his suburban community hit a stumbling block last week. Vacco was informed that the Postal HQ in Washington, D.C. had turned down the request for a new ZIP to replace the 60642 ZIP now in place.

The 606 ZIP is a Chicago Code and Vacco, along with the overwhelming majority of Evergreen Park residents and businessmen, insists on a ZIP Code change. "We are Evergreen Park, not Chicago," Vacco stresses. "We are celebrating our 100th anniversary as an incorporated community and it's past time that we should have our unique suburban identity. That means a suburban ZIP. Our telephone area code is 708, not 312. I am the mayor of Evergreen Park, a community of some 22,000 residents. We have a six-person Village Board of Trustees and are not represented in Chicago's City Council. Only the U.S. Post Office seems to be under the misapprehension that we are a subdivision of Chicago. The time for our own identity is now."

Vacco pointed out that the letter from the Post Office which turned down the request for a ZIP Code change said there were "questions raised" about the survey.

"What questions?" asked one resident. "If there were questions, why did the Chicago Postal facility and the Great Lakes Regional facility approve the survey and forward the approval to Washington?"

In addition, the Post Office alleges that "the municipality (Evergreen Park) has been provided a ZIP Code that matches its boundaries." This is patently ridiculous as two sections of Chicago share the 60642 ZIP and, as Mayor Vacco pointed out, between 87th and 99th on the west side of Western Ave., Evergreen Park has three ZIP Codes assigned; 60642, 60643, and 60620... all Chicago ZIP Codes, not one suburban.

Vacco is urging all residents of the village and anyone who addresses letters to Evergreen Park to write a letter addressed to the Post Office, but not to send the letter to a postal facility. Instead says Vacco, send or deliver the letters to me at the Evergreen Park Village Hall, 9418 S. Kedzie Ave., Evergreen Park, IL 60642. He plans to continue this fight until Evergreen Park has its own identity.

It is almost axiomatic that anything mailed to an Evergreen Park address with Chicago, IL 60642 on the envelope is 'junk mail' and residents are tired of getting mail misaddressed to Chicago, IL 60642, or waiting for mail and often receiving it after the event has passed. The consensus among Evergreen Park businesses and residents is that a suburban ZIP is long, long overdue. Write a letter, send it to Mayor Vacco and maybe the Post Office will recognize that the time has come... Evergreen Park needs and deserves its own identity and must have a suburban ZIP Code.

Question: When does a dove become a hawk?
Answer: When he becomes President of the United States.
 When the South was fighting the North in Vietnam, Bill Clinton was a 'wet-behind-the-ears' student at Oxford who not only demonstrated against United States military intervention in the Vietnam civil war, but even pulled out every stop to avoid being drafted.

As a college student, Bill Clinton wrote letters to ROTC commanders detailing his opposition to the United States using military forces in the Vietnam 'civil war.'

He even went so far as promising to enroll at the University of Arkansas and join the ROTC just so he could avoid being drafted.

History will record that Bill Clinton never did enroll at the University of Arkansas and join the ROTC because he pulled a high draft number and by that time President Nixon and Congress had decided that only 19 to 21 year-old men would be drafted, and Bill Clinton was in his mid twenties and would only be drafted if the North Vietnam forces were on the outskirts of Little Rock.

Now fast-forward 20 years.

Bill Clinton is President Bill Clinton of the United States of America and he has decided that our fighting men and women of the military should somehow sweep into the civil war raging in Bosnia-Herzegovina.

Or, if he can't sell that idea to our Allied friends, then the United States is going to send a peace keeping force into Macedonia so we can contain the spread of ethnic cleansing.

What happened to the old Bill Clinton who once voiced and demonstrated against United States military intervention in the civil war being fought in Vietnam?

I guess things look a little different when you are sitting in the Oval office instead of parading around in front of the White House or in front of the United States embassy headquarters in London with hand-painted placards spelling out your hatred for sending young Americans into a civil war 7,000 miles away.

President Bill Clinton likes to quote President Harry Truman whenever he has the chance.

In fact, just the other day, he said he ordered the same style of shoes Harry Truman wore when he was President.

Is this what the pundits mean when they say President Clinton is walking in the footsteps of President Truman?

President Truman sent a small peace-keeping mission into Korea in 1950 under the guise of a "Police Action" when the North Koreans were fighting the South Koreans in a civil war.

Over the next three years, the "Police Action" had escalated into a full-blown war which cost the United States 58,000 lives and 107,000 wounded.

President Truman tried to sell the American public that American Armed Forces were needed in Korea to stop the spread of Communism.

Fast-forward again 40 years and no longer is there the threat of Communism in Korea, but the North Koreans are threatening to build an atom bomb and the South Koreans along with the rest of the international community are more than just a little ticked off.

The United States jumped into Somalia after television news pictures showed starving people and a hunger genocide ravishing the country.

You don't read much about Somalia anymore, but you don't read much or see pictures of starving people in Sudan either.

One of the reasons you don't see pictures of starving people in Sudan is that the Sudanese government won't allow satellite dishes in their country and there are strict restrictions on journalists and television coverage of the civil war being fought there.

You also don't see a lot of news coverage of the "ethnic cleansing" going on in Cambodia because the Khmer Rouge are more than just a little camera shy. In fact, thousands of people are being slaughtered but there is a "news blackout" on what is going on in Cambodia.

When the United States was engaged in the great Civil War of the North against the South not a single foreign country felt it was their duty to save Atlanta from being burned to the ground, or to rescue all the plantation owners caught up in the "ethnic cleansing" being waged by Union soldiers against Confederate soldiers.

Great Britain, France and the other world powers of the 1860's just let us duke it out with ourselves. That is what Civil Wars are all about, or at least what they used to be all about, that is until TV news coverage brought the carnage right into our living rooms.

So now Bill Clinton, once the ultimate dove, has become the ultimate hawk racing around trying to drum up support for military intervention into Bosnia.

So far most of the Allied countries are acting like they did during the Civil War, turning a deaf ear, and so President Clinton is left contemplating sending a "peace keeping mission" or "police action" force into Macedonia in an effort to halt the spread of "ethnic cleansing."

Who says history doesn't repeat itself?

'Eternal Flame' Dedication

Al Grajek's long-time dream is about to become reality. On Sunday, May 23rd, the unveiling of the 'Eternal Flame' Veterans Memorial at 111th and Harlem is scheduled for 11 a.m. Grajek was the force behind construction of this 26-foot granite and stainless steel 'Eternal Flame' dedicated to U.S. Veterans who participated in all wars fought in defense of America's freedom.

Jesse Brown, Secretary of the Department of Veterans Affairs, is to be the principal speaker at the unveiling ceremony and will conduct the removal of the American flags draping the Memorial. He is to officially dedicate this stirring testimonial to those who fought and died in defense of liberty. Hon. Dan Kumingo, retired Mayor of the Village of Worth will proclaim the monument as an historic landmark. Preceding the dedication ceremony, beginning at 10 a.m., the Southwest Concert Band is to prepare the mood for the unveiling with one hour of martial music.

The 'Eternal Flame' has been designed to honor and pay everlasting tribute to the millions of American men and women who so faithfully served their country in times of strife. These dedicated individuals were members of the five branches of service; the Army, Navy, Marines, Coast Guard and Air Force.

Significant parts of the Memorial include seven steps leading to the granite base which signify the seven continents on which was involving the U.S. have taken place. Eleven black oak trees flank the Memorial, signifying the eleven wars in which Americans have fought and died since the beginning of our great Republic. Eleven granite markers embedded in the memorial walkway indicate the number of participants in each of America's wars and how many died in each of those conflicts. The memorial itself is centered in an impressive forget-me-not flower pointing out the need to always remember the sacrifices of those who fought and died. A mosaic soldier is eternally on guard, welcoming visitors to the Veterans Memorial Park.

The 'Eternal Flame' is to be illuminated by lights which create a glow and the illusion of a flame. During daylight hours, the sun will give a reflected glow, also giving the illusion of a flame.

Grajek reminds the public that $37,000 still must be raised and says that checks should be made payable to Veterans Memorial Foundation and forwarded to Worth Bank and Trust Co., 6825 W. 111th St., Worth, IL 60482.

The public is encouraged to attend the unveiling of the 'Eternal Flame' and to take part in this historic event.

Protection

A proposal by Secretary of State George H. Ryan to further safeguard the privacy of Illinois drivers and vehicle owners now awaits the governor's signature. The consumer-protection measure, Senate Bill 901, has passed the House 115-0. It passed the Senate last month with only one opposing vote.

"This legislation should give added peace of mind to people, women in particular, concerned that a stranger will obtain their home address," Ryan said. "I firmly believe that addresses and other items of personal information, such as height and weight, should not be released to just anyone who walks in off the street."

Additionally, the measure would allow motorists to have their names removed from lists purchased for commercial mailing purposes from the Secretary of State's office.

The legislation builds on safeguards implemented by Ryan in mid-1991. That legislation created a 10-day delay in the release of driving and vehicle records to the general public.

That law, which took effect on July 1st, 1992, also authorized the Secretary of State's office to notify people anytime an individual requested a copy of their driving or vehicle records.

Since then, however, many of those who were notified of such a request have urged Ryan's office not to release their addresses or other personal information under any circumstances.

Ryan's new proposal, based on recommendations made in February by his advisory council on public records and privacy, would make four major changes in the way his office discloses information: prohibit the release of personal information to anyone without a specific, business-related reason for obtaining the material (among those exempted would be insurance companies, auto-related businesses and law enforcement officials); prohibit the release of addresses to any purchaser if individuals notify the Secretary of State's office that they have a court order of protection; allow people, by making a request to the Secretary of State's office, to keep personal information from being used for unsolicited mailings; and require companies that make bulk purchases of information to disclose how they plan to use the material.

As Secretary of State, Ryan is caretaker of more than 15 million driving and vehicle records. The office sold more than 4.6 million driving records and nearly 60,000 vehicle records in 1992, raising about $10 million for the road fund.

Of those records, only about 1,500 were sold to individual purchasers after the new privacy rules took effect last July.

Traffic Deaths

Traffic fatalities for April totaled 80 as a result of 76 accidents, a decrease of 12.1 percent from the 91 deaths in April of 1992, according to provisional figures released by the Illinois Departments of Transportation (IDOT) and State Police. Included in the totals were 10 pedestrians killed in 10 accidents, 6 persons killed in 6 accidents involving motorcycles, 1 bicyclist killed in 1 accident, and 2 persons killed in one railroad crossing accident.

The provisional total of 341 deaths for 1993 is a decrease of 4.7 percent from the 358 in 1992. The department's latest provisional figures indicate travel increased by 1.7 percent for the same time period.

SIPP Survey

Local representatives of the U.S. Census Bureau will visit selected area households beginning on Tuesday, June 1st to conduct its Survey of Income and Program Participation (SIPP), Stanley D. Moore, director of the bureau's Chicago regional office, announced.

SIPP, a continuing nationwide survey introduced in the fall of 1983, is one of the nation's largest, with about 60,000 households participating. The census bureau publishes periodic reports with information from the survey.

Subjects covered include jobs and earnings; the economic effects of unemployment, disability and retirement; how taxes affect personal spending; participation in programs such as Social Security, Medicare, Medicaid, food stamps and pension plans.

Information from SIPP helps policymakers and administrators determine how well government programs are serving the public and how changes in programs and policies will affect the public.

Summer Adoption Hours

The Anti-Cruelty Society, 510 N. LaSalle, begins summer adoption hours on Tuesday, June 1st. New adoption hours will be weekdays from 12 noon to 6 p.m. and weekends from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. The society will be receiving unwanted and stray animals from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. The society hopes that increased summer hours will allow for more homeless animals to find loving, permanent homes. These increased hours will allow prospective adopters additional time to come to the shelter and to choose a furry friend.

The Anti-Cruelty Society clinic hours will remain the same, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Clients must call (312) 644-8338 for an appointment.

The closer you look at it, the more you realize that there are HMO's from Blue Cross and then there's everybody else.

Tom Denham
Senior Vice President, Sales

Blue Cross has been offering HMO coverage for pretty close to twenty years now. And over those years, we've become the biggest HMO in Illinois.

With far more doctors in far more locations than anybody else. With more options than any of the others.

Of course, new HMOs pop up all the time. Promising to give you more. Promising to do it for less.

But HMO Illinois—a Blue Cross HMO—continues to thrive. Taking on all comers. Winning over companies that need a strong, efficient HMO on their side.

Today, nobody can offer your people better access to good quality health care than we can. Here in Illinois. And all across America, where Blue Cross and Blue Shield plans care for more than 70 million people.

When it gets to be time to re-enroll, look at our track record. Look at the hard numbers. Look at what we've accomplished over twenty years.

You know what I think you'll find? I think you'll find that the gold standard in HMO coverage isn't really gold after all. It's actually a very nice shade of blue.

If you noticed the thick, black smoke billowing into the sky to the northwest area of the village on Friday afternoon, it was a fire in a waste oil reclaiming business in Bridgeview. All the firefighting units in the surrounding areas, including Oak Lawn, were there to help put out the fire.

Honor Society

Saint John's University senior William O'Brien, son of Raymond and Marilyn O'Brien of Oak Lawn, was recently inducted into the Sigma Pi chapter of Sigma Delta Pi, the National Collegiate Hispanic Honor Society. The inductees were honored with an initiation ceremony and reception at the College of St. Benedict. The La Sociedad Honoraria Hispanica was established in 1919 at the University of California at Berkeley and is currently the largest foreign language honor society in existence, with over 430 chapters nationwide.

Initiates into the society have demonstrated excellence in the study of the Spanish language, literature and the culture of the Spanish-speaking peoples. Members of Sigma Delta Pi must have a GPA of at least 2.75 and average of 3.0 in all Spanish courses.

Students at Saint John's University, a men's college, and the College of St. Benedict, a nearby women's college, share an academic and social environment on their two Central Minnesota campuses.

Matt and Rose Lamb hosted the former curator of the Vatican Museum, Dr. Walter Persegatti, at a festive event recently to announce plans for private viewing of the newly restored works of Michelangelo in the Sistine Chapel in Rome. The Lambs were joined by the Reverend Robert L. Kealy, former chancellor of the Archdiocese of Chicago, and the Reverend Wayne Prist, director of the center for development in ministry. Other special guests included Diane Karzas and Mary Kay Eyerman, who are planning the extraordinary events for Midwesterners who will attend the spectacular unveiling next spring.

Patrons of some of the greatest art the world has ever known will enjoy picnics in the Vatican Forest and candlelight dinner in the Borghese Gallery. A direct flight from Chicago to Rome, is included in the celebration package. The Sistine Chapel has been undergoing painstaking restoration for years, and visitors have been obliged to peer past scaffolding or have been unable to see the famous frescoes at all. Delicate and futuristic scientific techniques have helped expose the brilliant colors of the original works that have not been seen for centuries.

The Lambs were asked to host the announcement event because of their dedication to the arts. He is a noted painter as well as chairman of Blake-Lamb Funeral Homes. Those interested in learning more about plans for the unveiling of the Sistine Chapel may call (312) 280-8633.

Senator O'Malley Opens Alsip Office

State Sen. Patrick O'Malley (R-18) announced that his legislative office in Alsip is now open and ready to assist the citizens of the 18th District.

Located at 5100 W. 127th St., the office is open from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday, staffed by Karen Bartlett, O'Malley's administrative assistant, and Maureen Casey, his legislative aide. The telephone number is (708) 396-1818.

"The boxes are unpacked and we have finally settled into our Alsip office. We had been doing our work in temporary quarters and from my office in Springfield," O'Malley said. "We took our time selecting an office in the district because we wanted it to be a convenient location and accessible to as many citizens as possible. The time taken proved well worth the effort as the office is centrally located within the district's boundaries."

"My staff and I look forward to helping 18th District citizens. No concern is too small. If it is a problem that needs the attention of local or federal officials, we will help find the right person to call," O'Malley added. "If we can help, we will."

Sen. O'Malley says he plans to host an open house at his new office after the Senate adjourns for the summer.

"I want to expand my participation with the parish," Nolan related. "Being a member of the pastoral council will enable me to learn more about what it takes to make St. Catherine's tick. It's time for me to give something back for all of the education and memorable experiences that I have been privileged to gain."

POLICE CALLS

The following incidents were listed in the official reports of the Oak Lawn Police Department. Readers are reminded that an arrest by police does not constitute a finding of guilt and only a court of law can make that determination.

Oak Lawn police charged Elgred Douglas Frison of Chicago with retail theft after he was allegedly seen by a clerk at Service Merchandise, 8812 S. Cicero, leaving with a large plastic bag. When store security agents chased him, an unidentified passerby joined in the pursuit and helped stop him. Police found and recovered $274 worth of merchandise. A search of the lot revealed a vehicle and numerous Service Merchandise bags. Police searched Frison's car and allegedly found 12 hypodermic needles, a pipe, a knife, wire cutters, $455 worth of perfume from another Service Merchandise store, and registration papers of the car's owner, a Blue Island resident. He was charged with felony theft.

On the 7th, Irene Haugen of Oak Lawn reported her $200 spare tire was removed from her 1992 Ford Econoline.

On the 8th, Sonya Doyle of Markham was seen by the security at Venture, 4101 W. 95th St., allegedly placing a color TV valued at $399 into a cart, going to the front of the store and leaving without paying. NSSF HELPS LAUNCH NEW WOMEN'S SHOOTING SPORTS FOUNDATION - In response to the dramatic growth of women's participation in the shooting sports over the past few years, and in an effort to welcome more women to the ranks of the shooting sports, the NATIONAL SHOOTING SPORTS FOUNDATION (NSSF) has helped launch a new organization dedicated to expanding hunting and shooting opportunities for women. This effort is a major step in a long-term NSSF campaign to support and stimulate women's shooting sports activities across the country.

"With the number of women hunters literally doubling in the past five years, and with the number of women target shooters going right off the charts," said Bob Delfay, NSSF president, "there's no question that the time has come for an organization devoted exclusively to women's shooting sports interests."

The new WOMEN'S SHOOTING SPORTS FOUNDATION (NSSF) is a national, non-profit membership organization with headquarters in Houston, Texas. Sue King, a lifelong hunter and nationally known firearms instructor, has been named national director of the WSSF. "We're thrilled about the support -- and the recognition -- given to us by the NSSF and its many industry members," said King. "The NSSF has taken a big step forward in helping us provide the growing ranks of women hunters and shooters in America with a league of our own." The WSSF has already put together a program that will help women get started in shooting and that will help provide them with the information and products they need to enjoy these great sports."

For 1993, the WSSF has organized 15 "WOMEN'S ONLY" sporting clays events around the country as part of its Ladies Charity Classic Series. Similar events for handgun and rifle shooting are in the planning stage.

As part of its overall effort to promote women's shooting sports participation, NSSF has sponsored a special shooting section in WOMEN'S SPORTS & FITNESS magazine since 1990. These sections have helped to introduce over 350,000 women annually to shooting games such as Summer Biathlon and Sporting Clays. For the past three years NSSF has been a major financial sponsor of the "Becoming an Outdoors-Woman" workshop seminars, sponsored by the University of Wisconsin, Stevens Point. Each of these workshops, which introduce women to a wide range of hunting and shooting activities, has been a "sell-out." For more information about the Women's Shooting Sports Foundation, contact Glynnie Moseley, at WSSF, 1505 Highway 6 South, Suite 103, Houston, Texas, 77077.

LOCAL FISHING HOURS BACK TO NORMAL - The Illinois, Kankakee, DesPlaines and Fox Rivers are cleaning up and returning to acceptable water levels. The Edison Cooling Lakes at LaSalle, Hiedeke and Braidwood are open for boating and shore line fishing. Long waiting lines to launch a boat are still a problem at LaSalle Lake, particularly on weekends.

OUT OF THE POCKETS OF SPORTSMEN - Hunters and fishermen underwrite fish and wildlife conservation in this country to the tune of $1.2 billion annually. But where does the money come from? Here are the 1992 totals from the U.S. FISH AND WILDLIFE SERVICE: Fishing Licenses and Permits: $374.9 million, Wallop-Breaux Taxes on Fishing Equipment and Boat Fuel: $202.8 million, Hunting Licenses and Permits: $438.5 million, Pittman-Robertson Taxes on Hunting and Shooting Supplies: $150.6 million.

Also fishing and hunting are big business, employing millions of people across the country. Some estimates from the SPORT FISHING INSTITUTE and the International Association of Fish and Wildlife Agencies: FISHING: retail sales - $27.2 billion. JOBS - 1,178,129. SALES and INCOME TAXES - $2.7 billion. HUNTING: retail sales - $10.9 billion. JOBS - 384,000. SALES and INCOME TAXES - $1.9 billion.

Mary along with Harry Costelloe hosts the Gaelic Park radio show every Sunday night from 7:05 p.m. to 9 p.m. on WCEV 1450 AM. Joan Lynch of Oak Lawn was chosen corresponding secretary for the fifth time.

Cait Scanlon of Oak Lawn was elected treasurer. Assisting her are Marie Rattigan of Worth and Martina Ryan of Chicago.

From a dream of an Irish center in 1983, Gaelic Park has developed into an 18-acre complex which is constantly vibrant with activity. The facilities include a beautiful banquet hall, lounge and meeting rooms. There are full playing fields for Irish sports such as hurling and Gaelic football. Gaelic Park is the home of the local Gaelic Athletic Association which plays its games every Sunday during the summer. The facility also sponsors numerous concerts, dances, plays, a monthly mass and Irish breakfast and the weekly radio broadcast from its own studio. Its lounge is open to the public every night.

The past year included the first production of the Gaelic Park Players, a theater group which presents plays by Irish authors. "Ireland on Parade," the week long celebration of Ireland's patron saint, Patrick, was a record setting success.

The first order of business for the new officers is the annual Gaelic Park Irish Festival Memorial Day Weekend. Each year approximately 50,000 people enjoy the festivities. Plans are well underway for this year's festival which will include over 40 acts performing on four stages, import stores, food and carnival rides.

For further information, call Gaelic Park at (708) 687-9323.

Guild Dinner

Vet Memorial

On Nov. 7th, the Lansing Veterans Memorial is to be dedicated as the original concept will have been completed. The basic memorial being the UH-1B Huey Helicopter, POW/MIA fountain, service flags, landscaping and black granite wall with fallen veterans' names inscribed. Eight to 12 lifesize statues are to be added later.

The Chicago South Eastside Vietnam Veterans organization has, since 1989, been trying to locate the surviving relatives of 61 fallen vets who died in America's involvement in Vietnam. The intent is to sponsor their names on the granite wall of the Lansing Memorial. With the dedication nearing, the vets are still trying to locate the following families to inform them of their intentions and invite them to the dedication.

PFC Harold E. Rekau, Army, Calumet City; Cpl. Joseph Flavio Paez, Army, Chicago; Sgt. Joseph Michael Hartl, Army, Chicago; L/CPL David Knox, USMC, Dolton; PFC William J. Lenover, USMC, Dolton; SP4 Harold Dean Spragg, Army, Dolton; No. Robert Walter Brose, Army, Lansing; CPL James A. Burton, USMC, Lansing; and PFC Andrew Glen Sabo, Army, Lansing.

Anyone having information as to the whereabouts of a family, please respond by telephone to Rich Dominiak at (708) 862-7731, or by mail to: South Eastside Vietnam Vets, P.O. Box 17400, Chicago, IL 60617.

TAKE A TOUR ON THE WILD SIDE.....Anyone who has recently visited downtown Chicago will know in a New York second that the tourist season is in full bloom. Walk down Michigan Avenue and you have to virtually break into an openfield run to avoid all the tourists, cameras at the ready, gawking at the sights and scenes along the Magnificent Mile. Horses and carriages are out on every side street, and the double-deck bus trade is doing a booming business. The Wendella and Spirit of Chicago boats have been pulled out of dry dock and gaggles of eager tourists are lined up waiting to take a cruise up or down the Chicago river and out into Lake Michigan for a view of the beautiful Chicago skyline. The tour guides, like Chicago baseball teams, have had a whole winter to rest up their vocal cords, practice their newest ad libs, and brush-up on the latest Chicago trivia. Spring has sprung and the tourist industry is ready for the onslaught of smiling, polyester garbed, camera-toting visitors, who have one thing in common—they all have their heads tilted back at a 90 degree angle. Does anything ever happen at ground level, or is everything worth seeing in Chicago up in the air?

IN STARK CONTRAST to a tour around Chicago is a tour around Hollywood where the tour guides are all escapees from the Comedy Workshop. Instead of passing out information in a semi-bored monotone, the Hollywood tour guide is equipped with the latest gag lines and he or she is a virtual cornucopia of one-liners that would turn Jay Leno and David Letterman's comedy writers green with envy. Take a tour in Hollywood and as you pass the home of Zsa Zsa Gabor, the tour guide muses; "Zsa Zsa is a good housekeeper. Whenever she gets a divorce, she keeps the house." A little further along the tour route, as you turn into the Beverly Hills area where many of the stars reside, the tour guide tries out another gag. "You can always tell a Beverly Hills widow," she says. "She's the lady in the black tennis dress." Passing a group of down and out street people on Hollywood Boulevard, a tourist wondered aloud why they come to Los Angeles. Not missing a beat, the tour guide fired back; "If you're down and out in America, why stay in Minnesota, in the snow?"

JASON SCOTT LEE (inset) stars as Bruce Lee, an extraordinary man who became a legend for all time in the world of movies and martial arts, in the Universal Pictures release "Dragon: The Bruce Lee Story" which is setting box office records at movie houses all over the Chicago area....Jack King, executive director of Guildhaus, the halfway house for substance abusers in Blue Island, was the recipient last Saturday night of the first annual community service award by the South Suburban Council on Alcoholism and Substance Abuse....The "Greatest Spectacle in Racing," the Indy 500, will be run on May 30 with ABC-TV television again providing flag to flag coverage beginning at 10 a.m. with all the pre-race hoopla.

SHIRLEY HEMPHILL (inset), an extremely talented comedienne, will headline the first in a series of monthly "Chicago Comedy Cruises" from 11:30 p.m. to 2 a.m. aboard The Spirit of Chicago starting on May 29th....The Beverly Art Center will hold its annual art fair and festival on June 19 and 20. In addition to the artists creations, this year the Art Fair and Festival will feature an eclectic musical entertainment program and a young artist's competition open to children from age 4 to 14. The theme of the contest is "fun in the summertime."...Over 600 architectural models, furnishings, drawings and prints in the Art Institute of Chicago's new exhibit, "Chicago Architecture and Design: 1923-1993" will be previewed at a benefit opening on June 9 from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m.

TOMMY TUNE (inset), the multi-award winner, will bring his white tie, tails and tap shoes back to the stage of the Shubert Theatre from June 1 through June 6 in the song and dance act "Tommy Tune Tonight!"....If you are wondering how your company stacks up in the public relations area, you can write David Jacobson/Public Relations, 1702 N. Drury Lane, Arlington Heights, IL 60004-4050 and obtain a free copy of "What is Your Company's Public Relations Rating?" Jacobson is a veteran Chicago tub-thumper and has taught publicity and public relations courses as well as writing numerous articles on the subjects.

Irish Fest '93 Entertainment

It will be the finest gathering of Irish entertainment in America at Gaelic Park's Irish Fest '93 on Memorial Day Weekend, May 28th through 31st. There will be 18 acres of music, dancing, carnival rides, food and fun for the entire family at Gaelic Park, 6119 W. 147th St.

International stars such as The Dublin City Ramblers (pictured), Johnny McEvoy, Sharon Shannon, Paddy Reilly and Tip Splinter will be joined by more than 35 other local and national stars to provide four outdoor stages of continuous entertainment.

"Our headliners represent some of the top Irish recording stars for the last 25 years," said Frank Bradley, chair of the fest. "When you add such entertainers as Carmel Quinn, Dave Coady, Matt Cunningham, Cliffs of Dooneen, The Rogues, Conal Gallen, Noel Henry and Arranmore you have a line up that can't be beat."

There will also be a great variety of performers including Rock sensations Black 47, whose music currently appears on local radio stations and is skyrocketing in popularity. They were recently featured in Time Magazine and can be seen on MTV.

Local heavyweight "Ed Zeppelin, (managed by Kevin Matthews of WLUP radio) is also making a return performance. Finally, perennial favorites "The Dancing Noodles" and "Joel Daly and the Sundowners" round out the entertainment.

In addition to the music there are two dance floors for the crowd to get into the action as well as exhibitions by Irish step dancing schools. Sixteen restaurateurs will provide a wide variety of cuisine including Winston's Irish delicacies, Fox's Pizza, and Olde Towne Inn barbecue. There will be selections of Chinese, Philippino, Italian and German foods. For shoppers, 20 Irish import stores will be selling their wares.

Irish Fest is a family affair with special emphasis on children. One stage is dedicated to kid's entertainers such as magicians, puppeteers and jugglers. There are face painters, freckle face, red hair and bonnie baby contests. The kids favorite, though, is the carnival midway with over fifteen rides and attractions. All the entertainment and unlimited rides on the carnival amusements are included in the admission price of $8. Senior citizen tickets are $5 and children three and under are admitted free.

The festival opens on Friday, May 28th from 3 p.m. to 11:30 p.m. with half price admission from 3 to 4:30 p.m. Fest hours Saturday and Sunday, May 29th and 30th, are 12 noon to 11:30 p.m. with a special mass on Sunday at 10:30 a.m. On Monday, Memorial Day, the fest runs from 12 noon to 8 p.m.

Calm Reigns In Village

It was a very quiet and short meeting of the Oak Lawn Board of Trustees held Tuesday evening. The board approved a parking variation for the dialysis center at 9115 S. Cicero Ave., and removal of the stop signs at 92nd St. and Menard Ave. Residents asked that this be done because it was creating a traffic hazard.

Gail Paul was appointed as the authorized agent for IMRF (Illinois Municipal Retirement Fund) with the title of accounting manager.

The board also approved an amendment to the zoning ordinance granting certain building height and number of stories variations for the property at 4545 W. 95th St. where condominiums are to be erected. These passed by a 5-1 vote with Robert Streit casting the dissenting vote.

An ordinance amending the title 1 A & C of the Village code with regards to the village treasurer was approved. Mayor Ernest Kolb pointed out that the treasurer will not have any health coverage, saving a considerable amount of money.

Trustee Ron Stancik said he has received a number of complaints from residents who have attended meetings when there was a large group and they could not hear what was being said and suggested that the staff check into a better sound system. He also asked that since the auditors have a relatively long contract that this be looked into.

Trustee Marjorie Joy said she has been approached by some of the teens who served on the village board who would like to have the village form a teen board. She said there would be no cost to the village since they would be volunteers. They are especially interested in the environment.

Trustee Cyrus Holesha brought up sidewalk overparking and asked if police could issue tickets. He suggests that residents empty their garages so they can at least get one of the cars off the sidewalks.

Trustee William Keane said he would like the manager to look into the contracts which have the village owing $24,000 for the consulting authorized by the former manager and also a $3,000 bill from the University of Illinois for the fact that the former treasurer was removed from his classroom and a substitute had to be hired. Kolb pointed out that this had never been brought before the previous board.

In other business, Kolb made the following appointments for the fair housing commission: District 4, Paul Greenan, from May 23rd, 1993 to May, 1996; Dist. 5, Mary Ellen Stalker from May 25, 1993 to May 1996; and Richard O'Neill, currently serving until May, 1995. Diane Johnson was appointed for a two-year term to the police pension board and Walter Nied, District 1, to the senior citizen commission for two years.

Kolb said they had selected persons to serve on the E911 board, but it must be done again so he appointed himself, fire chief, police chief, communications director, and residents Linda Sieracki and Harold Patzelt.

Mrs. Marlene Eberhardt of Central Ave. asked when work will begin on the rest of Central Ave. and if signs will be put up prohibiting the use of the recently completed work from 105th St. to 97th St. by 18-wheel trucks which weight 10 tons empty.

Another resident had talked to Holesha about removing the fence and light poles being stored at 95th and New England. She said there are a number of accidents at that intersection. Holesha said he had already talked to public works director Don Canning who said the poles and other things stored there will be removed.

Golf Tournament

The eighth annual Park Lawn Invitational Golf Tournament, "A Day in the Sun," will be held on Monday, July 19th at Midlothian Country Club. A full day is planned, including lunch, 18 holes of golf, a reception with cocktails and hors d'oeuvres, dinner, and music.

The annual tournament was started by the late Fred M. Dumke, former mayor of Oak Lawn and longtime supporter of Park Lawn. All proceeds are dedicated to endowment in order to assure that resources continue to be available for children and adults with mental and physical disabilities at Park Lawn.

The committee is headed by Martha Dumke, honorary chairperson; LeRoy Corradino, chairman; and John Fleck, coordinator. Other committee members include Carol Bateman, Davis Boyd, Michele Collings, Marge Fleck, Robert Holland, John Joyce, Edward Mulcahy, John Puhr and Michael Walsh.

Persons interested in participating in the tournament or becoming a sponsor should call (708) 425-6867.

H. L. Richards High School held its annual interscholastic awards program on May 11th. Sponsors presented awards to their clubs or teams based on participation and skills. Senior Robia Johnson of Calumet Park received the speech team's outstanding trophy award. Dual winners in group interpretation were awarded to seniors Tracy Johnson of Robbins and Cindy Nuei of Chicago Ridge.

For those of us concerned about how Village President Ernie Kolb will manage his term on the severely reduced salary which was cut from $40,000 a year to $16,000 a year, he can start tapping into his pension money next month to make up the difference. Since we have a village manager type government, the four trustees in the majority on the board last December pointed out this is a part-time job. According to Village Attorney Thomas Bayer, the number of hours he must work is 599 annually which makes it an average of less than 12 hours per week. If he puts in more hours than called for, he does it on his own time.

The Oak Lawn Park District has hired Tim Scott, 31, as superintendent for the Stony Creek Golf Course and he will earn a $35,000 annual salary. He has worked in the industry for a number of years and he has a turf management degree from Rutgers University. He currently holds the position of assistant superintendent at Lake Shore Country Club in the north suburbs. His job will be to make sure the architect's detailed plans are followed closely. Work on the course should start within the next few weeks and the opening is planned for 1994.

Congratulations to Tony Opila, son of Rich and Sue Opila, a senior at Richards High School who was named "Student of the Month" by the Oak Lawn Elks.

Start Mural Project

On April 22nd, Mother McAuley art teachers, art students and National Art Honor Society members worked with Eda Schrimple, Beverly Art Planning Association economic development director, to begin work on a mural project at 99th Street and Walden Parkway. The project involved painting the rear entrances of four stores in order to make the businesses more appealing to commuters at the 99th St. Metra station.

In other art department news, art history, studio art and graphic design teacher Ms. Kathleen Gordon had artwork exhibited in the National Art Education Association's electronic gallery at the ninth annual NAEA convention in April. Ms. Gordon's work was chosen "Best of Show" among 148 entries from 31 states and three Canadian provinces.

A number of students have also won awards recently. Junior Tiffany Chappelle of Ashburn won 2nd place in the creative expressions contest for "Be Kind To Animals Week," sponsored by the Anti-Cruelty Society, and students recognized in the Boulevard Art Center's 18th Annual Southside High School Art Fair Exhibit include Terese Zavadis, a senior who received a gold award in photography;

Loan Lite Program Offers Rebate

The First National Bank of Chicago has unveiled a new variable rate consumer loan program that allows customers to lock in monthly payments while also gaining a cash-back rebate when the loan closes.

The program, called "Loan Lite," extends through June 13th and revolves around a variable rate installment loan that is tied to the low prime rate. It offers loan customers a "lite" fixed payment with a final payment that may fluctuate depending on the movements of the prime rate.

The prime rate is currently at 6 percent, where it has been since July 2nd, 1992. Current variable rates available under the program range from 6.9 percent to 12.4 percent.

A second feature of First Chicago's new loan program is a 1 percent cash rebate. Under the rebate, also effective through June 13th, individuals who get a new loan through "Loan Lite" or refinance a non-First Chicago loan through the program will receive back 1 percent of the amount borrowed, up to $300 cash.

"We're happy to be able to provide current and prospective customers with this innovative lending program that has one of the lowest rates in the Chicago metropolitan area," said Jerry Goldstein, head of First Chicago's branches in the south region.

"With 'Loan Lite,' customers can get a great rate and not worry about their monthly payments. And the rebate allows us to give them something back - an incentive to act now."

The First National Bank of Chicago, a subsidiary of First Chicago Corporation, provides full-service banking to individuals and small businesses through its 70-plus locations in the Chicago metropolitan area. Its south branches are located at Dearborn Station, W. Wacker Dr., 4730 W. 79th St., 4363 S. Archer, 8340 S. Kedzie, 6245 S. Western, in Little Village, Burbank, Oak Lawn, Orland Park, Pilsen, Worth and Lansing.

PROPOSED CHANGES IN PHYSICIAN AND HOSPITAL CLINIC REIMBURSEMENT UNDER THE HEALTHY MOMS/HEALTHY KIDS PROGRAM

Effective April 1, 1993, the Illinois Department of Public Aid will reimburse participating physicians enhanced rates for selected services provided under the Healthy Moms/Healthy Kids Program. The program will serve pregnant women and children through age 20 participating in the Medicaid program statewide. To participate, physicians must, at a minimum, maintain hospital admitting privileges and provide 24-hour telephone coverage for consultation. A managed care component will be implemented for clients residing in the Chicago area.

The Department will also recognize Federally Qualified Health Clinics, hospital operated clinics and Health Maintenance Organizations as providers. All clinics must be certified in accordance with forthcoming rules.

The managed care component operated in Chicago will require that all Medicaid enrolled pregnant women and children to age 21 choose and be assigned to a single primary care provider who will provide services, or authorize services rendered by another provider when those services fall outside the scope of the primary care provider's practice. A monthly patient management fee will be paid to the primary care physician for each client assigned to them.

Inquiries about participation in the Healthy Moms/Healthy Kids program should be directed to the Illinois Department of Public Aid. The number to call for the Chicago area is 312/793-3080. For all other areas of the state, the number is 217/782-5565. Rules will be available for review in mid-June at the Director's Office at 624 South Michigan Avenue, 13th floor, Chicago, Illinois, and may be reviewed during normal business hours.

Information on these changes may be reviewed at any local Public Aid office in counties other than Cook County. In Cook County, information on these changes may be reviewed at 624 S. Michigan, Chicago, Illinois.

Job Training

Associated Design Service, 11160 Southwest Highway, Palos Hills, is offering a 20-week, 800-hour highly accelerated drafting/training program for south and southwest suburban persons who are un-employed, under-employed or displaced homemakers who meet certain criteria. This program is sponsored by the "Cook County Presidents Office of Employment Training" and the "Job Training Partnership Act."

The school is also available for a fee, to individuals not meeting the financial criteria set up for the free program. Topics covered include mechanical, architectural, CAD, and blue-print machine operation. These individuals are also candidates for positions requiring blue-print reading such as estimating, material take off, lab technician, etc. Upon successful completion of the intensive course, the individual is capable of doing "a neat accurate drawing, in the least amount of time with minimum supervision."

Previous education and experience is not a factor for enrollment. Aptitude tests and personal interviews determine whether an individual has the ability and inclination to successfully complete this program leading to a career in drafting and its related fields.

The program is tailored to fit the student's previous education, learning abilities and physical handicaps, if any. Emphasis is placed on each student achieving the highest competency level possible. Admission is on an open entry basis made possible due to the highly personalized nature of the program. Upon completion a certificate is awarded.

Employers interested in entry level draftspeople are invited to review the program and interview potential employees.

"Eternal Flame"

At 11 a.m. last Sunday, Al Grajek's vision of a memorial to America's fighting men and women became reality with the unveiling of the 'Eternal Flame' monument. The monument is a 20-foot stainless steel flame atop a six-foot granite base, the focus of Veterans Memorial Park on the northeast corner of 111th St. and Harlem Ave. The 'Eternal Flame' is illuminated during the night by lights which give the illusion of a glowing flame.

President Bill Clinton's approval ratings continue to take a nosedive and much of the blame has to be placed inside the White House where the president has surrounded himself with a gaggle of inexperienced fraternity/sorority types.

At last count, 17 White House staffers were seen wearing earrings and that doesn't take into account all the young women who work in key White House jobs who would be expected to wear earrings.

The 'wet-behind-the-earrings' White House execs are taking the heat for unprofessionally dumping the White House travel staff, some who had been working in the White House since the time of John F. Kennedy, and replacing them with a distant relative of Bill Clinton, 25-year-old Catherine Cornelius, who immediately went out and hired World Wide Travel, a travel agency out of Little Rock, to handle all the travel bookings for the White House staff and press corps.

When the story broke about the firings and the hirings of a 'distant relative,' the teeny-boppers in the White House acted like a bunch of fraternity kids caught in a panty-raid.

World Wide Travel was given the axe before they could even sign the first travel voucher and replaced with American Express Travel, a company that so far could not be accused of cronyism by the always watchful eye of the White House press corps.

But the "Have Relative, Will Travel" fiasco was almost overshadowed by the "Hair Force One" debacle where President Clinton held up two runways at busy Los Angeles International Airport for 56 minutes while Beverly Hills hair stylist, "Cristophe of Beverly Hills," was escorted by Secret Service Agents onto Air Force One so President Clinton could get his locks trimmed to the tune of $200 plus an undisclosed tip.

President Clinton then was whisked by motorcade to a South Los Angeles playground, scene of the bloody L.A. riots, where the President, sporting his new "do," engaged in a pick-up game of basketball with some inner city kids.

Meanwhile, back at LAX, the planes that had been circling over the airport for 56 minutes while "Cristophe of Beverly Hills" applied the final touches with a can of hair spray to President Clinton's locks, were finally allowed to land.

The photo-op at the South LA playground was, according to one young White House staffer, supposed to show that President Clinton "is in touch" with the problems facing inner city kids.

In the final analysis, the photo-op only served to point out that Bill Clinton is no "Air Jordan" but he did earn the title of "Hair Clinton" because after a 15-minute shoot-around not a single strand of the $200 "Cristophe of Beverly Hills" haircut was out of place.

The young upstarts who make up the inner circle of the White House continue to put on public display their lack of understanding of public relations and in the long run they look more and more like a group of fraternity/sorority house brothers and sisters at a "hell night" initiation party.

It was just a few weeks ago, a highly decorated Marine Veteran of Vietnam and Desert Storm was invited to the White House to meet with the President.

When the Marine veteran asked directions from a young White House aide, he was told that "we don't talk to military people around here."

The brouhaha led one veteran White House scribe to say, "the White House aide was probably irritated because his earring had fallen off."

Right from the get-go of his presidency, Bill Clinton has locked horns with the military starting with the gays in the military issue. Now President Bill Clinton's point man on the gays in the military debate is Rep. Barney Frank (D. Mass.) one of two admitted homosexuals in Congress.

Congressman Frank is not happy with Sen. Sam Nunn (D-Georgia) and the "Don't ask, don't tell" compromise suggested by the Senate Armed Services Committee during the hearings on gays in the military.

Frank wants to amend the proposal to "Don't ask, don't tell, don't listen and don't investigate." The proposal begs the question, does Congressman Frank's proposal apply only to homosexuals in the military, or would his plan apply to heterosexuals as well? After all, some wise-cracking journalist might say this is reverse discrimination.

And while we are on the subject, would Congressman Frank's solution apply to the Secret Service who guard the President of the United States?

Because whether Congressman Frank likes it or not, and whether President Clinton approves, the Secret Service has for years banned homosexuals from serving in the Secret Service.

What it boils down to is President Clinton and Congressman Frank think it's OK for your son or daughter to bunk next to someone of a different sexual preference in the military, but the President of the United States would prefer there are no homosexuals in the Secret Service covering his butt when he is playing a basketball game with inner city kids in his new $200 "do."

Bill Awaiting Edgar's Signature

Secretary of State George H. Ryan's proposal to make Illinois' mandatory insurance law permanent sailed over its final legislative hurdle and now awaits the governor's signature. The measure, House Bill 1798 which passed the Senate with no opposition, won unanimous approval in the House last month.

The legislation would permanently extend the law past Dec. 31st, turn up the heat on previous violators and streamline enforcement. The law, which requires all Illinois drivers to carry liability insurance, first took effect Jan. 1st, 1990, on a four-year trial basis.

"By every indicator, mandatory insurance has been a success," Ryan said, "since the law took effect, we have cut the number of uninsured drivers by more than half and collisions involving uninsured motorists have fallen steadily."

"At the same time, premiums in Illinois have gone up more slowly than in other states. In fact, the cost of insurance actually fell in some parts of the state last year," he added.

Since the law's passage, Illinois' uninsured rate has dropped from 17 percent to about 7 percent. As a result, the number of reported collisions involving uninsured motorists has fallen steadily, from 70,284 in 1990 to 51,150 last year.

Under current law, vehicle owners who don't carry liability insurance face fines of $500 to $1,000 and a two-month license plate suspension. To have the suspension lifted, they must get insurance and pay court fines plus a reinstatement fee.

Based on the recommendations of his mandatory insurance advisory board, Ryan's bill would create a mail-verification program specifically to make all know insurance violators prove they are maintaining insurance coverage.

Additionally, the measure would raise the reinstatement fee from $50 to $100, but end the plate suspension for first-time offenders as soon as they obtain insurance and pay all fines and fees.

The legislation also would streamline procedures for dismissing citations when insured drivers are ticketed for failing to carry 'proof of insurance' cards.

Aurella Pucinski, Clerk of the Circuit Court of Cook County, presented Richard J. Phelan, President of the Cook County Board of Commissioners, with a check for $4,345,532.50. This money represents the cash value of criminal abandoned funds for the years 1981 through 1983. This is the second in a series of payments to the county.

"Prior to my administration as clerk, this money was never properly turned over to the county," said Pucinski. "When I came into office and realized that there was over $22 million in abandoned bond monies just sitting in an account, I took action to assure that the monies which should be transferred to the county are expedited properly," Pucinski added.

Under Illinois State statute, the clerk's office is required to hold abandoned bond money for at least seven years. If no one claims the money, the office is permitted to escheat the funds to the county comptroller. The clerk is required by law to publish notice of abandoned bonds and hold them for an additional 60 days prior to releasing the monies to the county.

If a defendant wishes to claim a bond after the time limit has expired and the money has been sent to the county, he or she will still have an opportunity to do so. He or she must offer written proof that the bond is actually his or hers and it will be released.

Rename Route

The Metra commuter rail system announced that with the takeover and direct operation of its Norfolk Southern trains to Orland Park, the route will be renamed "Metra/South-West Service." Earlier this month Metra's board of directors voted to lease the railroad from NS effective June 1st, with employees on the commuter route moving over to the Metra payroll. Train crews as well as track and signal maintenance personnel have heretofore been NS employees, with Metra compensating the railroad for labor costs.

"The new name does at least two things," said Lowell Anderson of Palos Park, Metra board member representing the south Cook County suburbs. "It reflects Metra's new responsibility for the way the line operates, and it gives some accurate geographical identification. The old name didn't mean much to commuters."

It is expected that a month or more will be needed to bring about the transition. The new name will be used when a revised timetable is published to include a new early-afternoon round-trip from the Loop that begins on Tuesday, July 6th.
